TALE OF TWIN TURTLES

Sun to Shine for Record Series Game

93,120 Will See L.A., Sox Resume Baseball War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This baseball-happy metropolis is set to supply a record crowd and ideal Indian summer weather today for the first Far West world series game.

The crowd for the third meeting between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox is guaranteed —a sell-out 93,120. Biggest past series turnout was 86,228 in Cleveland in 1948.

* * * *

SCALPERS STILL were offering tickets at big prices Saturday, but there weren't as many around as Friday.

This probably is because of a warning by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that anyone caught selling tickets without a license will be prosecuted.

One seller offered a newsman a strip of three $10 tickets for $165—135 over their legitimate price. Some say they have paid as much as $125 for a single box seat.

* * * *

THE SERIES is tied at one win each and the Dodgers are favored 6-5 for the third game and 11-10 to win it all.

A crowd of some 5,000 sign-waving fans greeted the team Friday night when it flew in from Chicago. They roared after manager Walt Alston said:

"We'll do our best to win. We've done everything the hard way all year, but now we're up there and we'll be hard to beat."

Mr. K. Boasts Reds Have Top-Secret U.S. Code System

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev bragged while in Los Angeles that his country had obtained top-secret American intelligence codes, a Russian-speaking film executive said Saturday.

Victor M. Carter, the city's official guide for the premier, said Khrushchev told him Russia had intercepted secret messages from President Eisenhower.

OF THE U. S. Central Intelligence Agency headed by Allen Dulles, Khrushchev was quoted by Carter as saying:

'Automatic' Device May Circle Moon

Soviets Say Last Stage to Return to Area of Earth

(Combined Wire Services)

LONDON (Sunday) — The Soviet Union today successfully launched its third cosmic rocket, carrying an interplanetary space station, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced.

Tass said the "automatic interplanetary station" will pass about 6,000 miles from the moon and after flying around the moon will continue its movement to the area of earth.

The chosen orbit makes it possible to observe the station from the earth's northern hemisphere, the Soviet news agency said.

* * * *

TASS SAID THE last stage of the newly launched rocket weighed 1,553 kilograms (3,424 pounds) without fuel.

The announcement read: "The launching was effected by means of a multi-stage rocket. The last stage of the rocket, after it attained the necessary speed, put the automatic interplanetary station into the required orbit. The orbit for the interplanetary station will insure (its) passage near the moon . . ."

Establishing an interplanetary space station is considered by scientists an essential step in man's program of outer space exploration. Such a station could be used for storing supplies needed for future astronauts in trips to the moon and eventually to the planets.

IT ALSO could be used as a construction station and scientific observation outpost.

A recent Soviet film on outer space exploration showed how a huge interplanetary station housing sci-

55 Aboard Ship Safe After Fire

ST. GEORGE, Bermuda (UPI)—A storm-tossed American freighter with 55 persons aboard succeeded Saturday night in controlling raging fires in two of its holds and reached Bermuda with a Coast Guard escort.

The Coast Guard cutter Duane radioed that the fire, which at one time was described as "blazing fiercely," had been controlled aboard the South America-bound freighter, SS Mormacteal, after a battle of more than six hours in rough seas and 40-mile-an-hour winds caused by hurricane Hannah.

* * * *

THE MORMACTEAL anchored off the entrance to St. George harbor Saturday night and the Coast Guard said the ship planned to move through the channel and dock this morning.

Two Coast Guard cutters stood by the ship, which reported a fire in its No. 1 hold was extinguished and the once-fierce blaze in No. 3 hold was only smoldering.

The cutters and a plane rushed to the aid of the Mormacteal, which had radioed for an escort while it proceeded to Bermuda with its 43

Oklahoma Floods Rout 6,000 From Homes, Damage High

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Floodwaters pushed higher in eastern Oklahoma Saturday night, and officials estimated some 6,000 state residents have been routed from their homes by high waters in the past three days.

Civil Defense Director Tom Brett said property damage has soared into the millions of dollars. He said damage may be the highest of any flood in state history.

The Red Cross set up a disaster headquarters at Oklahoma City, flying in a 19-member team to run it.

A Red Cross spokesman said 1,931 Oklahoma families have been affected by flood waters. Projected, this would mean almost 6,000 persons driven from their homes.

* * * *

A WEEK OF rain has sent floodwaters into Tulsa, Bixby, Guthrie, Stillwater, Pawnee, Blackwell, Avant and Skiatook.

Heavy rains are expected to end today. But the Weather Bureau says some "occasional showers" may continue across the state.

There were warnings of possible flash flooding Saturday night in southeastern Oklahoma.

On the rampage Saturday night was the Arkansas River in the Tulsa area.

Floodwaters of the Arkansas spilled into the downtown section of Bixby, but officials said fewer than 50 people left flooded areas.

Meanwhile, booming thunderstorms soaked Texas with rains up to eight inches and sent waters from the Middle Concho River over lowlands in the San Angelo area.

The small town of Knickerbocker, 18 miles southwest of San Angelo, was isolated by high waters after an 8-inch downpour in that area.

Shot in Head, Man Refuses Explanation

A critical bullet wound mysteriously inflicted on a service-station attendant was being investigated by Torrance detectives Saturday night.

Investigators said Douglas Frank Drobeck, 39, was found wandering near his trailer home at 1820 Prairie Ave., Torrance, by a friend who took him to a private physician. Drobeck, whose trailer is parked in back of the service station where he is employed, had his head wrapped in a towel to stanch the flow of blood from the bullet wound in his right temple.

* * * *

DROBECK, WHO is in critical condition at Harbor General Hospital, refused to divulge how he received the wound but denied it was self-inflicted or had been caused by a woman with whom he had kept company Friday night.

Det. Sgt. Myles Hamilton said the wound evidently was inflicted in Drobeck's trailer, where bloodstains and a .32-caliber automatic pistol were found. The victim admitted ownership of the gun.

BUDGET SQUEEZE

Navy, AF Will Cut Forces 5,000 Each

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy and the Air Force, caught in a cost squeeze between men and missiles, will sacrifice some manpower next year to stay within proposed budget allocations.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Charles C. Finucane, in charge of manpower and personnel, made this forecast at a news conference Saturday. He said the Pentagon had neither directed nor dictated the personnel reductions but that the two services had volunteered to make them in order to have more money for missiles and equipment.

He indicated the cuts would be relatively small — about 5,000 men each.

* * * *

FINUCANE TOLD reporters the Army certainly "would not volunteer" to drop below the 870,00-man level authorized for the current year.

Finucane called the news conference to set forth achievements he said were made during the last two years in raising the quantity and quality of enlisted men.

His report conceded something less than success in getting and holding more good men who are capable of high technical skills. He noted, for instance, that although re-enlistment rates for electronics and technical specialists had risen about 6 per cent between 1957 and the current year, the re-enlistment of such service categories as cooks and unskilled military labor had jumped almost as much.

* * * *

THE FISCAL years 1957 and 1959 were used because it was during this period that the revision of military pay scales went into effect along with a number of programs designed to attract and hold good men.

Among other hopes held for the revision of military pay scales was one that eventually the draft might be discontinued.

Finucane said Saturday the Pentagon wants the draft to continue indefinitely. He added that draft calls running at about 6,000 monthly would certainly continue through the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Finucane said the Army es-

K Concludes China Talks, Flies Home

LONDON (Sunday) (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev wound up his talks with Red China's leader, Mao Tze-tung, and left Peiping for Moscow today, Moscow Radio announced.

The announcement was made in a Russian language broadcast and quoted the official Soviet news agency Tass. There had been rumors that Khrushchev might decide to stop in North Korea before going home.

Khrushchev arrived in Peiping Wednesday from his conference with President Eisenhower, urging the Communist world to resort to negotiations, not force, in settling cold war differences.

Khrushchev had been closeted in a series of secret conferences with Mao, head of the Chinese Communist Party. Nothing official has come from any of these secret talks.

Pair Ascends From Sub at 302-Ft. Depth

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A 302-foot buoyant ascent by two Navy men has set a new record for such ascents and given new hope for submariners trapped on the ocean floor in crippled submarines.

Cmdr. George F. Bond of Bat Cave, N.C., and C.P.O. C. G. Tuckfield of Miami made the record-breaking dive off Key West Thursday. They used no auxiliary breathing apparatus and were clad in bathing suits, face masks and Mae West life jackets.

The ascent started from the submarine USS Archerfish, which had submerged to 302 feet, and it required 53 seconds.

L.B. Clerk Sets Catalina Swim Mark

A 27-year-old Long Beach drugstore clerk Saturday smashed the women's record on the swim from the mainland to Catalina Island.

Distance swimmer Joan Florentin, 111 Corona Ave., stroked her way across the channel from Marineland in 15 hours and 4 minutes to break Greta Andersen's mark by 21 minutes.

Miss Florentin delayed her swim more than 20 minutes when her pacer was injured aboard the accompanying boat.

Reported in good condition at the dispensary at the Long Beach Air Force Base was Capt. William Ryan, 25, who suffered severe bumps when he struck his head on the edge of the boat.

Capt. Ryan, a dentist at the base, was airlifted from the accompanying boat by a helicopter which flew him to the dispensary.

Doctors Saturday night said the captain was in good condition, but they would hold him overnight for observation.

Ryan was pacing the girl and, after swimming about 10 miles away from Catalina Island, had climbed into the escort vessel to rest.

When the accident occurred, the girl swam back toward the boat and remained nearby until the helicopter removed the injured man. She then continued her swim.

Miss Florentin started at 10:40 p.m. Friday from Marineland and reached Emerald Bay at Catalina at 1:41 p.m. Saturday.

At the same time, Miss Andersen, also of Long Beach, announced plans to swim from the mainland to Catalina within the next two weeks.

"I just want to set the record straight," the previous recordholder said, "or maybe I should say to set a straight record."

A year ago, she completed the only round-trip crossing of Catalina Channel. Swimming from the island on the first lap, she set a mark of 10 hours and 47 minutes.

On the return trip, she established the women's record for the mainland-to-island crossing of 15 hours and 25 minutes.

L.A.C. Says:

Younger Husbands

A well known marriage counselor advises women to marry men younger than themselves to avoid being widows for a longer period. He bases his advice on the actuarial tables which show women have a longer life expectancy than men. He says a girl marrying a man six years older than herself faces 10 years of widowhood.

This assumption does not take into consideration the fact that this difference in longevity decreases with each year of life. According to the current Fact Book used by life insurance companies a female at birth has six years more expectancy than the male. It is about the same at age 20. At age 50 the female has only 4.6 more years—at 60 it has been cut to 3.5 years and at 65 the difference is only 2.7 years, when the male has 12.7 years and the female 15.4 more years of expectancy. If they live to 70 years the female has only two more years than the male.

It raises a question as to which one will be the more lonely if deprived of their mate in these advanced years. It has often been pointed out that the widow adjusts better than the husband if left alone. She has a greater interest in her children or grandchildren—she is more occupied in housework, clubs and other social activities. But the older man left alone—after a lifetime of companionship and business activities—is often more desolate.

We often hear that pensions cost much more—that population increases are due to the greatly increased span of life given us by modern science. This is true only because the death rates at birth have been so greatly reduced. This also applies to the mortality of children. In 1900 the average life expectancy at birth was only 46 years. Today it is 68 years—a gain of 22 years.

But for persons 50 years or older, life expectancy is only two or three years more than it was 60 years ago. The great growth in population is due to more children surviving childbirth and children's diseases. We have not materially added to the length of life of those who have reached maturity. This is especially true of the relative number of years between the male and female who have gone beyond middle age. The marriage counselor believes the difference in longevity in women is that they have an inherent strength that produces longer life and that some among the "driving women" could well produce, in part, the fatal diseases that cause the shorter lives of their husbands.

The discussion and recommendation is based on overall actuarial studies. But the same reasoning does not apply to the couple at 30 or 40 years of age compared to those who have lived together to 60 or 65 years of age. What may be true for the very young does not apply to the older couple. When they reach the advanced ages the span of life is about equal according to the tables. That is the way most older couples would like it to be—and it seems science has not changed the plan of life—so much—for those who are fortunate enough to spend a lifetime together.—L.A.C.

timated its strength would have to drop between 560,000 and 520,000 before it could give up the draft. The Army is now the only service accepting draftees, but Finucane said the existence of the draft makes it easier for all the services to get volunteers.

THE PENTAGON official said the military services need about 60 per cent of their total re-enlistments in the higher skilled categories, including ground combat leaders. Figures cited by Finucane showed, however, that re-enlistments were considerably under this percentage and the armed forces have "still not yet succeeded in getting enough men out of cookery into hard skills."

The total authorized military manpower for the current year ending next June 30 is 2,520,000. The Army, at 870,000, is the largest service. The Air Force follows with 845,000, the Navy is next with 630,000 and the Marine Corps has a ceiling of 175,000.

Finucane's report disclosed that regular Army enlistments of men with no prior service jumped more than 60 per cent between 1957 and 1959, and that one result was a reduction of 66,000 in the number of draftees taken by the Army.

A considerably increased percentage of enlisted men in all services is now signing up for four-year or longer terms, Finucane said, and more men are signing up for a second hitch.

There was no report of injuries to any of the passengers or crewmen aboard the ship, bound from New York to South America with a load of general cargo.

entists and space workers might look.

The announcement referred to the rocket as "the third cosmic rocket." The first went past the moon into orbit around the sun to become the first artificial planet. The second hit the moon, marking the first time any man-made object had ever been placed on the moon.

RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS recently had discussed the possibility of casting a "Peeping Tom" satellite into orbit only six miles above the moon.

That would be close enough to get a detailed look but high enough to avoid crashing into the moon's tall mountains.

The possibilities were outlined in a technical report by Dr. A. Shternfel'd, a noted Soviet scientist.

The baby satellite contemplated in the scientist's report would be equipped with television and other devices designed to transmit map-like pictures of the moon to the earth as a prelude for future spaceship landings.

THE RUSSIAN scientist said in his report, made public in Washington in mid-September, that it would be technically possible to get such a snooper satellite into orbit around the moon—but that it shouldn't come closer than six miles above lest it run smack into lunar mountain peaks towering as high as 5½ miles.

Traveling in a polar orbit above a moon that was slowly revolving beneath it, the satellite envisioned by the scientist would gradually survey the entire surface of the moon in less than a month's time.

In Washington, Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, said the bare Russian announcement of today did not give enough information for him to know exactly what the Soviets had launched.

But he added that space scientists use the term "interplanetary station" to mean a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets.

Canadian Airliner Cracks Up, All Safe

TORONTO (AP)—A Trans-Canada Airlines Viscount with 38 persons aboard crash-landed Saturday night at Malton Airport, 25 miles northwest of Toronto, in a thunderstorm.

None of 34 passengers and 4 crewmen aboard the four-engined turboprop airliner was injured.

Only the plane's pilot, Capt. W. G. H. Bell, was detained in a hospital for observation.

The three other crew members and several passengers were shaken up.

The British-made Viscount was on a flight from Montreal. The crash-landing occurred about 8:45 p.m. The airliner skidded 300 feet along a slippery runway and into a fence.

Airline officials said that since no one was injured seriously or killed they would not issue a passenger list.

Khrushchev's comments were made in a boasting tone, Carter said, while a party of nine drove through the San Fernando Valley near Los Angeles. Among those present was Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and Khrushchev's official host in this country, representing Eisenhower.

Carter said the Premier said his agents intercepted a highly confidential message to India's Prime Minister Nehru during India's border troubles with China. Laughingly, Carter said, Khrushchev told Lodge, "If you want a copy I'll send you one."

Carter said Chrushchev also claimed to have a copy of a secret message in which the Shah of Iran asked Eisenhower to intercede with Khrushchev on the Shah's behalf.

CARTER SAID Khrushchev was "very friendly" during the ride, although after he left for San Francisco Khrushchev objected to having had "the son of a Rostov manufacturer during the czarist regime" designated to guide him in Los Angeles.

Carter is a director of the California Bank and former president of the City of Hope Medical Center.

He said he notified the Central Intelligence Agency the following day of the conversation.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation to the U.N. said that Lodge would have no comment on Khrushchev's statements to Carter.

Missile-Armed Sub Launched

DOWN THE WAYS

The nuclear submarine USS Theodore Roosevelt starts down the ways at Vallejo after christening by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Washington, D.C. The vessel is specially designed to carry 16 Polaris ballistic missiles, and is the first such craft launched on the West Coast. It was constructed and launched at Mare Island Naval Shipyard.—(Staff Photo.)

Mrs. Longworth Christens USS Theodore Roosevelt

By JAMES A. ALLEN
(I-P-T Military Reporter)

MARE ISLAND NAVAL SHIPYARD—The West Coast's first Polaris submarine, the 380-foot USS Theodore Roosevelt, was launched here Saturday afternoon—an awesome realization of the naval power advocated by its namesake a half century ago.

The 6,700-ton ship is the third of a fleet of revolutionary craft described as "the ultimate deterrent weapon."

These submarines are designed to lurk beneath the oceans of the world, ready to fire 1,200-mile, Lockheed-built Polaris missiles at any aggressor foolhardy enough to attack the United States.

* * * *

IN THE Theodore Roosevelt, the solid-fueled missiles will stand upright in 16 launching tubes, ready for immediate retaliatory action. Later Polaris submarines will have as many as 24 tubes.

Thomas S. Gates, deputy secretary of defense, who attended the launching ceremony, said the Polaris system has been planned and developed "with all of its facets carefully timed and phased."

"When the submarines are ready for sea, the missiles will be ready to put aboard," he said. "When the ships are ready to proceed on patrol, the communications and shore stations and tenders will be ready to support them."

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the President, christened the submarine with the traditional bottle of champagne.

* * * *

THE BOTTLE failed to break on the first two tries, but the third time was a success and the ship slid swiftly into the water as thousands of persons assembled at the yard cheered.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced the Theodore Roosevelt will be powered by a nuclear reactor which is expected to have a longer-lived fuel charge than the core which took the USS Nautilus more than 62,000 miles.

Westinghouse has the prime contract for the missile-launching and handling equipment. The Lockheed Missiles and Space Division is Polaris the Aerojet-General Corp. is missile system manager and subcontractor to Lockheed for the missile propulsion.

2 Stone Jewish Temple

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said Saturday that two 15-year-old boys on horseback stoned a Queens synagogue Friday night, the start of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

The horses, rented from a nearby riding stable, trampled the synagogue lawn and the youths smashed three plate glass windows, police reported. Damage was put at $3,000.

Police said the boys admitted the vandalism and quoted one as saying, "If we had known it was holiday time for the Jewish people we would not have done it."

* * * *

THE BOYS, Edward McDermott and Anthony Klotz, claimed they had merely had an urge to "go out and break some windows."

The attack occurred shortly after the finish of Rosh Hashanah services at the Rockwood Park Jewish Center at Howard Beach, Queens.

Worshippers had already left, but residents in the neighborhood—a solid middle class area of private one-family houses—reported hearing glass break and the sound of horses' hooves.

Detectives were led to the boys after a check of local riding stables disclosed they had rented horses earlier in the evening.

Jury Deadlocked in Polio-Shot Suit

OAKLAND (UPI)—An Alameda County jury has hopelessly deadlocked in the $1,200,000 damage suit charging Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley with negligence in the manufacture of Salk vaccine, it was reported Saturday night.

Jury foreman Alexander Hunter said the jury stood 6-6 after three days of deliberation.

The combined suit was brought against the firm by the parents of five Idaho children who came down with polio during April 1955 after they were innoculated with Salk vaccine produced at Cutter.

The plaintiffs and damages sought:

Kenneth Turner, American Falls, $250,000 for son, Terry, 8.

Lester V. Pierce, Pocatello, $150,000 for death of daughter, Susan, 8.

Rex Crauen Preston, $300,000 for son, Dan, 9.

Lenn Garner Paul, $250,000 for daughter, Janine, 10.

Nehru Launches Power Experiment

NAGPUR, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru flew here last week to inaugurate a Rajasthan statewide experiment in decentralizing government power and giving it to elected village elders (Panchayats). The occasion was the 90th birth anniversary of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, who felt village autonomy would help arrest the one-way trend of villagers to India's overpeopled cities.

WORLD TOURNEY

U.S. Youth Defeats Russ Chess Master

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Teenage U.S. chess champion Bobby Fischer from Brooklyn, N.Y., Monday night stunned the chess world with a thrilling three-hour victory over Soviet grand master Paul Keres in the Candidates' Tournament for the chess world championships.

Fischer's win, in 27 moves, was the sensation of the tournament, now in its 15th round.

SANTA IN PERIL

Cuba May Prefer the Three Kings

HAVANA (AP)—Santa Claus may fall victim to Cuban revolutionary zeal and austerity.

Merchants have been given a Castro government plan for a "typically Cuban Christmas" this year.

It urges that Cuban-made decorations and greeting cards be used and that the Three Kings replace "Santa Claus because (he) is foreign to our customs and of recent importation."

Victim of Truck Upset Succumbs

A 19-year-old youth died Saturday night in Harbor General Hospital from injuries suffered Friday when the Good Humor truck he was driving overturned in Wilmington.

Russell Bocox, of 3105 Kerckhoff Ave., San Pedro, suffered the fatal injuries on E. Highway 101, when he swerved to avoid a car that was turning to enter a motel.

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The keel will be laid Monday for the world's biggest cargo vessel—a 106,500-ton tanker.

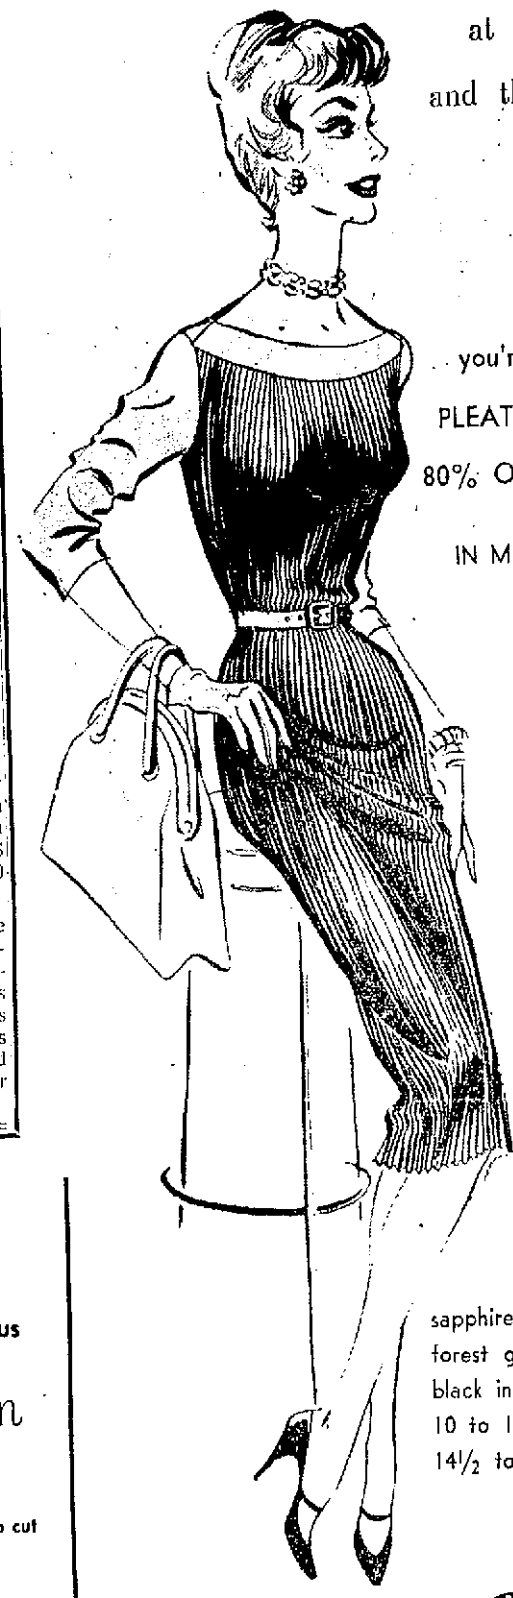

The huge ship, which will fly the American flag, is being built for Manhattan Tankers Co., Inc., of New York, one of Greek shipping magnate Stavros S. Niarchos' companies.

Bethlehem Steel Company's Quincy yard is scheduled to deliver her early in 1961.

The 940-ft.-6-in. craft will have 38,242,000 gallons capacity, enough to fill the tanks of 1,911,000 automobiles. She will have a 132-foot beam and her loaded draft of 49 ft. 6 in., will be too deep to navigate any existing canal.

Geared turbines and twin screws will furnish 39,000 horsepower and a speed of 17.5 knots fully laden.

Macmillan Sure He'll Win

LABOR PARTY LEADER Hugh Gaitskell, waggles a finger as he addresses election rally at Manchester, England. British electors will go to polls Thursday to choose between Gaitskell and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Vote to Be a Toss-Up, Polls Claim

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan predicted Saturday his Conservatives would win Britain's boiling hot election next Thursday. But latest public opinion polls show the outcome nearly a toss-up betwen the Conservatives and Laborites.

"I have become more and more confident of the result," Macmillan told a news conference.

With only five days left, the polls showed 39.5 per cent of the voters behind the Conservatives and 38 per cent for Hugh Gaitskill's Labor Party.

* * * *

A LITTLE MORE than two weeks ago—when Macmillan called the election on the crest of a popularity wave and in the flush of President Eisenhower's visit here—his Conservatives appeared a sure thing to win an unprecedented third term and run Britain for another five years.

At that time the polls, usually accurate in forecasting elections in Britain, gave the Conservatives a 7.5 per cent margin as against the present 1.5.

It may be the 18 per cent of undecided voters who will determine which party controls the 630-member House of Commons and forms the next government.

* * * *

MACMILLAN and Gaitskill both embarked in final campaign swings this weekend through the hinterlands.

They were slugging it out on the main issues—the Conservatives' claim to the right of representing Britain at an East-West summit meeting and Labor's promises to raise old age pensions and do away with sales taxes on necessities.

Said Macmillan, the urbane, 65-year-old Etonian:

"I do not see how a party which is split, as the Laborites are, on every major issue, can possibly form a government with a large enough majority to play an effective role at the summit."

Macmillan, former defense minister and foreign secretary, took over as prime minister in January 1957 when ailing Anthony Eden stepped down in the wake of the Suez invasion crisis.

* * * *

MACMILLAN CALLED for an overwhelming Conservative victory to give him authority "to go to the summit" this winter.

The prime minister, before leaving London for his final drive, accused Gaitskill of resorting to bribery without regard for the national budget in promising higher pensions and repeal of the heavy purchase tax on consumer goods.

Gaitskill, snapping back in a campaign speech in Liverpool, argued that the Conservatives were "hopping mad" about Labor's pledge of sales tax relief.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Harold Macmillan, campaigning in Clapham sector of London, is greeted by wave of outstretched hands. The prime minister is seeking re-election on Conservative Party ticket in Thursday's general election.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Acid Hurled Into Eyes of Love Rival

VENICE (UPI) — A jealous laborer Saturday hurled a can of acid into the face of a love rival who may lose his sight, police reported.

The center of the argument, Ruby Mae Moore, 43, also was burned on the body by the chemical which was tossed through a broken window into her apartment.

Jessie Lee Thurman, 40, a construction worker was hit in the face by the acid thrown by George Duffie, 55, police said. Duffie was arrested two hours after the alleged attack.

Bear Shot in Tree

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (AP) —Mrs. Annie Gibson, 68, took rifle in hand and shot a bear out of an apple tree at her Dawson Point home for old folks. She said the bear had been stealing apples.

Quiz Show Probe to Start Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "on a big scale" by quiz House investigators worked shows in which contestants overtime Saturday picking the were tipped off beforehand on cast for public hearings on correct answers.
the alleged rigging of some Star performers are ex-television quiz shows.

They hope to prove in hear-pected to testify whether the ings opening Tuesday that the shows were fixed in advance viewing public was deceived so they couldn't lose on even the trickiest questions.

* * * *

REPRESENTATIVES of producers, advertising agencies, sponsors and television networks also may be called for sworn testimony.

Robert W. Lishman, counsel for the House Commerce subcommittee which is conducting the inquiry, refused to name any of the witnesses.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), is the same one that held the celebrated Adams - Goldfine hearings in the same House caucus room in 1958. Those hearings led to the resignation of presidential aide Sherman Adams following disclosures he had accepted gifts from New England industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

The quiz show scandal goes back to August 1958, when Edward Hilgemeier, a standby contestant for "Dotto," complained the show was rigged. The program was cancelled.

* * * *

THEN HERB Stempel told a similar story about "Twenty-one," a show on which he had been a money winner. That show soon departed, and not long afterward so did "The 64,000 Dollar Question" and its companion, "The 64,000 Dollar Challenge."

The National Broadcasting Co. announced in New York Saturday that it had terminated its relationship with Jack Barry and Dan Enright, producers of the defunct "Twenty-One" but a spokesman said there was no connection between this and the impending House investigation.

Barry and Enright have denied any wrong-doing. One of their aides, Albert Freedman, was indicted on charges of perjury for allegedly lying when he denied he provided any contestants with answers.

Russ Rap Cambodia Proposal

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin accused Britain Saturday of trying to scuttle the international control commission for Cambodia behind the Russians' backs in order to submit that Indochinese nation to "foreign influence."

In one of the most strongly-worded notes on southeast Asia in months, the U.S.S.R. charged that Britain —cochairman with the Soviet Union of the 1954 Geneva agreement ending the eight-year-long Indochinese war— made the proposition to Cambodia without notifying Moscow.

It said Britain's "meagerly bankrupt" action, which the Soviets got wind of from Cambodia, had placed London in "an unenviable position."

* * * *

(IN LONDON, the Foreign Office said it was studying the Soviet note. It declined further comment, but responsible British authorities who declined to be named said Britain had privately approached Cambodian officials on possibilities of dissolving the Indian - Canadian - Polish commission because of British feelings it had outlived its usefulness. They emphasized that the approach was in no sense a formal proposal.)

The Russians said Britain's action was highlighted by the fighting in Laos, a neighbor of Cambodia, where a U.N. fact-finding mission now is investigating Laotian charges of aggression by Communist North Viet Nam.

L.B. Internist Hands Gavel to S.F. Doctor

Dr. Walter P. Martin of Long Beach was succeeded Saturday as president of the California Society of Internal Medicine by Dr. James H. Thompson of San Francisco.

Other officers elected at the society's meeting in Santa Barbara are Dr. A. Lee Edgar of La Mesa, president-elect; and Dr. Phillip Pillsbury of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer.

The society also passed a resolution urging support of health-insurance plans offered by private firms. It said federal and state prepaid plans "are bringing socialized medicine in through the back door."

Dr. Lewis A. Alesen, past president of the California Medical Assn. from Los Angeles, said in support of the resolution, "The citizen must not become a mere number in the medical structure of a slave state."

Fires Stampede Elephants, Lions Toward Homes

ZAKA, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — About 60 stampeding elephants and lions were fleeing toward settlers' homes Saturday night before mammoth fires sweeping across thousands of acres of ranchland.

A pall of smoke cut visibility and added to the danger facing farmers in the southeast of Southern Rhodesia.

A ranch of 50,000 acres has been destroyed.

Find Black Marble

TOLUCA, Mexico (AP)—Officials report a huge deposit of black marble, similar to that quarried in Italy, has been discovered near Zumpango.

Mosley Election Cry: Send Negroes Home

LONDON (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, a Fascist volce out of the past, is campaigning in Britain's national election with this single refrain: Send the Negro immigrants home.

Other candidates may still be looking for the issues that they feel will swing the votes their way Oct. 8. The former leader of British Fascists believes he has found one.

"You want to settle the color problem?" he tells his street meetings. "Well, do it with votes, not violence."

* * * *

THIS IS PRETTY heady talk in Notting Hill, which has seen some of Britain's worst race riots and where police have had to break up marauding gangs of Negroes and whites armed with axes and broken bottles.

Mosley, 63, next month, is campaigning for a seat in Parliament from London's North Kensington District, which includes sleazy Notting Hill, as a union movement candidate. This is the party' he now leads from his home in Ireland or his villa at Orsay, outside Paris.

To all the election issues—employment, housing, disarmament, the common market, peace—Mosley has one answer: send the colored immigrants home.

One of his workers stands on the back of an open panel truck in a London street booming out "the message" over a loudspeaker. He drones on until Mosley turns up from another meeting.

* * * *

"NOW HEAR FOR yourselves," says the underling, "from the man who walks among you."

Up the street, from an auto parked around the corner, comes Sir Oswald, sixth baronet to a title created in 1781. He waves and smiles, showing his prominent teeth, and acknowledges the frenzied applause of three or four of his supporters.

He is a gray man, his hair is gray, his toothbrush mustache is gray. His suit is gray and his tie is gray.

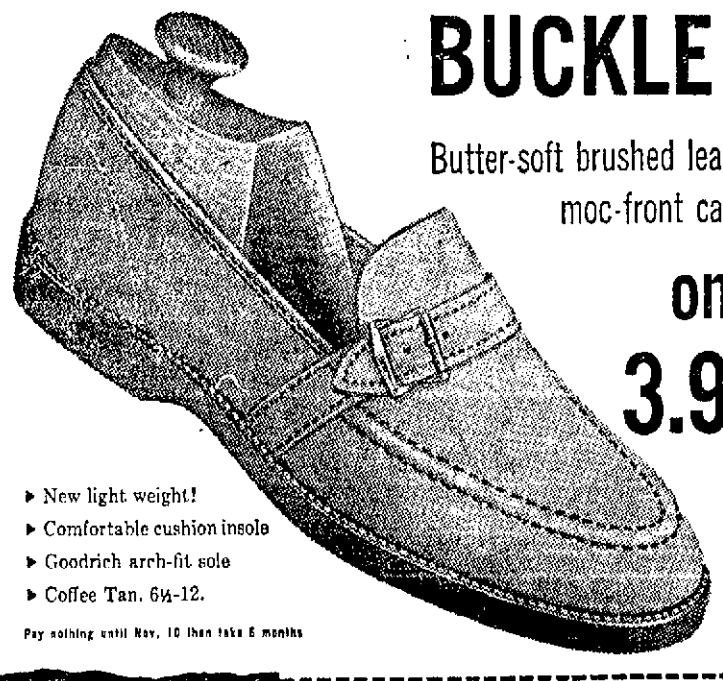

"Housing problem?" he says, "of course there's a housing problem. And it'll get worse if colored immigration isn't stopped. In 10 years time there will be five times as many colored people in Britain. This area will be quite impossible for white people."

AMERICAN PRESTIGE DAMAGED

U. S. Diploma Mills Lure Foreign Money

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

It takes from three to five years of hard work to earn a Ph. D. degree at a reputable American university.

But if you aren't too choosy about your alma mater, you can acquire a "doctorate" with far less trouble. All you have to do is mail a check to one of the numerous phony "colleges" and "institutes" that specialize in exchanging spurious academic prestige for real cash.

There are at least 200 of these diploma mills now functioning in the United States. They take in—the expression is used advisedly—about 750,000 "students" a year. Their gross income is estimated at $75,000,000 annually, and it's nearly all clear profit since they aren't burdened with the expense of maintaining a faculty or a campus.

This racket has been flourishing for many years, and only a few sporadic efforts have been made to stamp it out. Many educators who were aware of its existence have tended to shrug it off on the grounds that anyone foolish enough to buy a worthless degree should be allowed to waste his money.

AN ABRUPT change in this laissez-faire attitude is now brewing. The highly respected American Council on Education, an organization that is fairly awash with legitimate Ph.D.'s, is girding to do battle against the purveyors of bogus degrees.

The reason for the council's concern is made clear in a special report which it will make public in Washington this week.

The report discloses that America's mail-order degree factories are now going in big for international trade. Through glittering advertisements in foreign newspapers and magazines, they are misleading thousands of students in other countries into believing that they can get a bona-fide correspondence course education by scraping up enough dollars to "enroll" in the phony American schools.

Students in undeveloped countries, who attach high value to an American degree, are easy targets for this kind of fraud. So many of them have been bilked, the council says, that foreigners are beginning to "question the integrity and quality of all American education."

Many U.S. officials abroad have reported the racket to the State Department, warning that it is heavily damaging American prestige.

* * * *

A FEW STATES, like New York, California, Arkansas and Virginia, have tough licensing laws which can be used to crack down on diploma mills. But a large majority of states have no effective legislation on the subject, according to the report, and "twenty-six states have no legal control whatever over educational institutions granting degrees."

To clean up the situation, the council says, the basic need is for nationwide adoption of uniform state legislation to set minimum standards for licensing and operation of all institutions of higher education, particularly those that grant degrees. The Council of State Governments has already indicated readiness to sponsor this effort.

The council also recommends that a congressional committee conduct full public hearings on the problem next year.

I, P-T Exposed Racket

The diploma mill racket in Southern California was exposed in 1957 by the Independent-Press-Telegram. Reporter Bob Wells purchased a Ph. D. in psychology from Commonwealth University in Los Angeles for $200.

As a result of the investigation by Wells and others, Commonwealth University was closed, its state charter revoked and its "dean" convicted. Information gathered by the Independent was utilized by a State Assembly committee investigating diploma mills to strengthen California licensing regulations.

Fire Sweeps Huge Avro Aircraft Plant in England

CHADDERTON, Sunday (AP)—Flames early today roared through a 300-yard-long section of the A. V. Roe aircraft factory which produces atom bombers for the Royal Air Force.

Fire brigades from all over Lancashire county finally brought the blaze under control after a three-hour fight.

Fire officials were attempting to establish the cause. Shortly before the fire alarm three deafening explosions rocked the factory.

The plant makes the huge Vulcan delta-wing atom bomber and the new Avro 748 twin-engined turboprop airliner which is due to make its first flight next year.

Several firemen, overcome by smoke and fumes, were dragged from the plant as flames shot 60 feet high. Four firemen were hospitalized.

What Baseball's All About

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

If You Don't Know Strike From Hit—Don't Admit It

By STERLING BEMIS

Even though the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox are playing for the world championship, there are still some individuals who do not know what baseball is about.

If these assorted wives, girls, backward boys and foreigners will pay attention, it will all become simple.

Baseball was invented in 1839 by Col. Abner Doubleday. He was promoted to general, anyway. The first game under a code of rules was played in 1846 in the Russian village of Hoboken, N.J. One of the teams was the Knickerbockers. To this day, players wear knickerbockers and other droopy garments, such as sleeves that look like long underwear.

* * * *

EACH TEAM has nine players and substitutes. On the opposing team the substitutes are better than the regulars. On your team, they are even worse.

The infield is a square called a diamond on the hither side of the outfield. At each corner is a base. The base where the batter stands is called home plate, even by the visiting team.

The batter's object is to score a run by starting out at home plate and ending up at home plate, traveling via first base, second base and third base. First, second and third bases are known as bags or sacks, but nothing derogatory is intended. Once they were known as "One Old Cat," "Two Old Cat" and "Three Old Cat." (Until recently, boys still played "One-o'-Cat." Their fathers organized the fun out of that by forming Little Leagues in which the boys do as they are told.)

There are several ways for a batter to arrive at first base. One is to hit the ball where the opposing team isn't. Another is to induce the pitcher to throw four balls. A baseball is just a ball when it is thrown outside of the strike zone. Officially, the strike zone is "that space over home plate which is between the batter's armpits and the top of his knees." It is sometimes an advantage, except in social circles, for a batter to have high armpits.

ENEMY BATTER
It's TV Illusion

* * * *

ALL YOU NEED to know about strikes is that they are times when a batter does not get anywhere with his bat. After three instances of this clumsy futility, the batter is out. The plate umpire decides strikes and balls. The umpire is an arbiter who wears black sackcloth with a matching scowl. He is not an exponent of free speech. A player who questions an umpirical decision is subject to being dispatched to the showers, whether it is Saturday or not.

A player is out if he hits a ball which is caught by any of the nine opposing players before it strikes the ground.

He is also out when the following events conspire against him:

First—The ball hits the ground in fair territory, or "that part of the playing field within, and including the first base and third base lines, from home base to the bottom of the playing field within, and including the first base and third base lines, from home base to the bottom of the playing field fence and perpendicularly upwards." (This covers a lot of territory, particularly when the enemy is at bat.)

Second—A fielder catches the ball and throws it to the base where the batter should be and isn't yet.

* * * *

THERE ARE OTHER ways for batters to be out, but most of them are nauseating to think about.

A bat is not just a piece of leftover lumber. The rules say it "shall be a smooth, rounded stick not more than 2¾ inches in diameter at the thickest part and not more than 42 inches in length." It is not ethical for either a player or a bat to be loaded.

A person who makes a lot of hits with his bat has a high batting average, or .300 or more. When the score is tied in the ninth (normally the last) inning and an enemy batter is up, he usually is a behemoth with a batting average of .564. He appears to be swinging a loaded bat 54 inches in length and 5½ inches thick at the thinnest part. This is only a television illusion.

The object of the game is to score more runs than the other side does. With this handy guide, that should be a rather easy chore.

Those who are interested in the advanced course, including a panel discussion of the Infield Fly Rule, should register when class takes up this afternoon at the Coliseum.

Boy She Never Knew Gives Woman Sight

SEATTLE (AP)—Because of a small boy she never knew, Mrs. Duane Vincent experienced the miracle of sight Saturday.

"The doctor put some medicine in my eye this morning," Mrs. Vincent said. "I could see he was wearing a dark suit. But I can't tell you what a thrill it was."

Hospital attendants said Mrs. Vincent is making good progress, but it may be as long as a month before the success of the operation is known.

Mrs. Vincent, herself the mother of two small boys she has never really seen, said she has been praying for Robert and "that poor boy's mother."

"I only hope," she added, "that I or my family can do something as wonderful."

2 Campaigners Take Truce for Jewish Holidays

LONDON (UPI)—The Jewish New Year stopped campaigning in the Willesden constituency Saturday among men of different faiths.

Maurice Ohrbach, a Jew and the Labor Party candidate, said he would spend the weekend in Rosh Hashanah devotions.

His Conservative opponent, Trevor Skeet, a Christian, said he would not take unfair advantage and stopped campaigning.

Sunday at sundown, when the holiday ends, both men will be back hammering at each other.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Technique in Heart Exam

("Medicine and You," a regular Sunday feature of this newspaper, is prepared in collaboration with the Department of Medical Education, Seaside Memorial Hospital.)

Often, in an examination, the doctor may wish to determine whether your heart is enlarged or whether you have been subject to a heart attack in its severe form (infarct) or milder form (angina).

The doctor relies on tests made by highly complex instruments such as the electrocardiograph, vectorcardiograph, ballistocardiograph, fluoroscope, etc. In spite of all this, the results still may be equivocal.

Now comes an interesting report in the Bulletin of the Johns Hopkins Hospital by Dr. T. Harrison of the Medical College of Alabama, which summarizes the findings of several years of careful study of the movements of the heart. One result of the study has been the determination that the physician may arrive at a diagnosis of some heart abnormalities simply by applying his hands to the patient's body in the region of the heart.

The doctor who has acquired the necessary skill frequently can determine that a heart attack has occurred. He does this by sensing a special pattern of abnormal pulsation. This technique, Dr. Harrison says, may provide information where the electrocardiograph has failed.

* * * *

ONE FORM of angina pectoris, a heart ailment which occurs most frequently in males 40 to 60 years of age, often can be prevented by a drug called nylidrin (trade name—Arlidin).

Ordinarily, angina attacks consist of chest pains brought on primarily by exercise or emotion. However, in another type, the pain comes on when the subject is at rest or engaged in ordinary activity. If the attacks continue long enough, they may lead to death.

Dr. Myron Prinzmetal, of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles, reports in the American Journal of Medicine that attacks of the variant type of angina may be prevented by prescribing nylidrin, which in the past has found some application in the treatment of hardening of the arteries.

"Since many patients can predict the time of their attacks, it is possible to prevent the attack by giving a dose of the drug shortly beforehand," Dr. Prinzmetal and his associates say.

* * * *

DO YOU HAVE blue eyes? Then you can consider yourself truly steely-eyed.

Blue-eyed persons can withstand pain better than those with brown eyes.

The conclusion is that of Dr. Philip R. N. Sutton of Melbourne University Dental School. He noted pain reactions in 403 patients whose teeth were being drilled, and reported his findings in Nature.

The bluer the patient's eyes, the less pain the patient reported, Dr. Sutton found.

* * * *

YOU'VE HAD YOUR FIRST Salk polio injection but failed to obtain the second four weeks later. Do you have to start the series over?

No, say researchers in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Assn. They found that persons responded adequately to second injections given as long as seven to 10 months after the first inoculation.

The response was as strong, the investigators said, as that observed in persons who got their second shot one month later.

The journal report concluded: "If there should be a delay in giving a second dose, inoculation may be continued as if there had been no interruption in the series."

THREE-WHEELER IN ACTION . . . A Motor Vehicle Is a Motor Vehicle

CLASSED AS MOTOR VEHICLES

Ban on Sidewalk Parking May Face Drivers of Electric Cars

By JIM McCAULEY

Electric vehicles, traditional Long Beach get-me-abouts for thousands of handicapped drivers here, soon may have to park off the sidewalk under 1959 state laws.

In some California areas outside of Long Beach, the electric vehicle operators also will be likely to get traffic tickets if they use the sidewalk as a road. Los Angeles is one city that bans all vehicles from sidewalks.

Why the new headache for electric vehicle owners? State law now regards the three-wheel electric vehicles as motor vehicles rather than wheel chairs. And the state law forbids vehicles to park on sidewalks.

Sidewalks long have been the "parking lots" and main "traffic arteries" for Long Beach's electric three-wheelers.

But it turns out state lawmakers threw the book at the 4,000 electric vehicle operators in the Long Beach area. The book: the 1959 California motor vehicle code.

* * * *

LAWMAKERS CHANGED a few words when they rewrote the vehicle code, intending to make operators of the motorized wheel chairs liable for driver's licenses as a safety measure. In so doing, lawmakers firmly classified the three-wheel electric vehicles as motor vehicles.

Technically, any self-propelled highway vehicle always has been defined as a motor vehicle. But electric vehicles were regarded as something almost outside the law because they were excluded from licensing and registration laws if owned by handicapped drivers.

In past years, some non-handicapped drivers operated three-wheel electric vehicles without paying any registration or licensing fees. One drunken driver, his motor car license revoked by the state, continued to drive—in an unlicensed electric vehicle.

In an unofficial opinion for The Independent, Press-Telegram, a spokesman in the Long Beach city attorney's office said:

"There is no doubt but what the 1959 motor vehicle code firmly considers electric vehicles as motor vehicles. Apparently, that means electric vehicles must conform to all motor vehicle laws."

* * * *

THERE HAVE BEEN no test cases yet. Hard hit already by the law which compels electric vehicle operators to get driver's licenses, electric three-wheelers now must face these headaches if the motor vehicle laws are enforced:

—PARKING. Prohibited on all sidewalks in California by California law.

—SIDEWALK DRIVING. Oddly, not prohibited specifically by the California codes. You even can drive a Cadillac down the sidewalk. But the California Highway Patrol tickets sidewalk drivers for reckless drivir Los Angeles City prohibits r. Los Angeles County bans bicycles, motorcycles and scooters—but not automobiles, trucks nor electric vehicles by specific designation

—LIABILITY INSURANCE. Motor vehicle owners must meet the provisions of California's financial responsibility law if they get in a traffic accident. Thus far, not one electric vehicle driver has taken out vehicle liability insurance from Long Beach's largest automobile insurance office.

—VEHICLE SAFETY FEATURES. Turn signals are required on some models of electric vehicles. The law also states a vehicle's windshield must be of safety glass. Some plastic-windshield electric vehicles thus far have escaped this measure by a ruling which classifies the three-wheel electric vehicle with three-wheel motorcycles—which also have plastic windshields, but are excluded from the safety glass rule. A similar "motorcycle" ruling saves the electric three-wheelers from having to meet requirements on windshield wipers.

* * * *

LONG BEACH POLICE are studying future enforcement policies. Traffic officials here haven't yet indicated how they will apply the motor vehicle laws to electric vehicles. Are the three-wheel motorized wheelchairs safer on a road or a sidewalk? That's a question police must decide.

The Department of Motor Vehicles, 700 E. Broadway, rivals Lincoln Park as an electric vehicle center as operators of the three-wheelers rush to get driver's licenses.

Thus far 300 licenses have been issued and processing begun on 300 other applications. Some can't be given driving tests until the vehicle gets turn signals.

Howard R. Link, DMV manager here, estimated it will be more than two months before licensing is complete. Law enforcement officers have agreed to hold off citing unlicensed drivers till testing is completed.

The deadline for new licenses was last month, but it was impossible for the DMV to process and test all the electric vehicle operators. Long Beach, believed to be world's capital of the electric vehicle set, has more motorized wheel chairs than all other California cities combined.

"I may be driving one myself before we solve our headaches on electric vehicles," quipped one local DMV man.

SENATOR HUMPHREY
Given Advice

Humphrey Told to Wait Adlai's Move

By ROBERT E. LEE
of I. P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — Some of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's political advisers think he should announce that he'll be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination only if Adlai Stevenson is not.

Humphrey's apparent failure to get off the ground in the early maneuvering for the nomination has puzzled not only his friends but also impartial observers.

Many believe it is linked to the question mark shrouding Stevenson's plans. Humphrey had hoped to draw heavily on Stevenson supporters for backing. But the Stevensonites have been slow to respond. They aren't convinced the two-time candidate is yet ready to cede his mantle to the apparent heir.

* * * *

THEREFORE, a number of the Minnesotan's friends think, his best hope for the present is to condition his own race on Stevenson's plans. The theory is that Humphrey can't win the nomination if Stevenson decides he is available for it, nor can Humphrey attract more than modest support from the Stevenson camp while Stevenson's plans are uncertain.

However, Humphrey might be more attractive to Stevenson's friends if they were given an out through an announcement they were free to return to the fold when and if Stevenson gave the word.

Despite a trip through neighboring Wisconsin last week that the Minnesotan's friends considered highly successful, Humphrey seems to have rung few bells elsewhere in the nation during several months of vigorous campaigning.

* * * *

A RECENT POLL in California was a real shocker to the Humphrey camp. In a state where he has many friends and which he has visited often, the copyrighted Field Poll showed him with only two per cent of the votes in two categories — which Democrat would you like to see nominated and which would make the strongest race?

In each category, Humphrey trailed Stevenson, Sen. John F. Kennedy, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, and Sens. Estes Kefauver, Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington.

In other polls, too, Humphrey's strength has been revealed as unusually small. Even politically influential labor leaders who might be expected to rate him highly have been reserved in their enthusiasm for Humphrey's candidacy.

THE UNION chiefs — and, indeed, many other Democrats of prominence — have nothing but praise for Humphrey's voting record and campaigning skill. But the majority seem to believe either Stevenson or Kennedy would run a better race against either Vice President Nixon or Gov. Rockefeller of New York.

The danger in a Humphrey announcement that he would withdraw from consideration anytime Stevenson said he was available might draw some criticism of the Minnesotan as a "stalking horse" for Stevenson. On the other hand, it might benefit Humphrey greatly in states where Stevenson backing is strong—notably California, New York and Oregon. In those states—and especially in Oregon, where all candidates must enter the primary—it might provide Humphrey with the votes of persons who are reluctant to cast their ballots "against" Stevenson.

Settlement of Chrysler Strike Up to Workers for Vote Today

By JACK VANDENBERG

DETROIT (UPI) — One of two major roadblocks in the path of production of new 1960-model cars apparently was removed Saturday when the United Auto Workers of America and Chrysler Corp., worked out differences at the company's key Twinsburg, Ohio, stamping plant.

The agreement reached by company and union negotiators still has to be ratified by the 3,500 employes at the stamping plant. But company and union officials were hopeful that the tentative agreement might end the strike which forced Chrysler to lay off 18,000 workers and threatened to idle up to 45,000.

EVEN IF THE Chrysler workers return to their jobs next week, however, the nationwide steel walkout still will pose a threat to production of the cars which are just beginning to appear in dealer showrooms.

General Motors already has laid off more than 8,000 employes in various parts and accessory plants throughout the nation because of steel shortages and has announced plans to lay off at least 4,300 additional workers during the next week if the steel strike is not ended.

The strike at the Twinsburg plant, which is the sole producer of certain body stampings for all Chrysler Corp. cars except Imperial and Valiant, forced Chrysler to cut its planned production for the past week by 1,000 units. Company spokesmen said it would have cut Chrysler's production at least in half if it had continued into next week, and even more as it progressed.

A company spokesman said it could not be determined immediately when the workers already laid off because of the stamping-plant strike would be recalled but Chrysler was working on a recall schedule and would announce it if the new agreement is ratified in a membership meeting Sunday.

THE STAMPING - PLANT strike started last Tuesday. Details of the agreement were not revealed pending ratification by the workers.

Chrysler was the first company to lose any production since work started on 1960 model cars.

Son of L.B. Woman Killed When Navy Jet Crashes

Lt. Cortney M. Anderson, son of Mrs. Francis Hiller Weaver of Long Beach Yacht Harbor, was killed Friday night when his Navy jet plane crashed in landing aboard an aircraft carrier 300 miles off Myrtle Beach, S. C., it was learned Saturday.

The Navy said the plane plunged into the Atlantic and the pilot's body was not recovered.

The jet skidded off the deck and sank immediately.

Also surviving the pilot are his widow and a son, Craig, 2, of Jacksonville.

SINGS OWN SONGS

Rock-and-Roll's Got Teacher, Too

ARDEN JERVEY
'This Wicked World'

In Long Beach City College is a teacher who makes rock n' roll records.

Arden Jervey, for four years physical education instructor at City College, sings "This Wicked World" and "Why Do You Deny Me?" in Cupid records, just released.

They are her first records.

* * * *

HOW DID it happen?

"I write songs for fun," says Miss Jervey, who lives at 6015 E. Charlwood St., Lakewood. "I went to the Cupid Record Studio at Santa Ana, with my guitar, and sang some of my numbers.

"They asked me if I would be interested in recording, and I said OK. I did 'This Wicked World' and 'Why Do You Deny Me?' with piano, drum and guitar accompaniment."

Miss Jervey is a graduate of Ohio State University.

Author Calls Suit Leopold's 'Thanks'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Author Meyer Levin said Saturday that thrill killer Nathan Leopold's $1,513,000 suit against the book and movie "Compulsion" was the only thanks he ever received for helping Leopold get out of prison.

Levin, who wrote the book, said he was "utterly astonished" by the suit which was filed against 57 defendants Friday in Chicago.

"All I can say is, that's gratitude," Levin said. "I think it's generally conceded that my book got him out of prison. His own attorney, Elmer Gertz, said so a year and a half ago to me.

* * * *

"IN FACT IT was Gertz who asked me to plead before the parole board for Leopold's release, and I did appear as a principal witness. Some members of the board even told me they read the book and it changed their thinking about Leopold.

"But this suit—this is the only thanks I've gotten. I've never had any contact with him since he's been out of jail."

Leopold served 33½ years in the state penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for the thrill murder of little Bobby Franks. Leopold and his partner, Richard Loeb, were convicted in one of the most sensational trials of the century. Leopold was paroled in 1958 and works in Puerto Rico as a medical technician. Loeb was killed in prison.

EPHRAIM LONDON, attorney for Levin and Simon & Schuster Inc., publishers of the book, said Leopold was violating the conditions of his parole by filing the suit. He said Leopold had promised the parole board he would not seek to capitalize on his crime in any way.

Leopold charged in his suit that "Compulsion" invaded his privacy and contained fiction about him.

Seiners Slated to Sail Today

SAN PEDRO—After more than a month of idleness, the local purse-seine fleet was due to sail today following settlement of a price dispute.

Members of both the ILWU Fishermen's Union and the AFL-CIO Seine and Line Fishermen's Union agreed Saturday to terms reached earlier by the boatowners and canners.

The new price structure is $35 a ton for sardines, $40 a ton for mixed fish and $50 a ton for mackerel.

* * * *

THE NEW contract provides that canners may refuse to accept fish upon 72 hours notice.

Last year, a price of $50 a ton for all three types of fish prevailed through most of the season.

The agreement reached is substantially the same as that concluded last month in northern California.

The Southern California sardine season officially began Sept. 1, and ends Dec. 31.

FRATERNITY PLEDGES 'GET WORKS'

7 Hurt in High School Hazing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A high school fraternity, using inch - thick paddles fashioned by shaving baseball bats, injured seven boys during an initiation ceremony, it was disclosed Friday.

The incident had parents hopping mad. Efforts were being made to outlaw the organizations despite refusal of the state legislature some years ago to ban such social groups. They are outside the control of schools.

Dennis Hopkins, 16, one of the most severely injured, said that during the initiation Jerry Thompson, president of the fraternity, "didn't think we were getting enough" and ordered the works for initiates.

"HE'S JUST bloodthirsty, that's the only way I can express it," young Hopkins said.

Jerry's mother, Mrs. D. M. Thompson, said he was hospitalized following his own initiation last year. He was recovering from a broken hip at the time and a blow from one of the paddles caused a re-injury.

Members of the Tri-W fraternity at Woodlawn High School initiated seven new members Thursday night by again beating them with the heavy paddles. Two initiates required treatment at a hospital and another was treated by a physician who notified police, touching off an investigation.

* * * *

MRS. THOMPSON said she blamed the city and the school for allowing fraternities to continue. But the Thompson parents told UPI they had not asked Jerry to withdraw from the group since the beatings became known.

Woodlawn Principal Ralph Martin said there had been no effort to bar fraternities at the school and no injuries reported to him previously.

Martin said the groups "have nothing to do with the school. The Board of Education does not recognize or sponsor the groups and neither does the school," he said.

* * * *

LEROY TUCKER, whose 16-year-old son, Leroy, required treatment at a hospital, said the law was going to break up the fraternities.

"If I had beaten my boy like that they would have already had me in jail," Tucker said. "They made those boys eat fried grasshoppers and poured syrup on them but they went too far when they beat him up like they did."

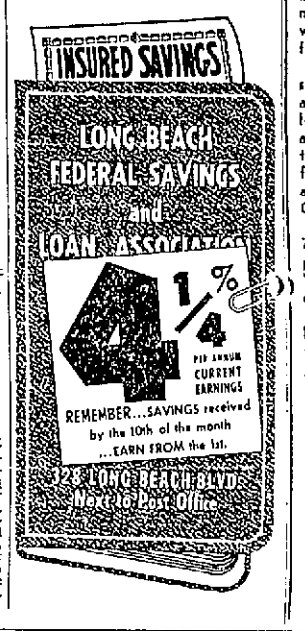

The Hopkins boy said the initiation started with the boys being taken to a grocery store parking lot and whipped with the paddles. He said members stood in line and the initiates ran by as members hit them. He said he got "10 extra licks for coming in last."

Typhoon Raises Price of Pearls

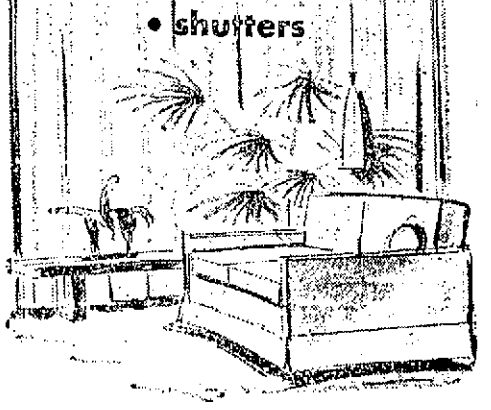

HONG KONG (UPI)—Damage caused by typhoon Vera which hit Japan last week will cause prices of cultured pearls to rise slightly, Yoshitaka Mikimoto said today.

NEW DISCOVERY FOR HARD OF HEARING
To all readers of the Ind.-P.T. the Diagnostic Offices will give the first treatment for only $3.00.
According to the Basic Diagnostic office it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.
So many have told us we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.
The treatment is simple, it consists of three steps, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss it due to catarrh, a different treatment is given, if it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.
According to Basic Diagnostic 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.
We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Red Tide Breaks Out Again Along West Coast of Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A new outbreak of the dreaded fish-killing red tide spread 100 miles down the Florida west coast from St. Petersburg Saturday, threatening the tourist-rich beaches that dot the shoreline.

An aerial survey late Saturday showed the main infestation, first spotted Thursday, was still several miles off shore, but some dead fish were washing up at the tip of Longboat Key, a popular bathing beach near Sarasota.

Dr. Robert F. Hutton, biologist in charge of the state marine laboratory here, said rotting fish were floating so close to the shore at Sarasota Key that "any kind of a westerly wind would wash large numbers of fish onto the beach."

Red tides are caused by micro-organisms which intensify under certain conditions and color the water a rusty red. The organisms kill fish by secreting a poison which paralyzes their respiratory systems. When vaporized by crashing waves on beaches, the poison can irritate the mucous membranes of humans.

The current outbreak is the first in two years and extends from St. Petersburg to Venice. In past years the rotting fish and vaporized poison has caused beach dwellers to abandon homes and head inland.

Race Cases on Supreme Court List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court gets back to work Monday, facing a docket liberally sprinkled with racial-issue cases.

The court already has agreed to hear arguments on three of the cases. It still must decide if it will examine others.

The list includes two challenges to the voting section of the 1957 civil rights law, still another appeal by fiery racist John Kasper, four school-integration suits, and an attempt by Little Rock, Ark., to force the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) to reveal its membership lists.

* * * *

THERE ALSO are an appeal by a young Negro law student who was evicted from a white restaurant in the Richmond, Va., bus terminal, an appeal by six Negroes sentenced to jail for playing on a North Carolina golf course, another look at an earlier decision to set aside a $100,000 contempt fine levied against the NAACP by Alabama, and a bid of seven Negro teachers who were put out of work when a Missouri community integrated its schools.

Cases with Communist overtones also are high on the docket, along with issues important to labor and arguments on federal-state control of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

Radio-Carrying Balloon Floats in Hurricane Eye

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A free-floating balloon carrying a radio transmitter has been in the eye of hurricane Hannah for more than 24 hours. It may represent a breakthrough in development of a new hurricane-tracking technique.

Cecil Gentry, director of the National Hurricane Research Project, said the beacon balloon was dropped into the calm storm center early Friday by an Air Force plane flying out of Bermuda.

A hurricane-hunter plane that flew into Hannah Saturday morning found the beacon still floating in the eye. A similar balloon dropped into the eye Thursday descended into the ocean after six hours.

"Further experimentation in other hurricanes will need to be done before the beacon can be considered operational," Gentry said.

"If future experiments prove that free-floating balloons will remain in the eye of a hurricane, it will be possible to track future storms from shore-based radio stations with radio direction-finding equipment."

EZRA TAFT BENSON

American in Pupit Stirs Russ to Tears

Editor's note: The following occurred in Moscow Thursday. U. S. correspondents present did not attempt to report the story until after leaving the Soviet Union.

By OVID A. MARTIN

MOSCOW (AP)—It was a special occasion at the Central Baptist Church, located on a back street within the shadow of the Kremlin. About 1,000 Russians assembled there to worship God in participation with a group of touring Americans.

Worship of God is not encouraged in the Soviet Union. Its rulers require the teaching of atheism.

* * * *

ONE OF THE Americans was invited to take the pulpit. He looked over the congregation. What he saw obviously moved him. With emotion he told o this visit in Moscow and what he thought of the Russian people.

"I hope," he said, "that you will be blessed. Be good citizens of your country.

"But," he added, "be true to your convictions."

The congregation listened intently as his words were translated.

* * * *

"GOD LIVES," he added. "I know that He lives—that Jesus is the Christ, the Redeemer of the World. Be not afraid and keep the Commandments."

The speaker was U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is touring Europe with three members of his family, four department officials and 10 newsmen on a good will and trade mission.

His words had a powerful impact. Tears rolled from the eyes of worshipers. At the finish, the congregation arose and thanked him with the hymn "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again." Then they waved handkerchiefs in farewell.

* * * *

AS THE AMERICANS made their way to the door, scores of hands thrust out to grasp those of the departing visitors in an action that spoke more than words.

The Americans entered their cars with not a dry eye among them. Fihally a seasoned newsman broke the silence.

"I believe they were the only really happy people we saw in Russia," he said.

But his appraisal was tempered by the fact that the congregation was largely of the waning generation. Few young people were present.

Gale-Torn Boat, Lone Man Saved

TOKYO, Sunday (AP) — The battered Chinese junk High Tea carrying a lone Briton, Brian Platt, arrived Saturday in tow of a fishing boat at a small port in eastern Hokkaido after being found adrift in the Pacific.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Board said the mast of Platt's junk was broken by typhoon Vera. The 28-year-old Briton was in good condition.

The 32-foot junk was found Thursday by the 40-ton fishing boat Kinkei Maru' some 470 miles east of Kushiro. It was towed to the fishing port of Hanasaka.

Platt's last port of call was Choshi, a fishing port 60 miles east of Tokyo, which he left Sept. 20 for a 90-day transpacific cruise to San Francisco.

TB Expert Says Many Diagnosed Mistakenly

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Hundreds of persons have been sent to tuberculosis sanatoriums for treatment of a disease that appears to be TB but isn't, the annual meeting of the Michigan State Medical Society was told Saturday.

Dr. Michael L. Furcolow, medical director of the U. S. Public Health Service's field station at Kansas City, said the disease is called histoplasmosis, or histo for short.

Of 22,000 patients checked in 52 sanatoriums in the United States and Canada, Dr. Furcolow said, 1,300 were found to have histo. Only 20 per cent of these patients also were found to have TB.

"TB treatment doesn't do these patients any good, and, in fact, may do some harm since they are in daily contact with tuberculosis patients," Dr. Furcolow said.

He describes histo as a lung fungus that imitates the symptoms of tuberculousis but is non-infectious and usually mild. It is apparently spread by chickens and other fowl and birds, and possibly bats.

New Record for Military Hike Claimed

FORT DEVENS, Mass. (AP) — A 26-year-old Army lieutenant Saturday completed a 104.8-mile march in 40½ hours — a mark believed to be a new U.S. armed services record.

First Lt. Wayne B. Nicoll of Bow, N.H., completed the grueling hike from Camp Edwards at Falmouth to Fort Devens at an average speed of 2.58 miles per hour.

Nicoll was dressed in a combat fatigue uniform and boots and carried a carbine, pistol belt, first aid kit, bayonet and canteen. Other than an occasional rest period, the lieutenant, a member of the Second Infantry Brigade, paced off the distance without letup.

Owners of Unused Autos Get Warning

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Director of Motor Vehicles Robert McCarthy has warned automobile owners they must register unused vehicles if they are left on public roads.

A new law which goes into effect Oct. 17 requires that vehicles parked or left standing on public streets or highways must be registered whether or not they are operated during the current year, McCarthy said.

TV and Film Actor William Bishop Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor William Bishop, 41, died of cancer at his home Saturday after a three-month illness.

Bishop was a nephew of the late playwright Charles MacArthur.

His acting career began in New York little theaters and he got his first major role as the juvenile lead in the Broadway production of "Tobacco Road." Later, he formed the ill-fated Mercury Theater with Orson Welles.

* * * *

IN RECENT years, Bishop had played in western films and television shows. He was a regular on the NBC-TV series, "It's a Great Life," with Michael O'Shea and James Dunn. He is featured in a new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "The Oregon Trail," with Fred MacMurray.

Survivors include his wife, Shirley; his father, Edward T. of New York City; his mother, Helen MacArthur Bishop of Chicago, and a brother, Robert, of Chicago.

Funeral services are scheduled for Tuesday at Gates, Kingsley and Gates mortuary in West Los Angeles. Cremation will follow.

BERLIN (UPI)—Police announced Saturday that 8,684 persons fled to West Berlin from Communist East Germany during September. This was 1,700 less than in August.

Park Ride Hurls 2 on Roof

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A rocket-shaped cab on a "dive bomber" thrill ride snapped in half at an amusement park Saturday hurling two boys to a nearby roof and injuring one seriously.

Bob Lussier, 16, was admitted to a hospital with a possible concussion. Walter Budowski, 13, escaped with cuts and bruises.

The cab snapped at the bottom of its swinging circle and was swept up by its own momentum 20 feet into the air before it dropped onto the roof of the dodgem, a bumper car ride.

The boys, strapped in, were not thrown out. No one else was on the ride, which consists of two cabs held together by a steel girder.

Kauffman, Hero of Air-Sea War, Found Dead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Retired Rear Adm. Roland Phillip Kauffman, a hero of the bloody battle of Leyte Gulf in World War II, was found dead in the elevator of a hotel early Saturday.

Kauffman, 60, apparently suffered a stroke. He lived at Palm Beach, Fla.

Kauffman was awarded the Silver Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry as executive officer of the carrier Intrepid against the Japanese forces Nov. 25, 1944.

Cardinal Improves

ROME (UPI) — Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, 85-year-old archpriest of St. Peter's, was released Saturday from the clinic where he had undergone an operation for a serious intestinal ailment on Sept. 2. A Vatican source said he appeared to be in "pretty good health."

Bum Resents 50-Cent Gift, Slugs Sailor

A moocher, provoked because he only got 50 cents from a U. S. Navy man, attacked his benefactor, knocking him down a concrete stairway on Chestnut Pl. south of Ocean Blvd.

However, Clifton L. York, 18, of the USS George A. MacKenzie, had the last laugh. York scrambled to his feet, grappled with the goatee-wearing panhandler and tossed him into a nearby fish pond. York then sought a policeman. But when they went to the pond, the moocher was gone.

Reservists Select L.B. for Convention

Long Beach was selected Saturday as the site of the 1961 national conference of the Reserve Officers Assn. of the United States.

The decision was reached by 100 reservists attending a California Department Council meeting in the Lafayette Hotel.

Dr. Charles R. Brantingham of Long Beach, department surgeon, said the conference will be held here the latter part of May, 1961. The 1960 conference is scheduled next year in New York City.

Attending the Long Beach meeting were Capt. John Riner of Lafayette, Calif., department president, and Maj. Gen. (Reserve) Henry Kellog of Los Angeles. Principal speaker was Maj. Gen. Carl Sutherland of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Army Affairs Committee and, in private life, personnel director for the City of Atlanta.

Credit Union Host in New L.B. Building

The Credit Union of General Telephone Co. held open house Saturday in its new $43,000 building at 1510 E. 7th St.

The one-story structure, which contains approximately 2,900 square feet of space, is one of the few in Long Beach area designed solely for a credit union.

Known as the Long Beach Gentelco Federal Credit Union, the group is headed by Joseph R. Kirkpatrick, president, and Ray Baldauf, manager.

It was formed in 1936 with a capitilization of $25. Today, capitalization is $1,100,000. More than 2,500 employes are members of the credit union.

Authorities on Weights to Convene

For security reasons, the guest-speaker at the opening session Wednesday of the California Assn. of Weights and Measures Officials in the Lafayette Hotel will not be identified until he speaks.

Officials of the conference identified him Saturday only as a person from a country behind the Iron Curtain.

"In deference to the speaker and for reasons of security, we have agreed to keep his identity a secret until the time of his appearance," the official program notes.

It said that the speaker will "give us an intimate view of how weights and measures laws are administered there (in his country.)"

ANU Installs Officers for Coming Year

Officers of Capt. A. D. Borden Garrison 139, Army & Navy Union, were installed Friday evening in Veterans Memorial Building with David J. Segal, past national junior vice commander, officiating.

John W. Teed was seated as commander, succeeding Segal, and with him William P. Boland, senior vice commander; Donald Daugaard, junior vice commander; John Knight, judge advocate; Harold Brooke, adjutant-paymaster; Homer Moore, chaplain; George Nicodemus, historian; Charles Craig, officer of the day; Charles E. Williams, patriotic instructor; Segal, service officer, and Harry E. Elliott, public relations officer.

Clothing Stolen During Jail Term

Troubles compounded for Sandra R. Younkins, 19, of 1212 Stanley Ave. She was jailed Sept. 4 and served 30 days for vagrancy. Upon her release Friday she found her car had been looted in a Pike parking lot. Two suitcases containing $300 worth of clothes were missing.

Howard to Discuss Aid to Handicapped

Steel Union Calls Two Conferences

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Maneuvering in the 81-day-old steel strike took on a note of urgency Saturday as negotiators tried to beat possible Taft-Hartley action to get the 500,000 strikers back in the mills.

McDonald

The United Steelworkers summoned its powerful wage policy committee to meet here Monday at 10 a.m.

David J. McDonald president of the USW, also summoned the union's international executive board to meet in an unusual Sunday session at 2 p.m.

Some observers were optimistic over the developments.

But others saw no concrete moves leading to a quick end of the strike which has resulted in the loss of millions of dollars in wages and production.

Ike's Cold Starts to Yield

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—President Eisenhower's nagging cold is beginning to yield to Southern California's warm sunshine and dry climate, his doctor reported Saturday.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician, sent word to newsmen that in his opinion the sunshine and the desert weather generally "has been beneficial to the President's cold."

But Snyder, in a message relayed by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, added that the cold which brought Eisenhower to this resort area for an eight-day stay has not completely disappeared.

Segni Hopes for More Trade

Segni

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's premier, Antonio Segni, arrived here Saturday for a two-day visit and voiced hopes for increasingly favorable trade relations between his country and the United States.

"Italy is especially interested in foreign investments," he declared, "particularly in those enterprises most apt to speed the process of industrialization, above all in southern Italy and the islands."

Segni spoke at an America-Italy Society luncheon after his arrival by plane from Washington. He flies back to Rome tonight.

Nixon Eyes Entry in N. H. Race

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon broke ground Saturday for a giant flood control dam—and perhaps for an entrance into New Hampshire's early presidential primary next March.

His trip to the state was billed as non-political but he was surrounded during the day by some of the state's chief political leaders including Gov. Wesley Powell and U. S. Sens. Styles Bridges and Norris Cotton.

Sen. Cotton told newsmen later he considers Nixon—whom he supports for President—"is running like a startled deer." He said "there is a tremendous undercurrent of support for Nixon."

Bus Wreck Kills 1, Hurts 22

RED BLUFF, Calif. (UPI) — A huge truck-trailer slammed into a Greyhound bus carrying 36 passengers on a lonely two-lane highway south of here Saturday during the early morning darkness.

One woman possenger in the bus was killed and at least 22 other persons were injured. The dead woman was identified as Mrs. Celia Schloemer, 65, Oak Harbor, Wash.

Dock Strike Pact Bleak

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects appeared bleak Saturday for any early settlement of a three-day dock strike that has tied up more than 200 freighters in East and Gulf Coast ports.

Freight piers stood idle from Maine to Texas as employers and longshoremen held fast to their deadlocked positions in a contract dispute. The dispute led some 85,000 workers to walk out Thursday.

Find Drowned Bodies of 30 Soldiers

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The drowned bodies of 30 North Vietnamese soldiers were found in the Nam Ma River when Laotian troops recaptured Xieng Kho village near the North Vietnamese frontier, a Laotian army officer reported Saturday.

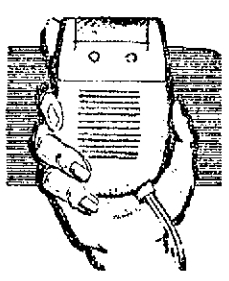

The officer said the Communist troops apparently committed suicide to escape capture and thus provide additional evidence supporting Laotian charges of Red aggression by North Viet Nam.

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

COMES World Series time and long-time residents of these parts inevitably bring up talk about the great magnetic board that showed Long Beach area fans the progress of Series games back in the 'twenties.

Bob Metzger, the harbor public relations man, recalled yesterday that as a kid in a nearby grade school he joined a big throng on a large vacant lot at Seventh and Locust (now the Board of Education property) to watch the Press-Telegram's magic board with its magnetic ball in operation.

"It was marvelous," said Metzger, who doesn't admit it but probably played hookey to watch the ingenious gadget. "Of course it couldn't be simultaneous with every play like radio and TV, but what difference? It seemed mighty fast to us in those days."

THE BIG board presented a diagram of a baseball diamond, on which the Series game was recreated on the basis of reports coming in by Morse telegraph wire to an operator who sat right back of the board.

The operating crew took messages from the telegrapher and then went to work on the board, showing every play. The ball, a hollow steel sphere about the size of a baseball, was moved about on the diamond by means of a magnet from behind the board. There was a bat that swung through the home plate at the proper time, and players were represented by metal discs.

It was a great operation, and a delight to the huge crowds which consumed vast quantities of peanuts, crackerjack and pop and yelled their heads off as the plays were enacted on the board.

THE Press-Telegram and the Optimist Club cooperated in this enterprise, with the newspaper furnishing the board and telegraphic reports and the club handling the concessions.

Over a period of ten years or so, the board was operated at the newspaper building, at Broadway and Atlantic, at the site of the old Virginia Hotel on Ocean Blvd., at Seventh and Locust, and elsewhere.

Crowds ran as high as 10,000, and typical baseball atmosphere prevailed. Shouts and groans greeted every play as the P-T crewmen scurried around back of the board, making things go.

Reporter Charles Fessler wrote in the Oct. 5, 1928, edition of the P-T that "giving an impressionistic account of what was going on before the magnetic scoreboard is akin to giving a blow-by-blow account of a race riot."

They did it up with trimmings. An orchestra played between innings. The mayor made a speech.

TWO fellows who worked on the board crew and are still with us are Wade Maplethorpe and Deane Downer, who remember it all as if it were yesterday. Then youngsters, it was a big time of the year for them when they played the World Series.

Downer, an able ballplayer in his own right, was assigned to run the magnetic ball over the board. Maplethorpe operated the bat by pushing a button.

"Nobody ever batted as often as I did in the World Series," said Wade yesterday.

IT WAS about 1934 when the annual magnet board parties were given up.

"Too many people were around with portable radios, beating us to developments," said Downer. "We used radio ourselves a season or two and were right on the plays. But eventually radio reports made our play-by-play board show unnecessary. It was great while it lasted."

SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY

El Dorado Park Plan Big as All Outdoors

Funded partly by a $4,900,000 bond issue approved in 1956, El Dorado Park is gradually developing in a "big as all outdoors" program which envisions an outlay of about $5,000,000 in a decade. Tentative Long Beach Park Department plans are presented here.

There is something for everybody — for sportsmen, for picnickers, for dancers, riders and prancers. Even animals will have a field of play on the bridle paths and in the wild life sanctuary.

A community building and partly developed playground already serve the neighboring Lakewood Plaza housing area.

Preliminary work is under way on an 18-hole golf course, which will occupy half of the 285-acre tract on the west side of the San Gabriel River Flood Control Channel. A 30-acre section east of the Flood Control has been planted as a tree farm.

* * * *

FEATURES OF the total park development of 885 acres will include:

A 3,000-seat amphitheater.

Four lakes, two of them devoted to boating, swimming and fishing.

A lakeside pavilion for dining and dancing.

Baseball and softball diamonds.

Tennis courts.

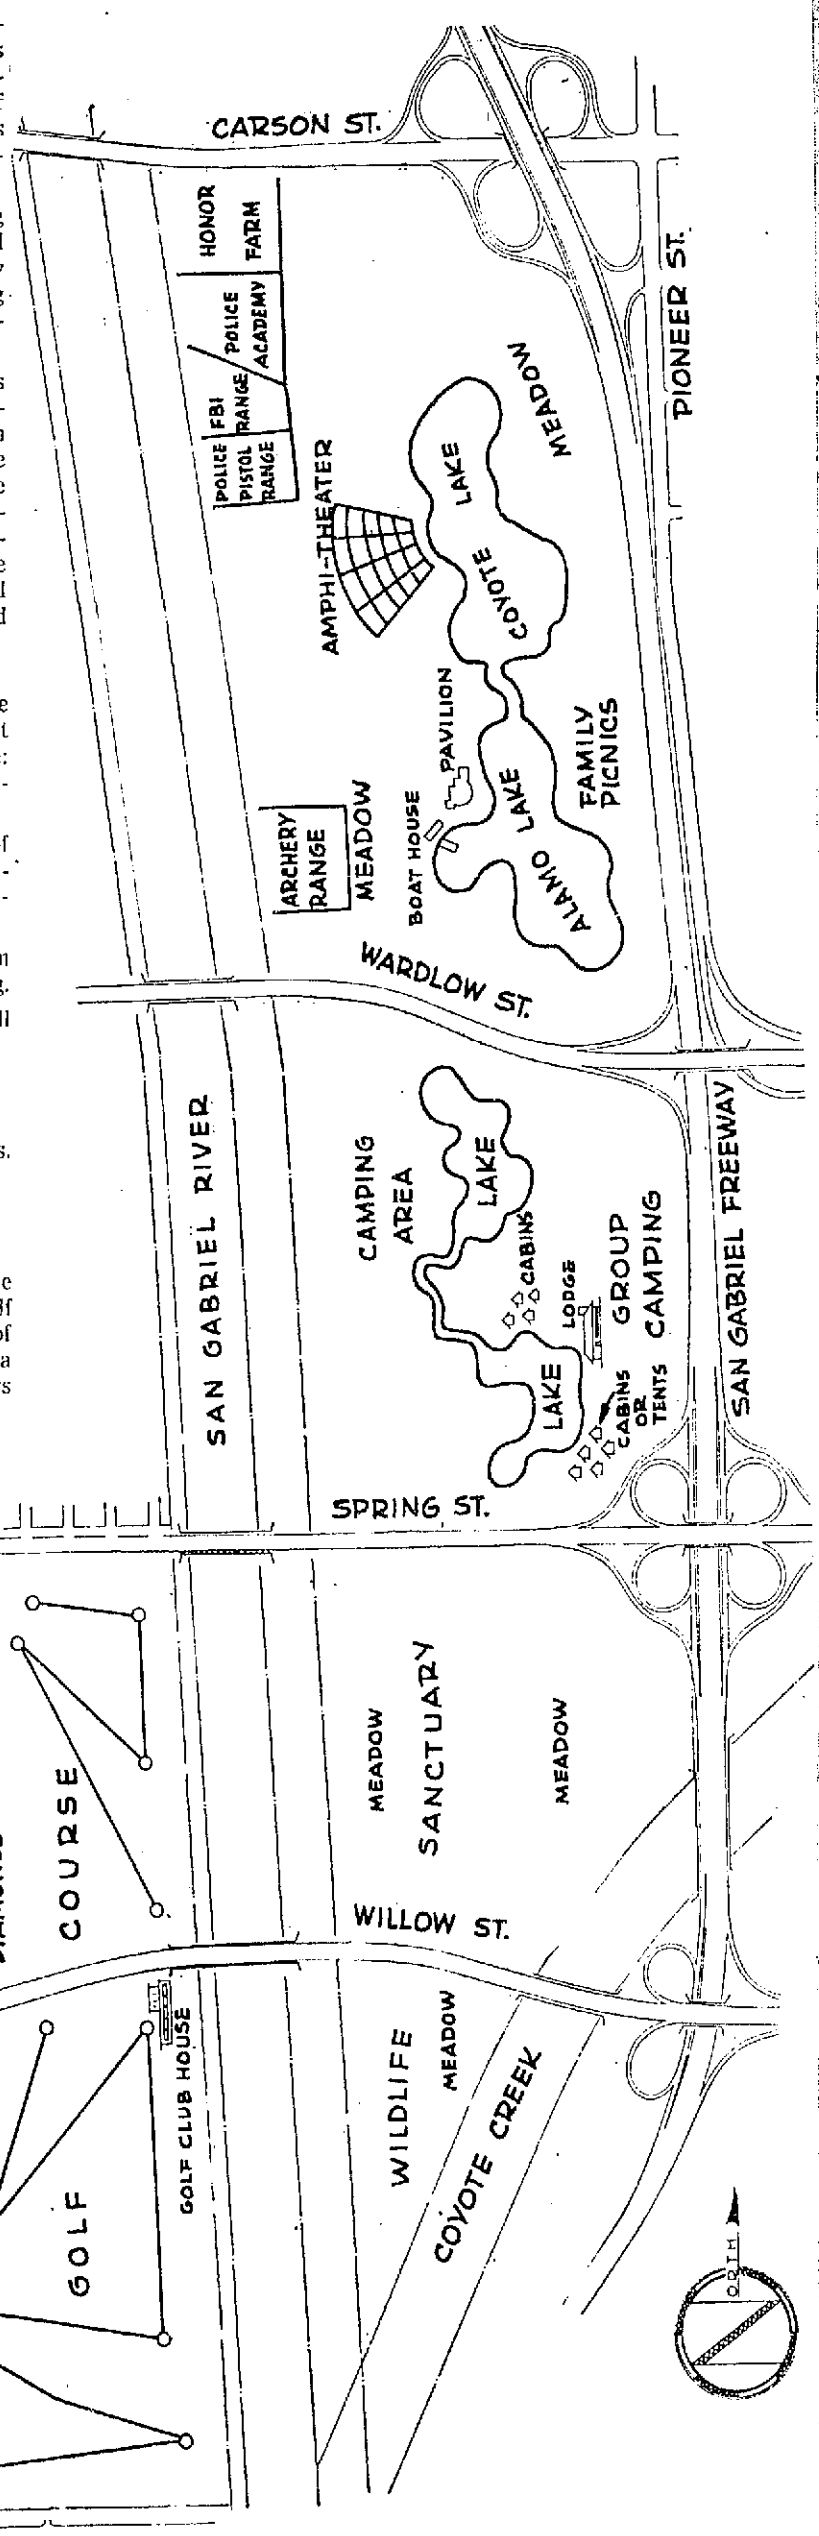

An archery range.

Wooded picnic areas. Camping sites.

A lodge and cabins.

A play meadow.

An eight-mile bridle trail will skirt the golf course and portions of the picnic areas, with a rancho as headquarters for the riders.

City Fathers Eye Project for Shoppers

By GEORGE WEEKS

The idea of a downtown Long Beach mall—a leafy park replacing Pine Ave.'s traffic jumble—is advancing gradually in official and unofficial agencies.

Nothing decisive will be done for months, and probably not for years. But there are these indications that the proposal is getting serious consideration:

1. The City Planning Department has just embarked on a six-month study of the downtown area, with emphasis on economic trends and present and future land use.

* * * *

2. OFFICERS OF DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH ASSOCIATES said they have been interested in the concept for years—and will continue to be if agreement can be reached on a practical plan.

3. City Traffic Engineer Robert D. Dier made a special trip while in the midwest to view an experimental shopping mall in Toledo, Ohio. He reported: "It is conceivable such a mall would be a part of the long-range plan for Long Beach."

4. City Manager Sam E. Vickers agreed, commenting: "We are coming to something of the kind eventually, when we have solved some of our more pressing parking and traffic problems. But the impetus must come from outside the city hall.

Planning Director Werner Ruchti and his staff said the object of their study is to try to "find out what is the future of the central business district."

* * * *

THEY EXPECT TO LOOK ahead 20 years to transitions in parking, traffic and use of land, with a downtown mall as one possibility.

Vito Romans, general manager of Downtown Long Beach Associates, noted that the business group has been appraising such an experiment for at least four years. Among those interested is the association's new president, Leo Shultz.

"Our Good Old Days and Fiesta Days could be considered steps in that direction," said Romans. "So is our program for the planting of trees in the business district."

* * * *

DIER REPORTED that the Toledo experiment has attracted nationwide attention. The trial mall was installed and is still in operation along two parallel streets in the main shopping section.

"Special curbs were constructed within the pavement area, in curved, pleasing patterns," Dier said. The area within the curbs was filled with dirt and planted with grass, flowers, potted trees.

"There are running fountains, flagstone walks, statues and other interesting arrangements. Scattered along the street are seats for weary shoppers. These were much in use.

"The landscaped areas are provided with special lighting for night. Loudspeakers along the street play soft music much as you find in shopping centers. A fenced-in play area is provided for children in one block. This area has slides, sand boxes, swings and landscaping."

* * * *

THE TRAFFIC EXPERT listed six goals that must precede the installation of a successful, permanent mall:

1. Freeways from outlying areas.

2. A circumferential freeway system surrounding the downtown area.

3. Good access facilities from this system.

4. Offstreet parking facilities of the garage type, surrounding the business district and convenient to shoppers.

5. Provision for serving businesses, such as underground tunnels, conveyer belts or the like.

6. Improved mass transportation.

ANTI-FLAME QUEEN

Miss Fire Prevention for Long Beach and environs is blonde Rita Reinertson, 17, who looks as though she might fan a flame in male hearts. — (Staff.)

WAR ON SMOKE

Fire Prevention Stoked by Blonde

Long Beach's fire prevention people have told fiery tradition to go to the blazes—all for a pretty blonde.

Since caveman hovered over his first fire, these basic rules have reigned over fire prevention doings:

1. Fire engines must be red.

2. The hair of fire prevention beauty queens must be red.

But this year blonde Rita Reinertson, 17, was picked as Miss Fire Prevention. "And I won't dye my hair red just for tradition," insisted Rita. She fears red dye would spoil a career as a model and clash with her blue eyes, said William C. Boyd, spokesman for a panel that selected her.

LONG BEACH BURNED UP tradition once before. Deputy Chief William M. McGree admitted that the Long Beach Fire Department had some white fire engines more than 35 years ago.

Miss Reinertson, who measures 36-22-36, is a Wilson High student and a part-time fashion model. She and her blonde tresses will appear before civic groups here this week in behalf of National Fire Prevention Week.

Meantime, the Chamber of Commerce, Insurance Assn., Safety Council and Fire Department have arranged for second and third grade school children to take home fire prevention educational materials this week.

THE CHAMBER also surveyed 597 industries, 650 commercial firms and 206 churches on fire prevention activities.

The big reason why a year-around fire prevention program is conducted in Long Beach: fires here last year killed 7 persons, injured 53 others and caused $728,087 damage. There were 1,900 fires here in 1958.

Nationally, the fire death toll averages 11,602 persons a year. In 1958, fire killed 3,100 persons over the age of 64—giving senior citizens the highest fire death rate of any age group. Children (4 and younger) were next with 2,350 victims.

Chest Organizes New Teams for Drive at Service Stations

A new section of volunteers who will visit service stations in the Community Chest campaign was announced Saturday by Henry H. Clock, driver leader.

Maurice Hubbell, secretary-treasurer of Lomita Gasoline Co. will head a special team contacting 300 service stations as a section of Wilbur B. Harrison's oil division. The section campaign starts Monday.

With a quota of $34,500 of the total $982,154 campaign goal, oil division workers are busy with in-plant drives of firms with more than seven employes. Group leaders are R. N. Chace, Richfield Oil Co.; H. T. Romine, Pacific Valves; Cornell Ramsey, Long Beach Oil Development; W. T. Westergard, Signal Hill Electric Co., and Edward Stokes, Richfield.

Calling on smaller oil firms will be Howard Ahlborn, Martin-Decker Corp.; Robert Thompson, Serveo Corp.; Robert Cree, Cree Oil Co., and Elliott Thompson, A. R. Merritt Insurance Co.

Burning Issue of the Hour Discussed

LET OUR WASHINGTON pundits talk about Khrushchev. We intend to talk about the burning issue of the hour.

Baseball.

This is written in advance of the Sunday game of the current World Series between the Chicago White Sox and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But we need no knowledge of Sunday's game to say this much:

Win or lose, the Los Angeles Dodgers of 1959 have been one of the most exasperating and admirable major league teams in baseball history.

Exasperating because they do everything the hard way.

Admirable because they play ball right down to the last strike, whether the stands are full of cheering crowds or occupied by nothing but the evening shadows.

AND WE MIGHT ADD THAT it has not been often that the stands have been thinly populated with the Dodgers in town.

The folks come out to see how in the world they do it.

They do it with (o. k., so it sounds corny) spirit.

Let's take this series, for example.

The Sox started it off with a humiliating 11-0 slaughter of the Dodgers. But the Dodgers didn't feel humiliated. They didn't even appear discouraged.

Any other team taking such a beating would probably have concluded that it was outclassed.

To the Dodgers the 11-0 defeat was no more damaging than a 1-0 loss.

They came right back the next day to win 4-3. The victory was by 10 points less than the Sox victory of the preceding day—but just as conclusive.

THE DODGERS DON'T KNOW when they're outclassed.

This ignorance brought them through the strangest season of National League history and left them standing at the top of a startled heap of teams that seemed in the beginning better suited and more likely to wear the crown.

And it probably will bring them victoriously through the series.

But whether they win it or not, you can be sure of this much:

They played baseball every inning.

Nikita Didn't Know Distance to Peiping

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Washington Bureau Chief

WASHINGTON—While waiting for Prime Minister Nikita S. Khrushchev's press conference to start last Sunday afternoon, several of us were talking to him in the East Lounge of the National Press Club. This reporter expressed amazement that Khrushchev had so well endured the rigors of his transcontinental trip that he looked considerably better than some of us who had survived that prolonged circus.

"I don't know why you people are so tired," Khrushchev commented. "After all, take my case. The day after I get home I have to go to another city."

"How far is it from Moscow to Peiping?" the reporter asked.

Khrushchev looked utterly blank. He looked around the room surrounding him and suddenly shouted: "Gromyko," meaning Andrei Gromyko, the Russian foreign minister. He posed the question to Gromyko who looked equally blank and in turn roared for one of his assistants who couldn't answer the question either.

We never did get the answer from the Russian entourage, but in case you're interested the answer is 5,550.5 miles.

WE determined during our travels with Mr. K that he is not averse to being elected President of the United States. We reported to him that a group of American newspapermen had called him "a consummate politician" and they had expressed the thought that if either the Democratic or Republican parties could capture him, they would have a most formidable candidate.

Khrushchev smiled upon hearing the words and answered promptly: "Well, let's have a go at it."

RELATIONS between the Russian and American reporters during the K trip varied with the political climate. At first all was friendliness and fraternization was the order of the day. When things began to go sour, however, the temperature in the press section began to get chilly and after the Los Angeles blow-off, the Russians held to themselves and the westerners went their way. When the sun began again to shine, the ice melted and by the end of the trip everyone was getting along fine.

INSIDERS credit Henry Cabot Lodge, the President's personal representative on the Khrushchev tour, with doing a fine job in mollifying the overwrought Russian when he was threatening to go home. Lodge, it is said, finally convinced Khrushchev that all the things which went wrong on the trip were not the result of a deliberate State Department plot, but were just human errors, misjudgments, and the kind of foul-ups which inevitably happen on a trip of that nature. The job was difficult, but Lodge pulled it off and saved the journey from being utterly calamitous.

DESPITE the physical beating taken by the reporters on the Khrushchev circuit (they got back to Washington in varying states of physical exhaustion, varying from complete collapse to only partial paralysis), the almost unanimous verdict of those accompanied the tour is: "Greatest news story I ever covered."

IT'S NICE to see things in a child's perspective. When this reporter came home from the K trip, his youngest daughter asked him inaccurately although flatteringly: "Daddy, was Khrushchev on that trip with you?"

Commie Boss Gushes Words but Who Will Believe Them?

WASHINGTON—Words, words, words—many thousands of them now have been poured forth by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as an assurance to the world of his peaceful intentions. But who will believe them? What has he done to make people trust him?

The French Minister of Foreign Affairs, Maurice Couve de Murville, has just put his finger on the "key word," and that's "trust."

LAWRENCE

In a speech in New York before the General Assembly of the United Nations, the French statesman has exposed the trickery and duplicity of the disarmament proposal made by Mr. Khrushchev so dramatically before the United Nations. The French Foreign Minister says:

"The other day we heard Mr. Khrushchev explain his own position forcefully. The Soviet Union, as I understand it, accepts the idea of controls (on disarmament), but envisages that these will not be set up, or at least will not actually function, until after the agreed measures of disarmament have already been implemented (put into effect).

"We believe on the contrary that one cannot disassociate the actul process of disarmament from the setting up of controls. The latter guarantees the former and consequently conditions it. Moreover, lacking real controls, the vitally necessary trust would be utterly lacking.

"I purposely use the word trust, for it is the key word. The problem of disarmament has certain technical aspects and those are important. But basically it is a political problem."

* * * *

WHAT ALL this means is that the Soviet government wants a stage-by-stage formula, including a withdrawal of American forces from Europe, a transfer of all atomic weapons from Europe and perhaps their destruction before any control measures are set up to determine whether the Soviet government is complying with the corresponding pledges it will have been asked to make under the disarmament agreement.

Mr. Khrushchev either is naive or purposely feigned innocence as he asked in his TV speech last Sunday to the American people:

"Have you ever pondered over this question? If we are not planning to fight, whatever for do you or we need all these armaments for?"

* * * *

THE TRUTH is nobody knows what the Soviets are really planning because the world has seen them break pledge after pledge.

The Soviets openly admitted that they furnished arms and ammunition that were used by the North Korean armies to fight the United Nations forces which were sent to Korea to repel Communist aggression in 1950.

Likewise, the Soviet government has instigated revolts in Southeast Asia and in the Middle East and has infiltrated many countries around the world. Yet Mr. Khrushchev, in his TV address last Sunday, said that "the principle of noninterference by countries in each other's domestic affairs should be strictly adhered to."

The record is plain. The question now is whether the Soviet chief can expect by a few speeches to erase the past altogether and to receive trust where no basis for it has ever been established.

DORIS FLEESON

Nikita's Visit Made 'Peace' Big Issue of 1960 Campaign

WASHINGTON—Presidential politics was sidetracked by the Khrushchev visit, and the camps of all the candidates admit to feeling that what their hero does or says now is probably irrelevant to the main issue of 1960. That issue is peace, and the form it will take is only partly within the control of Americans, including the President.

Even before the historic events of September, party organizations and ambitious political leaders did not see their way clearly in the first wide-open presidential nominating conventions in years. Their reluctance to commit themselves is now intensified.

FLEESON

This is particularly true in the big states where elections are won and lost. Their controlling politicians are unsure of the effect of the new Eisenhower policies on their ethnic and minority groups, their church people and their white-collar voters.

Every one of these states is holding back. In Troy, N. Y., last week, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, a powerful voice in Illinois politics, predicted a dark horse, "perhaps a president of one of our great universities," might win the Democratic nomination rather than any present contender. Having scanned the list of presidents of universities without encountering any eye-catching possibilities, the pros here believe Daley was simply playing it safe.

Some surprise was expressed that Daley did not add at least one kind word for Sen. John Kennedy to whom he was thought to be friendly. The mayor himself refused to elaborate.

Possibly Adlai Stevenson has been helped by the present trend of foreign policy. At the very least, he is a prophet now with honor in his own country, for the Eisenhower pattern clearly repeats what he has proposed and discussed in his campaigns and other writing and speeches. His reactions were eagerly sought amid the stormy proceedings at the Garst farm in Iowa where he was the other guest of honor and, in important instances, were made the lead story of that day.

He has not made an irrevocable disclaimer of interest; his close friends still stress his availability. But many pros also still stress their belief that he cannot be re-elected even if he is renominated.

Sens. Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey are doggedly touring the Midwest, with no apparent break for or against either one of them. Each seems to feel he will be helped if he can eliminate the other by a decisive victory in the Wisconsin primary.

* * * *

EVEN THIS seems hardly enough if the big states hold out. Sen. Estes Kefauver took the primary route in 1952 and entered the convention with 350 delegates but failed to make the grade. The big states also help to create what is a vicious circle for present contenders. The smaller states seem less and less willing to take a chance as they perceive that the nomination may go into bargaining sessions. Maryland, for example, is increasingly coy about its choice.

* * * *

REPUBLICANS, for their part, have a job ahead in the way of promoting unity on the new Eisenhower direction. The President has reversed himself with wonderful ease and grace, but there are many mutterings behind the scenes, especially among Midwest Republicans. The Nixon-Rockefeller contest still looms as well, with no make-or-break developments in sight.

Takes Issue With Supervisor Bonelli

EDITOR:

Re your editorial about Supervisor Bonelli's plan to reapportion the State Senate:

1. There are 40 Senate seats, 58 counties in California.

2. The basis for our state governments is the same as our national—a two-house legislature, one house based on population, the other on equal representation where size is not the primary factor.

3. Not so long ago the Supervisors spent an amount of taxpayers money on survey to see what could be done for L.A. County government. The results were neatly filed in the wastepaper basket.

4. If Mr. Bonelli would spend the time on the affairs of L.A. County he is spending on the reapportionment issue, perhaps the affairs of this county would be on a more even balance.

5. The argument that the North is being unfair to the South and hindering its progress is rather doubtful in the face of certain facts.

* * * *

A WATER BILL was passed by the last legislature of the $7 million apportioned in August from the highway users taxes $2,247,903.28 was allocated to this county, a southern county.

The argument that because this county has more people than Ventura county or Mono-Inyo Alpine counties and thereby should have more of a voice in the Senate overlooks the fact that the Assembly is based on population.

Perhaps we should reapportion the U.S. Senate because L.A. County after all has more population than the states of North and South Dakota. Mr. Bonelli sounds like a little boy who will not play marbles unless you play by his rules.

Bouquet for DMV Manager

EDITOR:

Congratulations to the State Department of Motor Vehicles! And bouquets to Manager Howard R. Link of the Long Beach office who placed the special problems of electric car owners of Long Beach before the director.

It is recognized that the written examination questions do not all apply to electric cars and careful consideration is given to the qualification of drivers, as well as language difficulties in reading and interpreting the questions. Fees are determined as of the time of registration.

* * * *

MY PERSONAL opinion is that with the growing use of these vehicles, the written examinations should contain ONLY such questions as an electric car driver needs to know for the safe operation of his vehicle in the limited area in which he CAN operate. This would minimize the frustration of trying to answer questions completely foreign to actual experience.

Poulson Had No Right to Speak

EDITOR:

The objection to Mayor Poulson's remarks to Mr. K in reference to the much publicized "burying" comment is objective rather than subjective.

Ostensibly Mr. K visited our shores for the purpose of exploring with President Eisenhower possible new channels for raising the level of world peace.

* * * *

TO PROVIDE Mr. K with the most intelligent approach possible for these interviews it was decided that he should make a short trip around our country. This trip should have given Mr. K an insight into the thinking processes, life and environment of this free nation.

By every possible concept it was the responsibility of local authorities to make this picture as honest and all-inclusive as time permitted.

There was no provision intended that any local authority was to publicly question the policies of communism nor were they to endeavor to compare or contrast our philosophy or way of life with Russia.

* * * *

THE MOST effective advantage that we could gain from Mr. K's visit would come from his own private evaluation of what we already have as against what he had promised his own people.

Mayor Poulson's effort to engage in a public controversy on a subject and at a time that he had absolutely no right to express an opinion, either official or personal, endangered any possible benefit that could be derived from Mr. K.'s visit.

The mayor's job was to sell our story, not to unsell communism. He failed dismally in both cases.

Baby-Kissing Won Dictator at Least One Friend in U.S.

WASHINGTON—There were some interesting aftermaths to the Khrushchev visit in Iowa. Nikita Khrushchev won some friends he didn't know about. One of them was the partner of Roswell Garst. Though the partner hasn't been in the headlines, one part of the successful Garst corn combination is Charles Thomas of the Garst & Thomas Seed Co.

Inside fact is that Charlie Thomas has been very much opposed to selling seed corn to the Russians. He has even opposed having any Russians come to Coon Rapids.

Pearson

"I don't want any Russians brought into this office," he has complained. "We're selling seed corn to the folks in Iowa."

So, whenever delegations from behind the Iron Curtain came to see Garst in Coon Rapids, Charlie Thomas simply got up and left.

After Premier Khrushchev and his smile came to Coon Rapids, however, it was different. One day, after he had departed, Charlie Thomas was talking about the visit to a newspaperman. Pulling a photograph out of his pocket he showed a picture of Khrushchev holding up a little girl.

"That," said Charlie Thomas proudly, "is my granddaughter."

* * * *

INSIDE fact is that it was Vice President Nixon who had much more to do with delaying the President's visit to Moscow until next spring than the Eisenhower grandchildren.

And thereby is revealed the fact that the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange has been assayed politically and generally found unproductive. It also means that the GOP will run in 1960 on a platform of peace.

Originally is was planned that President Eisenhower would go to Moscow this fall, probably in October. But now he will go in the late spring, almost the summer. He will get back a few weeks before the Republican National Convention, and with the certain plaudits of the Russian people ringing in political ears, it should be fairly easy to make peace the overriding battle cry of the election.

* * * *

THE VICE President, who is studying 1960 strategy as carefully as Russian scientists aimed for the moon, has had his ups and downs regarding the wisdom of embracing Russia. He has been pulled both ways by his advisers. But he has finally decided that it will win votes.

His hesitation is significant. It was influenced by the crosscurrents inside the Democrat party, with many Democrat politicians betting that the Khrushchev visit would boomerang against the Republicans.

Nixon is now betting that they will be disappointed.

Chisox Just Don't Scare You--Dodgers

By GEORGE LEDERER

The circus is here—two three-ring shows within a tightrope traffic jam of each other.

For baseball fans, 92,000 lucky ticket holders and millions of shutouts who will have to watch on TV, the greatest show on earth will be in the Coliseum. For the kiddies, three years and younger, the circus is at the Sports Arena, across the street.

Featured at the Coliseum are the Dodgers and White Sox, tied at one game and several insults apiece in their battle for the largest checks ever to come out of a World Series.

The Dodgers, convinced that the White Sox aren't in a class with the top National League clubs, are looking forward to wrapping up the series without a return trip to Chicago. And the oddsmakers, apparently convinced that the Dodgers know whereof they speak, have made them 13-10 favorites to win today's game and 11-10 to take the Series.

Game time this afternoon is 1 o'clock, and not a ticket can be purchased unless you'd like to take a second mortgage on your home. For those who already have a second, channels 11 and 4 will carry the action.

While each club planned to take only a few rounds of batting practice Saturday, it didn't work out that way. Both got in some verbal licks as well.

Listen to George Lederer's report of today's game over KIEV (860) at 4:30 p. m.

"This team doesn't scare you when you play the Braves, Giants and Pirates all year," said infielder Don Zimmer as the Dodgers took the field first. Third baseman Junior Gilliam added the Cubs and Reds to Zimmer's list. And Johnny Podres, the winning pitcher Friday, added, "the White Sox definitely aren't as good as the Braves or Giants. They sure don't have the power."

Even the conservative Walter Alston agreed that "over-all, the White Sox aren't as good as the Braves or Giants."

The White Sox were quick to retaliate when they inspected the Collseum for the first time at 3 p. m.

"We'll give 'em our answer on the ball field," said outfielder Al Smith.

Jungle Jim Rivera reminded the Dodgers that they won the pennant on an error. "How come they didn't blast us after losing the first game? Ask 'em if they ever got beat 11-0 by a fourth rate club in their league. We won the pennant against the best clubs in ours. They won on an error."

Early Wynn, who pitched seven innings of the opener before his elbow tightened, was equally bitter and sarcastic. "Just tell 'em the minor leaguers are happy to be playing a big league club. But tell 'em that time will tell which is which."

Don Drysdale, claiming "I'm about due for a good one," is scheduled to pitch for the Dodgers against Dick Donovan this afternoon.

For Drysdale, a 17-game winner but a loser in seven of his last nine decisions, this will be his first World Series start. He relieved in the 1956 Series against the Yankees "when Hank Bauer picked on me to start his home run streak."

Drysdale loosened up for 15 minutes in the bullpen Friday and reported he was throwing better than he had in a month. "I concentrated on keeping my arm up and my fast ball was sinking again. I also was able to break off some good curves."

With the help of scouting director Al Campanis, the Screen Would Make Slugger Out of Me--Fox

By NELLIE FOX
Chicago Second Baseman

I was out at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon and took another look at that left field screen. I saw it when I was here for the second All-Star game and I've been thinking ever since that maybe it was just a dream.

But the screen is still there—250 feet away from the plate. I paced it off myself and I think maybe I'm going to start shooting for Babe Ruth's home run record. I average about 2 or 3 homers a year but maybe here I could pop 40 or 50 over that fence.

It still surprises me that major league baseball games, for two years now, have been played here and that there haven't been more squawks. It just seems ridiculous to play a regulation game in a park where the left field fence is only 250 feet from the plate.

I hope that Walter O'Malley and the Dodgers have their ball park in Chavez Ravine soon and when they build it I hope, too, that it's a perfectly symmetrical field constructed on the order of Comiskey Park in Chicago—about 350-355 feet down the lines, 385 to right and left center and about 400-420 to dead center.

* * * *

THAT'S THE IDEAL measurements for a ball park, even though sometimes I wish the fences were in closer so I could pop one out once in a while. But even so, I'm not a slugger and I don't believe in getting cheap doubles and homers in a freak ball park.

Major league baseball is probably the only big-time sport where the playing field differs according to the location. All the other sports I can think of—football, basketball, tennis, hockey and even lacrosse—have standardized playing fields.

As a result each team in the majors must tailor its personnel to fit its park. For example, the left field wall in Boston is also very short so the Red Sox try to load up with right-handed sluggers and in Detroit the right field fence is pretty close so the Tigers are always looking for left-handed hitters.

Even the White Sox ball club has been put together with an eye on the park dimensions. It's impossible to get a cheap homer in Comiskey Park. It's a park that just defies home run sluggers and so the Sox have had few home run champs down through the years.

* * * *

INSTEAD THE TEAM is built so that everyone can carry a glove and play good defensive ball. It's the same way in Baltimore. The Orioles have a big park and I'm sure that my old friend Paul Richards will admit now that the first prerequisite for such a park is a couple of fast outfielders.

This idea of standardized ball parks would also be a great equalizer so far as the records are concerned. For instance, every time I go into Fenway Park and realize that it's about 385 to right center I wonder and ask myself how Ted Williams has been able to hit so many home runs.

If Williams played in Detroit, where the fence is about 325 feet, he probably would have broken Ruth's record of 60 homers in one year. Mike Higgins, who recently resigned as the Red Sox manager, once said Williams would have been able to hit 70-75 homers if he had played there when he was in his prime.

But getting back to the Coliseum. The short left field fence poses a problem. Especially for left-handed pitchers. They tell me only two southpaws have pitched and went complete games in the Coliseum in the last two seasons.

I'm in agreement with our manager Al Lopez who says a good pitcher can work in any park. Lopez was telling us only the other day that Grover Cleveland Alexander, a right-hander, pitched 11 shutouts in the Baker Bowl in 1915 even though the right field fence was only 286 feet from the plate.

Here's Thumbnail Sketch of Dodger World Series Foe

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

What kind of men are these Chicago White Sox, whom our Dodgers will meet before our very eyes in the third, fourth and fifth games of the World Series, starting today in the Coliseum?

To familiarize you with the Chisox personnel, here's a thumbnail sketch on the key players:

PITCHERS

Early Wynn — You saw what the staff ace did to the Dodgers Thursday. A clever veteran, he throws every pitch in the book and seldom gives batter a good pitch.

Bob Shaw—Young surprise of the staff, whose bread-and-butter pitch is a low, sinking fast ball. Lost a heartbreaker to Dodgers Friday, though.

Dick Donovan — Known as "slider crazy," he has good fast ball and curve. Had disappointing season because he depended too much on the slider, his "nickel curve."

Billy Pierce — Veteran ex-fastballing southpaw, he now relies mainly on good curve, changeup and control.

Gerry Staley — Short stint reliever, who utilizes good screwball and outstanding control.

Turk Lown—Also a bullpen workhorse with tremendous speed. Like Staley, he's used mostly for short relief jobs.

Ray Moore — Great curveball reliever, used mostly for "long" stints.

Barry Latman — Youngster has great sidearm fast ball like Don Drysdale. Developed fast this season.

CATCHERS

Sherm Lollar—Power-hitter and known as best catcher in league handling pitchers. Been key to club's success.

John Romano—Good fastball hitter with fine mechanical ability behind plate.

Earl Battey — Seen little service, but an excellent receiver with some power.

INFIELDERS

Ted Kluszewski (1b)—Outstanding power pull-hitter who murders the fast ball, but is weak on slow curves and changeups. Good glove man despite size.

Earl Torgeson (1b) — Like Dodgers' Jim Gilliam, he utilizes sharp eye at plate. Weak on curves also, but good glove man.

Nellie Fox (2b)—Outstanding glove man and scatter hitter. Excellent bunter who rarely makes error or strikes out. Team's sparkplug.

Luis Aparicio (ss) — Absolutely murder on the basepaths—he stole 56 bases during season—and a sensational glove man. Good hitter, too, who drives pitcher daffy with both good "eye" at plate and ability to steal.

Billy Goodman (3b) — Another excellent spray hitter and outstanding at stealing other team's signs. Covers little ground, but rarely makes error.

Bubba Phillips (3b)—Great defensive player, who can bunt well and can give the fast ball a long ride. Weak on curves, though.

Sam Esposito (utility)—Fine fielder, but weak batter. Used mostly in late innings for defense.

OUTFIELDERS

Al Smith (lf)—Drives in the "big" runs. Good fastball hitter with good arm. Covers position well.

Jim Landis (cf)—Best defensive centerfielder in league—has tremendous arm and excellent range. Improving as hitter, as his three hits opening day will attest.

Jim McAnany (rf)—Still developing, but swift on bases and good in field. Hasn't learned how to hit curve and slow stuff yet.

Jim Rivera (rf) — Another swiftie on bases and one of Sox' top hustlers. Can't hit fastball anymore, but handles curves and changeups well.

These are the men we'll see for the next three days—and maybe in another TV game or two from Chicago!

MY DODGERS ARE CINCH--CAMPANELLA

Roy Campanella, paralyzed Dodger catcher, Saturday boldly predicted his club would defeat the Chicago White Sox and take baseball's world championship.

"I've watched the American League teams play and talked to the players on my New York radio show all season," Campanella said. "And I think my Dodger boys are a cinch. They showed just a flash of what they are capable of doing Friday in the second game."

4 TD PASSES BY TONCIC

Bruins Ambushed by Panther Rally, 25-21

By JEROME HALL

PITTSBURGH—Br'er Bruin was ambushed at Allegheny Pass Saturday, beaten 25-21 by a badgered and berated bunch of Pittsburgh U. Panthers, who staged a whirlwind finish that had the Uclans dizzy watching the pass receivers whiz past.

The howling citizenry here, numbering 30,683, spurred the Pitt players to far, far better things than they have ever done before this season and UCLA was simply overrun by raw enthusiasm in the homeland of world-famed Slippery Rock Normal.

A lad named Ivan Toncic, who rammed the football down the throats of the Bruins in the Coliseum last season, picked himself up off the seat of his pants in the second half and led a fierce aerial onslaught that overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit.

Toncic, so weary at the end he had to be helped off the field, completed the smashing comeback with a pair of long passes that must be called desperation heaves. The capper came just 37 seconds before the final gun.

The Panthers scored two touchdowns in the last three minutes of the game; and three in the final six minutes.

All four Pitt scores came on Toncic passes as he completed 15 of 28—12 of them in the second half. He accounted for 247 yards through the air, and the Pitt offense, which was held to nearly nothing by SC last week (the Trojans won, 23-0) rolled up 384 yards against what had been considered a "typically great UCLA defense."

The first half was controled by UCLA, but after intermission it was all Pittsburgh. The Bruins passed for two scores in the second period and drove 77 yards early in the fourth quarter for a 21-6 lead that appeared completely safe.

The winning drive was a stirring Toncic composition. After he had thrown a 49-yard TD pass to end Mike Ditka with 3:15 left on the clock to close to 18-21, he got the ball back with 1:56 left. The goal line was 64 yards distant.

Wtih a fourth and nine on his own 37, he threw to end Steve Jastrzembski on the UCLA 16 for a gain of 47 yards. There were 49 seconds left. He threw two incomplete passes. On third down he hit Jastrzembski in the open on the goal line with 37 seconds remaining and that was the old ball game.

The Bruins fooled around with their straight single wing through the opening quarter and were forced to punt three times. They opened the second quarter with another punt but then swung into high gear with W formation and sume passes.

The Uclans moved from midfield to the nine on a series of Bill Kilmer completions, but the drive was stopped there. On Pitt's first down, Ivory Jones smashed into Andy Sepsi and Jim Johnson recovered the bounding ball at the 18.

After a gain of two and loss of 10, Kilmer fired a pass up the middle to Marv Luster, who was behind the defender. It was a peculiar play in that Kilmer had to delay it to wave Luster out to his split end spot in the W formation. The play covered 26 yards.

Another Pitt mistake set up UCLA's second touchdown End Trusse Norris intercepted a Toncic pass at the Pitt 40 and returned it to the 33.

On first down wingback Gene Gaines took a reverse and swung wide. Luster broke straight up field. Everybody in the stands saw the play developing except the two Pitt deep men who let Luster run right between them; the pass was perfect. Luster reached high and took it a step behind the goal line.

The Panthers came back from the intermission with a tremendous bounce. They took the second half kickoff 65 yards in 14 plays for a TD.

Toncic mixed his plays well and the middle of the Panther line did a good job on the Bruins. The touchdown came from the nine and it was a perfectly executed play. End Ron Delfine made a diving catch to the outside in the deep corner of the end zone.

How They Scored

SECOND PERIOD

UCLA 7, Pitt 0—Kilmer passed 26 yards to Luster. Drive started on Pitt 19 after fumble recovery. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 8:14.

UCLA 14, Pitt 0—Gaines passed 33 yards to Luster. Drive started on Pitt 33 after pass interception. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 13:21.

THIRD PERIOD

UCLA 14, Pitt 6—Toncic passed nine yards to Delfine. Drive of 65 yards, 14 plays. Conversion—Pass failed. Time: 5:47.

FOURTH PERIOD

UCLA 21, Pitt 6—Ray Smith plunged one yard. Drive 77 yards, 9 plays. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 5:02.

UCLA 21, Pitt 12—Toncic passed 9 yards to Cox. Drive 69 yards, 11 plays. Conversion—Toncic pass incomplete. Time: 9:19.

UCLA 21, Pitt 18—Toncic passed to Ditka 49 yards. Drive 35 yards, 2 plays. Conversion—Pass failed. Time: 11:45.

UCLA 21, Pitt 25—Toncic passed 16 yards to Jastrzembski. Drive 64 yards, 7 plays. Cox kicked PAT. Time: 0:37.

WILL THEY REPEAT THIS PERFORMANCE TODAY?

Walter Alston, Dodger manager, and his baby-faced pitcher, Don Drysdale, were all smiles when this photo was taken on April 23, 1956, the day the then-Brooklyn hurler won his first major league game. Drysdale, 19 then, received a smile and pat on the head from Alston after defeating Philadelphit, 6-1, in his debut. Both Alston and Drysdale hope they'll be able to repeat their smiling performances after today's game, for Drysdale will hurl in the first World Series tilt to be played in the Coliseum.

Chisox Boss Wrong Twice

"This is the only place in the world," observed Bill Veeck Saturday as he surveyed the Coliseum and its surrounding area, "where two circuses are going on at one time. You people in California really know how to do things big."

The ringmaster of the Chisox circus was referring to the Barnum and Bailey extravaganza which was holding forth in the beautiful Sports Arena adjacent to the Coliseum and also to the Dodger-Sox carnival due to take the spotlight this afternoon.

Knowing Veeck's flair for the unusual—he's the chap who hired a three-foot midget to bat for the old St. Louis Browns and also the character who staged a 12-cow milking contest at Chicago's Comiskey Park earlier this season—a person wondered if Veeck might even be contemplating asking Walter O'Malley to bring the circus into the Coliseum as a pre-game attraction today.

BILL VEECK
Circus Starts Today

Veeck won't need a circus today, Monday or Tuesday because the joint's sold out lock, stock and barrel. (The ambitious Dodger ticket people even sold a few hundred of O'Malley's personal ducats while the Dodger boss was in Chicago the past few days!)

"I figured you people would get 75,000 for Sunday's opener," said the world's best-known sportshirt advocate, "but no more than 55,000 for the next two. I guess I guess wrong sometimes."

The Sportshirt guessed wrong earlier this season, too, when he wrote in a national magazine, "I hate to admit this, but we can't beat the Yankees."

Alongside Veeck Saturday was the man who proved his boss a liar, field manager Al Lopez.

"Bill's like Cleveland's Frank Lane," laughed Lopez. "He says things just to hear himself talk."

"A crack like that could cost you your job, senor," snapped Veeck, a well-known hated foe of Frank the Trader. Actually, the only two people in baseball today who might fire a pennant-winning manager would be eccentric Lane or Veeck!

LOPEZ RATED outfielder Jim Landis and pitcher Bob Shaw as the two big reasons the Chisox won the American League pennant.

"Landis gave us our big lift when he developed overnight into a top centerfielder," declared Lopez, "while Shaw was our most pleasant surprise. Landis is the best centerfielder in baseball today—he can run, field and throw, then soon will be a .300 hitter."

Landis is a .300 hitter now, judging from his three-hit performance against the Dodgers Thursday.

"Shaw pitched good ball even though he lost to the Dodgers Friday," continued Lopez. "He gave me the added starter I needed to win the pennant—and I almost considered shipping him to the minors last March. My Lord, if I'd made that decision I'd be watching the series in front of my TV set right now."

I UNDERSTAND Shaw's emergence as one brilliant starter came when he changed this season from a talky, cocky kid to one who now keeps his own counsel. The man who changed Shaw was his roomie, wise old Early Wynn, who told the youngster "to keep your mouth shut or get out of baseball."

Shaw started out with Detroit, which wouldn't have come out so badly giving him up if only it had hung on to the kid it got for him—Tito Francona, Cleveland's sensation this year!

VIGNETTE OF LIFE: A half dozen years ago, when Chico Carrasquel was a natinnal hero in Venezuela, he used to come home from his chores with the White Sox to make appearances at ball parks. Every time he showed up in Maracaibo, a little olive-skinned kid was outside the park with paper and pencil in hand, waiting for Chico's autograph.

The kid? Luis Aparicio, as big now as Chico ever was in Venezuela—and the man who drove Carrasquel off the White Sox!

Illinois Surprises Army 20-14

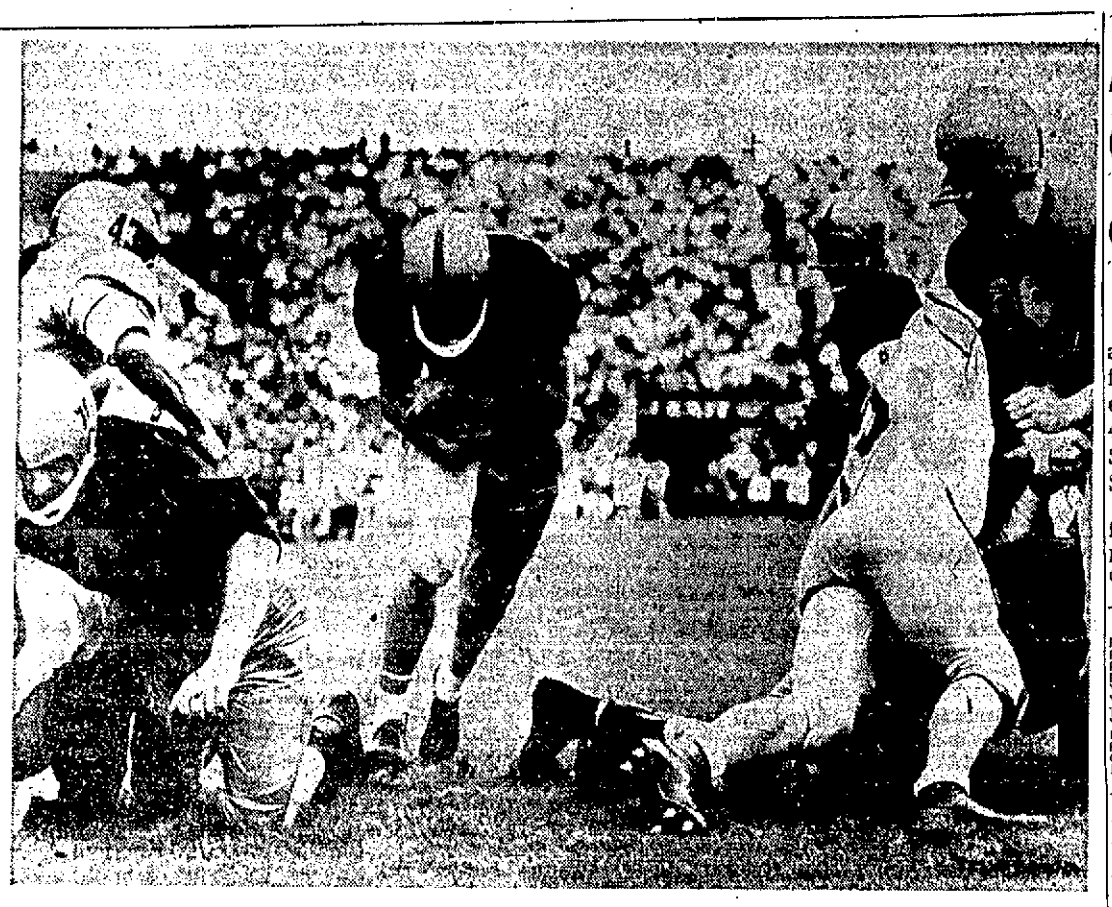

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois came up with its own version of the lonely end formation made famous by Army to upset the fourth-ranked Cadets, 20-14, Saturday before a thundering crowd of 64,891.

	Ill.	Army
First downs	20	10
Rushing yardage	172	32
Passing yardage	129	187
Passes	9-13	17-31
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	3-33.3	3-37.7
Fumbles lost	2	4
Yards penalized	31	41

Illinois surprised Army with its new formation. The Illini would send a right end to the left side of the line, about 10-15 yards wide, thereby leaving the opposite tackle eligible. The lonely end would go deep while the halfback in motion would go about 10 yards past the line of scrimmage and grab the pass.

Army	0	6	0	8	—14

Ill—Counits 41 pass from Meyers (Wood kick).
Ill—Jim Brown 6-inch plunge (Wood kick).
Army—Connors 1 run (Caldwell run failed).
Ill—Bill Brown 1 run (Blackaby run failed).
Army—Usry 21 pass from Caldwell (Usry pass from Caldwell).

Record Crowd on Hand

By JERRY WYNN

Long Beach State missed a big opportunity to win friends and influence sports editors when the fizzling 49ers fell to San Francisco State, 12-0, at Veterans Stadium Saturday night.

Coach Don Reed's force, failing to toss a touchdown punch, gave a school record crowd estimated at 4,500 little to cheer about. The previous record was a 3,100-plus gathering.

	SFSC	LBSC
First downs	15	11
Passes attempted	11	21
Passes completed	5	8
Passes had intercepted	—	3
Yards gained passing	63	109
Yards gained rushing	161	141
Total yards gained	224	250
Yards lost	18	21
Net yards gained	206	229
Fumbles	3	1
Own fumbles recovered	1	0
Penalties (by yards)	39	36

A 49er victory—that looked mighty conceivable at times—would have been a considerable boost to prestige.

* * * *

THE GAME TURNED out as expected. Powerful San Francisco, a two-touchdown favorite, racked up its fourth win without a loss. Long Beach absorbed its second setback against a single win.

The Golden Gators scored in the first and third quarters. A 36-yard pass from quarterback Jim Sochor to end Ford Joy accounted for the first tally with 9:20 gone. Defender Bob Heberer jumped for Joy but missed on the 10-yard line. Bill Breslan's PAT kick was wide.

San Francisco's third quarter TD resulted from a 39-yard drive in six plays following an interception. Charges up the middle by Hank Marshall and Charley Fuller carried to the L.B. 11 from where Marshall caught the 49er defense napping on an end run into the end zone.

* * * *

THE PASS for conversion failed with 8:18 elapsed.

Long Beach's sputtering attack was paced by Roger Hull, who ran 16 times for a 4.3 average. Ron Johnson's passing was always dangerous but only slightly effective. He completed eight of 20 with three interceptions.

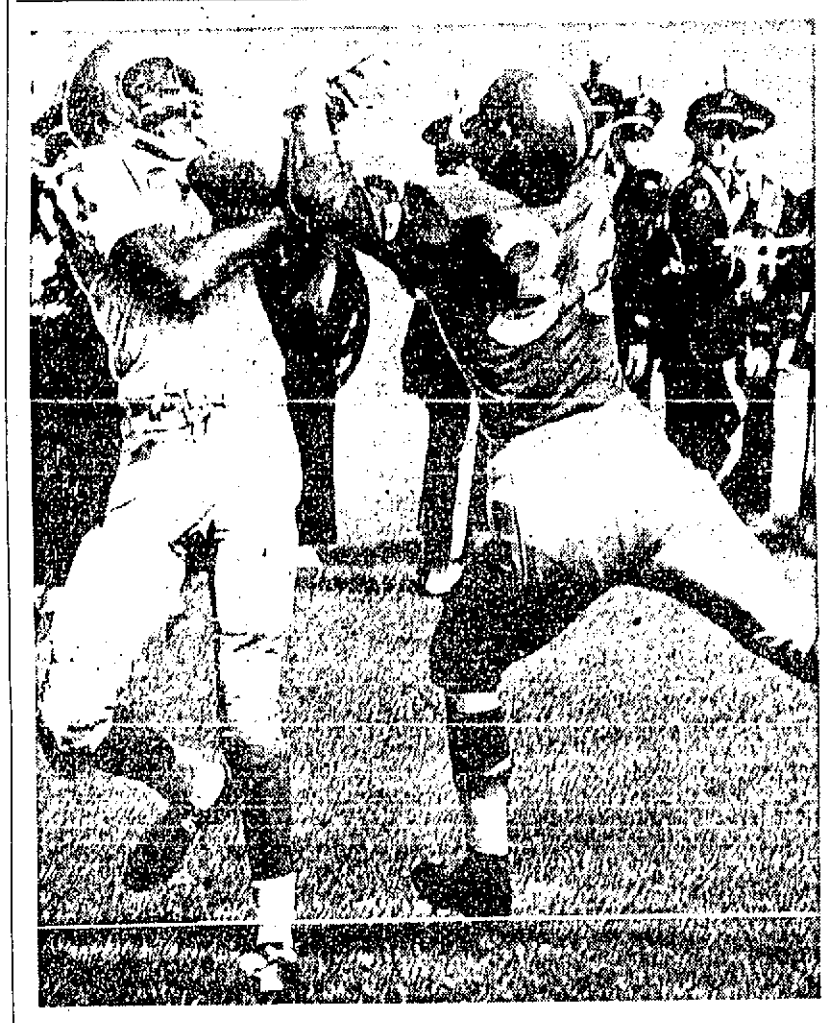

The 49ers put together an 87-yard march in the dying seconds of the first half only to be stopped in the shadow of the goal line. With inches to go on fourth down Johnson was smeared on an attempted keeper.

Long Beach had one earlier drive—sparked by a 21-yard run by Hull—halted on the S.F. 25 and was turned away several times while in enemy territory in the second half.

Texas Posts 3rd Shutout

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The high flying Texas Longhorns shook three backs loose for 40-yard touchdown scampers and used a bristling defense Saturday to make California a third straight shutout victim, 33-0.

Halfback Rene Ramirez, gracefully tailing a bruising interference corps, curved 46 yards for Texas' first score to give 20,000 rain-soaked fans and a national television audience a preview of coming events.

Sprinting sophomore Jack Collins, whose Texas-record 82-yard quick kick led to Texas' second score, spurted 44 yards for one touchdown with three seconds left in the half.

	Texas	Cal.
First downs	20	11
Rushing yardage	395	111
Passing yardage	79	51
Passes	6-15	5-19
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Punts	4-47.5	11-28.3
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	116	72

Two scoring pass plays, one for 19 yards and another for 11 yards, preceded a bulldozing 40-yard rumble by 210-pound Texas fullback Mike Dowdle to cap the scoring.

The out-manned Bears got their best chance to score when a fumble gave them possession on the Texas 17. A stiff defense and two penalties set the Bears back to the Texas 45 before a fourth down punt.

It is the first time since 1933 for a Texas team to hold three opponents scoreless. The victory is Texas' fourth straight shutout over a two-year period.

The bench-loaded Herd came up with another sparkling sophomore in Bart Shirley. The 175-pound Corpus Christi back ran a punt back 45 yards for a score but a clipping penalty nullified it. Two plays later from the 19, Shirley arched a soft pass to end Bob Moses for Texas' second score.

Texas	12	6	14	0	—33

Tex—Ramirez 46 run (Lackey kick).
Tex—Moses 19 pass from Shirley (kick failed).
Tex—Collins 44 run (pass failed).
Tex—Cooper 11 pass from Lackey (pass failed).
Tex—Dowdle 40 run (pool pass from Saxton).

Bass Hot but Tribe Wins 1st

STANFORD (UPI) — Dick Norman, Stanford's passing wizard, got some help from the defense Saturday as he passed for two touchdowns and set up another score through the air in leading the Indians to a 21-6 victory over College of Pacific. It was the Indians' first win of the year.

	Stanford	COP
First downs	17	18
Rushing yardage	150	302
Passing yardage	195	185
Passes	12-21	12-20
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	2-47.0	4-27.5
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	35	64

Only the smashing running of halfback Dick Bass made College of the Pacific any kind of a threat. Bass carried the ball 22 times for 110 yards. Bass carried seven times for 65 yards during the first quarter Tigers' touchdown march. Fullback Henry Wallace plowed over from the one.

Stanford came right back in the second quarter on a Norman-engineered drive. Tricky Dick passed five times, completed every one on an 82 yard march.

When COP started to gamble with five minutes left in the game, Stanford got two quick touchdowns.

Stanford	6	7	0	14	—27
COP	6	0	0	0	— 6

COP—Wallace 1 run (pass failed).
Stan.—McMillan 25 pass from Norman (Face kick).
Stan.—Nikolai 7 pass from Norman (Face kick).
Stan.—Schmitt 4 run (Schmitt kick).

95-Yard Pass Interception Ruins Bluejackets, 20-7

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Tired Tirey Wilemon jolted a desperation Navy race with the clock with a 95-yard pass interception touchdown runback Saturday to give favored Southern Methodist a palpitating 20-7 victory before 46,000.

A rampaging Navy offense twice surged goalward in the final quarter to try and pull off an upset, but a slippery turf and a fumble tripped up one drive on the SMU 22 and Wilemon's breathtaking fourth-down interception on his five-yard line turned the second one short in the last minute.

SMU was never behind after dapper Don Meredith flipped a screen pass to fullback Mike Hackney for a 28-yard scoring play to cap a 67-yard drive from the opening kickoff, but Navy always was close.

DUCKS EDGE WSU IN THRILLER

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's Webfoots grabbed their third straight football victory of the 1959 season Saturday by edging Washington State, 14-6, in a thriller that wasn't decided until the closing moments.

Oregon, hoping for a Rose Bowl bid, hoomed into an early 7-0 lead and then fought off the Cougars most of the afternoon before adding its final score with only 21 seconds to play.

It took two timely pass interceptions and a great goal-line stand to keep Coach Len Casanova's team unbeaten.

Fullback Dave Powell, who racked up 60 yards in 12 carries before he was injured in the first half, smashed over from one yard out early in the second period to climax a 69-yard drive. Roger Daniels kicked the conversion which was to prove all-important.

	Oregon	WSU
First downs	16	15
Rushing yardage	213	86
Passing yardage	59	133
Passes	8-16	13-22
Passes intercepted by	3	3
Punts	5-39.2	3-37
Yards penalized	33	15

For Washington State, halted once on a pass interception by Alden Kimbrough, again on the Oregon nine, and still again on a fourth-down play from the one-foot line, finally pushed over a score early in the final period on a four-yard pass from Mel Melin to Don Johnston.

The Cougars, going all-out to win, sent halfback Keith Lincoln around end on a two-point conversion try, but he was thrown on the two by guard Dave Urell and tackle John Wilcox.

Oregon, with Harry Needham doing a fine job of subbing for Powell and Dave Grosz doing a cool job of quarterbacking, drove 58 yards to score again. Needham made the touchdown from a yard out and Daniels again converted.

UNITAS CONNECTS TOO LATE

Bears Shock Colts, 26-21

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, coupling excellent line play with a brilliant display of scoring versatility, Saturday night survived a dramatic fourth period rally by the Baltimore Colts to record a 26-21 win.

The Bears appeared to anticipate quarterback Johnny Unitas' every move, particularly his passes. Unitas was forced to eat the ball time and again by the surging Bear line and the Bears led, 26-0, after three periods.

But the Colts, NFL defending champions, picked themselves up from the turf and Unitas threw three touchdown passes in the final quarter to give the Bears a real scare. One Unitas touchdown of seven yards went to end Ray Berry. The other two, for four and 14 yards, were caught by end Jim Mutscheller.

	Colts	Bears
First downs	19	13
Rushing yardage	74	110
Passing yardage	183	155
Passes	17-38	12-25
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Punts	5-33	6-45
Fumbles lost	0	2
Yards penalized	40	65

The Bears opened the scoring at 10:10 of the first period when half-back Richie Pettibone intercepted a Unitas pass on the Colt 37 and rushed for a touchdown. End John Aveni's conversion attempt was wide.

Little more than a minute later, Aveni kicked a field goal from the 33 to push the Bears ahead, 9-0.

Chicago continued to outplay the Colts in the second quarter. Fullback Rick Casares scored on a one-yard plunge after the Bears moved to the Colt goal line on a series of runs by Willie Galimore. With only seconds left to the half, quarterback Ed Brown hit end Harlon Hill with a 35-yard touchdown pass.

Aveni contributed another field goal, that one from 42 yards, late in the third period to end the Bears' scoring.

Chicago Bears	9	14	3	0—26
Baltimore	0	0	0	21—21

Bears: TDs—Pellibone (24-yard intercepted pass), Casares, (one, plunge), Hill (34-yard pass from Brown). PAT—Aveni 2. FG—Aveni 2 (33, 42).
Colts: TDs—Berry (seven yard pass from Unitas), Mutscheller 2 (four-yard pass from Unitas, 14-yard pass from Unitas). PAT—Myhra.

SAN FRANCISCO — If the Rams have hopes of avoiding quick elimination in the 1959 National Football League title chase, they had best get the show on the road.

And that's just what they plan to do here today.

Favored by five points, but minus their leading man and several important character actors, Southern California's NFL entry opens a three-game road trip against the San Francisco 49ers.

Today's first installment (at 1:30 p.m.) on the three-part television show will be followed by Sunday spectaculars against the Bears and Packers, originating from Chicago (Oct. 11) and Milwaukee (Oct. 18).

* * * *

THE TV SERIES was made all the more important because the Rams laid an egg in their debut against the New York Giants last Saturday night. Another flop today would be near disastrous in view of the coming attractions in the Midwest.

And all signs here indicate the Rams are going to have a difficult time making the point spread stick.

The Rams trounced San Francisco, 48-14, in an exhibition game three weeks ago. Last year the 49ers were humiliated in two league games.

But since the exhibition massacre, the 49ers have been on the upgrade and the Rams have suffered more surprising setbacks and injuries than an anti-Palermo fight manager.

TODAY, FRANK RYAN will open at quarterback in place of Bill Wade, whose injured knee will permit ony limited action. Also listed as "doubtful" are Jon Arnett and the defensive safety pair of Don Burroughs and Will Sherman.

Ram hopes rest in Ryan, and the sophomore pro from Rice has shown signs this year of being ready for the challenge.

"I'll be nervous out there at first, but I am sure I can do the job," said the QB with the high IQ Saturday after the Rams plane landed here at 4 p.m.

"My big problem," Frank admits, "will be in trying not to run off with that ball when the primary (pass) receiver is covered. I've got to remember to look for the secondary receiver."

The 49ers came to life with a bang last week as they whipped the Eagles in their league opener.

LOU MICHAELS . . . Demon on Defense

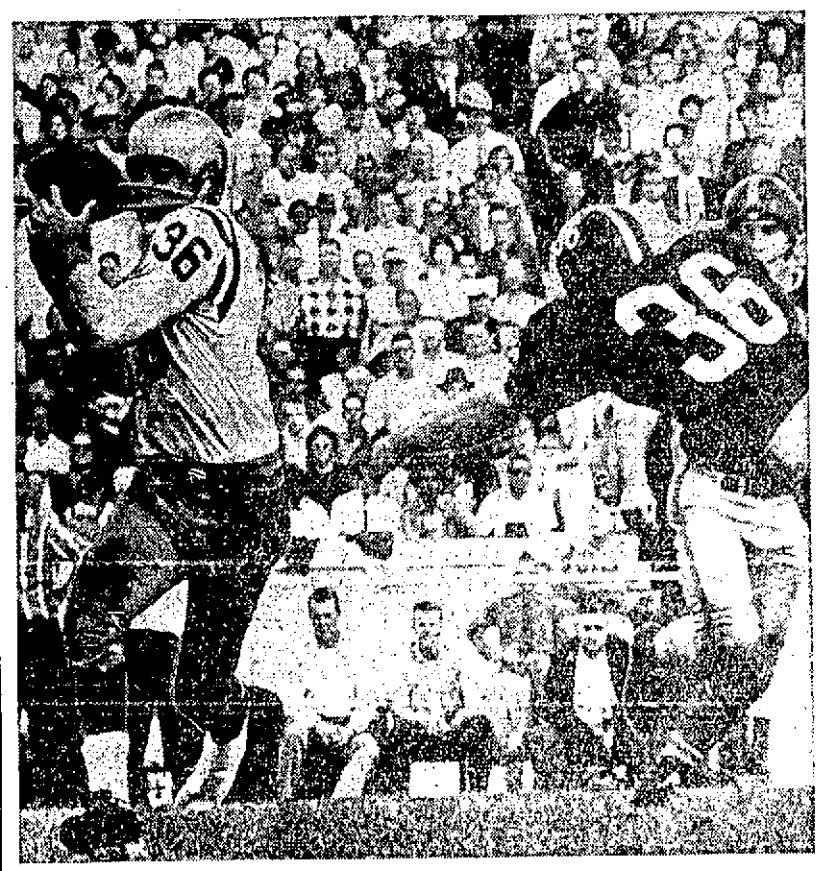

EAGLES EYE REPEAT OF '58 UPSET VS. GIANTS

NEW YORK—The National Football League's Eastern Division champion, is a six-point choice to defeat the Eagles today at Philadelphia, but don't bet too heavily on the Giants. This is the kind of game they often lose.

Sunday's situation matches last year's when New York invaded Philadelphia after thumping the Chicago Cardinals in their opener, 37-7. The Giants were favored to give the underdog Eagles the same treatment but lost, 27-24—one of two victories produced by Philadelphia in 1958.

In other games, the Steelers are favored over the Washington Redskins by 7½ points at Pittsburgh; the Cardinals are picked over the Cleveland Browns by 2½ at Chicago; and the Packers are slim, one-point choices against the Detroit Lions at Green Bay.

Pittsburgh, with quarterback Bobby Layne taking a hand in all the club's scoring, upset Cleveland in its opener, 17-7. The Steelers face a Washington club that took a tongue-lashing from Coach Mike Nixon after it took a 49-21 whipping from the Cardinals last Sunday.

Bob Kelley Says---

Hayes a Real Eccentric

SAN FRANCISCO—Pro football has completely spoiled me. Watching a portion of the Cal-Texas game on television, I was squirming around and having a tough time keeping my eyes on the picture. Yet this is far more exciting football than the kind which used to keep me taut and tense as a youngster.

By contrast with the pros, though, it is simply no show. Poor Cal was just not fast enough for the Texans. They tried like the dickens, but lacked speed and agility. It was almost embarrassing to watch.

HAMP POOL
Was Always Polite

Friday night, I found the Trojan-Ohio State game far more enjoyable. Not that it was exciting, but I had a rooting interest in seeing Don Clark finally come up with a good club. Nice to see the Trojans lick a Big Ten club at its own game, too—out-roughing the Buckeyes in the line.

When Woody Hayes threw that alleged punch at the sportswriter, he sure blew up my theory about Big Ten teams not caring about losing intersectionals. Woodrow seemed to care quite a bit.

I always felt Hayes was given an uncalled-for-bad time by the Southern California press. Sure, he's sort of an odd duck. But is he a villain simply because he doesn't want to spend three hours a day patting guys like Hollingworth on the head, ala Duffy Daugherty?

TO BECOME A "BAD MAN" all you have to do is snub the sportswriters. After that, you're a bum coach, and a bum—period. If you give them the peaches and cream treatment like Daugherty, however, you're the greatest coach in the world.

That's where a man like Frank Leahy was always smart. Frank may not have believed a thing he told the writers, but he always made them feel like big shots. Let's face it, we all like that.

Of course, Hayes was certainly out of line in the punching incident . . . he missed. He ought to take a lesson from Harvey Knox, who was right on target the night he belted the writer in Aragon's dressing room.

I believe Harve really fell for the publicity buildup. He was holding court in the dressing room like he really was Aragon's manager.

Being serious about the Hayes incident, however, there is no excuse for a man tossing a punch like he did. It's childish, and a great example for the players who are supposed to look up to him.

THE WRITERS WERE DOING their job, and it is part of a coach's job to bear with them after a game, win or lose. I have seen Hamp Pool in the Ram dressing room after a particularly bitter defeat, being asked absurd questions that even a five-year old kid wouldn't ask.

Biting his lip, Pool would smile patiently and answer them anyway. That's part of the game.

Of course, Hayes has always been a little eccentric. The sight of him lumbering onto the field with his team, decked out in cleats and a baseball cap, has long amused me.

Woody had better keep his fingers crossed and hope the scribe he finally belted doesn't get in the hands of an ambulance-chasing lawyer. The writer has already set the stage for a suit by declaring he might have suffered a back injury.

But what am I worrying about Hayes' problems for? I'm as nervous as Gillman this morning. With all the injuries, I keep seeing the picture of Y. A. Tittle riddling the Rams' secondary today. Wonder if Elroy Hirsch wants to play defense today?

Boilermakers Rock Fightin' Irish, 28-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's football team, always at its best against Notre Dame, hammered the Irish Saturday for the fourth time in six years, 28-7.

Bob Jarus, Purdue's bulldozer fullback, scored two of the touchdowns that gave the Boilermakers a 21-0 lead at the half.

On the fine passing and running of quarterback Don White, Notre Dame looked like it might come back in the second half—but Purdue's little Jim Tiller broke away on a 74-yard scoring run that broke the Irish back.

Yards penalized	36	10

It was the first defeat for Notre Dame under new coach Joe Kuharich, whose sophomore-sprinkled squad beat North Carolina last week, 28-8.

Quarterback Ross Fichtner's brilliant running on the option set up the first Purdue score. He suffered a severely bruised shoulder early in the third quarter, but Bernie Allen took over efficiently. Allen also kicked the four extra points.

Fichtner's runs of 25 and 16 yards set up a Jarus touchdown plunge from the 5, just 10 plays after Purdue took the opening kickoff. Purdue poured on two more touchdowns in the second quarter on Fichtner's 6-yard pass to end Dick Brooks and a short plunge by Jarus.

Notre Dame's fullback, Jim Crotty, scored from the Purdue 3 early in the third quarter.

Just as Irish fans were perking up, Allen intercepted a White pass on the Purdue 13. A couple of plays later, Tiller took off and outran a half dozen Notre Dame tacklers in his 74-yard jaunt.

Ramona Topples Lakewood, 20-0

George Tavaglione returned a punt 75 yards in the first minutes of play and Ramona High of Riverside went on to add two more touchdowns throughout, scoring in each of the first three quarters and missing on a long TD drive in the final period.

Quarterback Tom Zachary passed 35 yards for Ramona's second score and carried over from three yards out for the Saturday night and blank Lakewood, 20-0.

Oregon St. Two-Pointer Fails, 7-6

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—An extra point kicked by sophomore Ron Meade squeezed Nebraska past Oregon State's Beavers, 7-6, Saturday before a sun-washed crowd of 28,000.

The Huskers kept the pressure on Oregon State throughout most of the game in picking up their second victory in three outings. They turned a recovered fumble into their only touchdown and halted other Beaver drives with two pass interceptions and another fumble recovery.

Oregon State scored midway in the third quarter on a seven-yard pass from Earl Harbin to Jerry Doman, climaxing an 88-yard drive. A run for the extra point failed.

Michigan State Routs Hapless Wolverines, 34-8

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State struck for four quick touchdowns Saturday and coasted to a 34-8 victory over hopeless Michigan before a sellout crowd of 101,001.

The Spartans, who were a bitter disappointment last year and in their season opener a week ago, failed to score on their first series of downs but punched across touchdowns the next four times they got the ball.

Three of Michigan State's touchdowns came on short smashes by Herb Adderley, Blanche Martin and Dean Look. Another was on a 94-yard sprint by Bob Suci after he intercepted a Noskin pass and the final Spartan score was picked up by Don Stewart on a 25-yard pass-run from Look.

Frantic NL Flag Race Kept TV Networks 'On The Go'

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP) — The frenzy of the National League pennant race was only the beginning. Until it ended in the anticipated tie, not a move could be made to bring the playoff games to millions of baseball fans across the country.

How it was done, and how quickly the TV people went into action, is a story as intense as the games themselves.

It all started the last Friday night of the regular season, the night Milwaukee lost to Philadelphia and the Dodgers went one game up on the defending champions.

Representatives of the three television networks—ABC, NBC and CBS—began tentative negotiations with Dodger president Walter O'Malley and Milwaukee president Joseph Cairnes.

At the time, O'Malley thought the Dodgers would be able to schedule the second playoff game for Tuesday night in Los Angeles, and it was on this basis that the networks made their proposals.

NBC, the network that has the contract for the All-Star and World Series games, said it would televise the first and third (daylight) games, but not the Tuesday night game. CBS made the same proposal. Their feeling apparently was that a night game in Los Angeles would cause too much re-programming of regular shows.

But ABC made the flat commitment that it would televise all three games at any time, regardless of previous program commitments.

Then Sunday, when the pennant race ended in a tie and NL president Warren Giles ruled that all games be played in daylight, ABC was awarded the radio and TV rights by the Dodgers and Braves on the basis that it had presented the most accommodating original proposal.

So ABC had the playoff for a reported $125,000 per game. All the network had to do was clear air time, sign up stations, arrange for announcers and most important, from a network viewpoint, enlist sponsors.

Time for the first playoff in Milwaukee was 3:30 p. m. (EDT). At 9:30 a. m. (EDT) in New York, ABC began arranging for the stations and sponsors. And in less than four hours, 151 TV stations had agreed to air the game and all time on both radio and TV had been completely sold out.

Before that, announcers had been routed out of bed during the night and asked to fly to Milwaukee. And the camera crew of WISN-TV, the ABC affiliate in Milwaukee, showed up at County Stadium at 7 a. m. to set up the operation.

These camera hands—12 of them handled six cameras—had televised the Braves-Phillies Saturday game back to Philadelphia, then worked a Marquette football game in the rain Saturday night and did the Braves-Phillies for Philadelphia again on Sunday. It was amazing that they were able to do the job they did, considering all the circumstances.

Neither Milwaukee nor Los Angeles televise regular season home games. Hence, the playoff games were the first (other than World Series or All-Star Games) ever televised for home fans or the cities in which they were being played.

SOPHOMORES SPARKLE

Georgia Tech Holds Back Clemson, 16-6

ATLANTA (AP)—Clemson's Bill Mathis startled Georgia Tech with a 99-yard touchdown dash, but the Yellow Jackets rode superior speed and gritty defense to a 16-6 football victory Saturday.

The loss was the first of the season for Clemson, which entered the game ranked sixth nationally. Tech, rated No. 7, is undefeated in three outings.

Two sophomore halfbacks, Johnny Welch and Bobby Gene Harris, were key men in Tech's offense, expected to suffer from the loss of their regular halfbacks to injuries.

Harris got Tech's first touchdown march going with a 21-yard sprint to Clemson's 26, but on the next play was hurt and left the game. Quarterback Fred Braselton kept the march going with some short passes and scored himself on a sneak.

Welch got into the game later and scored Tech's second touchdown on his first run as a varsity player.

Woody Hayes — A Charming, Nasty Man

Lovable Woody Hayes has done it again! The fiery, frank-speaking, ill-tempered Ohio State coach flipped his lid once again Friday night after his Buckeyes were slaughtered by the Trojans, 17-0.

But he flips it so often that he's installed hinges to save wear and tear.

The score may not indicate it, but the Buckeyes were really cut up and the use of the word "slaughtered" is entirely correct. It's been a long time since an Ohio State team has been outgained by a margin of 467 yards to 143.

WOODY HAYES
What a Temper!

It was obvious that Hayes was working up a king-sized mad as he stalked the sidelines during the second half.

The boiling point was reached as his men trooped into the dressing room after the game . . . and exploded when Woody saw a couple of reporters lurking near the door to the Buckeye quarters.

He screamed for them to go away, although they were in the foyer of the dressing quarters—an area over which Woody has no jurisdiction. They turned and started to walk away, though . . . but not fast enough to suit Hayes.

So, he took a swing at a scribe from the Examiner, missed, but hit a representative of a Pasadena paper in the back, then grabbed the latter and pushed him into a wall.

Woody then wheeled and roared into the dressing room and locked the door for a half-hour.

WHEN HE CAME OUT, WOODY was as charming as he was nasty a few minutes earlier. In fact, his remarks to the press were a little longer than usual, but at no time did he apologize for his actions.

He hates the L. A. press, anyway. This feeling dates back to the 1955 Rose Bowl game in which he beat SC, 20-7, in a terrific downpour.

Making matters worse, the Trojan band performed during the half and turned a field that was in fair condition into a quagmire. Woody blew his top over this . . . and was justified. But this criticism coupled with statements that the Trojans of that season would have been "murdered" in the Big Ten didn't set very well with members of the Southland press.

Hayes was worked over pretty good, even though he was right on both counts. It wasn't what he said, but how he said it. His timing also was very poor.

Woody has always possessed the faculty of insulting someone. When he can rile people when he wins . . . you can imagine what he's like when he loses. Paul Brown and Buddy Parker, the notorious bad losers in pro football, are men of peace compared to the volatile Hayes.

WE HAD A BRIEF RUN-IN WITH WOODY ourselves three years ago when we dropped by the Ohio State campus to see him one afternoon during practice. He was still nursing a grudge against the California press and he was belligerent for awhile, but finally calmed down and said more than enough to make what we felt was a terrific column.

At the time, school officials were busy trying to soothe feelings Woody had ruffled with a few exceptionally frank statements to a downtown businessmen's group in Columbus.

It seems that a couple of such "incidents" a month is merely considered par for the course where Woody is concerened.

However, Hayes is one of the truly great football coaches in the country. He was coach of the year in '57 and runner-up to UCLA's Red Sanders in '54. In eight years at Ohio State, he's won two national championships, three undisputed Big Ten titles, and set an all-time conference record with 17 consecutive Big Ten victories from 1954 through '56.

Friday night marked Woody's fourth trip to Southern California and his first defeat. The other three trips were to the Rose Bowl where he disposed of Oregon, 10-7, in '58; SC in '55, and California, 17-14, in 1950.

ONCE HE COOLED DOWN FRIDAY night, he had nothing but praise for SC. "You fellows can be mighty proud of your team. We knew the Trojans were strong and expected a rough evening. SC is by far the best club any of my teams have played on the Coast. This is a team that would do real good in the Big Ten.

"SC didn't have the depth of this team when we met the Trojans in the Rose Bowl. I said then that they wouldn't do very well in the Big Ten because of a weak defense . . . but this club is terrific on defense. In fact, only weakness I could see was the lack of a breakaway runner. They had men out in the open quite a few times, but couldn't go all the way.

"As a member of the rating board of one of the national polls, I personally rated the Trojans higher than the sixth place they were given last week. I think my judgment has been proven beyond any doubt.

"Meanwhile, we're trying to jell, but SC was too good to let us. But we'll make this Ohio State club produce one way or another. We'll be hard at it next week."

Knowing Woody, we can only add "amen" to that!

Wildcats Nudge Iowa, 14-10

Interception Kills Hawks

IOWA CITY (UPI)—Northwestern lost quarterback Dick Thornton on the opening kickoff Saturday and then overcame a 10-point advantage spotted Iowa on Wildcat errors to win, 14-10, on a 42-yard return of an intercepted pass by Ray Purdin with less than six minutes to play.

The Wildcats even turned down three points on a successful field goal attempt by Mike Stock in the second period.

Thornton, who with halfback Ron Burton has been the star of the Wildcat offense, caught a short kickoff to open the game, and after returning it 25 yards, suffered a fracture in his ankle when tackled. He probably will miss the rest of the season.

	Northw.	Iowa
First downs	11	15
Rushing yardage	59	225
Passing yardage	221	62
Passes	11-23	8-23
Passes intercepted by	3	2
Punts	4-27	4-40
Fumbles lost	2	0
Yards penalized	52	70

That left the signal calling to Chip Holcomb and John Talley.

The Wildcats, though, got unexpectedly good passing from Holcomb and Talley, and the latter connected to Purdin on one pitch for 74 yards for a school record. Purdin was tackled on the Iowa six, and then began a series that led to Northwestern's spurning three points.

The penalty cost Northwestern five yards, but Talley passed to Purdin to put the ball on the three with fourth down. Stock's field goal attempt was perfect, but Iowa was penalized for roughing the kicker, and Northwestern took the penalty, putting the ball on the one-and-one-half.

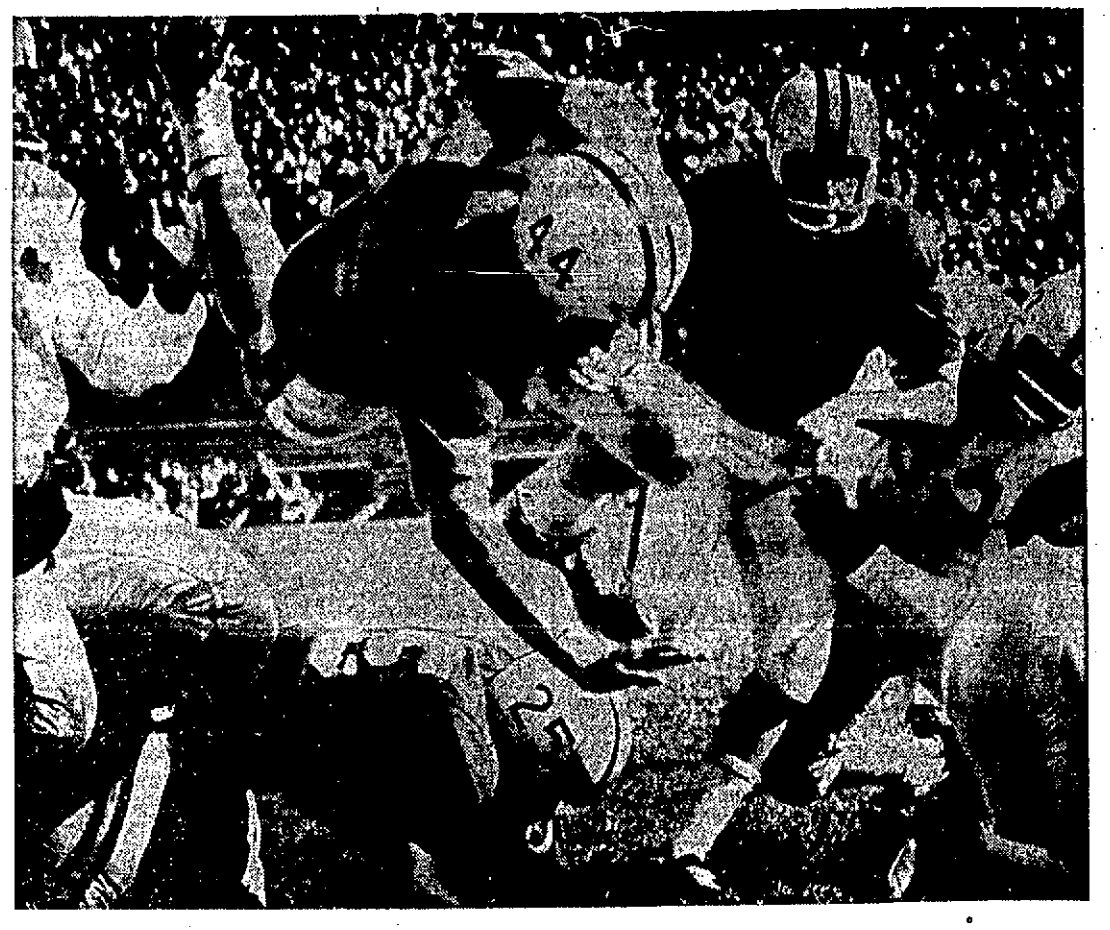

Talley tried a wide pitchout to Purdin for a touchdown, and his toss was so high it would have gone into the stands except for Purdin's long arms. John Brown recovered for Iowa.

Then the Wildcats gave away a touchdown as Purdin fumbled on his own 49 and Don Norton hauled in the ball in midair and scampered 47 yards to score. Ray Jauch then intercepted a Holcomb pass and, after Wilburn Hollis ran 27 yards to the Northwestern three, Tom Moore booted a field goal for a 10-0 edge.

All these points came in the third period and the Wildcats, ranked second nationally with Iowa third going into the game, came back.

Holcomb sparked a 68-yard parade, completing three straight passes for 29 yards including a seven-yard scoring toss to Burton.

Northwestern 0 0 7 7—14
Iowa 0 0 10 0—10
Iowa—Norton 47 fumble return (Moore kick).
Iowa—Moore field goal 19.
NU—Burton 7 pass from Holcomb (Stock kick).

Duke Rips Rice, 24-7

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Twice-beaten Duke turned two recovered fumbles and an intercepted pass into touchdowns behind the running of halfback Joe Arrington Saturday to defeat Rice, 24-7.

A crowd of 21,000 saw Duke strike quickly for two second period touchdowns, add another in the fourth quarter and a 19-yard field goal in the closing minutes by fullback Jack Bush.

Rice scored in the third period when fullback Roland Jackson went over from the one. Quarterback Jon Schnable set it up with a 49-yard run to Duke's seven.

Wisconsin Romps, 44-6

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin's football Badgers tuned up for the rugged Big Ten schedule by trampling their "cousins" from Marquette for the 16th straight year, 44-6, Saturday as Dale Hackbart and Billy Hobbs each contributed a pair of touchdowns.

DON HORNS IN TO BREAK UP PASS

Iowa's Don Horn (black jersey at left) knocked Northwestern pass intended for Elbert Kimbrough high into air and then caught it to stop Wildcat drive. Also defending for Iowa are John Brown (43) and Bill Lapham (52) while Northwestern's Ron Burton (22) rushes to scene.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Sooners Crush Buffaloes, 42-12

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma's Sooners blended near-perfect passing with a strong running game and routed the Colorado Buffaloes, 42-12, in a Big Eight Conference football opener at Owen Field Saturday.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners now have gone through 72 conference games without a defeat. It was their 70th victory with only two ties included in the winning streak.

Fumbles lost	3	1
Yards penalized	15	70

With its hefty, aggressive line holding Indiana to two first downs through the first three quarters, the Gophers turned loose their splashiest offensive show in years to win their Big Ten inaugural before a crowd of 52,927 at sunlit Memorial Stadium.

Not until the Gophers rolled up a 24-0 lead did Indiana offer anything approaching the class it displayed in whipping Illinois by three touchdowns a week ago.

Ryan, 49ers, CC Record Wins in Cross Country

Long Beach State College scored a near-sweep in winning its division of the second annual Long Beach Invitational cross country run Saturday on the 49er course.

Tom Ryan paced the 49ers with a new record of 17:16.0 over the 3.5 mile course. His teammates insured the win by taking the third through seventh places.

Long Beach City College won the junior college and college junior varsity division by edging the State JV 36-39.

Small School Junior Varsity—Jim Conley (Santa Ana Valley), George Aguirre (Santa Ana Valley), John Brady (La Habra), 8:50. Team standings: La Habra 44, Aviation 54, Artesia 74.
Small School Varsity—Gene Gumule (Artesia), Kerry Vaughn (Rancho Alamitos), Bruce Bess (La Habra), 8:04 (course record). Team standings: Aviation 46, Artesia 81, Huntington Beach 115.
Large School Junior Varsity—Steve Colegrove (Bellflower), Len Medlros (Mira Costa), Steve Rogers (Bellflower), 8:51. Team standings: Mira Costa 28, Bellflower 30, Mitlikan 110.
Large School Varsity—Dan Murphy (Mira Costa), Richard Fernandez (Mira Costa), Don Davis (Bellflower), 8:12. Team standings: Mira Costa 20, Bellflower 47, Mitlikan 109.
Junior College and College Junior Varsity—Leroy Neal (Fullerton), Roy Swelt (LBCC), Jon Rexroat (LBSC JV), 18:00. Team standings: LBCC 36, LBSC JV 39.

LSU Powerhouse Rolls Roughshod Over Baylor

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI)—Louisiana State clubbed Baylor's befuddled Bears with an early scoring burst Saturday and then made it stick through a scoreless second half for a 22-0 victory.

Coach Paul Dietzel's "white" team showed 35,000 fans why LSU is rated tops in the nation in the first three minutes. Quarterback Warren Rabb hit fullback Donnie Dayo with an eight-yard touchdown pass to climax a six-play, 76-yard drive.

With the second period only minutes old, all-America halfback Billy Cannon intercepted a pass by Baylor quarterback Ronnie Stanley on the 50 and raced to a touchdown behind Max Fugler's key block. Wendell Harris' extra point kick was good.

Sophomore Harris accounted for the next score with a 26-yard field goal. Baylor forced the kick with a stubborn defense that stopped an LSU march on the 10. It was Harris' third successive field goal.

LSU's "go" team collected the final score. With three minutes to go in the first half, quarterback Durel Matherne hit end Don Norwood with a five-yard touchdown toss. The touchdown was set up by a fumble recovery on Baylor's 37.

Cannon led the Tigers with 73 yards in eight carries for 9.1 average. Harris was second with 37 yards in seven carries.

LSU completely dominated the first half. Baylor did not get into Tiger territory until seconds were left in the second period.

	LSU	Baylor
First downs	16	8
Rushing yardage	228	79
Passing yardage	79	79
Passes	7-20	12-25
Passes intercepted by	2	3
Punts	6-36	10-34
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	83	45

The Texas club's only first half offensive show came after Bear halfback Tommy Minter intercepted a Rabb pass late in the second quarter. He was tackled on the Baylor 22 and the Bears started a 44-yard drive ended by the intermission gun.

LSU—Day 8 pass from Rabb (kick failed).
LSU—Cannon 50 pass interception (Harris kick).
LSU—FG Harris 26.
LSU—Norwood 5 pass from Matherne (pass failed).

Twentyone Guns Equals Mark as Pomona Closes

POMONA — Twentyone Guns added another to his list of stakes events Saturday afternoon, when he shot down the top money of $12,000 in the $20,000-added Pomona Handicap. The race climaxed the 14-day race meeting at the Los Angeles County Fair and was definitely the highlight of the season as Twentyone Guns stepped the mile and one-eighth in 1:50 3/5 to tie the track record and establish himself as the best horse ever to grace this half-mile oval.

Ridden by Mitchell Shirota, Twentyone Guns returned $7.20, $3.80 and $2.60 to many of the getaway crowd of 20,591. Count Arrow paid $2.80 and $2.60 and Infantry paid $2.60 to show.

Total attendance for the meet was 156,135, an average of 11,153. Total mutual was $9,885,917 for an average of $706,137. Robert Mundorf took top riding honors with 17 winners. Shirota had 13.

Sophomore QB Leads Syracuse Over Terps, 29-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Syracuse dotted Maryland's "T" formation Saturday with a barrage of touchdowns that brought a second victory to the ambitious Orange eleven, 29-0. It was the second loss in a row for the Atlantic coast team after an opening victory.

Syracuse, rated one of the East's best in pre-season calculations if a quarterback could be found, saw sophomore David Sarette guide the Orangemen with the poise of a veteran for a second Saturday.

The 19-year-old turned the ground gaining over to Ernie Davis and Gerhard Schwedes, German-born halfback. Two tackles also broke into the scoring.

Arkansas Spills Horned Frogs on 28-Yd. Field Goal

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas beat Texas Christian, 3-0, in a steady rain Saturday on a 28-yard field goal by Freddy Akers.

The hard-running of halfback Darrell Williams set the Razorbacks up for the only score of this dripping wet Southwest Conference football game with a 23-yard run after Arkansas took over on the Texas' 40 when Leslie Letsinger recovered a fumble in the second period.

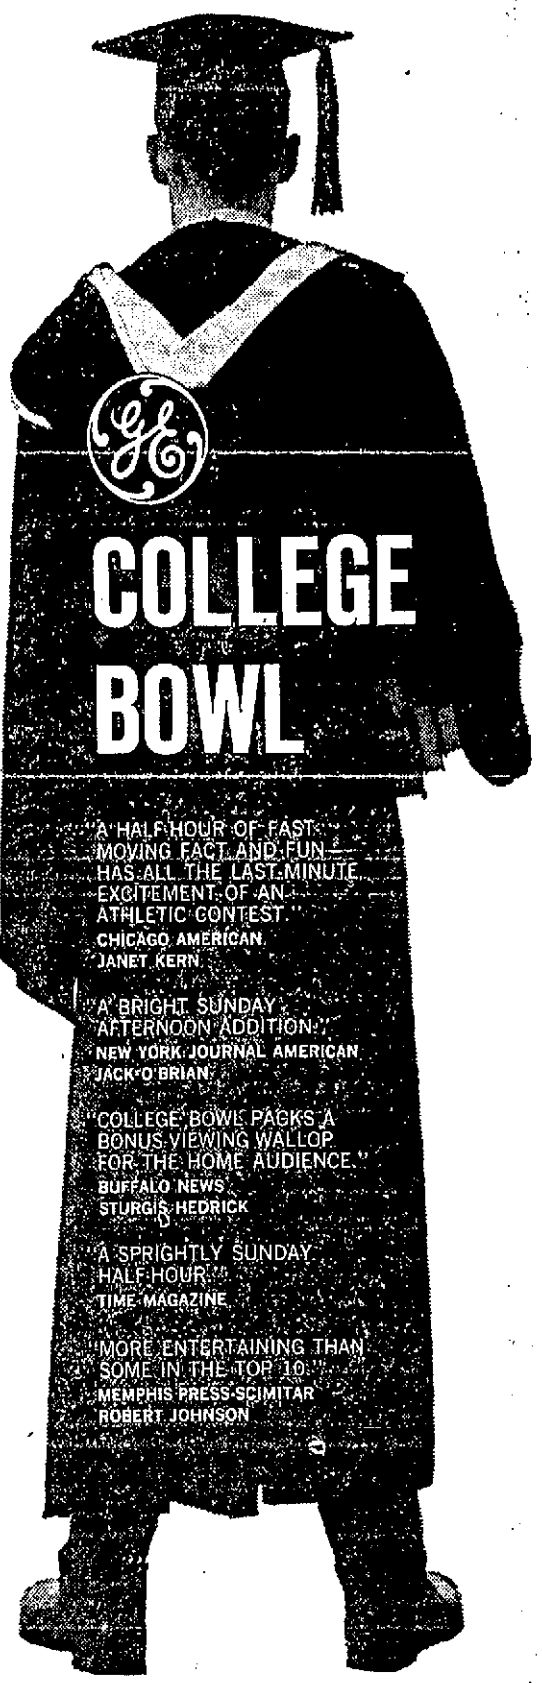

Texas Christian was late and short with its most potent scoring bid. Midway of the final quarter TCU picked up three first downs in a row, mostly by Harry Moreland and Larry Terrell.

The Frogs had a first down on the Razorbacks' 23, but Porker center Wayne Harris intercepted quarterback Donald George's pass on the 14 to end the threat.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Wednesday marks the start of the migratory waterfowl hunting season, which may prove to be one of the most controversial periods ever set for the shooting of ducks and geese. Already, in fact, some hunters have virtually blown the tops of their heads over the 5-and-10 limit.

And, as usual, the Fish and Game Commission, which is forced to set seasons and limits within the federal framework, has been caught in the middle and blamed for everything.

For once, let's get the commissioners off the hook and give them a pat on the back for doing the best they possibly could under the circumstances.

As all hunters should know, the Fish and Wildlife Service, a branch of the U. S. Department of Interior, sets the general season and gives state fish and game bodies a choice to suit their own individual needs.

In the case of California, there was a choice of taking six birds a day and six in possession, OR five birds a day and 10 in possession. The F&GC chose the latter, feeling that it would be fairer to the hunters, but knowing also that the Department of Fish and Game would have one hectic time trying to enforce such a limit.

WE ALSO KNOW that the duck population is down. Only the elements, mostly the drought, can be blamed for that. The flights will be off in eastern and midwestern flyways from 25 to 35 per cent, with certain species down farther than that. However, Californians argue that there will be as many birds on the Pacific flyway as ever. That remains to be seen. Preliminary surveys do not indicate such a rosy picture. Tule Lake is down 35 per cent, and there are few birds in Southern California.

Even should the Pacific flights be near normal, the F&WS was under pressure from all other sections to keep the limits more or less in line throughout the nation.

That 5-and-10 regulation isn't nearly as tough as the new law which prohibits shooting before sunrise. Prior to this year, hunters were able to start hunting at one-half hour before sunrise and that often meant the difference between a limit and an empty bag.

THERE WAS NO CHOICE for California's commissioners on that one. They had to go along with the federal plan. And this writer predicts that it will do more to cut down the duck kill than any other measure.

Also the noon time on opening day will favor the birds.

Hunters should know that the California commissioners protested the shorter time, the shorter limits and the elimination of the three bonus birds such as we had last year. That bonus-bird plan is particularly important to California because it means: (1) A shorter bag to take home, and (2) Farmers are going to suffer crop depredations before the season ends Jan. 8.

Other states have joined the California protest, but no action is expected from the F&WS. When that bureau sets up its duck-shooting regulations, it makes them stick.

SO THE SEASON begins Wednesday and duck hunters have a law that they'll have to live with.

Whatever you do, don't blame Ducks Unlimited for any part of the strange proceedings. If you didn't have DU, you probably wouldn't even have a season. And, if you are smart, you'll keep up your DU contributions and memberships.

And, when you start feeling sorry for yourself while sitting in a blind, remember that the drought took its toll everywhere this year. Even Saskatchewan, one of DU's great duck factories, cut the limit from 12 to 7 per day and reduced the number of shooting days and hours.

Regulations may be obtained from any license agent. You'll find correct shooting hours for each day of the season, area by area, statewide. You certainly should study those regulations before shouldering a gun and marching to the marshes.

WORLD SERIES—

Dodgers' brain trust finally was able to detect Drysdale's puzzling ailment. Campanis clipped a picture from a Chicago paper Friday and discovered that Drysdale was locking his hips on the follow-through.

"That's something we couldn't see from the sidelines," said pitching coach Joe Becker. "This picture was taken from behind the plate. I believe it helped to straighten him out."

Donovan, who won nine and lost 10, is a "stuff" pitcher who relies mainly on a sinker and slider. He had only a 5-5 record in July, then missed a month because of a pulled muscle in his right shoulder.

He did not regain his top form until the last two weeks of the season, then finished with five shutout innings against Detroit.

Alston's choice for Monday's fourth game is Roger Craig, the first game loser. White Sox manager Al Lopez was undecided between Wynn and southpaw Billy Pierce.

Alston made one lineup change after Saturday's workout. He elevated Gil Hodges to the No. 5 position in the batting order, dropping Norm Larker a notch.

Lopez added righthander Bubba Phillips at third base, hoping he could pop a few against or over the screen.

The weather forecast is for sunny with a high of 83 degrees.

LONG BEACH SOCCER CLUB PLAYS TODAY

Long Beach Soccer Club opens its new Olympic League season at 2:45 p.m. today against the Glendale Russ at Pan-American Park.

In the first game of a doubleheader, Lynwood-Downey Dons will meet Montebello at 12:30.

Herb Rogers' Long Beach club wound up pre-season play with a 3-1 record.

Crack Pros to Tee Off at Hesperia

A top field of touring golf pros will compete in the $20,000 Hesperia Open at the high desert resort of Hesperia Thursday through Sunday.

On hand will be defending champion Johnny McMullin, Ken Venturi, Billy Casper, Gene Littler, Jerry Barber, Paul Harney, George Bayer, Tommy Jacobs and Lloyd Mangrum.

Gallery fees are $1 daily. A $3,000 Pro-Celebrity tourney will be held Wednesday.

'Wreck Derby,' Hot Rods at Gardena Track

Another big doubleheader is set for Gardena Stadium today.

An 11-event program of hot rod races will be presented in the afternoon, and a Destruction Derby, featuring the wrecking of over 50 cars, will be presented in the evening.

Time trials start at 1 p.m., the first race at 2:30 p.m.

Destruction Derby crashes begin at 7:30 p.m.

Trojan Poloists Dunk Vikes, 7-3

Long Beach City College's water poloists jumped off to an early 3-1 lead but were blanked the rest of the way as SC dunked the Vikes, 7-3, Saturday in the winner's pool.

Speedboats Roar at Stadium Today

A national champion will be crowned today when the inboards of the Southern California Speedboat Club and the outboards of the Los Angeles Speedboat Assn. combine for a regatta at Marine Stadium.

Action gets under way at 12 noon. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for youngsters under 16.

Two five-mile heats will be held for the Pacific One Design Hydroplane class with the winner to be crowned national champion.

On hand to defend his title will be Howard Harris of Van Nuys, driving his world speed record holder Little Beaver. His chief opposition is expected to come from Elmer Cravener's Ol' Pudge of Hollywood.

Several other national champions will be competing in the nine inboard and two outboard classes. The L. A. Speedboat Assn., originally scheduled to sponsor the regatta entirely for outboards, will sponsor races for the swift B and C hydroplanes.

Raytheon's new sub-division,
SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT,
extends an invitation to
THEORETICAL SYSTEMS ENGINEERS and OPERATIONS ANALYSTS

to talk systems, not just electronics.

The systems we foresee run the gamut and beyond — undersea and outer-space super-systems . . . "gaming" and logistical data processing for central command . . . continental air defense . . . missile fire control . . . communications lash-ups . . . ground support . . . IPV (interplanetary vehicle) checkout . . . our RAMP microwave platform.

The thinkers we need come from diverse backgrounds: systems analysis and synthesis . . . hardware design . . . operations research . . . proposal engineering . . . systems sales.

Most are outstanding systems or project engineers. Some are physicists. A few are geo-political analysts.

All are broad thinkers, experienced at systems planning, hardware, and analytical approaches to systems generation. They now work on guidance, control, radar, communications, sonar, countermeasures systems. By nature they gravitate toward the big picture.

Each is aware of the increasing electronic content of systems. Each knows that the minds which understand this content determine the future influence of systems upon civilization.

We hope you are among these people, and desire the broad responsibilities of systems management. We would very much appreciate the chance to describe them in detail and answer any questions you may have.

To arrange a get-together, please phone us at the following times:

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Ol' Chuck's Miffed--He'll Miss W. Series

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Chuck Connors muttered gloomily into his tea and his lip was longer than his sideburns, which themselves were longer than Xavier Cugat's and Vincent Lopez's sideburns combined.

"I wanted to see the World Series this year," he pouted.

"And my mother ——."

Out in Brooklyn, Kevin Joseph Aloysius Connors' 64-year-old mother Marcella had always hoped her baby boy would play in a series.

Instead of which he grew up to 6-feet-5⅛, with long sorrel hair, getting rich playing "The Rifleman" on TV, and besieged for autographs even by the ball players who remember him as a very short time major leaguer.

* * * *

CHUCK'LL BE a-ridin' and a-shootin' in the Ak-Sar-Ben (that's Nebraska spelled backwards) Rodeo when the series is on.

"My mother, who isn't too well, has known all my ups and downs—then all of a sudden comes these last five years in TV and pictures — recognition — pretty good dough.

"She still speaks with a nice brogue. And after the Old Timers' game, she said, 'Kevin, TV is all well and good, but I was really thrilled when you got that single'."

CHUCK CONNORS
No Time For Series

Chuck was not only thrilled—he was astonished.

More for his TV fame than his baseball rep, for he had played in only 77 major league games in 1950, Chuck was summoned to pinch hit.

"Carl Erskine threw the pickle right down Broadway for me and I hit it to center field," Chuck whooped happily. "He had to put it down the middle for me, otherwise I'd have struck out — and they'd all seen that bit from me before!"

* * * *

MOM CONNORS, sitting upstairs with Mrs. John McGraw, was ecstatic.

Chuck probably thinks baseball today instead of rifles. Having dinner with Branch Rickey, whom he considers one of the three great men of our era (Churchill and FDR he named as the others), Chuck offered advice on the new third league.

"Update your public relations," he hammered through. "Radiant-heated floors in new stadiums . . . luxurious restaurants, roof-parking . . . more color . . . I like to see players jaw at umpires. What was wrong with 'the Gas House Gang'?"

Chuck is so baseball-minded that he thought Branch Rickey very sage in saying "I would rather let any baseball player go two years too soon than one year too late."

"Sure, it's business office!" Chuck granted. "What he means is his job is giving the public a winning ball club."

Chuck was an unusual ball player: he liked umpires. He membered how umpire George Magerkurth thumbed a batter out on a called strike, whereupon the batter threw his bat into the air.

The umpire leveled a sharp finger at the player and shouted, "If that bat comes down, you're out of the game!"

Smuggled Radios Seized by Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazilian police report seizure of $35,000 worth of portable transistor record players as the latest haul from smugglers of goods made in Japan. Such goods, especially things made for the Christmas trade, have become favorite objects for smuggling, police say.

REAL SHOCKER

Might Call It Double Seature

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Producer-Director William Castle guarantees that his newest horror film will shock some people.

At the press preview of "The Tingler," he wired 150 seats with 45 volts apiece. He'll do the same when the picture shows around the country.

"What good is a title like that," he asks, "unless some people get tingled?"

Girl Can Be Too Sexy, Cara Says

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, a red-haired temptress who moves in sections, says her sexiness has been a drawback in her acting career and her marriage to John Barrymore Jr.

"Most producers," she said, "thought of me as a chorus girl type until 'The Defiant Ones' got me a nomination for best supporting actress of last year.

"Unfortunately, I look like the kind of girl that producers chase around a desk."

Wearing tight white slacks and matching blouse, the Brooklyn-born actress slinked into a chair in her living room and explained:

"Sexy looks can be a handicap in this town, Baby. You don't know how many people told me to change my hair, but it's mine and it's natural.

* * * *

"NOBODY listened when I said I had talent and had worked on the stage under Elia Kazan and played in 'Born Yesterday.'"

Miss Williams, who admits to being somewhere between 30 and 32, lamented that being sexy also made for troubles in her ill-fated marriage to young Barrymore, 27.

"John's a fine actor and a nice boy, but he resented my looking attractive," said the actress, who is in the process of divorcing Barrymore.

"Most of the time in our six years of marriage I wore blue jeans and no makeup so he wouldn't be concerned. I didn't pay much attention to acting and even gained a little weight."

Cowpokes Knights on Horseback?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Novelist-Producer Frank Gruber raps the sophisticates and pseudo-sophisticates who depreciate westerns as entertainment.

"The classic 'Odyssey' of Homer embodies the same basic elements that go into the construction of a modern drama of the Old West—love and hate, deception and intrigue, man pitting his skills and resources against nature and his enemies—all elements of high adventure."

Gruber adds the only essential difference between the modern western story and older pre-western adventure yarns is the setting—"It makes little difference whether it's Gary Cooper walking down the western street with his hand over his holster or a mediaeval knight charging on his stallion with mace in hand. The same elements are there.

"The westerns will always be with us—as long as love of adventure remains."

Decide Soon on New U.S. Bonn Envoy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A decision is expected soon on whether Robert D. Murphy, top-ranking career diplomat in the United States, will replace David K. E. Bruce as ambassador to Germany.

Bruce, who became ambassador to Bonn in March 1957, has sent word to Washington that he wants to be relieved of his duties this fall. President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter are expected to decide the matter within three weeks.

Murphy's name has dominated speculation about Bruce's successor, although the possibility that he would be transferred from his present assignment as undersecretary of state for political affairs has drawn periodic denials.

* * * *

AS FOR TODAY it can be reported on excellent authority that the situation is this:

Herter and Murphy have yet to hold a serious discussion about Bruce's successor. If Murphy wants the assignment, his rank and prestige are such that he can undoubtedly have it. He is known to have found the possibility of returning to diplomatic service in Germany an attractive one. He was there on various assignments after World War II.

On the other hand, as undersecretary of state for political affairs, Murphy has a key position in policy-making at a critical period of maneuver following up the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

Under these circumstances, associates say, Herter must decide whether he can afford to let Murphy go. Should he do so, Murphy's successor probably would be Deputy Undersecretary of State Livingston T. Merchant, former assistant secretary for Europe.

'THE END IS SPLIT'

Obviously the right end is split in this confusing formation unveiled by Informal Normal in a crucial Saturday afternoon tilt with What-the-Heck Tech. The game was played in the Wrigley District of Long Beach—on the neighbor's lawn. It ended with several players untied.—(Photo by John H. Neagle.)

Scientists to Probe Depths of Indian Ocean, May Find a Sea Serpent or Two

THE HAGUE, Holland (UPI)—Scientists from all over the world will probe the secrets of the Indian Ocean, where sea serpents may very well exist, it was announced Saturday.

The International Council of Scientific Unions, concluding its annual meeting, decided upon an "Indian Ocean Year" starting in 1962, which will see a coordinated investigation of the Indian Ocean depths.

Sir Rudolph Peters of Britain, council president, said it "might well be possible" that one of the search vessels would come up with a genuine sea serpent or two.

"Their existence is not at all unlikely," Peters said.

Peters said there was a theory that sea-serpents always have existed, but have been in hiding since noiseless, fumeless sailing vessels were replaced by noisy, smelly motor-powered vessels.

The sea-serpent possibility, however, was only the most spectacular of the things scientists will search for.

"More basic are the mysteries of the Indian Ocean's exact depth, temperatures, tides and currents, Peters said.

The special year will be coupled with a world magnetic survey, aimed at solving the mysteries of the earth's magnetic field, he said. This survey had been planned originally within the framework of the International Geophysical Year, but had to be postponed since research in this field can only be successful during a period of low solar activity. The year 1962-'63 will be such a year, scientists predict.

Peters said that two ventures will be undertaken together because the Indian Ocean area is a vital factor in the field of magnetic research, of which very little is known at the moment.

Expedition to Seek New Sahara Route

PARIS (AP)—A French ex-pedition using 15 special tracked vehicles will set out in mid-November seeking a new route through the remote Taffassasset district in the eastern Sahara, often called "The Desert Within the Desert." Ten scientists are making the trip.

Oregon Boy, 10, Says He's Been Riding Freight Trains 2 Months

SAN FERNANDO (CNS)—A 10-year-old boy from Bandon, Ore., who said he had been riding freight trains since July 31, was picked up by San Fernando police this afternoon.

The officers had a tip that the boy was seen getting on a slow freight leaving Burbank en route to San Fernando. When police saw the boy he jumped out of the freight car and disapeared.

* * * *

POLICE searched the freight yards for the boy and finally found him hanging on the rods underneath the train.

When officers questioned him, the boy pointed to his mouth and ears indicating he was deaf and unable to speak. After he was taken to the San Fernando police station, an officer crept up behind him and dropped a heavy chair with a loud crash.

Police said the boy jumped 3 feet in the air.

He then told him his name was Joey Mason and he lived at 1777 Seven Devils Road, Bandon, Ore. He said he had left home July 31 after a family argument and had been riding freight trains up and down the coast since then.

His parents are Paul and Henrietta Mason, the boy said.

* * * *

JOEY WAS dressed in a T-shirt and jeans. He said he met other people on the freights who offered him food and often shared a blanket with him "when it got cold."

He said he had been in Los Angeles for a while and was now on his way to Las Vegas where he thought he would become a barber. "I know a little bit about barbering," he said.

San Fernando officers bathed him and fed him while they put in a call to Bandon, to try to determine what to do with him.

Earring Recovered by Surgery on Dog

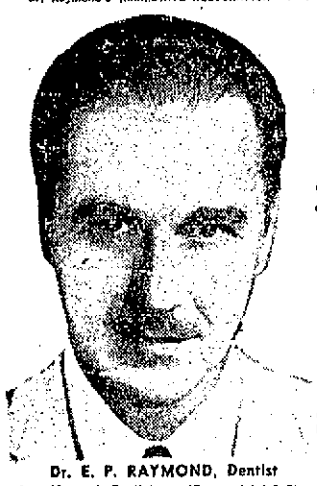

WINNIPEG (AP)—Shortie, a 2-year-old dachshund, is frisking around in fine shape after an operation for recovery of an earring of his mistress, Mrs. Dave Halparin of Winnipeg. He swallowed it last week and was opened up in a hospital after other means failed.

Savings in India Prove Surprising

NEW DELHI (AP)—The average Indian income is low but a surprising amount winds up in the bank. Savings averaged the equivalent of $80 a year, or 11 per cent of the annual income, in the case of 600 New Delhi households selected at random in a study by the National Council of Applied Research.

State Leads in Buying of Duck Stamp

I. P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — The number of Federal "duck stamps" sold during the fiscal year which ended June 30 dropped 189,791, but California still led the states in individual sales.

Of a national total of 2,165,562 of the 1958-59 issue, 161,068 were sold in California. This compared with sales of 183,011 the previous year.

Spokesmen for the Fish and Wildlife Service predicted that sales would drop off more in the current fiscal year in view of drouth conditions in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central flyways.

In only five other states were more than 100,000 duck stamps sold last year — Minnesota, 147,895; Texas, 145,079; Michigan, 110,260; Wisconsin, 109,856, and Illinois, 108,456.

The Fish and Wildlife Service noted that the 1958-59 stamp was the last of the $2 series. This year's stamp, which went on sale July 1, costs $3.

2 L.B. Holdup Suspects Seized

Three recent armed robberies in Long Beach were solved with the arrests of George W. Pike, 38, 821 E. Ocean Blvd., and Arvin Lee Wallace, 30, 11226 S. Figueroa St., Apt. 3, Los Angeles, Detective Inspector C. A. Wiggins announced Saturday.

The two men are suspects in the robberies of His Shop, 2011 E. 4th St., on Sept. 25; Jones Liquor Store, 2435 E. Broadway, on Sept. 23, and Community Pharmacy, 1999 Atlantic Blvd., on Sept. 30.

Pike was arrested Friday at an apartment house at 932 E. 2nd St. The house was kept under surveillance and Wallace was arrested there Saturday by Inspectiors Fred Whitmore, A. E. Perle and R. L. Barlow. The suspects are booked in city jail.

Whitmore said narcotics were taken in the pharmacy robbery.

A .35 caliber automatic, believed to have been used in the robberies, was seized when Pike was arrested.

DR. COWEN, Credit Dentist

An open letter from DR. COWEN

I am receiving inquiries from many people who want to know whether it is necessary—in order to obtain dental care on credit—for them to join any of the new credit and charge plans which have recently been announced by the banks in this area.

The answer is definitely NO. In my offices, credit is offered to you without any restriction as to your bank account—without any requirements that you qualify for a bank loan, or any type of bank credit plan . . . in fact you don't have to have a bank account or charge account.

It has been my experience over the years that a simple, friendly, face-to-face discussion of the payment arrangements, right in my own offices, is the most satisfactory way to provide for people the type of credit plan that is best for them. People have different budget problems, so we do not try to make one rigid type of credit plan fit everyone; instead, we take the individual conditions into consideration, and we find that in practically every case we can work out a reasonable arrangement that will avoid financial hardship for the patient and his family.

It has always been my policy—and I am continuing this policy—to make NO EXTRA CHARGE OF ANY KIND FOR CREDIT. At the Dr. Cowen Offices there is never any interest charge . . . no carrying charge . . . no penalty whatsoever when you arrange for credit terms.

This is an important extra saving enjoyed by my patients. It means they obtain professional dental care at low cost . . . and the cost remains low, regardless of whether they prefer to pay cash, or to use my liberal credit plan and spread the small monthly payments over a long period of time.

There is no bank, no finance company, no loan company involved when you obtain dental care on credit at my offices. You don't pay one penny for interest or carrying charge—there is no "credit service" charge—I repeat, you pay no penalty whatsoever for liberal credit, on your own reasonable terms, at the Dr. Cowen Dental Offices.

I am proud to have been a pioneer in the introduction of credit into the practice of dentistry. It has resulted in better dental health for more people, particularly in the middle-income and low-income groups. And it has resulted in the building of large practices which make it possible to offer a complete modern dental service, conforming to the required professional standards, at economical prices. Men and women who are in need of Modern Dental Plates will find my Credit Plan most helpful and convenient.

AUTONETICS'
Field Engineering forecasts show an expansion of more than 10 times present size in the next 5 years.

Our products are:
DIGITAL COMPUTERS
ARMAMENT CONTROLS
INERTIAL GUIDANCE
AUTOMATIC CHECKOUT CONTROLS
FLIGHT CONTROLS

If you have several years of field engineering experience on any of the above systems, but now wish an in-plant job that doesn't require travel, then you will definitely be interested in the excellent positions available in our Field Engineering Training Department. We will train you on our systems and you will then instruct new field engineers, customers, etc. Supervisory potential is good (degree preferred but not required).

If you prefer field engineering assignments, we offer either Navy or Air Force assignments, liberal per diem, and thorough training on digital computers, and the various systems shown above.

Field assignments involve systems rather than components, on new long-range contracts such as:
MINUTE MAN
HOUND DOG
GUIDANCE FOR THE POLARIS LAUNCHING SUBMARINE

If you want to associate yourself with an outstanding, aggressive, rapidly expanding operation that offers a chance for you to grow beyond your present ceiling

PROBLEM!

To invent an angular position selecting device with electrical simplicity that is capable of operation in the VISIBLE and INFRARED.

RTT

The Radiation Tracking Transducer (RTT) solves this problem. Developed by Electro-Optical Systems, Inc. engineers and scientists, it is a SINGLE element, solid state device. Electrical output of this device varies in AMPLITUDE and PHASE as the radiating source moves across the field of view and varies sensitivities approaching that of extremely fast film.

EXAMPLE . . .

Of just one of the exciting and stimulating developments at EOS.

EXPLORE!

Some temporarily small technical groups are probing some challenging problems in the following research and development programs . . .

FLUID PHYSICS

Production & manipulation of ion plasma, ionic physics, surface ionization phenomena, etc.

ENERGY RESEARCH

High rate electrochemical systems, vacuum ultra violet & thin film optics, advanced communications systems, advanced space power systems, etc.

SOLID STATE PHYSICS

Radiation tracking transducer, solid state aspects of microminiaturization, thermoelectric effects in semiconductors, crystal growth processes, etc.

ADVANCED ELECTRONICS

Light modulation, Kerr cell effect, etc.

Ph.D., M.S. & B.S. Degrees

MAJOR ENGINEERING PROGRAM

Openings Are Immediately Available At These Western Electric Locations:

Winston-Salem, Greensboro & Burlington, No. Carolina and at Laureldale, Pa.
Whippany, New Jersey

Western Electric, for over 90 years an acknowledged industry leader in communications equipment, is embarked upon a broad program of expansion. Important military commitments provide unusual opportunities for men of superior qualifications and training to apply their full skills in advanced areas of development and manufacturing engineering. Many of these assignments will involve close collaboration with the professional staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories in developing models and introducing new products into manufacture.

In addition to the experience with new concepts in engineering and personal satisfaction derived from contributing to challenging projects, engineers will appreciate these Western Electric benefits:

- Parallel paths of advancement in engineering or management fields
- Tuition refund program
- Company-operated graduate engineering training program
- Promotion from within
- Liberal company-paid benefit plan plan
- Employee stock purchase plan
- Liberal relocation allowance for travel and moving plus company assistance in locating suitable housing

Typical advanced projects under way at Western Electric:

NIKE ZEUS Anti-Missile Missile System - Missile Guidance Systems - Associated Ground Control Radar Systems - Fire Control Radar - Underwater Defense Systems - Digital Computers, Waveguides and Gyros - Other Precision Electronic & Solid State Devices.

AN OPEN LETTER
TO THE
People of Long Beach

Dear Friends:

This letter is to inform you of our Appreciation Sale.

For the past 30 years we have had the pleasure and privilege of taking care of your automobile needs.

As in the past, we shall continue to warrant your confidence, sell you only good cars and always at a fair price.

No business or individual can give merchandise away without some profit. We are against such advertising.

We invite you to come in and look at our fine selection of fine cars.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Despite the return of "Dinah Shore" and "Jack Benny," the debut of "Dennis the Menace," the "World Series," etc., we must first congratulate the "new MAJOR" network, ABC, and its local outlet (7).

Today ABC comes of age and joins the other two majors in the field of programming. New tonight are "The Rebel" starring Nick Adams, at 9 p. m. and "The Alaskans" at 9:30 starring Roger Moore, Jeff York and Dorothy Provine. ("Hawaiian Eye" starts Wednesday and this takes care of our 49th and 50th states.) Other new shows this week are "Bourbon Street Beat" and "Adventures in Paradise" on Monday, "Philip Marlow" on Tuesday and "Man From Blackhawk" on Friday. Returning today are "Lawman" and "Colt .45."

"The Rebel" has had wide acclaim from its press preview and is a Mark Goodson, Bill Todman production. Young Nick Adams is a returnee from the Civil War who finds the town run by hoodlums, his father killed and the newspaper editor brainwashed. He cleans up the town, then moves on to other areas of the frontier for adventure after adventure.

"The Alaskans" opens by introducing the central characters to each other and to the viewers. Theme has them hunting for a broken sled supposedly heaped with gold and lost somewhere in the wilderness.

DAYTIME BRIEFS

"Theology and Jazz" (2) at 8:30 features Dave Brubeck's group and the Rev. Alvin Kershaw, latter one of the first winners on "$64,000 Question" . . . "Talk Back" debuts on (7) at 8:30 with Dan Riss a host. Drama and discussion about problems that concern Americans most according to a poll . . . Prince Aly Khan on "U. N. in Action" (2) at 9 a. m. . . . Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to "Face the Nation" (2) at 9:30 . . . "Dodgers Win Pennant" replay of Tuesday's 9th and 12th innings on (11) at 12 noon . . . Gov. Pat Brown on "770 on TV" (7) at noon . . . "World Series" in COLOR on (4) and (11) at 12:45 p. m. . . . Rams and 49ers on (2) at 1:30 from 'Frisco . . . Notre Dame-Purdue game on (13) at 1:30; USC-Ohio State (11) at 3:30 or after baseball via tape . . . Rep. James Roosevelt on "Cavalcade of Books" (2) at 4:30 . . . "Greatest Show on Water" is special on (4) at 5 p. m. filmed in Florida and featuring water ski champs . . . Oregon vs. Stanford teams on "College Bowl" (2) at 5:30 with Arthur Fleming, secretary of health, education and welfare as a guest.

6 p. m.

Dr. Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania, will "Meet the Press" (4).

"This Is Alice" is back on (11) early enough for the kiddies. She gets "helpful" to a millionaire and winds up with her father being sued.

7 p. m.

"Colt .45" (7) is back again with Wayde Preston again in the role of Chris Colt. He's on a Mississippi gambling boat, staking his life in a gamble to prevent the enactment of a plot that could prove the downfall of two nations. (New time as "You Asked for It" moves to (13) and Colt's old spot goes to the new "Rebel.)

There's another "Riverboat" involved on (4) as Anne Baxter guests on this series that stars Darren McGavin and Burt Reynolds. A trio of farmers are out to stop a shipment of peaches that could save another's farm.

Timmy and "Lassie" (2) train a race horse on the sly and help a man out of a jam.

7:30 p. m.

"Dennis the Menace," well-known cartoon character, comes to life in the person of Jay North. First show has him giving his new baby sitter the slip by passing off his friend, Joey, as himself, then spends the evening in "innocent fun" at the neighborhood movie.

The full-time grave digger of a western town tells Bart "Maverick" (7) that most of his customers are provided by a man named Lindell. Bart sets out to make the acquaintance of this killer and this results in a full-fledged battle with Bart dodging bullets from all sides.

8 p. m.

Danny Thomas, whose own show returns Monday, will guest with "Ed Sullivan" (2) from Chicago. Other stars are Joe E. Lewis, Julius LaRosa, the Trio Rayros, Jane Morgan and the Marquis Chimps, all in New York.

COLOR — "Sunday Showcase" (4) with part two of "What Makes Sammy Run?" in which Sammy has everything that money can buy but he wants social position and a wife. He gets both by marrying a millionaire's daughter but this does not work out and he winds up a lonely man.

Taped from Saturday's game comes "UCLA-Pittsburgh" on (11).

8:30 p. m.

"Lawman" (7) is back again with John Russell and Peter Brown co-starred. Peggie Castle joins the cast as a regular in the role of a gambling-hall operator and entertainer. She arrives in town to set up her business and has a clash with the marshal, who suspects her of harboring a killer.

9 p. m.

COLOR for "The Dinah Shore Show" (4) as Dinah bounces back from her vacation to present Groucho Marx, Ingemar Johansson, Carl Reiner and Gwen Verdon . . . originating in New York. Dinah wears gowns by Balmain this week.

Raymond Massey, Everett Sloane, Whit Brissell and Robert Loggia are starred in "G.E. Theater" (2) in the first of 10 live-on-tape shows. "Hitler's Secret" concerns the beginnings of the rise to power of Hitler in 1934.

Monorail for L. A. is a controversial subject so "Dan Lundberg" (13) digs behind the scenes to get some facts for debate.

9:30 p. m.

"The Alaskans" (7) debuts and details are above.

A pretty young English bride of six months determines to remain faithful to her husband's memory, although her devoted friend tries to tell her she is wasting her life. Patricia Owens and James Donald star and Alfred Hitchcock personally directed this segment for "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2).

10 p. m.

The 10th season for "Jack Benny" starts on (2) with a demonstration of what the show will look like 30 years from now. Don Wilson, Dennis Day, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson and the Sportsmen quartet are all featured. He has this new time plus a new sponsor.

Bishop & Malco Sign Long Lease With $500,000 Modernization Set

Officials of Bishop & Malco, Inc., formerly Walker's department store, Fourth St. and Pine Ave., Saturday signed a new 59-year lease on their building and announced plans to modernize the store at a cost of about $500,000.

The new lease contemplates operation of the store until at least the year 2012, and the proposed remodeling program calls for extensive modernization of both the exterior and interior of the department store building, particularly the ground floor and mezzanines.

Plans for the project are now being completed, and the modernization work is scheduled to commence in February.

"The undertaking of this program is a demonstration of our confidence in the future of the Long Beach area," said Joseph F. Bishop, president of the Pine Ave. store, a Long Beach landmark since 1933.

Bishop said that both he and Leo C. Malco, vice president and general manager of the store, look forward to great growth and development in Long Beach, particularly the downtown area, in the years ahead.

* * * *

HE PREDICTED that new and proposed multiple apartment buildings, the new municipal hospitals, public safety building, court house, harbor administration building and the projected new multi-storied Edison building are but a sample of great development to come and said, "We are determined to keep in step with progress."

Bishop described the new exterior planned for the building as "our contribution to the aesthetic beauty of Long Beach." The existing cast stone exterior will be removed and replaced with porcelain enamel walls.

The parapet at the top of the existing structure will be removed, marquees will be extended along both Pine Ave. and Fourth St. sides of the building and glass walls will take the place of numerous display windows.

* * * *

THE GROUND FLOOR of the department store will be modernized completely.

"We will feature a luminous ceiling, install all new fixtures and arrange the merchandise to make shopping with us a real pleasure," said Malco.

Air conditioning will be added. A modern escalator system was installed two years ago at a cost of $150,000. The store is approximately 100,000 square feet in size, with 75,000 square feet of space devoted to merchandising.

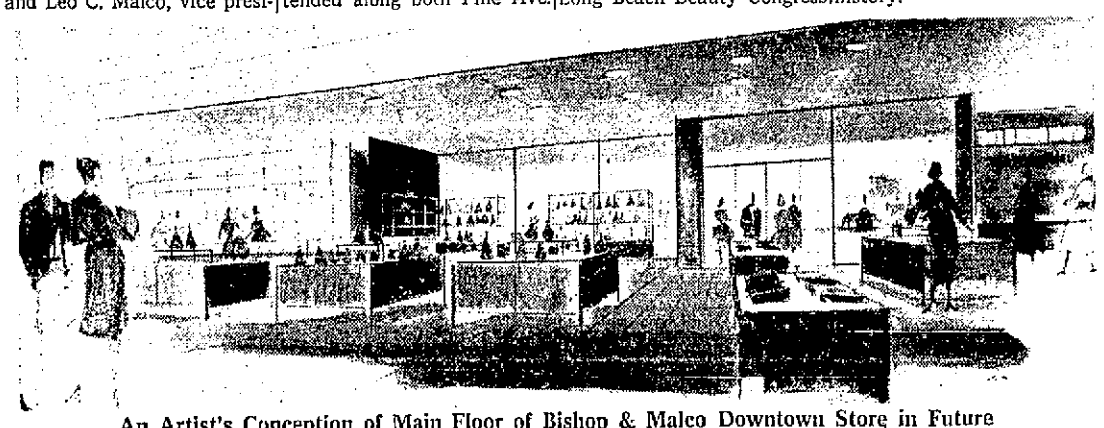

Both Bishop and Malco have outstanding records of community service. Bishop, a member and past president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners and past president of the Water Commission, the Long Beach Beauty Congress and Long Beach Retailers Associated, earlier this year was selected as "Citizen of the Year" by the Long Beach Exchange Club.

Bishop came to Long Beach in 1925 and has been in business at Fourth and Pine since that time. He first was with the Marti Department Store at that location, then Walker's and then the Bishop & Malco organization.

MALCO STARTED his business career as a stock boy with Walker's and worked his way up to his present position of vice-president, treasurer and general manager.

The announcement of the lease extension and modernization program coincides with the 26th birthday sale at the store.

"George Kidd, our assistant merchandising manager, combed the market in advance of this sale," said Malco, "and we believe we have the best merchandising values in our history."

New Downtown Site for Coast Federal

Coast Federal Savings and Loan Assn. has taken a long-term lease on the ground floor corner of the Buffum Hotel Building at 200 East Third St., corner of Locust, it was announced by Joe Crail, president of Coast Federal, and Dr. Robert L. Buffum for the building owners. The site will become the permanent location of Coast Federal's Long Beach office.

Extensive alterations are planned to both the interior and exterior. The plans will provide an attractive atmosphere for both the interior and exterior. With the use of planters, glass screens and the planting of trees in the sidewalk curb much will be added to the appearance of the location. Remodeling work will start immediately and it is planned that the new facilities will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 15.

* * * *

THE PRESENT OFFICE, 237 E. 1st St., held its grand opening a year ago September, under manager Rich Mathers. It will continue to serve until the new location is readied.

Coast Federal has reserves of over $30,000,000 or more than 10 per cent of savings captial, and over $100,000,000 in cash and government bonds as a part of total assets amounting to over $367,000,000, making Coast Federal the third largest financial institution of its type in world, Crail reported.

Directory Out Soon

New telephone directories for the customers in General Telephone's Long Beach service areas will be delivered starting Tuesday through Oct. 10, according to C. E. Scott, southern area general manager.

Scott pointed out that some 2200 customers in the Long Beach areas would have new telephone numbers, effective Oct. 11, and that the new numbers would appear in the new directory. Customers affected by the number change have already been notified by means of a notice in the monthly bill some months ago, he added. "The number changes became necessary owing to a realignment of central office facilities, necessitated by expansion," according to Scott.

The numbers changed were drawn from the HEmlock 2-'s 5-'s, 6-'s and 7-'s. The new numbers will begin with GArfield 6-.

Open House for Rental Units Today

Open House will be held today, sponsored by the Southern California Edison Co., at the "Kingston Apartments," a new Ben F. Marron apartment located at 4530 East Fourth St.

For the past 34 years the Ben F. Marron Co. has been building "own-your-own" apartments in the Long Beach area and this is the first time they have built a rental apartment with many of the features that are found only in own-your-own apartments.

Among the many features found in the "Kingston" are electric range and oven, 12-ft. refrigerator with freezer, disposal, snack bar, 20x40 swimming pool, large patio, and recreation area, lounge and laundry room, all-wool carpeting in decorator colors with drapes to match and Class A subterranean garages.

Realtors Arriving for Meet

Realtors from every community in California will arrive in Los Angeles today to register for the 55th annual convention of the California Real Estate Assn. at the Biltmore Hotel.

Over 3,000 of the Realtors paid their registration fee in advance to avoid the congestion of registration at the hotel, according to James B. Clayton, Jr., of San Jose, president of the 30,000-member association. Arthur L. Loomis, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, official host for the meeting, reports that this will be the largest convention in the 55-year history of the state association, with the total registration expected to exceed 4,500.

* * * *

MORE THAN 80 sessions on specific real estate subjects are listed in the 40-page convention program covering all departments of real estate. An impressive list of nationally prominent speakers will address the general sessions which will be held in the Philharmonic Auditorium. The conferences, panel meetings and after-breakfast roundtable discussions will all be held in the Biltmore Hotel. Luncheon and banquet events will take place at the Beverly Hilton, Statler Hilton and Biltmore Hotels.

First event of the convention will be the CREA past presidents dinner this evening.

Promotion on Eastgate Homes Results Shown in Heavy Sales

The new 50 million dollar Eastgate residential community being built by Laramore Construction Co. in Garden Grove received the 1959 Achievement Award for the best home development promotion of the year at the annual awards dinner of the Orange County Advertising Agency Assn. in Santa Ana. The ward was accepted for Eastgate by William B. Stoops of Marketing Engineers, Santa Ana advertising agency, who is handling the Eastgate promotional program.

Now in its second month, the Eastgate program has been extremely successful, drawing crowds of thousands to view the model homes on display. In accepting the award, Stoops said that the development was also setting new records for buyer acceptance, with sales averaging more than 100 homes per week since the opening.

* * * *

PROMOTION ON the Eastgate community includes newspaper advertising and special promotional activities such as a weekly free holiday trip to Las Vegas.

Eastgate is one of the largest residential developments in Orange County history. In addition to 2,500 homes with original custom styling, special construction features and spacious floor plans for average income families, Eastgate has apartment units, a major shopping center, churches and recreation parks. Carefully planned, it has attractively landscaped streets, sidewalks, complete improvements and an ideal location in the center of Orange County's fastest growing residential area.

* * * *

THE EASTGATE HOMES have many features seldom found in homes in their price range of $11,950 to $14,450, spokesmen point out. A wide selection of exterior designs and floor plans is offered with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room and well-equipped kitchen. They have an attached double garage and a large yard area for outdoor family activities.

Special construction features include a plastic membrane moisture barrier in the foundation, rigid roof trusses, underground copper water piping, and a heavy-duty wiring system with both 110V circuits and 220V conduit installed.

Among the numerous built-in features of the homes are a waste disposal, linen cabinet work center, recessed lighting, and aluminum frame sliding glass windows and patio doors with screens. The larger homes have wall-to-wall carpeting and a counter top gas range and wall oven. A wood-burning fireplace is optional in all models.

Families interested in visiting the Eastgate furnished model homes will find them conveniently located at the corner of Knott and Chapman Ave. in Garden Grove, just west of Hwy 39.

Nishkian's Engineering Firm Gets Atomic Energy Project

The consulting engineering firm of M. A. Nishkian & Co., 3754 Long Beach Blvd., announced they have been commissioned by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission at Idaho Falls, Idaho, to prepare plans and specifications for two highly specialized projects at Arco, Idaho.

One of the assignments awarded the Nishkian firm, is to prepare a comprehensive engineering study of the present and needed Chemical Reactor Steam Plant facilities. The second assignment calls for a special report on engineering work that will be required in connection with planned additions to the Material Testing Reactor Power Plant.

* * * *

KEY PERSONNEL of the Nishkian Company have already left for the Idaho project to begin preliminary work.

The local firm, headed by consulting engineer, M. A. Nishkian, has participated in over $40 million in government contracts here on the west coast, including not only top secret high level atomic energy contracts, but also numerous contracts with the Public Works department of the U. S. Navy.

Among recent Southern California Naval projects, engineered by Nishkian firm is the ultra-modern heating system at Camp Pendleton and the Jet Fuel Storage facilities at Naval Island, San Diego.

* * * *

The new Long Beach gas compressor station is another engineering project of the Nishkian firm.

Dutch Haven Newest Unit Nearly Sold

One of the major contributing factors to the fast sales of the Dutch Haven College Series, has been the proximity of the new Orange County State College, according to salesmen for Luxury Home, Inc., builder of Dutch Haven.

The college site is just a block from the development, and will be one of the largest state colleges in the country, encompassing 240 acres with accommodations eventally for 30,000 students. Consequently many of sales have been to teachers and students who plan to further their education in various fields of higher learning.

* * * *

THE DUTCH HAVEN COLLEGE SERIES, is located in the east Fullerton-Anaheim area, in the city of Placentia, where the rolling hills and large trees create a natural back drop of scenic beauty.

These 3 and 4-bedroom homes with up to two full baths, are considered among the finest values in the southland, a spokesman adds. There are four homes left and are priced from $14,350, with payments as low as $79.50 per month, including principal and interest, and are available with no down to vets except small costs, low FHA terms as well as Cal-Vet terms.

From Long Beach, go east on South Street (which becomes Orangethorpe) proceed east on Orangethorpe to Placentia Ave, then left on Placentia to the development.

Church Opening in Grandview Palos Verdes Home Community

Ascension Lutheran Church, in Grandview Palos Verdes, executive style community on slopes of the famous Palos Verdes peninsula, will open its doors today for its first services.

According to William C. Kulow, sales director of the Edward K. Zuckerman-Barney R. Morris community, the structure, with a seating capacity of 250 to 300 persons, is a chapel which later will serve as the Fellowship Hall.

The church site, high on Silver Spur Rd., has a view overlooking the Santa Monica bay area. Kulow explained a larger structure with a seating capacity of about 600 is planned for the future.

* * * *

THERE ARE NO DOWN PAYMENTS (costs and impounds excepted) for qualified veterans on 3 and 4 bedroom, family room or den, 2 bath homes—with up to 1,813 sq. ft. of interior space at Grandview Palos Verdes.

Down payments are from $2,350, plus costs and impounds for non-veterans.

Prices range between $23,200 and $38,500.

Grandview Palos Verdes presents a selection of 45 Farmhouse, Contemparary, and Traditional exterior stylings and has construction features such as gutters and downspouts all around the roof, wood or rock roofs, continuous steel-reinforced concrete foundations, ash slab doors, ash cabinets throughout, brick fireplaces with log lighters, oak floors, lath and plaster walls, and 40 and 50-gallon automatic water heaters.

Twelve models—9 of them furnished and decorated—are open daily at 27781 Hawthorne Blvd. off Silver Spur Rd. They may be reached via Hawthorne or Crenshaw Blvds. to Palos Verdes Dr. and Silver Spur Rd.

IN SHOWROOMS OCT. 8

Here is the Ford Starliner, the newest in the Ford line of 15 models of cars which will go on display at dealers' showrooms Oct. 8. The roof of this Starliner, a tudor hardtop, is one of three distinctly different roofs in the Ford line for '60.

Styling of Fords for '60 Advanced

By ART STEPHAN
I. P-T Auto Editor

The 1960 Ford represents a styling theme originally created for later use but brought forward because of the spontaneous enthusiasm of company management when they first saw the car in advance studios.

J. O. Wright, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager, said the 1960 Ford was redesigned from bumper to bumper because "we wanted to increase passenger space and comfort and improve the roadability and handling ease and performance."

He said, "After the car originally planned for 1960 was well under way, the advanced styling office showed us some designs for Ford Motor Company cars even farther advanced than our planned 1960 model.

"One of these was called 'Quicksilver'," he said. "It captured everyone's imagination immediately, and we began to explore the possibility of advancing it to the 1960 models. We were faced with a crucial decision involving millions of dollars.

"When the engineers pointed out that a complete new car also would enable them to design additional quality features into the vehicle, company management gave the go-ahead.

"One of the most important features of the new Ford," Mr. Wright said, "is that it has been 'comfort-engineered'. There is substantially more hip room, shoulder room, leg room and head room in the 1960 Ford than there was in the 1959 model—which ranked far above its competitors in these vital comfort areas.

"With the new body design, the new frame, redesigned suspension and improved power train, the 1960 Ford rides better, handles better and performs better than any Ford in history," Mr. Wright said.

Passenger comfort and convenience have been given particular attention in the design of the new Ford cars. New, swept-back windshield pillars have eliminated the troublesome "dog-leg" found in cars with the full-wrap windshield.

Yet, the new model Ford has 17 per cent more windshield area than last year's Ford, provides better visibility out over the hood, and has a windshield wiper pattern one-third greater than in 1959.

Ford's "posture-perfect" seats permit the driver and passengers to sit in comfort on foam padding and at what Ford research has proven to be the most comfortable seating angle.

Adding to the convenience of the new Ford line are such features as a trunk opening that is only 27 inches from the ground, a foot-operated parking brake with the release knob located on the instrument panel, and two-stage door checks.

The 1960 Ford line includes 15 models that offer a total of six different roof lines. At the low end of the line is the Fairlane series, which includes a two- and four-door sedan and a business Tudor. In the Fairlane 500 series are two models, a two- and four-door sedan. The popular Galaxie series, with its own Thunderbird-styled roof, includes a two- and four-door sedan, plus a four-door hardtop called the Town Victoria.

The Starliner, a new two-door hardtop entry in the Ford line, is one of two special models. The action-styled Starliner features a unique "fast-back" roof that sweeps gracefully back to blend with the elegant rear deck. The other special model is the Sunliner, Ford's soft-top convertible.

Lemon Heights No. 2 Draws Big Throng

Custom homes at Lemon Heights No. 2 have been drawing record crowds since the announcement that Schwartz-Yedor, builders of this community in the Tustin-Santa Ana Lemon Heights West District have, for the second successive year, won Better Living Award", reports Tom Yedor, of the building firm.

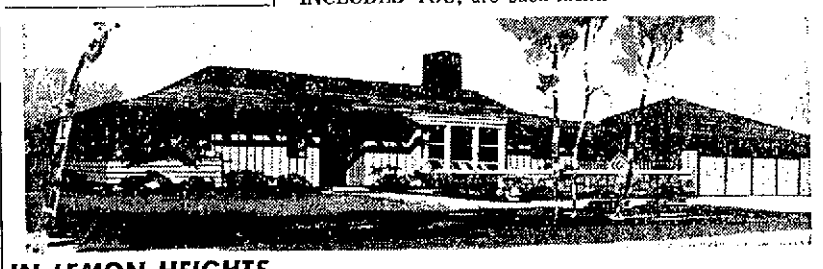

Typical of the "better living" features that earned the award are the spacious interiors which encompass 2,200 square feet of actual living area, Yedor pointed out. Flexible plans, available in a wide selection of distinctive architectural designs, offer a choice of 3 and 4 bedrooms and 3 baths, in addition to family rooms, separate dining rooms as well as dining areas, master-bedroom suites with private bath, powder rooms and unique sunken playrooms.

INCLUDED TOO, are such "better living" features as wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning and heating systems, custom-designed fireplaces, expanses of window walls and sliding glass doors and appliance-equipped kitchens.

Available on excellent conventional terms, Yedor said, the luxuriously appointed homes are fully priced from $34,375.

From Long Beach, models are reached by driving east on 7th St. to Harbor Blvd. Turn right to Westminster which becomes 17th St. in Santa Ana. Follow 17th St. east to Hewes, then turn north to Spaulding, and west to the homes.

Or take Santa Ana Freeway to the 17th St. turnoff in Santa Ana, follow 17th St. Hewes, north on Hewes to Spaulding to the develop- Spauldiing to the development.

IN LEMON HEIGHTS

Recent announcement that Schwartz-Yedor, developers of Lemon Heights West No. 2 in the Tustin-Santa Ana Lemon Heights West District, won McCall's "Congress on Better Living Award" is drawing record throngs to this community of custom homes, officials report. Here is one model.

He Flees Jail Amid 'Luxury'

BREWTON, Ala. (UPI) — Harold Hill escaped in style from Escambia County Jail.

He grabbed an absent deputy's gun, took the officer's identification papers and $79 in cash, hailed a taxi and rode away. He was caught four hours later.

Telephone Man Gets Service Award

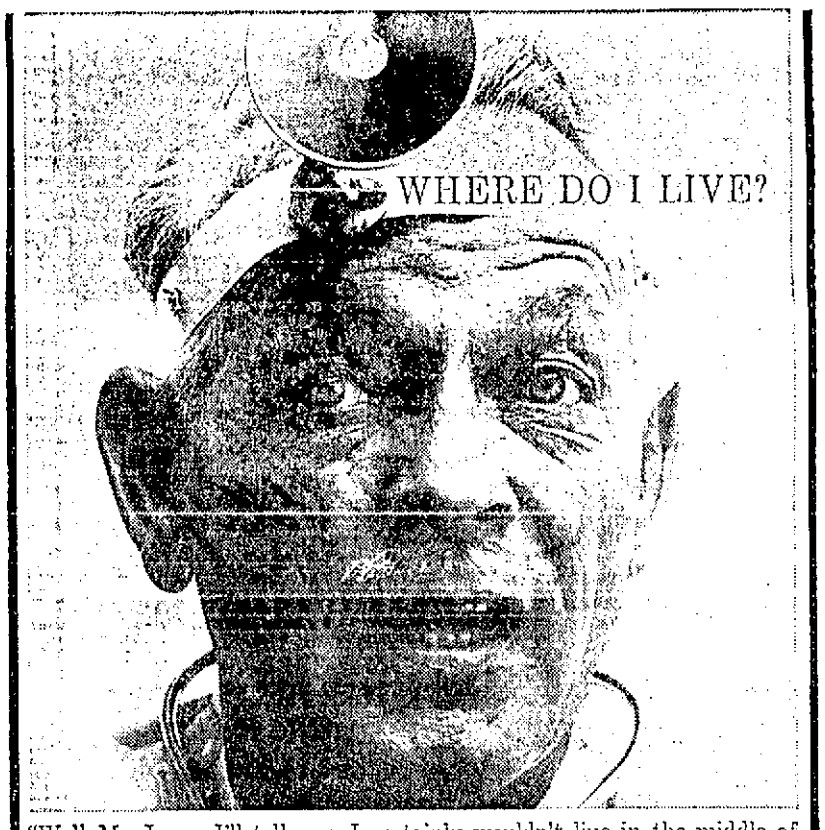

Member of a "telephone family," William H. Rough, station repairman for General Telephone Co. in Long Beach, received his 25-year service award from C. E. Scott, Long Beach division manager and Robert Taylor, main district manager.

Other members of Rough's family who work for General, include his daughter, Mrs. Betty Brazil, customer supervisor of Santa Monica, and a granddaughter Wendyl Edwards, desk clerk in the Long Beach office. A telephone man since 1916, Rough joined General's staff in Long Beach 25 years ago. His home is 711 West Broadway.

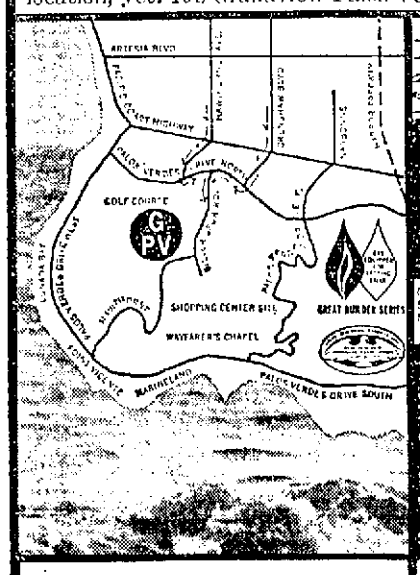

PROMOTED

Ralph J. Davidson has been appointed district sales manager for the Pacific Southwest by Grayson Controls Division, Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co., according to H. F. Jacobsmeyer, general sales manager. Davidson has been a Grayson sales representative since 1956. Previously, he was associated with Signal Oil and Gas Co.

"Well, Mr. Jones, I'll tell you. I certainly wouldn't live in the middle of smog, like others do, and here's why: according to a Los Angeles County Medical Association survey, 60 per cent of physicians specializing in chest ailments had recommended that patients leave the smog area. So had 51 per cent of internists and 50.6 per cent of general practitioners! They advised this because their patients were suffering from eye irritation, chest pains, cough, shortness of breath, nausea, headache—and so on. Not good for adults—and assuredly not good for children. Now, why not move your family out where I live? Clean ocean air, smog-free, water sports, golf, tennis, plenty of shopping facilities. Oh, didn't I tell you the name of the location, yet? It's Grandview Palos Verdes!"*

Golden Key Has New 1960 Homes

The new, 1960 Rod and Reel mobile homes are now on display at the Golden Key Trailer Sales, 7032 Orangethorpe Ave., Buena Park.

The 10-foot wide homes are larger this year and come in three lengths, 47, 51 and 55 feet.

The buyer has his choice of Danish Modern or Provincial interiors.

The Golden Key Trailer Sales opened Mar. 15, 1959 and in seven short months has become the leading Rod and Reel mobile home dealer in California.

Heading the successful firm are Jack Stansbury and Frank Vogel, two well known Bellflower businessmen.

"We attribute our success to the fact that we give more liberal discounts and a greater trade-in allowance than our very stiff competitors," Stansbury and Vogel said.

"Also adding to our sales leadership is our excellent service department headed by Howard Henry, a veteran in mobile home service.

"Our service after sale record is unexcelled and the result has been shown by the number of new customers brought here by well satisfied, old customers," Vogel and Stansbury declared.

"Non - pressure" salesmen at the Golden Key lot are Art Marquez, Kenny Eien, Jim Bourgeouis and Dick Hill.

"They all thoroughly know the construction, floor plans and many advantages of Rod and Reel mobile homes," Vogel and Stansbury said.

"Each step of the sale is carefully explained to customers and in that manner, we avoid any misunderstandings.

"This policy of knowing our product and its advantages instead of hiring high pressure salesmen to sell some cheap, shoddy product at exhorbitant prices has been another great help in making Golden Key the Rod and Reel sales leader," Stansbury and Vogel emphasized.

Golden Key is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day except Sunday when the lot is closed.

Stansbury and Vogel said they have also found that their policy of taking equities in homes, second trust deeds or anything of value in trade on a modern mobile home has helped them attain sales leadership.

"We have found that many elderly people have raised their families and now are alone and retired want to trade their equities in their houses on a new Rod and Reel mobile home," Stansbury and Vogel explained.

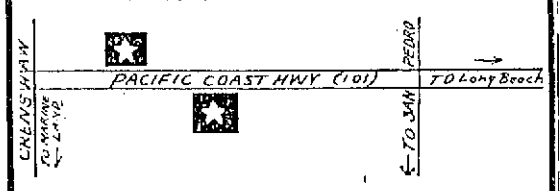

"For they recognize that once in their mobile home they will no longer have a large house to spend hours in cleaning, no gardening and will have their choice of living in a large number of beautiful trailer parks with swimming pools and clubhouses.

"Golden Key invites prospective mobile home purchasers to call us and make arrangements for them to visit the modern Rod and Reel mobile home factory in nearby Cypress and see the advances made in the mobile home industry.

"We believe this will induce many to join the large, growing group of happy mobile home owners," Vogel and Stansbury said.

With vacations nearly over, many plans are under way at Long Beach Trailer Estates, 6541 Atlantic Ave., for recreation and entertainment this fall and winter.

Carolyn Ward is in charge of our Halloween party. Judges have been chosen and they will award prizes for the best masquerade costume.

Dora Kortz will be entertainment chairman this month and Irene Shaffer will assist her. Our first event was a covered dish dinner Saturday in the clubroom. Bingo topped off the evening.

The Canasta club held its usual meeting with Alice Van Hyning as hostess.

Carolyn Ward, a beginning bridge player, has shown the regular members of the Bid-Em-Hi Bridge Club how to play the game. She was the winner two weeks in succession.

LAST WEEK, however, Ruth Topper won high score at the club meeting held in Matilda Sapp's mobile home.

Roy and Lucille Hoffman have returned from visiting relatives and friends in Kansas City. They report they had a good time, but are happy to be home.

Faye Mitchell is visiting her mother in St. Louis, Mo.

Pearl Thomas attended a cocktail party aboard the liner Matsonia in Long Beach harbor when her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Chandley sailed for Hawaii.

Carl and Laverne Green are the proud grandparents of a baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shelton.

JAMES KELLY is ill in Community Hospital. His friends and neighbors all wish him a speedy recovery.

Grace and John Kingdom, who spend their winters here, celebrated their golden wedding Sept. 13 at Hitchcock, S. D. Their daughter, Juanita came from Alaska to spend the happy occasion with them. Mr. and Mrs. James Kingdon, who live at the estates, also attended and they report the John Kingdons will soon be back with us.

New arrivals at Trailer Estates include Eleanor and Bud Hollins, who formerly lived in the Lakewood area. They have lived in this area for 32 years.

Lonnie and Mae Roberson and their 1960 Golden State and Nel Lindemann and her new Fleetwood are other new arrivals.

Agnes McGarvie entertained her daughter and her children during the past week. They are from San Diego.

Park Avalon Trailer Lodge

By ANN RILEY

The ladies enjoyed a workfree morning today as the men prepared and served breakfast from 8 to 10 a. m. in the recreation hall.

However, it will be the ladies turn next Saturday. On that day they will serve a pot-luck dinner in the recreation hall beginning at 7 p. m.

Life at Park Avalon Trailer Lodge, 750 E. Carson St., Torrance, continues to revolve around the recreation hall.

The Tuesday evening bingo games there continue to attract large crowds, but there is still room for more players. The same applies to the Wednesday evening card games.

The hall was also the scene of the first social hour of the season and some 40 residents and their guests enjoyed a picture on tuna fishing shown by Mr. Davis.

Four former residents of the Gardena Trailer Lodge, Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Irene Sheetz, Mrs. Frances Plantz and Florence Lockbrom entertained a group of their former Gardena neighbors at a luncheon in the recreation hall. The hall was tastefully decorated in yellow.

AMONG THOSE attending the luncheon was Mrs. Ida Anthoney, Mrs. Delene Roberts and Mrs. Betty Schadle.

Managers Merle and Bernice Herbert entertained Mr. and Mrs. Gordon from Avalon Carson Trailer Park and Mrs. Jack Cable from Starlight Trailer Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeCette of South Pasadena visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Emery.

New tenants at Park Avalon include Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alberson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. William Denman, all of whom formerly lived in Avalon Carson Trailer Park.

Sign Top Act for Big Show

With the announcement that entertainment king, Louis Armstrong would head the all-industry dinner-dance Friday, Oct. 23 at the Chi Chi, climaxing Trailer Coach Association's Ninth Annual Travel Trailer Show and Rally at Palm Springs, John O'Connor, TCA executive director, also announced completion of plans for a full range of other activities.

High-style fashion creator George Beebe of Palm Springs will once again stage the Friday noon fashion show, planned for dealers' wives. Howard Manor Hotel, scene of past shows, will again host the show-luncheon, set for 1 p.m. with a price of $3 placed on the event.

The all-industry Golf Tournament will again be held at Indian Wells Country Club, located 14 miles south of Palm Springs on Indio Highway. The first tee-off time is at 8 a.m., according to Show Committee Chairman, Roy Clayton, president of Terry Coach Mfg. Co.

Other social activities to follow on "Playday," according to Entertainment Committee Co-Chairmen Bernie Miller and Warner Hamlen, will be the always popular Chuckwagon breakfast in the South Palm Canyon, also scheduled for 8 a.m. Guitar music by strolling troubadors will highlight an old-fashioned feed of flapjacks, eggs, ham and coffee.

According to Clayton, more than 2,000 feet of new-model travel trailers will be on the exhibit line at the Polo Grounds. Exclusive industry days are from Oct. 21 through 23. Public will be admitted free starting at Friday noon, Oct. 23.

Record Holiday Season Brightens U. S. Outlook

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

It's Christmas in the wholesale markets with merchants preparing for a record holiday season and a record sales total for all of 1959.

Income of consumers is high. The experts estimate that disposable income for the nation will approximate an annual rate of $344 billion in the fourth quarter, a gain of $21 billion over a year ago. Disposable income is personal income after taxes—spending money.

International Statistical Bureau looks for consumer spending for the remainder of the year to exceed the gain in income.

* * * *

IT IS EXPECTED the general public will buy heavily of both durable and non-durable goods with the greater gain in the durables. This is a sign of prosperity. In times of recession, consumers switch their buying to necessities and avoid the durables. Durables include appliances and automobiles.

Automobile men look for an increase of 12 per cent or more in sales for December.

In the areas which haven't been hit by the steel strike, merchants look for heavier buying of higher priced items generally and a tendency to buy more luxury items.

Not a small amount of the buying for the remainder of the year will add to consumer credit totals, including department store charge accounts and instalment credit.

Prof. Thomas G. Gies of the University of Michigan, discussing consumer credit, has produced an interesting figure on the value of durable goods now held by consumers. Allowing for depreciation, he places this figure at an astounding $200 billion.

* * * *

PROFESSOR GIES LOOKS FOR sharp advances in instalment credit and wouldn't be surprised to see the figure mount to $100 billion in the next two decades, more than double the current figure.

Consumer credit currently is around $45 billion and the experts look for it to mount during the remainder of the year a rapid rate despite tight money at high rates of interest. All of which reflects confidence by the consumers, the economists point out.

Should there be a lessening of international tensions, as many think may come, the tendency on the part of consumers would be to spend more and save less, according to mercantile economists.

Helping the retail trade volume this year, the several factors are topped by increasing employment which has generated better consumer psychology. Store executives find consumers in a better buying mood.

* * * *

IT IS ESTIMATED that the volume of goods sold during the holidays will rise 7 per cent or more over the levels of last year. And last year set a record high in holiday trading and in sales generally.

Stores selling better and higher priced merchandise to make a more favorable showing than those handling medium-low and lower-priced items as the tastes rise to luxuries and semi-luxuries.

International statistical bureau believes the Christmas 1959 atmosphere will be one of the most favorable in history.

"It will be sufficient to result in the greatest gift giving year on record," says the bureau which watches and reports on details of trade.

"Public buying of more expensive items will be evident. This will be favorable to new items introduced."

The bureau looks for a gain of 10 per cent in December sales of furniture and appliances, and expects the trend to durable goods demand to continue upward for more months, probably through the first half of 1960 and possibly through the third quarter of 1960.

Colored Cards for Christmas

NEW YORK (UPI) — New color photography processes have made possible the latest in Christmas greetings — color portrait cards. Introduced four years ago, they will be available throughout the United States this year for the first time.

The portrait photographs are taken by studio photographers.

Bust of Lincoln Up Soon

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — world's largest bronze head of Abraham Lincoln will soon take its place at the highest point of the transcontinental highway that bears his name.

The head was sculptured in clay by University of Wyoming Prof Robert Russin and cast in bronze at the famous Fundicion Artistica Foundry in Mexico City.

It will go into place Oct. 18 looking out over U. S. Highway 30—the Lincoln Highway —at the route's highest point, 9,000 feet above sea level, about 10 miles southeast of here.

* * * *

RUSSIN MADE 63 separate plaster sections of his clay bust and shipped them to Mexico City. He personally supervised the casting into bronze and accompanied the statue from Mexico City back here by train.

The bronze head, which represents Lincoln during the war years, stands 12½ feet high. With its base of rough-cut native red granite, it will rise 43 feet and weigh three tons.

The unveiling will be the realization of a 12-year-old dream for Russin.

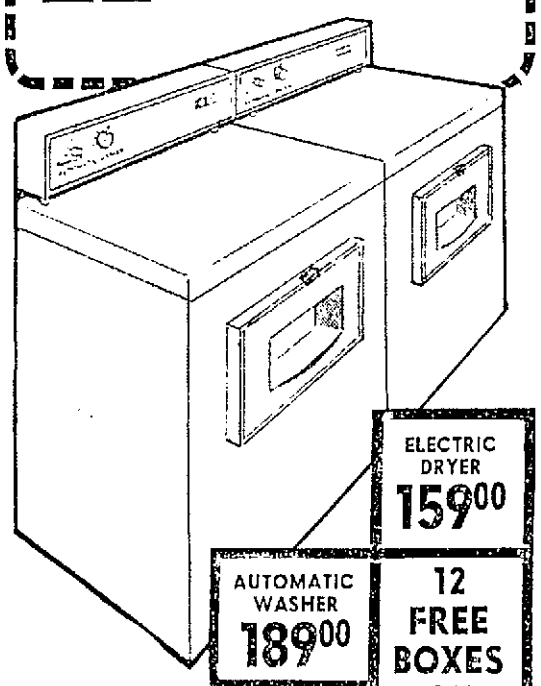

* * * *

"WE STOPPED at the summit once and I told my wife that it seemed to me to be a wonderful place for a head of Lincoln," he explained.

Come on in, Santa... the Water's Fine!

EXPERTS IN BUSINESS OF YULE DECOR—traditional or startling—members of Community Hospital Auxiliary demonstrate their prowess with purpose each holiday season by staging Christmas Decor Tour through outstanding homes as hospital benefit. This year's tour, centered in Los Cerritos area, is slated from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Dec. 3 under chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Goosman. Santa's helper, Mrs. William Todd, perches on diving board to decorate floating Christmas tree, while Mrs. Rustan Hicks checks wiring in colorful candy cane to be seen in one of six tour homes.—(Staff photo by Roger Coar.)

Community Hospital Unit Sets Decor Tour Dec. 3

By JOYCE KENT

Entertaining out-of staters during the Christmas season?

Be sure and include on their sightseeing itinerary Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary's Christmas Decor Tour Dec. 3.

Nothing will sell them more completely on the charm and wonder of Southern California than its answer to the White Christmas. A gaily decorated Christmas tree — bright sunlight reflecting on the baubles — afloat in a swimming pool!

* * * *

On view from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, 4225 Chestnut Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Frank, 4004 Country Club Dr.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rodgers, 4235 Country Club Dr.; Dr. and Mrs. Max Hirschman, 4220 Virginia Rd.; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Schug, 611 Devon Pl., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peterson, 312 Devon Pl.

Although still two months away, the tour has been in planning since early summer under chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Goosman. Serving on her committee are Mmes Bruce Zacher, Earl D. Jones, Elmer E. Lenz, John J. Erwin and Everett Christensen.

* * * *

TEA WILL be served throughout the day in two homes, while the other four will be set up for sale of Christmas cards, gifts, homemade cookies, candy and fruitcake. Hostesses include Mmes. Orville Harper, Archie Belshe, J. Malcolm Johnson, Don R. King, Wayne Kalayjian and Royal Stanton.

Tickets which will be available from any auxiliary member are being handled by Mrs. George Moore. Other chairmen are Mrs. Lyle Gardner, cookies; Mrs. William Sparrer, candy, and Mmes. Glenn Manning and Richard Hoard, fruitcakes.

BPW Clubs Spotlighting Women's Role in Business

Throughout the nation there are 3,426 Business and Professional Women's Clubs with more than 174,000 members intent not only on celebrating National Business Women's Week, which begins today, but on informing the general public of the tremendous role women play in the over-all success of American business.

The four local BPW clubs — Long Beach National, Margaret Ives, Manuela Nieto and Belmont Shore — join forces each year in sponsoring activities of the week. Major event is a citywide contest to select the year's most outstanding careerist and bestow upon her the title, "Miss or Mrs. Business and Professional Woman of Long Beach."

AN IMPARTIAL panel of judges makes the final selection, scoring contestants for a wide variety of attributes in addition to career accomplishment.

Contestants are suggested for the title by clubs to which they belong, employers, fellow employes or organizations aware of their exceptional abilities and background. Finalists are, and have been throughout the three year history of the contest, of such outstanding caliber that each could wear the crown.

However, only one can be the winner and she will be named at a gala banquet at the Petroleum Club Monday evening. This year's contest judges, chairmanned by Mary Lou Zehms, Women's Editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram, are Mrs. Julia Arri, president, Sierra Mar District BPW; Vito Romans, manager, Long Beach Retailer's Assn.; Vernon Hinze, principal, Lakewood High School; June Doherty, executive secretary, International Beauty Congress; and Antoinette Oster, well known local business woman. Lois Smith, classified advertising manager of the I-PT, last year's winner, will make the presentation to her successor.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, president of Long Beach State College, will be distinguished guest speaker of the evening. Special entertainment will be provided by Jean Hockney, soprano, LBSC coed.

'ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE'

Community Players Will Raise Curtain on Big Awards Party

By Iola Masterson

With the general theme, "All the World's a Stage," third annual awards dinner of Long Beach Community Playhouse will be presented next Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Petroleum Club. From curtain to curtain—or, in this case, from salad to dessert—the night will provide a bountiful share of suspense, drama, entertainment and originality.

For suspense, seldom does anything on stage come close to topping the tingling excitement that always builds up to the moment when presentation of awards to best actors and actresses of the year are made.

CANDIDATES for honors this year are being made public today by Morris Holmquist, chairman of the awards committee, which sifted and compared talents of players after each production, then made final selection by secret ballot.

Competitors are: leading male actor—Theo Boyd, Marvin Cloyd, Keith Houdyshell, Salvatore Mango and Bill McIntyre; best leading woman — Kathy Davis Crump and Jeannie Danis; best supporting actor—Phil Hattery, Lloyd Martin, Rodney McKindric and Art Schwerin; best supporting actress—Claudene Atkinson, Ferne Branstetter and Alvetta Kay. No selections were made this year for best juvenile or bit part.

THE "MRS. WALTER CASE AWARDS" were named in honor of the woman who directed the theater's destinies for 30 years and is currently still very active, serving as business administrator. Popularly known as "Ethels," 37 of the golden statuettes have been awarded since the annual event began.

Plays of the year will be featured in conversational table decorations being arranged by Grace Hurt assisted by Betty Ledridge and in skits to be staged under direction of Art Schwerin. Best play of the year will be determined by popular vote of next Sunday's dinner guests.

* * * *

GUEST OF honor at a 6:30 p.m. reception preceding dinner will be Herbert Yenne, long time and popular director of the Playhouse, who moved to Colorado on retirement a few years ago. Greeting guests with Yenne will be Mrs. Case, Larry Johns, current director, and members of the board of directors.

"Production managers" of the evening are June Doherty, dinner chairman; Marvin Cloyd, Playhouse president, and Salvatore Mungo, master of ceremonies.

SUSPENSEFUL as hit mystery drama (final scene, third act!) for Long Beach Community Playhouse actors and actresses will be next Sunday's third annual awards banquet at Petroleum Club. June Doherty (left), dinner chairman, and Marvin Cloyd, Players' president, both know big question Sunday, however, won't be "who done it?" but "who won it?" They are pictured with Mrs. Walter Case Award statuettes—known as "Ethels"—to be presented to best players of year. Total of 37 have been awarded to date.—(Staff photo.)

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

HERE WE are in the middle of a wonderful series—(pardon!)—season, we mean, and the bases (wups) days are loaded—(no, no, the word is filled)—filled with rhubarbs—(that isn't right either!) The days are filled with talk about . . . ah, to heck with it. The days are filled with talk about ball and we don't mean dance. CHARGE!

"Charge"

(And don't youse Bums forget youse is Angels now).

The Salvation Army's civilian Christmas committee got in some snappy batting practice early Wednesday morning at the Lafayette Hotel, setting plans to help that wonderful outfit with all phases of its holiday cheer program. On the mound was chairman Margery Procter, pitching ideas like it was the top of the ninth and nobody out.

Catching (on) fast were team mates Corrine Fay, chairman of the board of directors, Ellsworth Beam, Wes Rollo, Norman Masterson, Gene Bishop and Army men, Major Howard Sloan and Lt. Lee Lindsay. They know there will be at least 15,000 people who will need help during the holidays and that means everyone trying to provide that help has got to play head's up ball for charity.

Incidentally, if any sorority or club would like to join the team—for an inning or the whole game—just call Major Sloan at the Salvation Army office.

IT WAS a round tripper and everyone safe for "Sandy" and Dick Morgan and Helen and Dr. Larry Spaulding who returned Wednesday morning from a European vacation. They left Aug. 28 by stratocruiser for such un-series conscious places as England (rugby, anyone?), France (en garde?), Austria (bicycling?), Switzerland (shall we climb?), Germany, Holland and Ireland. Why did they come back to the U.S. so soon? Are you KIDDING?

* * * *

POUNDING around third and ready to slide home are Mattie and Kenny Henry. Newly acquired by the Alamitos Heights League, they'll settle into their new clubhouse on Ultimo Ave. in a day or two. Maybe they've stolen a base on us and are heading for the showers out there right now.

* * * *

INTERNATIONAL education has another new and charming ambassadress in the person of Patricia Ann Carmody, daughter of Rita and Dick Carmody, who left Stanbridge Ave. Pat left last month for Spain and now is in Madrid (where did it finish in the pennant race?) where she will attend the U. of Madrid for the next year, "farmed out" from studies at Occidental with other Oxy coeds.

THEY POPPED out on a high fly Thursday morning. In other words, we're trying to tell you that Fern and Edwin Richards flew away on a jet 707 for Washington, D. C. to spend a week, then New York for a week, Boston for a week, back to New York for a week, and then home. Friends are keeping the Richards' television set well exercised for them, you can be sure, while they bird-sit with Fern and Edwin's many fine, feathered. Really.

CAUGHT 'EM looking at Jim Crooker's Chevvie emporium Tuesday night. The grandstands were packed with fans getting a preview glimpse at the traditional cocktail party ushering in the new model season. There were so many people it was something like the pitcher's view of the Coliseum will be today. A few of those seen scouting the situation were Lois and Bill Smith, Betty and Tom McCrae, Marge and Al Davis, Bill Kummer, Margaret and Bill Wallace, Peggy Gates (Earl was in Chicago, where else?), Werner Ruchtl, "Mac" and Ruth Todd, Mary and Reg Barden, Peggy and George Cain, Ginny and Bob Hall, Hester and Brewster Gray (foreign car dealer Bruce was watching play pretty close in the opposing club's little league material), George Craig, Marvin Davis and Dick Browning (U. S.-type car dealer Richard always scouts the opposition like this. For him it's an Olds, Olds story).

* * * *

WILY PARTY managers Barbara and Jack London and Jimmie and Don Nutter are switching strategy in their plans for today. They're co-hosting what started out to be a splash party at the Nutter's ocean front home. However, they've reversed the batting order and are pinch hitting with a watch and cheer affair at least during game time. They've rounded up enough portable TV sets to convert any place on the strand into a front seat in the stands for their guests. In addition to peanuts and Crackerjack they'll keep the fans happy with a smoked turkey dinner.

"Strand stand"

THERE'S going to be some mighty fine viewing provided by all three leagues today — American, National and Assistance. While two of them keep busy with hickory and horsehide in another part of the county, Assistance Leaguers will "take to the field" at their own clubhouse, 4th and Nieto, from 1 to 5 p.m. to hostess an Oriental tea and open house. The public is invited to come to the party and see the many art treasures from the Far East at league headquarters.

President Marian Ritner and Jerry Green, tea chairman, will greet guests with members of the board, Dorothy Goodknight, chairman of the league's exceptional collection of art objects, and her committee will escort visitors and explain to them the history of the various treasures.

BATTING 1000% as party hosts were Delphine and Charles Wagner at their sparkling midnight buffet party following the Pops Concert last Saturday in honor of Amparo Iturbi, concert guest artist. About 80 guests enjoyed the extra inning of pleasure. Among those who chatted over punch, served around the pool, then chose delectable food from the Polynesian inspired buffet fare were Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra director Lauris Jones and his wife, Jean, Mrs. Iturbi's daughter and grandson, plus Donna and Lee Foust, the Rex Hodges, Carolyn and Don Raney, Esther Bly, Laura and Ed Killingsworth, Jessie Lee and Don Malcolm, Evelyn and Walter Scott and the upcoming young artist, Francesco Sorianello. Assisting the hosts were Florence Wagner, Jean Doody, Mrs. Ina Wagner and the hosts' daughter, Lynnette.

AT COMISKEY Park the White Sox were hosts on Friday but at the Petroleum Club it was the Nylon Hose who stole the spotlight as Vi Hunter and Marion Groshong co-hostessed a welcome to fall card luncheon. If there were any runs it wasn't off Dresdale but on an accidental snag. The group of 60 women present included several of Vi's new found friends from Friendly Hills (that figures) as well as long time friends from Long Beach. Following punch on the terrace and luncheon all players were on deck — bridge or canasta, that is.

Balboa Bay Club Dinner Honors Newlywed Pair

Judge and Mrs. Frank C. Charvat entertained recently at a family dinner at Balboa Bay Club honoring the marriage of their daughter, Jean, to William Howard Culver in Santa Barbara.

The newlyweds are at home in Los Angeles following a honeymoon trip to Catalina and Santa Ynez Valley.

Mrs. Culver received her early schooling in Long Beach and was graduated from Stanford University. She was awarded a certificate of merit following a year's study at the Sorbonne in Paris, and later earned a master's degree in European history at USC.

* * * *

SHE NOW is working toward a doctorate in history at USC and has been elected to membership in Phi Alpha Theta.

Her husband, son of William Sloan Culver of Appleton, Wis., and the late Ruth Tufts Culver, received a bachelor of science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Xi. He received his master's degree at UCLA, and will receive his doctorate in physics at that school next June.

Fleet Officers Wives Meeting

Fleet Officers Wives Club will meet Thursday at 11:45 a.m. in Allen Center for cocktails. After luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Hisashi Ohta of Kamakura, Japan, will demonstrate Sumi painting and will judge a few Japanese articles that husbands have brought from Japan. Ohta is an instructor at Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles and conducts a class in Sumi painting in Long Beach.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Vernice Putman.

Long Beach Woman Holds Top Presidential Placement

Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr. of Long Beach is one of 10 California women holding top Presidential appointments, a survey, "Women in the Public Service, 1959," reveals. The summary, published annually by the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, is the sole U.S. source of data on women's progress at national, state, and county levels of politics and government.

The record shows that during his two administrations, President Dwight D. Eisenhower has appointed 218 women to high-level positions in government, the diplomatic service, on boards and commissions. An additional 190 appointments by cabinet officials and agency heads brings the total to 408.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, a 37-percent spurt in a single year has shot to an all-time high the number of women holding statewide elective positions. A peak number, 347, sit in state legislatures, in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The number of women elected to the U.S. Congress remains at its crest of 17, first reached in 1955. Today 41 women serve as elected secretaries of state, state auditors, judges, superintendents of public instruction or in other state elective posts. This is an increase of 11 over the 1958 figure.

* * * *

MRS. TAUBMAN serves as alternate U.S. representative, Executive Board, United Nations Children's Fund. She recently has returned from a meeting of the UNICEF executive board at United Nations, New York.

Other California appointees to important posts are Dr. Ruth Abernathy, Los Angeles; Dr. Anna Espenschade, Berkeley; Mmes. Rollin Brown, Los Angeles; Norman Chandler, Los Angeles; Faye Hartman, San Diego; Helen F. Lengfeld, San Mateo; Mildred Younger, Los Angeles; Ben Gage, Los Angeles, and Miss Frances E. Willis, Redlands.

DBE Meet Tuesday

Lord Kitchener Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, will meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Guild Hall of St. Luke's Episcopal Church. Mrs. A. J. Newton reminds members to take donations for the Oct. 24 bazaar.

Boating Luau Sets Pace for Local Party 'Pirates'

There wasn't a more gleeful crowd in the country last Saturday than fans and fellow guests of Mary Alice and Les Dahl and Caroline and Bill Hardcastle when the two couples entertained at a "boating luau."

"Or Facsimile"

In Hawaiian dress, or reasonable facsimile, the natives met at the Dahls for 1 p.m. cocktails. Then, in less time than it takes to say, "Pirates," they acted like same boarding the hosts' boats for a harbor cruise, returning about the bottom of the ninth or a little later.

Partaking of the day's pleasures were Marvelle and Bob McNulty, Artice and "Nick" Nicolaus, Madge and Hal Halvorsen, Otto Beck, Agnes Evans, Ralph Smith, Zelma Schooling, Louise and Lee Waldron, Leona and Glenn Price, Florence Durham (George was off hunting), Ed Strong, Barbara Hardcastle and Diane Dahl.

Hawaii Comes to Benny

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
L. P-T Women's Editor

Thirty years ago a young man left his home in Hawaii with nothing more than talent and ambition to sail for the California coast. Under his arm was a ukulele. He was determined to become the best uke player and singer in the United States. And he did. Now, 30 years later, after fulfilling this desire, Benny Nawahi, called "King of the Ukulele," is residing in Long Beach. He never has returned to the islands to visit his 10 brothers and sisters.

Since Benny couldn't go to them, one of his older sisters, Mrs. Louisa Helenihi, has come to him. Mother of 15 grown children, and a grandmother many times, Mrs. Helenihi arrived last month for an extended visit in the Southland with Benny and a daughter, Mrs. Verl Sullivan of Buena Park.

* * * *

IT HAS taken her many years to realize this trip. It was possible only because she earned extra money by making orchid leis for passengers arriving each week in Honolulu aboard the SS Lurline or other Matson passenger ships. On some occasions she would make all the leis herself; other days, when extra large orders would come in, she would recruit the neighbor women to help her string the delicate vanda orchids which later would be placed around the necks of incoming vacationers to the islands as they were greeted with "Alcha."

"We are a happy, contented race," said the kindly lady. "We never rush around like you Americans. I doubt if any of the native Hawaiians have ulcers... in fact, a doctor would go broke if he specialized in ulcer treatment."

* * * *

"WE ARE a laisse-faire peoples. Although delighted to become the 50th state in the union, it didn't make too much difference, really. Live and let live has been our philosophy of life. Playing the ukulele, singing at family gatherings (we have family dinners at the drop of a hat), preparing our meals, tending the flowers in our gardens and rearing our children to be honest workers and good citizens ... these earthy things concern the natives most," said the gentlewoman from Wahiawa on her first visit to California.

IT'S A PLEASURE for Mr. and Mrs. Benny Nawahi, left, to fete Benny's sister, Mrs. Louisa Helenihi of Hawaii, on first trip to U. S. The brother and sister have not seen each other for 30 years.—(Staff photo by Joe Risinger.)

A lot of reminiscing is going on at the Nawahi home, 848 Washington Pl., as Benny and Louisa try to gap the 30 years. An interested third party is Benny's lovely Danish-born wife, Betty who has been a dancer and entertainer for many years, but now retired.

Newspapers and national magazines have, in the past quarter of a century, carried accounts of Benny's career. Perhaps his best-known role was that of "Little Jakie" in Sid Grauman's Prologue to the "Big Parade." Not only did he popularize the part of the soldier ukulele player in the play, but later on radio from coast-to-coast.

* * * *

NAMES SUCH as Jack Benny, Paul Ash, Will Rodgers and others drop from his lips as he recalls the star-studded early days of his career. But here, he will be remembered best by his round-trip swim to Santa Catalina Island in 1946. He swam to Catalina, then turned right around and swam back to this shore ... a feat never accomplished before or since. This powerfully built musician never has been in the water since, not even to swim in a back-yard pool!

Benny became blind several year ago. He has so many songs in his repertoire that he still does nightclub entertaining with his uke and electric guitar.

For 26 years, Betty has been his companion and wife and now more than ever, She spends her time doing housewifely chores, embroiders, works in their flower garden, and drives him to and from his nightly engagements.

On entering the Nawahi home one feels the peace and contentment which emanates from these kindly people who are our neighbors and friends across the Pacific. Vases in their home overspill with beautiful floral arrangements and the Oriental decor abounds in furniture appointments; for Betty, who comes of royal Danish lineage, has adapted herself to her husband's philosphy and way of life.

WBA Will Meet for Lunch Tuesday

Color Guard Will Open Ebell Year

A military color guard and official greeting from the City of Long Beach will mark ceremonies opening the current club season of Ebell of Long Beach at 1:30 p. m. Monday in Ebell Auditorium.

Mrs. Harold O. Gray, legislation chairman, is in charge of opening ceremonies. Mrs. Arthur A. Knoll, president, will lead the meeting, introducing members of her executive board.

* * * *

PROGRAM feature will be the First Operetta Group, presenting a streamlined one-hour version of "The Merry Widow." Performing in costume will be Keith Wyatt, Olive Rice, Philip Harvey and Sally Hazzard with Harper MacKay as director-accompanist. They will be presented by Mrs. Everett N. Moringstar, program chairman.

Board of director members will greet guests in the lounge following the program. Mrs. L. H. Brewer and her hospitality committee will serve tea in the patio and dining room.

Dr. Miller Will Screen Color Slides

Selected from his personal file of more than 25,000 Kodachrome slides taken in 20 different countries are the "Saga of Switzerland" pictures to be shown by Dr. Wendell L. Miller at a meeting of Woman's City Club, 1:30 p.m. Friday in the clubhouse, 1309 E. 3rd St.

Dr. Miller traveled with the American Seminar throughout Europe for three consecutive years, making a first-hand study of the land and its leaders. A lecturer and photographer of note, his "Saga of Switzerland" depicts the awe-inspiring color and contour of the Alpine scenery, with anecdotes and descriptions along the way. He will be presented by Mrs. Blanche Herdman, program chairman.

* * * *

MRS. LUCILLE E. Swenson, president, will introduce her appointed officers from the stage.

Mrs. Kathryn Langdon will entertain with organ selections prior to the meeting hour.

Reservations for noon luncheon are necessary and may be made with Mrs. Gertrude Landsworth before Wednesday evening.

Demo Women's Study Club Will Hear U. N. Discussion

A talk on United Nations will be presented by Dr. Harry S. May, at the afternoon session of Democratic Women's Study Club Wednesday in Wilton Hotel Pagcant Room.

The speaker will be introduced by Mrs. Edward B. Rinearson following noon luncheon.

Activities will open with a 10 a.m. business session conducted by Mrs. F. Glenn Agee, president. Mrs. Ethel B. Reid will report on progress of "Dollars for Democrats" drive and important legislation and current events will be reveiwed.

* * * *

MORNING TREAT will be the film, "Long Beach, City of Vision," narrated by Miss Dorothy Miller of the Long Beach Police Dept. She will be presented by Mrs. L. H. Jarnagin.

Luncheon reservations, with the public welcome, may be made with Mrs. Frank Parker, 138 Hermosa Ave.

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted's on Stump for Young Citizens

By TED KREC

I'm not particularly a "defender of the faith" for young people—most of the kids I know today are pretty self-sufficient. But recently a situation came to my attention which I believe is worthy of notice.

You hear plenty of bad things about young people—gang wars, juvenile crime, motorcycle mobs, switchblade knives — but you don't hear the good side of the story. This is unfortunate, because the ones who get the bad notices in the news actually are a small minority. Most of the kids are plenty OK and grow up to be useful citizens.

OL' TED

But nothing much is said about these youngsters who are trying to learn and trying to win a place in society—and even when they DO try, they don't get much encouragement from many people.

I'll give you a classic case in point. Recently two young people of my acquaintance had a date. It was a special occasion, because the young lady was leaving on vacation. Her youthful escort, wanting to do something really nice, telephoned a restaurant in Laguna Beach and made dinner reservations for two, specifically stating that he wanted a table overlooking the ocean.

THE KIDS put on their Sunday best—they're both as neat as pins—and went down to Laguna. When they arrived at the restaurant, they found that the girl who answered the phone for the restaurant had misunderstood and reserved a table for 10.

Despite the fact that there were only two other people in the restaurant, the kids were kept waiting 40 minutes, and then they were given a table behind a partition near the kitchen! Naturally, a good deal of the joy of the occasion was erased by this callous and unnecessary action. There were plenty of empty tables overlooking the ocean, but when the management saw they were "just kids," there was no interest in them.

This is not only cruel, it is foolhardy. Those kids are growing up fast, and soon they will be adults. Do you think they'll have happy memories about that place and go back again? Well, would you? I can remember the people who gave me short shrift when I was a kid, and I have a cold spot in my soul for them yet today.

What's more, this isn't the first time this same thing has happened to young folks I know. They've received the same treatment in Hollywood and Los Angeles.

Why do restaurants do this? I can give you a good guess. When they take the reservation, they don't know that the callers are young people who do not drink. Liquor is a big moneymaker in the restaurant business today — so since the kids are not going to be big drinkers, the restaurants don't want to be bothered.

EVERYONE carps about young people — you can hear plenty of stuff about how they have no interest in important things—only hot rods, hot music, weird movies and rock 'n' roll. But when kids TRY to do something good, TRY to fit into our social life, they are chastised.

How can we expect young people to grow into an accepted social pattern of dress and behavior if they never are given a chance to try?

I think my young friend who was "rousted" in Laguna showed much more tolerance than I would have under a similar situation. Certainly he showed more than the operators of the restaurant. The mistake was the restaurant's, not the young couple's.

You remember when you were a youngster—particularly when you were a teenager—you felt rebuffs most keenly. Everyone should remember this when dealing with young folks. I don't care how old a person is, he has two God-given things which are important to him —pride and personal opinion. He is entitled to these things—they are his. If you take away either one, in my book you're a Fascist!

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Things are beginning to happen on the Long Beach State activities front.

Two sororities were busy with retreats last weekend. The Sigma Kappas were at Balboa and the Alpha Phi standard bearers were at Big Bear. In each case, the business at hand centered around closer relationships between actives and pledges and plans for the busy year ahead. Actually, Alpha Phi made it a long weekend with a Friday night potluck dinner at the home of Betty Soupos before attending the Hello Day Dance.

* * * *

IT ALSO IS a matter of knowledge that Saturday night after the football game with San Francisco State, Phi Kappa Tau fraternity sponsored the year's first after-the-game dance. Hope those present were in a festive mood, but we went to press before the score was available. Incidentally, a pat on the back to PKT pledges for their fine job in maintaining the scoreboard near the cafeteria during the National League pennant-clincher. You could see those Dodger runs halfway across campus, fellows!

And we admit that the Newman Club has not tried to cover up the fact that it is hosting an open house this coming Thursday evening in the Soroptimist House. Refreshments and dancing are on tap at this event, with a special invitation extended to all Catholic students and friends of the LBSC Newman Club.

National President Will Speak at Founders Fete

Mrs. Joseph Campbell of Denver, Colo., national president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, will be guest speaker at the Long Beach Alumnae Assn. Founders Day banquet at 6:30 p.m. Monday in Lakewood Country Club.

The event marks the 89th anniversary of the establishment of the national organization at Monmouth, Ill.

While in Long Beach Mrs. Campbell is visiting with her son, Joe Campbell, 243 Granada Ave., president of Long Beach Young Republicans. She also will be dinner guest Tuesday evening of Mrs. John D. Walker, 4029 Cedar Ave. Later in the week she and Mrs. Walker will visit in San Diego, and on Saturday will be guests of Southern California Area Council of Kappa Kappa Gamma at luncheon in Beverly Hills.

Mrs. Joseph Campbell

Mrs. Campbell is serving her second two-year term as national president. A native of Colorado, she received her bachelor of arts degree from University of Colorado where she was a member of Beta Mu Chapter of Kappa. She has been adviser to her chapter, president of Eta Province which includes Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, national director of membership and alumnae, and assistant to the director of alumnae in the West.

Dance Studio to Perform on Monday

Frances Bowling dance studio will present "Dance Varieties" on the Community Program, sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Dept. in Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Monday evening.

Dances featured on the show will be "Something Special" by Beverlyn Griffin, "Cordoba" with Gloria Flores, "Jazz Time" with Charles Culver, and a number by Wynne Wilson. "Alegrias" will be performed by Miss Bowling and Gloria Flores. The story of "Le Beau Danube" also will be presented.

COMMUNITY singing will open the program at 7:30 p.m. conducted by Carl H. Robertson with Regenia Beam as accompanist.

There is no admission to this civic program.

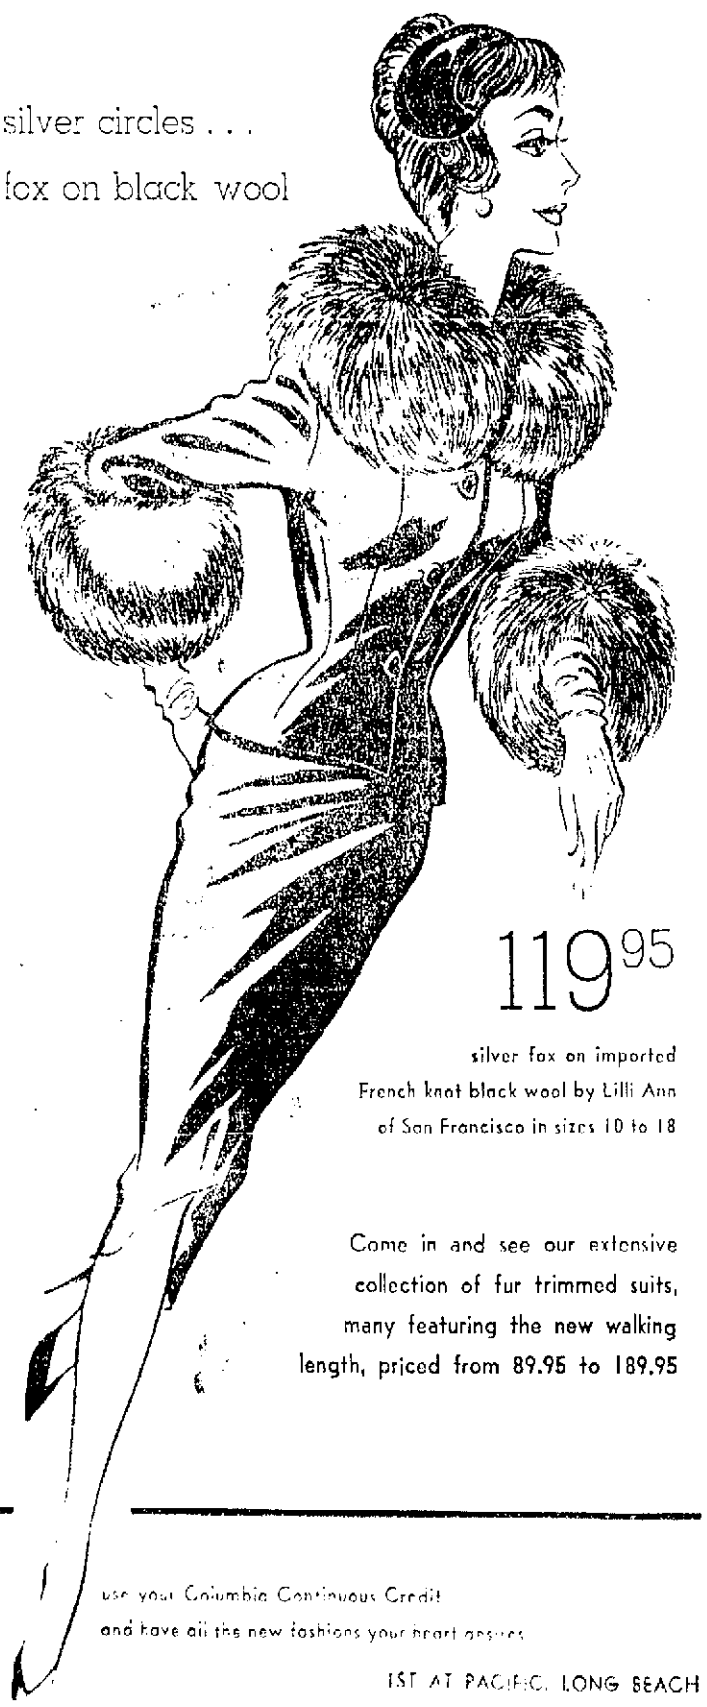

Educator to Be Guest

Dr. Earl Bolton, executive vice president of the University of Southern California, will address Long Beach District of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Assn., Friday at 11:45 a.m. in Lafayette Hotel Supper Room.

Dr. Bolton has just returned from Washington with pictures and factual information for his talk, "The U. S. Is Losing the Cold War Without a Shot Being Fired."

Members are urged to attend and bring guests. Reservations may be made with Mmes. A. E. Forster, R. C. White and William Eddy. Hostesses will be Mmes. Gustavus Rock, Harold Nobling, Walter Welton, Elliston Farrell, Lavanne Sansum and Ben K. Parks.

List PBW Week Events

National BPW, coordinating efforts of the four Long Beach clubs. Serving on her executive committee are Mrs. Kathryn Campbell; Mrs. Alberta McKay, president of Margaret Ives; Mrs. Laura Jane Walter; Mrs. Opal Landy, president of Manuela Nieto; Mrs. Stella Roquemore; Miss Sadie Michnick and Miss Rita Dugan, president of Belmont Shore.

Theme for the special week, "A Right Turn to a Confident Future," points up basic purpose of the organization, largest group in the world devoted entirely to affairs of all business and professional women, which is to better the status of working women. To accomplish this, BPW clubs have worked tirelessly since the federation was established in 1919 to help women prepare for posts of leadership in community, state and nation; to help them advance in their careers; and, underscoring all efforts, to insist that conditions be established, and constantly maintained or bettered, to assure women, and men as well, opportunities to develop to their fullest capacities.

* * * *

NOW FIRMLY established in 26 countries, our own National Federation of BPW can point proudly to some magnificent accomplishments for women at both state and national level. It is credited with obtaining jury service for women and equal pay legislation in many states; obtaining equal status for women in medical services in the armed forces; and has given staunch and telling support in enactment of many other legislative measures to insure women complete equality.

Special Show, Open House for Opera Unit

"With a song in their hearts," members of Long Beach Civic Light Opera Assn. are planning a gala open house to be given in the Tracy Theater, 219 E. Seaside Blvd., Oct. 14 at 8:30 p.m.

A special program entitled "The Best Years of Our Lives" will be presented, and a social hour in the theater Green Room will follow.

Entertainment will feature past, present and future stars of the association in scenes from favorite former productions and a sampling of excerpts from anticipated shows.

* * * *

PERFORMERS who will participate are Patricia Zieg, Harvey Waggoner, James Jay, Betty Kimber, Arthur Carah, James Boyd, Jacqueline McFadden, Cliff Robertson, Henry Brantley, Dolores Burt, Betty Arntzen, Joan Strickland, Roy Malmberg, Ray Quigley, Marjorie Gibson, Patti Hayes and Sydney Cullum.

The production will be written and directed by Betty Kimber. Mrs. E. B. Leihammer will serve as hospitality chairman. Invitations are being prepared by a committee headed by Flora Alton.

Jr. Matrons in Program

Junior Matron Dept. of Ebell will mark opening of the 1959-60 club season with a luncheon and musical program Wednesday noon in the clubhouse.

Mrs. Merton Betts Smith, department chairman, will be assisted by Mmes. Herbert W. Ferguson, Glenn Ballentine and Homer A. Blaisdell as hostesses.

* * * *

MRS. O. GLEN Satterlee has arranged a musical program featuring Merrianna Brinkerhoff, contralto, and Cliff Robertson, baritone, who will entertain with light opera selections.

Mrs. Irma Wolford, chairman of decorations, will be assisted by Mmes. Charles Ritz and George C. Hansen in carrying out an Indian Summer decorative theme.

CANDIDATES AND COSTUMES

BIG WEEK FOR BPW PRESIDENTS

Plan Discussion

A discussion on communism will be presented by Mrs. Frances Larson, member of County Republican Central Committee, when Los Altos Republican Women meet for noon luncheon Tuesday at The Hawaiian. The business session is slated at 1 p.m.

Dr. Moore Will Speak

"Eurasian Challenge to Americans" will be topic of Dr. Wallace Moore of Long Beach State College when he speaks at the first meeting of North Long Beach Women's Club Wednesday in Houghton Park Clubhouse.

Dr. Moore returned recently from a five-week tour around the globe as a representative of the United States Information Agency.

* * * *

COVERED DISH luncheon is planned at noon with members of Group One in charge. Charter members and past presidents will be honored guests.

Mrs. Clay Minnix, president, will conduct the meeting. Music will be by the "Melody Belles."

Executive board members convene at 10 a.m.

Fashion Show

With members as models, Wide Awake Rebekah Lodge 71 will view fall fashions from Penney's during its 8 p.m. meeting Monday in Machinists Hall. Loa Plummer and Marie Buecheare in charge.

A special program and refreshment hour also are planned. A 7:30 p.m. business session called by Bernice Candell, noble grand, will precede the style show.

Dear Abby

He IS Being Human!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who gets all steamed up about a "hobby" and then after spending a fortune on it, drops it?

Our basement is cluttered with fishing equipment, skis, cameras, golf clubs and hunting junk, complete with guns, boots, tents and sleeping bags. All as good as new. I could go on and on!

My husband makes good money, but when I spend $25 on a hat he blows his top. Is he being fair or not?

RUTH

DEAR RUTH: He is NOT being fair, but he IS being human. (How many hats, dresses and pairs of shoes have YOU been all "steamed up about" and later cast aside—as good as new?)

Find out if your husband's hobbies are positively dead or merely deferred. If he has no intentions of reviving his interests, either sell, lend or give away the equipment. But don't let it gather dust and ill will over the years.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and have a best friend (at least I THINK she is my best friend) who comes over to my house and goes through my drawers and closets all the time. She also takes my diary and locks herself in the bathroom while she reads it. What am I going to do?

KATHY

DEAR KATHY: If she is your best friend, look further. I think you can do better.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I will come straight to the point. I am 19, in nurses training and I made a mistake. Should I give my baby up for adoption or should I keep it? The father is a married man so there is no hope for us ever getting together. My parents have left the decision up to me. Please help me do the right thing.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: There are two lives to consider. Your own and the baby's. If you cannot give your child a good home and the proper bringing-up it would be better off being adopted by people who could. If you feel you might have regrets later on, and can afford to keep the child, don't sign anything so final as adoption papers. The decision must be your own.

* * * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO GOOD GIRL: You are using the wrong part of your anatomy. When the "cold shoulder" fails—give him the back of your hand.

* * * *

WHAT'S YOUR problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped-self-addressed envelope.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Upset About 'Clients'

DEAR MOLLY:

Please help me with my brother, Jimmie.

He lives with my dear husband and me, is 26 years old, has done his stint for Uncle Sam, and now has a responsible position with an insurance firm.

Well, last weekend we went away to visit friends, and when we came home a neighbor told me he had staged a wild, but wild, party at our house on Saturday night, and it didn't break up until noon on Sunday. I said there were no evidences of this, and she said he had gotten a cleaning woman to come in and she spent Sunday afternoon tidying up.

She said that several times when we had been away he had had young women there overnight.

Naturally, I was shocked —and embarrassed. Rather than tell my husband, I went straight to Jimmie. He put on his famous "innocent look" and told me he was merely "entertaining clients." Did I mind his trying to make a success in his field, he wanted to know.

Now Molly, what am I to do? I certainly don't like my home regarded as a, shall I say, joint?

FRAN.

DEAR FRAN:

Indeed you don't. And there is one sure way of pulling brother Jimmie up short. Go straight to your husband and tell him how little brother has been acting, and let him talk to Jimmie straight from the noggin.

After all, there's more involved than wild parties and overnight dates.

This young man is taking advantage of your hospitality and bringing discredit to your home. Or, as you more or less suggested, he's turning your home into a house.

War Mothers Meet

Chapter 5, American War Mothers, meets at 1 p.m. Monday in Veterans Bldg. for election of officers. Lorene A. Poland presides.

Local AAUW's Braille Section to Open Classes

Braille Section of the Long Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women announces the beginning of fall classes Oct. 14 in the home of the chairman and instructor, Mrs. Charles C. Park, 3934 Pacific Ave. A morning and an evening class are available to those wishing to learn Braille transcribing at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

As a service section, the Braille Section fulfills needs within the community as requested. Numerous books have been transcribed into Braille for residents in Long Beach such as: three textbooks, "Success in Spelling," for Robert E. Lee school; "Pete the Parakeet," "Animals Everywhere," "Circus Ruckus," "Cinderella," "Just So Stories," "Peter and the World," "Pocahontas and John Smith" and "Sidi-Boy of the Desert" for the library to be located in a recreation center for blind children which is being planned and organized by Long Beach Lions Club; five copies of "Susan and the Milkman" for a project sponsored by the North Long Beach Junior Women's Club; "Poems of John Donne" for a Long Beach student at Pomona College; "Spanish Grammar" for a student at Long Beach State College.

* * * *

COMMUNITIES near Long Beach have placed requests with the AAUW Braille Section. Books were transcribed into Braille for the "Touch and Look Library" sponsored by the Seal Beach P-T.A. for blind mothers to read to their children. These books enable sightless mothers to read to their children just as all other mothers do. Both Braille and print books are available in this library.

Textbooks are in great demand. Transcriptions have been made for the Garden Grove elementary school, for Pasadena elementary school, Montebello Junior High, and Tustin High School.

For the fall classes the number of students is limited. Anyone interested in learning Braille transcribing can do so free, except for cost of supplies, by contacting Mrs. Charles C. Park as soon as possible. Classes are not restricted to AAUW members.

THEY'LL SPEND 'DAY IN COURT' Thomas McCarry, president of Long Beach Bar Assn., flanked by Iris White (left), president of Long Beach Legal Secretaries, and Julia Hurley, governor, join forces in urging all legal secretaries to attend Superior and Municipal Court sessions Tuesday during fourth annual "Day in Court" for secretaries who thus add to knowledge of law, see their routine office paper work "come alive" in actual court procedure. Details in "Career Women's" column.—(Staff photo.)

AMONG CAREER WOMEN

Secretaries Go 'A-Courtin'

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Mayor Raymond C. Kealer, with unanimous approval of the City Council, has proclaimed Tuesday as "Day in Court" for Long Beach Legal Secretaries as a tribute to secretaries in law offices of this community.

Main purpose of this special day, being observed for the fourth year by the secretaries, is to give them an opportunity to attend sessions in both Superior and Municipal Courts under auspices of authorities in order to study, at first hand, the procedures of the courts. All legal secretaries are familiar with court routine, of course, but mainly in a second-hand way from the vantage point of their office work. It's like baking cakes every day but never tasting any of them.

Annual "Day in Court," now national in scope, was originated by Mrs. Robert (Libby) Krause of Long Beach, a past national president as well as past president of the local chapter.

Long Beach and Harbor Bar Assn. presidents consistently have endorsed the event and attorneys are being requested to urge their secretaries to attend a courtroom of their choice during part of the day.

Pilot Club

Pilot Club of Long Beach will entertain the lieutenant governor of District 18, Peg de Jaifre, at its meeting Wednesday night at the La-Jayette Hotel. The official represents 15 California clubs extending from Sacramento to San Diego. For such a visit, the program will follow a 38-year-old tradition of the service women's organization and will consist of reviews by committee chairmen of their accomplishments and objectives to acquaint the visitor with local activities. President LaVey Louk will conduct.

Women Accountants

American Society of Women Accountants will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Lafayette Hotel. President Clara Christe will conduct. Clarence L. Knox, public accountant, will be guest speaker. He is a past president of both the Long Beach and Foothill Chapters of Southern California Accountants and is active in accounting education work through Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division. Knox will be intrnduced by Vera Lyons.

Most important issue to be discussed will be plans for chapter's participation in national ASWA convention to be conducted in San Francisco, Oct. 22-25.

Osteopathic Assistants

Long Beach Osteopathic Medical Assistant's Assn. will entertain at a 3 p.m. get-acquainted tea next Saturday in the library of Long Beach Osteopathic Hospital, 2776 Pacific Ave., to honor new personnel in the various osteopathic doctors' offices here. Carole Mondike (Dr. William H. Coats) is chairman of this strictly social event.

Long Beach was birthplace seven years ago of the now rapidly growing Osteopathic Medical Assistants organization. A statewide association was formed four years ago and increasing numbers of assistants in other states are asking for information relevant to forming new chapters.

Civil War Satire Premiere at La Shell

A satire on the Civil War by Sinclair Lewis, "The Jayhawker," will open at 8:30 p.m. Thursday at La Shell Playhouse, 5381 Long Beach Blvd. It has been announced as the West Coast premiere of the play.

The setting is the new state of Kansas. Ralph Cookson stars as a fast-talking politician, Asa Burdette, who will do anything to get votes as the first Senator from the prairie state. After instigating the war, Burdette tries to stop it by getting the warring factions together to invade Mexico.

TRAVIS BRYAN plays the Rev. Joseph Peavie, a backwoods minister who becomes a general in the Union Army. Gayle Toren plays Burdette's daughter, Pat Miller is Gen. Smallwood, Ralph Richmond is Luke Kildare and Robert Bartlett portrays Will Starling.

Others in the cast are Jim Daugherty, Juanita Kinsella, Elson Irwin, Robert Faircloth, Scott Gaffney, Will Dimmitt, Julian Vochelli, Gary Pinketon, Pony Maples, Patrick Dunavan and John Fife.

Produced by Ben Rombouts, "The Jayhawker" is being directed by Ken Rose of Hollywood.

It is scheduled to run at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays for six weeks.

Lyle Talbot

Lyle Talbot, Wife Billed at Magnolia

A comedy by Norman Krasna, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" debuts at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Veteran Hollywood and Broadway actor Lyle Talbot will star in the play, portraying a mystery writer who concocts an elaborate excuse to get a professor friend off the hook with his wife.

The professor, played by David Roberts, is caught by his wife as he kisses a pretty exchange student. The wife's part is acted by Margaret Abbott who, in reality, is Mrs. Lyle Talbot.

THE PROFESSOR calls in the writer, for an imaginative alibi. The excuse winds up involving the FBI, the Central Intelligence Agency, two showgirls and several Russian spies.

Other parts are taken by Paul Teschke who plays a busy FBI man, Bob Dupre, Jim Baitzell, Dick Fulcher, Ann Conward, Candee Granados, Babette Mann, Walt Tasienski and Nancy Lawrence. Pat Brown is director.

The comedy will run regularly at 8 p.m. Thursdays and Sundays, and 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 8.

Civic Music Assn. Tells Series Dates

An international flavor will prevail in the concert offerings of Long Beach Civic Music Association this season.

The Roberto Iglesias Spanish Ballet, a Sol Hurok attraction, will open the 1959-60 series at Wilson High School Auditorium Nov. 14. Iglesias and his company are especially noted for their Flamenco dancing. Gabriel Banat, the brilliant, young violinist who toured his native Roumania with George Enesco as a sonata team will be presented on Dec. 7.

Feb. 26 will bring to the Wilson Auditorium stage concert pianist Stanley Babin, a native of Israel, now an American citizen. This young artist is well known in the East, having played concerts with the New York Philharmonic and other leading eastern orchestras.

THE LOCALE will change for the fourth and final concert when the Roger Wagner Chorale is presented in the Concert Hall of the Municipal Auditorium March 31.

Civic Music Association operates on a closed membership basis. However, newcomers to the community are given an opportunity to obtain memberships at this time of the year. The Association secretary, Mrs. Alfred H. Durfee, 1550 Armando Dr. may be contacted for information concerning membership this week.

AGO Concerts

First of a series of four concerts to be presented by the Long Beach Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will feature the Gregg Smith Singers Tuesday in First Presbyterian Church, 6th St. and Locust Ave., at 8:30 p.m.

This excellent group of young singers from Los Angeles has become internationally known with performances in the Brussels World's Fair, the Salzburg Festival, the International Eisteddfod in Wales and throughout the United States.

SIGNS OF THE TIME

Joe Soldate shows Early American watch sign to Carie Van Deman who holds weather vane. Both items are in forthcoming art exhibit at LBSC.

Early American Spirit Seen in Signs, Symbols

The signs and symbols of Early America and Europe of that time will be displayed in the first exhibit of the school year to be staged by Long Beach State College art department Oct. 12 to 30 in the art gallery. Hours will be 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

The collection will include barber poles, cigar store fixtures, weather vanes and signs pertaining to such crafts and business establishments as taverns, watchmakers, shoemakers, optometrists, keymakers, wineries and bootteries.

Items have been contributed by the following firms: Yeakel and Field, Laguna; George Harris, Smith and Boutchins, and Murray Braunfield, all of Los Angeles.

'Finland' First on Lecture Film Series

Tuition tickets for the 1959-60 Film Lecture Series go on sale this week at all offices of the Long Beach City College General Adult Division.

First of the seven programs will be Karl Robinson's "Finland" the week of Oct. 12-16. Each program opens at 8 p.m. Monday in Wilson auditorium and will be repeated at Jordan on Tuesday, Millikan on Wednesday, Polytechnic on Thursday and Lakewood High School auditorium Friday.

Tickets will be available during the day at the main General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St., and at West Adult Center, 1794 Cedar Ave. Hours will be 1-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday at Polytechnic Adult Center and 6-10 p.m. at Wilson, Jordan, Millikan and Lakewood High Schools.

IN OPERA PREMIERE

John Noschese sings lead in contemporary opera, "Scanderbeg," by Bernard Wilets to be presented in Millikan High School auditorium Oct. 9 and 10. Optimists Clubs of Long Beach are sponsoring the production.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

The war called away the husband of Kathleen Ferrier, so she moved with her sister, Winifred, into a house so small that Kathleen averred she had to open the back door to look into the oven! But despite the gruelling days of the war the two sisters were happy together. Kathleen began a life of concertizing that would have killed a less hardy spirit. Traveling in cold trains, sleeping in unheated hotels, eating only sandwiches, the young singer cheered the hearts of the war-oppressed people all over England.

Constantly studying new music, she did the memorizing on the long train rides. Her accompanist said that "no matter what conditions they met, nothing seemed to upset Kathleen. Nothing deterred her; the long journeys, often in blackout, the uncertainty, the lack of facilities for changing, the various mishaps; her joy in her work and in the audiences' reaction were her reward".

* * * *

AS SHE steadily gained in experience and reputation, it is not surprising to to find her singing in Albert Hall, giving recitals in London and then an appearance at the Edinburgh Festival under the baton of the famous Bruno Walter. This was the beginning of a friendship with this great conductor, and she sang many times with him thereafter.

Two tours of the United States and Canada as detailed in letters and diaries leave one exhausted, just in the reading! At Town Hall recitals in New York there would be 100 people seated on the stage. Everywhere there were sold out houses and rave reviews from the critics. But what a pace! Twenty-three concerts in three months! Back in England there were concert engagements in Vienna, Holland, Scandanavia and Paris. Often she sang Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" and "Kindertodenlieder" with orchestra, under famous conductors.

* * * *

SIR JOHN BARBIROLLI, who became her last and dearest friend, induced her to sing with him the opera "Orfeo" by Gluck at Covent Garden. This was her last appearance. Cancer claimed her at the age of 41. A quotation from a letter truly describes her: "She put herself always at the service of music, seeking to enter into its spirit, rather than using it as a means for displaying her voice and talent."

If you would take a heroine to your heart, read "The Life of Kathleen Ferrier" by Winifred Ferrier.

New Displays at Museum

By VERA WILLIAMS
I-P-T Art Editor

Outstanding exhibitions open today at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Friends of the Museum commence the day with a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. and the first annual art auction beginning at 1 p.m.

Museum exhibitions include collections of primitive art from the Americas, Africa, Australia and the Pacific Islands, featuring "Gauguin's god"—sculpture of a Marquesan woman, and a selection of Eskimo carvings. The major portion of this exhibit will run to Jan. 31.

Also opening today extending through Nov. 8, are paintings by John Leeper, Dr. Charles and Jean Thompson, Rorstrand stoneware and Danish textiles. The group exhibition with works by Charles Papp, Robert Pritchard, Ed Rugels and Eva Slater is representative of the artists' one man shows at Alamitos, Ruth Bach, Bret Harte, and Dana Branch libraries respectively.

The film series begins Friday with the Gallic farce, "Wild Oats" starring Fernandel at his pantomimic best. Free tickets are available from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the day of the performance. The two showings are scheduled for 3 and 8 p.m. No telephone reservations are available.

* * * *

VARIED art works will comprise the opening show of the Artist of the Month series at the Unitarian Church, 5460 Atherton St. Twenty artists, members of the church, will show oils, watercolors, pastels and casein. Still lifes, landscapes, sea scapes, portraits, woodcarving, sculpture, mosaics, jewelry, ceramics and weaving will complete an all around show of talent.

The show opens today when artists will be feted at a between service coffee at 10:30 a.m. It will run a month. The gallery is open to visitors Saturdays and Sundays and from 1 to 5 weekdays.

* * * *

OPENING Wednesday, the work of Oregon painter-printmaker, Florence Saltzman will be on view in the Gallery of Prints and Drawings, 1261 Long Beach Blvd. The exhibition will consist of paintings and prints done in the past 20 years.

Miss Saltzman won many friends here as an instructor for the Long Beach Art Assn. and the West Side Adult Education Center. She is represented in major exhibitions, here and abroad.

Florence Saltzman lives in Portland, with her husband, painter Frederick Heidel, and two children.

Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily including Sunday.

* * * *

GAMBIT GALLERY, 23 39th Pl., announces a one-man exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Elaine Kramer of Denver. A reception for the artist is slated for 3 to 6 p.m. today.

* * * *

"PRESIDENTS in Sapphire," heads of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Eisenhower carved in Australian sapphire averaging 2,000 carats each will be shown through October in the Los Angeles County Museum.

Foreign Film Dates Told

Tickets are on sale for the third annual foreign film series of recent full-length features, to be presented October through May by the Unitarian Laymen's League of Long Beach. All showings will be at 8 p.m. on the third Saturday of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

First program Oct. 17, the French film, "Fric Frac," will star Fernandel. Gina Lollobrigida will appear Nov. 21 in "Bread, Love and Jealousy," an Italian production. In the British picture, "The Detective," to be shown Dec. 19, Alec Guinness portrays Father Brown, rotund little detective priest.

* * * *

OTHER FILMS will be "Sadko," U.S.S.R., Jan. 16; "Ditte, Child of Man," Denmark, Feb. 20; "The Inspector General," Czechoslovakia, March 19; "Rasho-Mon," Japan, April 16, and "Little World of Don Camillo," Italy, May 21.

Modestly priced tickets for the series may be ordered by mail from Peter Ballou, 3316 Roxanne Ave., Long Beach, or may be purchased from members of the Laymen's League.

October Show at Coast Club Family Affair

The Richter family of Rolling Hills, former residents of Long Beach, will have an art exhibition during October in Pacific Coast Club. Guests will be welcomed at a tea from 2 to 5 p.m. today.

Exhibitors are Henry L. Richter, charter member of the Long Beach Art Assn.; his wife, Catherine M.; their son, Dr. Henry L. Richter Jr., associated with the Cal Tech Jet Propulsion laboratory where he is in charge of instrumentation for the space program; their daughter, Elsa Richter Hopkins, and Elsa's husband, G. Arthur Hopkins.

* * * *

RICHTER IS exhibiting oils, watercolors and pastels; Mrs. Richter, award-winning lettering, watercolors, an oil, and a pastel portrait of Leroy Cox, patriarch of Lomita; Dr. Richter, a sketch of the first concept of the instrumentation for Explorer I, America's first satellite to go into orbit; Mrs. Hopkins, sepia drawing, oil portrait, design in tempera and fashion design; Hopkins, an oil painting, various kinds of prints-lithograph, college and an etching.

Double-Ring Rite Unites Young Pair

Moore Methodist Church was setting for the recent double-ring marriage ceremony uniting Marion Kerr and Edward Humphrey. The Rev. John W. Grande officiated.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Jack Kerr, the bride wore a princess-style gown of white taffeta trimmed in seed pearls. Her shoulder-length veil was crowned with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis.

* * * *

PEGGY KERR was her sister's maid of honor, wearing blue taffeta and carrying pink roses. The bridesmaid, Esther York Burkholder, and flower girls, Laurie Burkholder and Susie Huleis, wore yellow taffeta gowns and carried yellow roses.

The new Mrs. Humphrey, daughter of famed butane pioneer, Arthur Kerr, received early schooling in Long Beach and won acclaim as a tennis star at UCLA. Her husband is a graduate of Youngstown Univeristy.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

There's one catch to being a bachelor! And since we've been in Chicago attending the Food Editor's Conference this week, our Chef of the Week column today is being devoted to those gents who do not have the "little woman" to keep 'em well fed.

Not every bachelor can enjoy being footloose and fancy free. There's at least one catch to it, especially if one lives alone: the possibility of being caught up short at the breakfast bar, the lunch counter, the dinner table.

Meals of those who live alone are apt to be deficient in essential vitamins, minerals, and proteins. And, boys, this word of caution comes to us from one who should know, a noted bachelor nutritionist.

* * * *

HERE'S WHAT he has to say on the subject:

"With no one to take care of—or to take care of him—the bachelor or anyone who lives alone is likely to forget to take care of himself. Shopping and cooking for one is more difficult than for a family, and it costs more per head. His time schedule for meals may be so flexible that it disappears with this result: no meal at all.

"Only those who take advantage of our adequate food supply to eat a variety of essential foods can hope for the health to live life to the hilt. These foods—meat or an alternate, milk or cheese, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal, fruits and vegetables—are calorie carriers all, as they are made up of proteins, fats, and carbohydrates. With these and the other nutrients calorie carriers offer—minerals and vitamins—live-aloners have the wherewithall to indulge their fancy.

"Following this easy plan of choosing meals from essential foods, it is possible to sidestep the nutritional hazard of bachelorhood—illness caused by a deficiency of nutrients—and still remain footloose and free for fancy."

Autumn Modes Will Be Shown

Fall modes from Harvey Wood's will be shown at the meeting of North Long Beach Lady Lions, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, in Hody's Lakewood.

A visitation meeting, guests are expected from other Lady Lions organizations in the area.

Guest speaker at the club's recent meeting was Richard L. Zweig, director of Reading Guidance Center, Inc., who explained purposes and aims of that group.

Court St. Ann Meets Tuesday

Court St. Ann 763, Catholic Daughters of America, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave. Grand Regent Martha Balough will preside.

Catholic Daughters of Southern California will have a fall district meeting Oct. 11 at Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena. Luncheon reservations may be made with Mrs. Balough.

Meeting Tuesday

Widows of Spanish American War veterans will meet Tuesday noon in Linden Hall.

Public Invited

Golden State Auxiliary 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a noon luncheon and card party Tuesday in Veterans Bldg. The public is welcome.

South Has Grand Slam

South should really have opened with a two bid but chose to open one club only. North might well have passed but decided to respond one spade whereupon after a fast and furious series of bids South jumped to seven clubs.

His reason for the grand slam bid was that East had doubled four spades so that North probably was not very strong in spades and therefore would have more elsewhere.

WEST OPENED the four of spades and after one look at the dummy South wished that he had been considerably more modest in his bidding. Then he saw a ray of hope and with everything breaking just right proceeded to wrap up his contract.

He took his ace of spades, cashed the ace and king of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy and ruffed a third heart. He came back to his hand with the ace of diamonds, ruffed his last heart, led back to the king of diamonds and ruffed his last diamond.

East and West had to follow all this time and now all South had to do was to lead dummy's last trump, finesse his queen and drop the king and jack under his ace. A lot of luck but he did give the cards a chance.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....OCTOBER 4, 1959

OUR COVER

Hoover Dam, just a hop and a skip from Las Vegas, has been one of Nevada's major tourist attractions since it was completed in 1936. Today it is more so than ever, attracting more than a million visitors annually. Quick to point out that the $108 million behemoth is self-liquidating, the United States Bureau of Reclamation offers guided tours daily into the interior of some of the 4,400,000 cubic yards of sculptured concrete. High light of this trip is a 528-foot descent by elevator to the two-block-long, 20-story-high powerhouses at the 660-foot base. Here 17 giant turbines take a 395-foot head of water from the penstocks behind the dam to drive 17 generators capable of turning out 1,036,000 kilovolt-amperes of energy. More about the dam on Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

The time to plan a garden that will bloom beautifully next spring is not early spring but during the fall months—right now! Also, this is the time to make plantings that will perpetuate color in the winter garden. Next week, Southland presents its Annual Fall Garden Number which gives scores of tips on how to do this. Watch for it, read it, and put it aside for ready reference.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please print information on VAN DUZER.—MRS. E. V., Wilmington.

E. V.: "Dry Place" was the meaning of the Dutch town-name Dursen. VAN DURSEN is self-explanatory, for "Van" means "from." The American ancestor, Abraham Van Dursen was born in Haarlem, Holland in 1607, the son of Pieter Van Dursen. He settled in New Haarlem, now part of New York City, in 1629. His great-great grandson Isaac changed the name to VAN DUZER when the family moved to Orange County, New York in 1741. No coat-of-arms is known for this family.

DEAR MISS RULE: We believe ALBEE is English.—MRS. H. P., Long Beach.

H.P.: "Alh-By" was a strange, prehistoric religious center, and the ALBEES of England assumed their name from this locality. "Alh By" translates as "sacred settlement." Various surnames such as ALBEE, Albey and Alby developed from Alh-By. The family coat-of-arms, granted to the Alby branch, is a shield covered with six alternating gold and black vertical stripes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you print genealogy on WEISS.—MRS. C. M., H. A., Long Beach.

C. M., H. A.: The surname WEISS, shortened sometimes to Weis, and often translated in America as White, was a descriptive German word for an extremely blond man. The French surname LeBlanc and the Irish O'Bannon have the same meaning. The Weiss coat-of-arms has a gold lion centered on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on GUTHRIE. —J. G., B. G., Bellflower; G. C. G., Lynwood.

J. G., B. G., G. G.,: Guthrie in Forfarshire was a town in northeast Scotland. The town-name became the surname of a resident. The source was one ancient Scoto-Gaelic word Gaothaire meaning "windy place." The Guthrie coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four quarters. The upper left and lower right sections have a red, rampant lion on a gold background; the upper right and lower left quarters have a gold wheat sheaf on a blue backing. The inspiring clan motto "Sto prop veritate," translates as "I stand for truth." Among the descendants was the eminent Scotch historian William Guthrie (1708-1770).

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on LOPOSSA.—MRS. W. L., Long Beach.

W. L.: "The Powerful, Influential One" "POSSA" gave his name to his Italian descendants. The Italian surname LOPOSSA (the) Possa represented an important personage in early medieval times. The source was the Roman-Latin word "Possum" or "Possa." No other information is available on this family.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the analysis of BEDARD. —P. B., Long Beach; M. B., Garden Grove.

P. B., M. B.: An ancestor christened Bed-ard, an early warrior name, gave the BEDARDS of France their heroic cognomen. The ancient Franco-German "Bald-Ward" provided the basis, translated as "bold governor," a complimentary title used as early as the 7th century. No coat-of-arms is known for this name.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on McBRIDE. —MRS. E. M., M. M., Long Beach.

E. M., M. M.: The great Irish clan Mac-Giolla-Brighid, translated as "Sons of the servant of St. Bridget," were the ancestors of the McBRIDES. The clan founders considered this great Irish saint as their patron. St. Bridget's name meant "Strength and Virtue." The McBrides were natives of north Ireland. Their coat-of-arms has three silver chevrons placed across the center of a red shield between three silver sea shells. McBride descendants were mid-18th century settlers of south Pennsylvania.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on CAROTHERS, CARROTHERS and CROTHERS. — F.C., Long Beach; H.C., L.M., Lakewood.

F.C., H.C., L.M.: The Scotch CARRUTHERS descended from a proud family who have resided in Dumfriesshire over seven centuries. Their name means "from the red fortress," a castle named after red rocks that were used in its construction. William Carruthers, head of the family in 1329, was an active supporter of King David II. In 1440, Thomas Carruthers was specially rewarded by James II for his services against the English. The Carruthers coat-of-arms has two chevrons between three fleurs-de-lis on a red shield, with the motto "Promptus et Fidelis" (Ready and Faithful). Descendants in England and America altered the name to CAROTHERS, CARROTHERS, CROTHERS and CRUDDIS.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

He's the Fastest of the Midgets

Alan Honore of Bellflower, quarter midget auto racing champion, and his car. He wants it known he didn't get crossed up here, but was put in this pose for the photo.

By Vera Williams

MEET Alan Honore, 9, quarter midget auto racing champ of the world!

In his Pacemaker quarter midget, he set a new world's record of 6.54 seconds for a twentieth of a mile last Memorial Day at Camarillo. The event is technically known as B modified quarter midget, senior class (9 to 15 years). The previous record was 6.70 seconds.

Alan, who will have been racing four years by next November, has 220 trophies. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Honore, 9817 Cedar St., Bellflower, and is in the fourth grade in the Bellflower Jefferson School.

His father, who runs a garage adjacent to his home, is president of the National Quarter Junior Midget Assn., which has 80 members, most of them in Southern California.

TO DATE, Alan has raced twice in the nationals at Phoenix, and has raced in Las Vegas, Fresno, Camarillo, Ventura, Redwood City, Sunnyvale, Mazon, Ill., and two tracks at Portland. He set a track record of 8.65 at Mazon; he set a track record of 7.85 at the Alpenrose Dairy track in Portland and 7.65 at the Centennial track in Portland.

Alan set fast time, with a new track record of 7.72 seconds, and took second in the main event, 35 laps, at the International Quarter Midget Assn. races Aug. 22 and 23 at Portland.

He expects to participate in the national races at Phoenix next Christmas.

His proudest possession is the National Junior Assn. track record perpetual trophy. His records, inscribed on it are 8.52, 8.33, 7.63, 7.58, and 7.45. He holds the trophy as long as he holds the record.

HOW DID ALL this racing start?

"In November 1955, my dad took me to the Little Gilmore quarter midget track at Rosecrans and Downey," Alan says. "Before the races were half through, my dad and I came home and he began building me my first racing car."

The latter part of that month, they went back to the Little Gilmore track and Alan won a heat race.

On Jan. 8, 1956, when he had been racing less than two months, he won the 30-lap championship at the track and got his first big trophy.

His father built him his first two cars, which carried the number "22." His last two cars were given to him by the employes of the H. Levine division of Myers Barrel Co. of Richmond, and carry the number "2."

"I wanted 2," explains Alan, "because my father's brother, Hector Honore of Pana, Ill., owns No. 2, the car in which Bobby Grim won the International Motor Contest Assn. dirt track championship four years."

Grim was named "rookie of the year" at the Indianapolis races last year.

ALAN CALLS HIS present car "Our Gang Special." It is 74 inches long, tread on the wheels is 31 inches. It is black with red trim and white numbers.

When anything goes wrong with his car, Alan can diagnose the trouble. He can take the motor apart; his father puts it back together again.

The Honores are active in the First Baptist Church of Bellflower and Alan goes to Sunday school in the morning before he races.

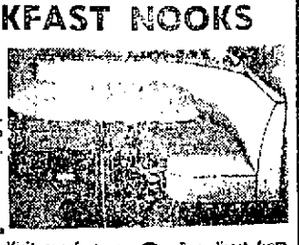

"Racing is fun," says Alan. "It keeps kids out of trouble, gives them an interest," says his father.

"It's a family hobby—we all go to the races together," says his mother.

Alan can not compete in the senior class until he is 16. He does not expect to race after that.

He swims and plays ball as well as drives. He has a collie Lady, almost his own age; a cat, Tom; two rabbits and a parakeet.

Construction nears completion on 32-foot cabin cruiser Robert Gardiner is building single-handedly in his back yard.

Boat Builder With a Problem

How will he get this monster out of his tiny yard to launch it?

By Herb Shannon

ROBERT GARDINER, 34, who is putting a 32-foot cabin cruiser together in his 36-foot back yard at 3732 Nipomo Ave., has the classic problem of the enthusiastic home boat builder.

There is barely room to work fore and aft of his king-sized do-it-yourself project, the block fence on the port side is equally close and the starboard gunwale nudges the garage roof. There is no alley in the rear and the entrance of the driveway at the other side of the yard is about two feet narrower than the boat's 11 foot, 6-inch beam.

So how is he going to get the monster out of the yard without chopping a room or two off the house?

GARDINER HAS THE ANSWER. Modern moving science has come up with an ingenious solution.

"There are a couple of moving companies that have double-jointed trailers with wheels that steer independently," the amateur boat builder explains. "They can go sideways as well as ahead and lift a boat right over low obstacles."

But even if he has to tear down the garage or remove part of his fence, Gardiner will feel it is worth the trouble.

"I only have about $5,000 tied up in the boat," he points out. "I've been offered $10,000 for the hull as it stands, and when it is finished it would cost about $25,000 to buy it in a shipyard."

GARDINER STARTED 2½ YEARS ago with a set of plans designed by Seattle naval architect Edwin Monk. The initial expense for blueprints and paper templates for the hull frames was $125.

The rest has all been his own contribution, especially the labor. Occasionally a friend interested in boats has volunteered a bit of help, but chiefly it has been a one-man spare-time job.

In a way, it is only appropriate that Gardiner should be doing it alone. In his regular job as service publications supervisor at the Long Beach Douglas plant, he writes how-to-do-it manuals for military plane repair kits.

But now that the boat work is mostly finicky finishing details, Gardiner's wife Barbara Jean and their three children, Jim, 11; Stephanie Jean, 10, and Debra, 9, also are getting into the act.

WHAT THEY WILL HAVE when the job is done will be a sleek trunk cruiser with a forward bunk compartment sleeping two, a main cabin with galley and dinette convertible to a full bed, an after cabin with twin beds, a flying bridge and fantail area for fishing.

The boat has been fiberglassed completely over the sturdy plywood of the hull and superstructure and will be equipped with everything necessary for living aboard for two weeks or more at a time.

Gardiner believes the boat will be ready for launching by Christmas. When it comes time for christening, he will have ready not only a name but a bottle of genuine French champagne.

"We'll call it Debbie Jean for all the girls in the family," Gardiner says. "The champagne is a present from one of the fellows at the plant who brought it back from a trip to Europe.

"Seems a shame to break the bottle on the bow of a boat, but we want to do this right all the way."

Wife Barbara Jean lends hand with main cabin detail jobs.

From flying bridge, Barbara Jean watches Bob work on galley light.

When Jesse James Came to California

When Jesse James (above) came to California with his brother, Frank, he found the ways of his uncle, Drury Wilson James, gracious and honest.

By H. B. Walters

CALIFORNIA almost made a different man of Jesse James. And because Jesse was the stronger of the two brothers, Frank would no doubt also have reformed.

Jesse was 21 when he arrived. He stood lean and tall like an Indian arrow. His jaunty, upturned nose gave him an impish look yet in his blue eyes was a look of suffering. And fear. For the James boys were wanted for robbery.

It was on a warm spring day in March 1868 that Jesse had been one of a gang of six which held up a bank in Russellville, Ky. Without losing a drop of blood they galloped out of town with $14,000 in their old grain sack which by now had become sort of a trademark of that gang. Jesse was a good rider and had no difficulty outdistancing the sheriff's posse. He felt smug and secure until a friend warned him that he was being watched. Detectives? This was a new menace. Jesse was bewildered. Never before had he had to meet the peeping tricks of a bank detective.

Since neither of the brothers knew exactly how to meet this spy system they decided to get out of the community. Being the leader, Jesse packed up their share of the loot and off the boys went for a spree in New York. Despite gay shows and bright lights they were suspicious of every pair of eyes that lingered on them. It was hard to enjoy the sights. Though they assured each other that nobody was following them the uneasy feeling dogged their hours. Unable to endure it they caught a boat for Panama.

ONCE OUT AT SEA, they breathed deep. Freedom and safety was theirs. Since this was before the days of radio no way would the captain have of knowing the identity of his two distinguished passengers as long as they minded their own business. This they did, keeping to themselves. The hours were given to complete rest of body and also of mind and spirit. No need to worry. At least not about being caught. And perhaps the voyage would heal a wound Jesse carried as a badge of a former encounter with steel.

Reaching Panama he wasted no time crossing the Isthmus. By luck and money the boys managed to get space on a steamer headed up the west coast. Again Jesse felt secure. Landing at San Francisco the brothers exchanged a little more of their loot for clothing. They must make a favorable impression on their uncle.

Drury Wilson James lived on the La Panza Ranch, a little plot of 10,000 acres which he and a partner had purchased and then stocked with cattle at $20 a head. Lush pasture land stretched over valley and hill. Enormous oaks furnished shade for young animals. The business venture began to prosper. Money rolled into the pockets of the owners. Mr. D. W., as Drury was called, built a house in the incorporated town of Paso Robles formerly known as El Paso de los Robles or Pass of the Oaks. In fact, he was a founder of the town. Everywhere he was admired as a citizen of integrity. When he married a beautiful girl named Louisa Dunn their home became a center for local society. Into this landed the two young bank robbers.

IF DRURY KNEW his nephews were the James boys wanted for crimes in Kentucky he kept the secret. The boys were taken in and made welcome. Perhaps Jesse, too, had a secret. His purpose in visiting Paso Robles may have been to heal his wound at the mineral springs. The place was a very ancient health spa. Early Franciscan padres had placed logs around the main spring to form a pool. Here by day came humans to cure rheumatism or other ailments. By night grizzly bears dipped in the warm waters and left their paw marks in mud under the cottonwood trees. Jesse could have learned of the mud and sulphur baths from newspapers that wrote of miracle healings. Or perhaps his uncle had written that he and a partner had bought the springs. Perhaps he offered Jesse a job when he put up a wooden hotel to house the patients swarming in by every stagecoach.

At any rate Drury believed in the healing power of the springs. Twice a week he brought his nephew there from where they were living on La Panza Rancho nearly 40 miles away. Jesse began to improve. His wound healed. Soon he was riding the range with the cowboys. Often he would be gone several days hunting stray animals. When he returned his uncle praised him in flattering words. His Aunt Louisa beamed for the quiet, six-foot boy had become a favorite with her. His blue eyes lost their look of fear and misery.

"You're such a nice boy, Scotty," she would say, using the name by which she knew him. Everybody called him that.

NOT A WORD was ever said by either Jesse or Frank to betray their past. Nor did Uncle Drury talk. Cowhands accepted the boys at face value. Both proved reliable and worthy of trust. Together as a team the ranch workers rode their range. When their cattle wandered away Jesse had a chance to see the western settlement of Santa Margarita not far from La Panza. If the animals went south he had a chance to see the Carisa or Carrizo Plain so different from his native land of Kentucky. This plain was a high plateau on which in prehistoric ages had been a lake. From its center rose an odd rock or hill. And in the middle of the rock entered by a narrow opening was a mysterious hall decorated with Indian paintings in color. Over the walls, 132 feet in height, ran men, birds and unknown writing. None of the local Indians knew who did the pictures or what the signs meant.

"It's supposed to be an ancient temple," the boys explained while Jesse stood in awe. From his mother he had learned reverence for churches. Yet this one was now used as a corral.

At other times the boys rode to the coast and Jesse saw Morro Rock rising 570 feet above the sea. Sitting around their camp fire the boys told the legend of Don Vicente Canet. Perhaps they watched for the old Don's ghost said to ride a white horse on moonlit nights.

The cowboys liked Scotty despite his two odd traits. Because he was so honorable in other ways they excused these traits as the quirks of a tenderfoot. When they rode as a group Scotty always maneuvered to be on the outside as if for a quick escape. He joined them around a camp fire until time to bed down. When they rolled up in blankets near the fire he went off to sleep alone.

IF TALK TURNED to exciting tales of robbers, Scotty only listened. Nobody connected him with the notorious bank robber Jesse James. Why should they? The robberies were still taking place in the Middle West but the real James boys were safe in California. On dark nights tales were told of local highwaymen. The gold rush had brought not only miners but desperadoes who sallied out from wooded canyons to kill for a handful of gold dust. Had not the cowboys found bodies and skeletons on lonely trails? And in the town of Santa Margarita relatives were continuously hunting for travelers who had vanished. The stagecoach strongbox was a favorite target for bandits. The leader of one band kept a tavern near Santa Margarita. Not until he lost his black wig during a holdup was he even suspected. That led to his capture.

JESSE AND FRANK listened to stories of Joaquin Murieta. The years had turned him from a poor Mexican into a dashing outlaw, a sort of Robin Hood robbing local rich and befriending the poor. Scotty learned that Joaquin had headquarters in a place of caves and rocks not too far from La Panzo Rancho and lived there in an adobe fort at the mouth of a creek. His hiding place was surrounded by high rocks that had been named Las Tres Piedras or The Three Rocks. He kept a lookout on them. Yet with all his precautions Joaquin's head ended up in a bottle when he was only 21.

"Only 21," the boys repeated.

Jesse lowered his gaze lest they see the fear in his eyes. That was his age. Would his past catch up with him? Of course not. Nobody knew about it. His Uncle Drury was proud of him and said so. And he was proud of his uncle.

No doubt the character of the older man put its mark on the blue-eyed boy. Drury did business by a standard of what was right and honorable, not on what was legal. At one time he sold a parcel of land for $25,000 down payment. When time came for the next installment the buyer could not pay. The drought had almost wiped him out. It appeared that he would end up broke, lose his down payment and the land. When Drury heard this he went to the man.

"My friend, I can't do this to you. Return the land and I'll give you back your $25,000."

SUCH ADHERENCE to principle must have touched his nephew. But the two boys were growing restless. They resented the robberies being pinned on them when they were thousands of miles away. So they announced that they were going home. Scotty told his cowboy friends goodby. One young fellow was a close friend and it was hard to leave. The kid twirled his lariat which was made of horsehair and grass.

"Is that your best one?" Scotty asked. The boy nodded. "Then take mine. I won't be needing it."

The boys went to the house to tell

Unveiling the Mysteries of the Pacific

By
Robert Franklin Ames

Live fish provide a never-ending show for the casual visitor and steady reference source for students at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography's museum-aquarium at La Jolla. Admission to the displays is free to public.

THERE ARE only two museums of oceanography in the world. One is located in the tiny principality of Monaco, on the shores of the Mediterranean. The other, slightly more than an hour's drive from Long Beach, is Scripps Thomas Wayland Vaughan Aquarium-Museum in La Jolla.

Long Beach residents with the Pacific at their back doors and more than a ho-hum interest in the ocean, find their way to this interesting attraction in ever increasing numbers.

Since its opening, the aquarium-museum has been visited by nearly 3,000 persons each week. Visitors from every state in the country and from Europe, South America, Africa, Asia and Australia have signed the guest register.

SCRIPPS MUSEUM first opened in 1912 and continued to grow until 1951 when it moved into a new and larger headquarters. This structure is of unusual type, combining a wrap-around room containing the aquariums, which encircles another room housing the museum. The $250,000 building was named in honor of the late Thomas Wayland Vaughan, the second director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Hours at the aquarium - museum are 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., Monday through Friday, and 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Admission is free, and groups may arrange for guided study tours.

Inside are 18 live-fish tanks ranging in capacity from two gallons to 2,500 gallons. The tanks are supplied with fresh, continuously aerated sea water from the institution's own system.

The live specimens displayed by Scripps scientists are representative of marine life found along California shores and the Gulf of California. In addition to fish and animals of the sea, the Scripps Museum also includes many exhibits and displays which show dramatically many of the peculiar habits of the Pacific Ocean and Southern California beaches.

FOR INSTANCE, one display tells how tides occur and what causes them, another is an exhibit of many Indian artifacts found under the sea and Southern California Beaches. In other cases visitors see how currents are measured and how scientists use skin diving in their work. A colorful chart shows the many chemicals and minerals present in each gallon of sea water. Those who live near the beach are interested in the display explaining how sand was deposited along the shore. The scientists even have several relics recovered from a Greek cargo ship that sank in the Mediterranean in 230 B. C.

The museum and aquarium are only a minute part of the business of Scripps Institution, however. The school is the largest oceanographic station in the United States, and the largest in the world, as well as being the southernmost campus of the University of California. It was established in 1903, when a field station of the zoology department was moved from San Pedro to a 177-acre site at La Jolla.

Scientists at the marine college constantly seek to discover more about the mysteries of the sea. The institution has a fleet of ships which dock at the United States Navy Electronics Laboratory at Point Loma. But their ocean-going vessels are seldom there for long—usually they are at sea engaged in research work.

SCRIPPS FLAGSHIP, the "Horizon," sailed in three separate trips to the Marshall Islands, the Gulf of Alaska and Peru. It and the other ships are used in many special studies, including the California Co-operative Sardine Research Program which requires a monthly oceanographic survey of the Pacific Coast from the mouth of the Columbia River to Baja California and some 400 miles to sea.

During World War II Scripps scientists developed an accurate method of predicting waves. Many of the Pacific theater operations were successful because officers knew when the waves would be just right for an amphibious landing.

Sport fishermen off the coast of Long Beach may some day see some of the institute's projects in operation. Its research vessels are often in this area. One study which depends upon the cooperation of people who live along the beach or spend their time fishing on the water is the study of the ocean's currents.

Scripps research ships set tightly sealed bottles adrift in the ocean. Inside each bottle is a note asking the finder to fill in the date, time and location the note was found and return it to the college. By tabulating the points to which bottles travel, scientists are able to predict the many and complex currents of the sea.

Other scientists seek out new facts about sport fish and turn this information over to fish and game officials. Sport fishermen benefit from these studies by accurate forecasts about runs of fish and by adequate conservation measures.

BUT SPORTSMEN are not the only ones who gain from the studies being made at Scripps Institute. Scientists are trying to find how to reclaim minerals from sea water, how to make the ocean produce food, how to mine the ocean floor, and even how to convert sea water to fresh water. Others are exploring our coastline discovering how tides, waves and storms affect the shore and the people who live near the ocean.

With the ever increasing population of the earth other scientists have determined that in centuries to come most available dry land will be needed for homesites, and highly developed to produce food. Even then they say the food supply of the earth will not be enough to support the billions of people who are expetced to be living.

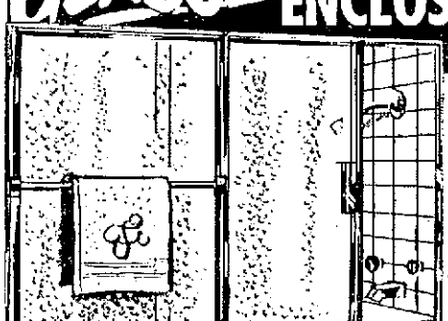

When this occurs the people of the future will depend on the sea for food and minerals—or they will perish in great famines.

Scripps scientists are laying the groundwork by finding out the basic facts about the ocean. Some day these discoveries may rank among the most important to mankind.

Interior of museum section of the Thomas Wayland Vaughn installation holds wide interest for students of marine subject. The entire display is scientifically arranged, and the range of items runs into a high figure.

Taming an Ornery River

By Allan Krieg

Hoover Dam, 727 feet high and nearly quarter of a mile wide at top, backs up the Colorado River to form Lake Mead.

ONE of the meanest rivers in the world is like a formidable fence across a great part of the Southwest. Although the Colorado has been tamed in spots, it pretty much continues to wind its own surly way, unchallenged, through country it has isolated. Few of its 1,440 miles through five states and northern Mexico are easily viewed by the traveler. However, most of the places where it can be seen are worth the trip.

One such place is Black Canyon where it has sliced a gorge more than 800 feet deep to separate Nevada from Arizona. Here in 1936 was completed the highest dam in the world.

Hoover Dam's 727 feet in height and nearly a quarter-mile span at the top have backed up and stilled the turbulent Colorado for more than 100 miles to form Lake Mead, the world's largest man-made lake and watering place for the country's pleasure capital, Las Vegas, Nev.

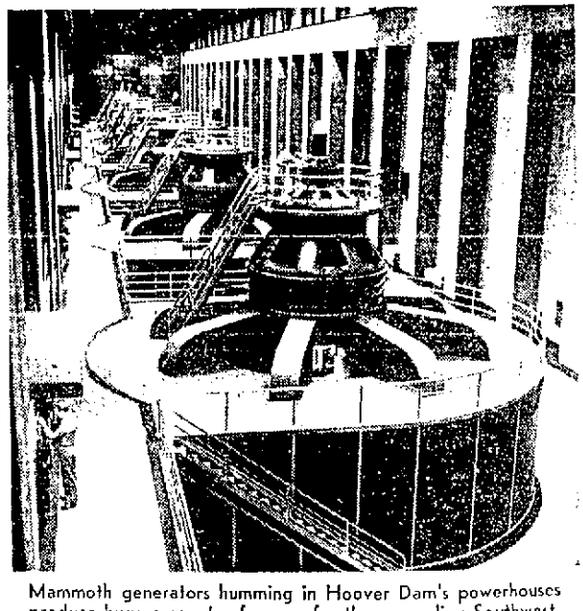

AS THE ONLY government construction project of any magnitude in the early part of the 1930s depression, the dam turned nearby Las Vegas into a boom town. The city had been sparked to life a quarter-century earlier when the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad (now Union Pacific's Salt Lake City-Los Angeles route) was completed, but not until job hunters began pouring in did it begin to approach its present proportions.

Work on the dam began in 1931 coincidental with another aid to populating: Nevada's legalization of gambling. The dam gave rise to another community, Boulder City, built near the site by the government as construction headquarters.

To move a mountain of supplies Union Pacific strung 23 miles of track across the desert to Boulder City and the government laid another 10 miles of rail from there to the Black Canyon location.

Not only did Hoover Dam provide desperately needed work for thousands, aside from its purpose to furnish nearly 2 million horsepower of electrical energy for the expanding Southwest, the gleaming white structure also soon became a major tourist attraction in the region.

The Bureau of Reclamation offers guided tours several times daily into the interior of the dam.

Mammoth generators humming in Hoover Dam's powerhouses produce huge amounts of power for the expanding Southwest.

their aunt goodby. She begged them to stay.

"You're such good boys."

"But Aunt Louisa," said Scotty. "You don't know who we are. We're Frank and Jesse, the bank robbers."

"Oh, I don't believe that."

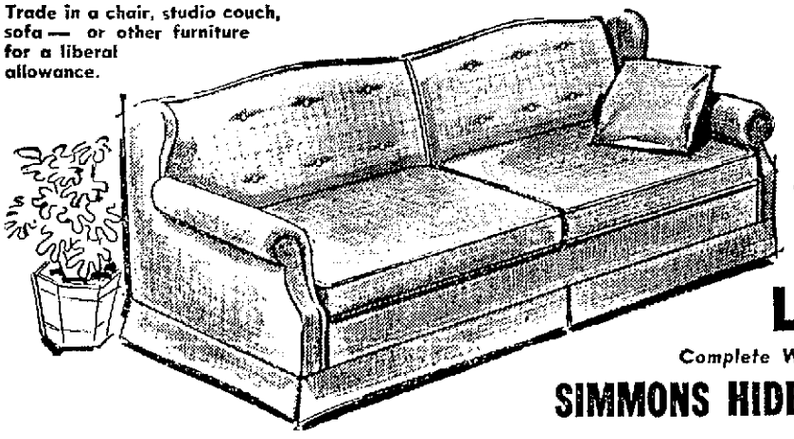

Again Jesse and Frank were back on their home farm. But Jesse was different. The influence of Uncle Drury's character, of Aunt Louisa's pride in him had a strong hold. He went to church, was baptized, joined the choir. Love touched his heart and he went courting. Everybody was happy. Months went by.

And then one night he mounted his horse and with Frank rode off into the darkness. Like iron drawn to magnets the old outlaws moved together. Somebody had brought the grain sack that had been their former trademark of business. Before many minutes another bank had an empty till. Old habits had proven stronger than the influence of Uncle Drury and California.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

House With an Outward Look

Photos by Joe Rislnger

Modern architecture, sleek and simple, is the constructional keynote of the home of the Jack Grisham family. These views of the living room show spaciousness and the sweeping beams which are definitive of the exposed construction employed. Clerestory window reveals continuation of the overhead beams and, with huge expanse of glass from the floor up, gives full play to the popular "indoor-outdoor" air of contemporary California.

By Eileen Ball

SLEEK planes and uncontrived simplicity of modern architecture were the order when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grisham and their two children plunged into the building of a new home.

A large lot at No. 5567 on curving Lonna Linda Dr., Park Estates, was selected as the site and Walter J. Richardson was commissioned as the architect.

The contour of the plot suggested a unique and effective landscape plan. An aggregate buff-toned concrete walkway ascends, in varying levels, to the entry sheltered by the wide roof overhang. Brown exterior siding of raised redwood sheathing contrasts subtly with the trim of buff. Open cantilevered beams project out in architectural silhouettes to endow the structure with a feeling of airiness.

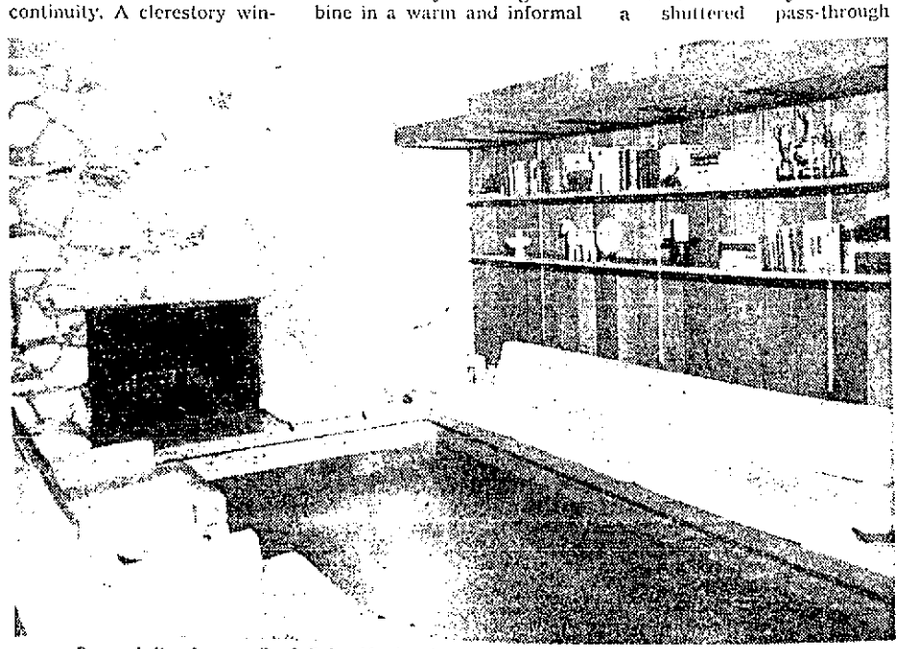

Projecting the popular indoor-outdoor attitude of contemporary California home design is the entry area. Here, vertical redwood paneling used on the exterior continues inside in unbroken continuity. A clerestory window reveals that the exposed roof beams are exactly the same inside as out. A large indoor planter, on a single level with the green slate flooring, abounds with greenery.

DIRECTLY BEYOND the entry, a wall of glass slides open to the patio and garden. To the left, the green slate leads to the living room, which is a serenely and simply furnished area. Taupe carpet, natural walnut paneling, white draperies and an exposed-beam ceiling of soft buff comprise the basic backgrounds. Furnishings conform to the contemporary fabrics providing decorative interest.

Next to the living room is the family room. Spacious, effectively decorated and comfortable, this area is the true heart of the home. Beautifully styled furniture, a rock fireplace, books, a complete intercom, high fidelity and a close relationship to the outdoors keynotes multiple function of the room. Redwood tongue-and groove paneling and cork vinyl flooring combine in a warm and informal setting—well suited to a background a rug of citrus yellow viscose that is near the bright yellow tone of a pair of leather lounge chairs. Additional seating is provided by a long sofa unit built along the inside wall: Over it has been installed a continuous bank of floating shelves. Foam pads and bolsters upholstered in natural slubbed linen fabric have been custom-made for use on this attractive and practical heating arrangement.

ONE ENTIRE END WALL of the family room is sheathed with Palos Verdes fieldstone, centered with an open, raised-hearth fireplace. At the opposite end of the room—set apart for dining—stands a dropleaf contemporary table strategically located to the kitchen for practical service. Over the dining table two original paintings by Catani provide a point of interest.

The kitchen, with its integral dinette area, is spacious, beautifully appointed and functional. It is closely related to the family room via a shuttered pass-through that sets itself up readily as a bar or auxiliary buffet server.

Floor-to-ceiling walls of glass give the corner dining area a sweeping view of the Grisham's expansive gardens.

THE BEDROOM WING of this 3,000 square foot, U-shaped house is outstandingly beautiful. Baby Jonathan's and little Julie's pastel turquoise and yellow bedrooms are airy, spacious and extremely functional to their little occupants' needs.

The master bath features a long counter of unglazed pale pink mosaic tile, overlooking a recessed planting area which, with walls of translucent material, has the effect of being outdoors.

The master bedroom, completely walled all along one side in plate glass, is situated to enjoy a comprehensive picture of the garden. Through clerestory windows is revealed the dramatic thrust of cantilevered open beams which, inside as well as out, contribute dynamic outlines to the house.

Contour of the building site is tied into the scheme of the Grisham home approach by use of irregular, ascending steps.

This Family Collects Sea Shells

By Caroline Coleman

MICHAEL, Helen and Stepanie Ann O'Brien were camping last June on the Gulf of California below San Felipe, looking for shells.

A chubasco (wind squall) blew up. They watched the heroic rescue of a couple of fishermen almost swamped in the waves.

The next morning, after the storm was over, when the tide was at its lowest, they walked out to the water's edge.

Stephanie Ann, 13, discovered a live mollusk, the Lophocardium Annettae, so rare that, so far as the O'Briens know, only three others have ever been found.

The shell is light salmon pink, deepening to rosy red at the posterior margin.

AT THE REQUEST of A. Myra Keen, assistant professor of paleontology and curator of malacology at Stanford, Stephanie Ann exhibited the shell at the recent annual meeting of the American Malacological Union, Pacific Division, at the University of Redlands.

Both Chicago University and Chicago Museum have expressed interest in acquiring the shell.

Stephanie Ann also has found rare Strombus Galiatus in good condition. She gave one to Long Beach State College.

An eighth grade pupil in Hamilton School, Stephanie Ann has been avidly interested in marine life for four years, and expects to be a conchologist.

"ONE DAY at the public library, I began reading a book on shells," recalls the young girl. "I became more interested, the more I read. I brought home four books; read them, took them back and got four more. . . . Since then I have hunted for shells, collected shells, studied shells . . ."

Her interest has become a family hobby. Her father, a World War II veteran, a paraplegic, and her mother are almost as enthusiastic as she. They explore the California coast at low tide, and for the past two years, when time permits, they go to the Gulf of California, camp out, and search for marine life. They stay from two to 10 days.

"The Gulf of California tide ranges from 17 to 50 feet, explains Mrs. O'Brien. "The tidal bore is second only to the Bay of Fundy in Nova Scotia."

They find November-March the best period for shell hunting. They swim and Stephanie Ann also is a skin diver.

O'Brien once caught six sharks, ranging from 4 to 8 feet, in the area near where his daughter and Mexican children swam. He had one of the shark jaws mounted.

STEPHANIE ANN has dissected the redula of chitons, abalone and keyhole limpets.

"The California coast is a paradise for collectors," say the O'Briens. "In the sand you can find Polinesis and olives; in the mud, Vesica Gouldiana (bubble shells); in the rocks, limpets and periwinkles; under the rocks, coffee beans, brittle stars and serpent stars. Abalones like places where the waves crash against the rocks."

The O'Briens urge persons shell-hunting far below the U. S.-Mexican border to take along drinking water and food, and stay on the main-traveled roads. They usually take candy, popcorn, fresh vegetables and fruit to their Mexican friends.

"There isn't a finer family hobby," say the O'Briens. "It is stimulating; it gets us out of doors. It can be profitable

Three dishes with an Oriental flavor are Chinese Sweet-Sour Lamb, Chinese-Style Brown Rice and Cranberry Mandarin Sauce.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHEN IT COMES to Chinese cuisine, there are many different styles. Mandarin, Cantonese, Singapore, our own fanciful Chop Suey (foreign to China) to name but a few, but one rule holds supreme for all—contrast.

Contrast in taste, contrast in texture—that's the secret. So, to eat Chinese, let's take three budget-wise American favorites—lamb, quick brown rice and fresh cranberries—and see what can be concocted.

Sweet and sour—that's a typical contrast. Let's start with lamb—little-money neck slices — with all the flavor and juciness of more expensive lamb cuts — combined with peppers and onions, in a simple sauce with Chinese flavor. There's contrast in the rice dish — just-right quick brown rice, each kernel separate, tossed with celery and pecans or filberts to point up the nut-like rice flavor. For the sweet, tiy tart, fresh cranberries with mandarin orange sections and ginger—again, contrast!

No chopsticks? A fork will do!

Chinese Sweet-Sour Lamb

2 pounds lamb neck slices
2 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of garlic powder
1 cup water
1 bouillon cube
1 green pepper, cut in chunks
4 small white onions or 1 yellow onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar

Brown lamb in hot shortening; season with salt and garlic powder. Add water and bouillon cube; simmer, covered, 45 minutes. Add green pepper and onion; simmer 25 minutes longer, or until meat is tender. Combine cornstarch and sugar; blend to a smooth paste with soy sauce and vinegar. Gradually stir cornstarch mixture into meat; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and clears. Makes 4 servings.

Chinese-Style Brown Rice

1 cup quick brown rice
½ cup thinly sliced celery
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup broken pecans or filberts
1 teaspoon salt

Cook rice following package directions. Cook celery in butter or margarine 5 minutes. Combine all ingredients; toss lightly to mix. Makes 4 servings.

Cranberry Mandarin Sauce

½ cup water
1 cup sugar
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange sections
2 tablespoons thinly sliced candied ginger or
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Combine water, sugar and cranberries in saucepan; cook over moderate heat until cranberries begin to pop, about 10 minutes. Add orange sections and ginger; simmer 5 minutes. Makes about 4 cups.

Hamburger Steak Loaf

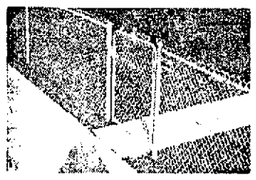

2 pounds lean beef, ground
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Accent
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup catsup

Combine all ingredients; mix well; shape into oval loaf about 11½ inches thick. Broil, with surface of meat 4 inches below source of heat, 15 to 20 minutes. Do not turn. Remove to hot platter. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Serve with Grape Fruit and Orange Cup, Au Gratin Potatoes, Asparagus Tips, Assorted Breads, Mustard and Chili Sauce, Thompson Seedless Grapes and Cantaloupe Salad, Custard Pie.

Faith Wins the Game for Campy

JAN. 28, 1958: That was the date that turned the world around for Roy Campanella, the day that Campy drove into an accident and made him a helpless quadriplegic after 10 wonderful years as star and sparkplug of the Dodgers National League baseball team.

Roy was on top of the world. Considered one of baseball's greatest catchers, he was making $45,000 a year. He owned his own home, a business and even a yacht. He loved baseball, he loved his family and was loved in return. He found it good to be alive.

The accident, which occurred when he was driving home, alone, from New York City to Glen Cove, N. Y., changed everything—almost. For weeks he could not move, was not even able to breathe except through a tube in his throat. But Roy Campanella remembered how good it was to be alive, and so he began to fight. That fight was an inspiration to everyone who knew him, even hospital patients who hadn't ever heard of him before. Now he can move his arms, his shoulders, his head . . . can even toss a baseball again!

During Campanella's convalescence he wrote how he achieved this miracle in an autobiography, "IT'S GOOD TO BE ALIVE" (Little, Brown, $4.50), a book which should stand with the Holy Bible on the bedstand of the very ill who want to live.

Campy was born Nov. 19, 1921, the son of an Italian father and a Negro mother. The kids in the neighborhood often called him "halfbreed." He liked baseball from the time he was old enough to throw a ball and by the time he was 14 he was a "pro," playing during his teens in the hottest Negro leagues in the United States. When first scouted by the Dodgers in 1945, he had a family and was a veteran of nine years in pro Negro ball.

Then, on July 2, 1948—wearing number 39 — he played his first game with the Dodgers after burning up the American Association for St. Paul with a .333 batting average. He was the fourth Negro signed into organized ball. Of all his years in the game, he is proudest of his 1953 year when he set three new records for a catcher: 42 home runs, 142 runs batted in and a fielding mark of 807 putouts. His batting average that year was a blazing .312.

Campy spent much of his time away from the Dodgers with his wife and children, often taking them with him on his yacht. He tinkered with his tropical fish tanks and with his model electric trains (his collection of electric trains is one of the largest in the world)., But most of his time was spent in the Major can leagues while most of his teammates were "on vacation"—because he loved the game so much.

Campy's autobiography carries right on through to the Yankee - Dodger "Campanella Night" game last May 7 when 93,103 fans paid him tribute in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. With his condition improving steadily all the time he "feels the good Lord will let me walk again." He tells of his plans to move to Southern California to be close to his work with the Dodgers organization.

Here is truly a magnificent book, attesting to the courage and faith of a great baseball player who tackled and defeated the most formidable foe any athlete ever went up against. . .death.

"ORDE WINGATE: A BIOGRAPHY" by Christopher Sykes (World, $6): One of strangest, most controversial but most zealous leaders to come out of any army was Gen. Orde Wingate, the Britisher who returned Haile Selassie to his Ethiopian throne and who changed the tide of war in Southeastern Asia and the techniques of guerrilla fighting throughout the world. Yet this genius who swayed Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt would sometimes greet visitors stark naked while bathing, was rebellious and antagonistic with fellow officers. Sykes has taken full advantage of his subject to produce as fascinating a biography as will come your way in a long time.

Thumbnail reviews of late books:

"THE LOTUS EATERS" by Gerald Green (Scribners, $4.95): What are the good things of life? This seems to be the synthesis of this robust novel by the author of "The Last Angry Man." Action centers at "The Beach," a swank Florida resort, around an anthropologist, his wife, a rich hoodlum, and a free-wheeling public relations man, and their lives become strangely involved. A book to think about long after the reading.

"AUTHOR'S SCRAPBOOK: 1958-1959" edited by R. Haner (Sandmar House, Superior, Ariz., no price given): This anthology of stories with a "different approach" contains a sweet little tale about a small boy's faith in his mother, written by Mrs. Edith Fitzgerald Golden of 2222 Elm Ave., Long Beach. Eighteen authors are represented in the collection.

"THE NEGOTIATORS" by Francis Walder (McDowell, Obolensky, $3.50): True to the publisher's promise, this is a masterful fiction account of diplomacy and the true art of negotiation. Though lacking in plot, it has to do with drawing up a treaty between the King of France and the Huguenots in 1570, two years before the Massacre of St. Bartholomew. This novel won for Walder the French Prix Goncourt last year.

"SCANDAL AT HIGH CHIMNEYS" by John Dickson Carr (Harpers, $3.50): Victorian London is the setting with two beautiful sisters figuring in a bizarre murder. If you like Carr, this is your meat.

"THE FINISHED MAN" by George Garrett (Scribners, $3.95): Florida becomes the arena of a red-hot senatorial campaign with the son of a

"But I am a female!"

They're back again, the two fun books edited by Lawrence Lariar each fall that makes everybody laugh: "BEST CARTOONS OF THE YEAR 1959" and "BEST CARTOONS FROM ABROAD 1959" (Crown, $2.95 each). The first-named contains the cream of the crop by leading American cartoonists, from top American publications; the latter (coedited by Ben Roth), a selection of belly-busters from publications throughout the world, are often breezy or racy. You can make a hit with your guests by passing these around instead of showing the family snapshots.

Two Long Beach Press-Telegram personalities figure in the annual "GUIDEPOSTS" anthology (Guideposts Associates, Inc., Carmel, N.Y., $3.95) — a collection of 65 articles published originally in "Guideposts" magazine. In one of the articles, Press-Telegram editorial page editor Harry Karns tells the story of Vaughn Shoemaker, whose editorial cartoons appear regularly on the P-T "Currents of Opinion" page. It's the story of an artist who failed art school but who went on to win two Pulitzer Prizes. Other articles in the collection were written by Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Victor Riesel, Robert Young, Lawrence Welk, Gov. Abraham Rubicoff, Ann Sothern, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Garry Moore, Pat Boone, and Elaine St. Johns.

decent old judge getting his eye teeth cut on political corruption. What sort of a man will emerge from this dog-eat-dog fight? Sound, swift-moving fiction.

"THE WOMAN'S BOWLING GUIDE" by Sylvia Wene (David McKay, $2.95): Contending that scoring higher than the average isn't difficult if the basic principles of bowling are mastered, the "First Lady of Bowling" outlines those principles in text and pictures in an understandable, easy-to-follow manner. Women who really want to excel in bowling should not pass up this one.

PAPERBACK originals (first time to appear in book form): "31 Short Short Stories From Colliers (Beacon, 35c); "McCracken in Command," a novel of officer rivalry, by James Keene (Dell, 25c); "Winter of the Sioux," a story of a man hated by the whites, loved by a great Indian tribe, by Robert Steelman (Ballantine, 35c); "The History of Western Art," from the cave painters to today's abstract impressionists, by Edwin O. Christensen (Mentor, 75c); "Harvey Kurtzman's Jungle Book" (Ballantine, 35c); "The Wanton," an Al Wheeler thriller by Carter Brown (Signet, 25c).

Doctor of Ailing

Don McSwain operates hot stamping press at Long Beach Library Binding Co. while Mrs. McSwain, daughter of the company founder, assists by tightening book press.

Donna Mitchell, soon to be 11, discusses with A. W. Rafferty, soon 81, intricate task of rejuvenating Donna's old Bible.

By Bess Settle Webster

AUSTIN W. RAFFERTY knows more about books from cover to cover than anyone else in town . . . or in any other town, for that matter. Books are his business. Sick books, that is. He is an expert book doctor. He regenerates, beautifies and blows new life into aging volumes and sends them back to their owners good as new.

When valuable old books from personal libraries, from the Los Angeles County Museum, from dusty attics and from horsehair trunks find their way into his book hospital—officially known as the Long Beach Library Binding Co., 1376 Coronado Ave.—they come to the personal attention of Rafferty. Founder of the firm which has been a Long Beach institution for 30 years, he knows the nearly forgotten, the lost art, of the real old-time bookbinder.

Commercial books of all kinds, Long Beach Public School textbooks, Long Beach City Library books, come in an endless stream to the bindery to be repaired, rebound and replaced in public service. But it is that special book, the prized first edition, the old family Bible, books that are dog-eared, unhinged, unglued and suffering from a nervous breakdown brought on by overwork and careless treatment, that come to the attention of the old book doctor.

WHEN RAFFERTY — who will be 81 years old on July 30—was a small boy in London, Ontario, he recalls one terrible winter when the temperature dropped so low that the trees cracked and popped in doleful protest. A business depression was on in full swing. His father was out of work. So were all the neighbors. All, that is, except one lone man. He was a bookbinder. Ol' Man Depression stayed away from the Canadian bookbinder's door. The neighbors, especially Austin Rafferty's father, were impressed.

"Son," Austin's father remarked one 30-below-zero morning when there was but little coal left in the bin, "how would you like to learn the bookbinding trade?"

This off-the-cuff remark lighted a glowing flame of ambition in Rafferty that is still burning brightly, giving motivation to his nimble fingers and purpose and understanding to his golden years when men his age have long been rusting on the shelf of retirement.

Later the family left Canada moving to Grand Rapids, Mich., where Austin, after completing his schooling, entered a large bookbinding concern as an apprentice. He worked five years before becoming a full-fledged journeyman bookbinder. There followed years of working for first one concern and then another in Canada, New York, Pittsburgh and other large cities. Each job contributed to his knowledge and experience although the pay was poor, $15, $18 a week. Back in Ontario again, he mastered the fine art of repairing old Bibles and hymn books . . . a skill that was to stand him in good stead in his golden years.

MRS. RAFFERTY shares her husband's enthusiasm for the book repair business. She, too, is an expert bookbinder. "Jean Stuart was a smart girl . . . sharp as a whip and neat as a button, a Scotch girl, forelady for the shop where I was working in Ontario," he will tell you, "I was the foreman. So, when we married and left the concern they lost both the foreman and the forelady."

Years ago the Rafferty's decided to retire. He was going to do some of the things he thought he wanted to do. But now, he is back at work doing the things he has always known that he really wanted to do . . . repairing old books. The couple's son-in-law, Don McSwain, is now owner and active head of the bookbinding concern on Coronado Ave. Mrs. McSwain, Rafferty's daughter, assists when needed. Mrs. Rafferty still does the hand sewing on fine books.

Rebinding a library book is no simple chore. Forty-one different operations are involved. How to meet the problem of rising costs, particularly of labor, can be solved only by mechanization.

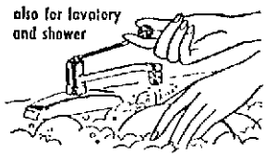

NUMEROUS EMPLOYES work at the routine business of repairing, rebinding and renewing the thousands of books that arrive by the truckload. The old covers are ripped off. Dried glue is cut away by powerful machines. Broken stitches are sheared off and when the weary old volume emerges in a smart, new dress, firmly glued and freshly stitched, it is ready for another grand round of borrowing, lending, serving as a door-stop or for throwing at the neighbor's howling dog.

"This is my mother's Bible," a customer will explain, "It is falling apart

Boot Hill: End of the Cow Trail

By Betty Hardesty

Legends taken from the originals, markers in Dodge City's Boot Hill are reminiscent of the grim humor of Wild West.

DODGE CITY'S notorious Boot Hill Cemetery is no longer open for permanent occupancy but visitors from Long Beach and elsewhere may stay a while. Most tourists do turn off the main road to visit this old graveyard known to every TV and movie viewer through history, legend and stories of Wyatt Earp.

Boot Hill, an actual Wild West burial place, was in use during the cattle-running days when Dodge City was the end of a trail over which cowboys drove steers from the Texas ranges. Between 1871 and 1878, many a tall Texan was carried there, booted feet first, after driving his critters into the railroad cars waiting at this Kansas rail terminal.

Perhaps the old, unnamed skeleton on display at the Boot Hill Museum today is one of these Texans. Now old pictures, newspaper clippings and prints of notorious persons of the Boot Hill Cemetery burying days cover the walls of this museum provided and kept up by the Dodge City Jaycees. The original 6x8-foot wooden jail of those days is part of the authentic collection.

A LARGE SIGN READS: "This Plot Is a Monument to Those Who Died With Their Boots On and Were Buried With Their Boots On." Below is a portion of a poem on "Boot Hill" by Josephine McIntire:

"To any traveler who may pass this way
And climb this lonely hill, we say . . .
Weep not for us who early made our beds
Wrapped in our blankets with saddles for our heads,
For we are happy here, secure and still
In this rock-strewn, silent, sun-baked hill."

Today it is not silent for town residences surround the now grassy slope and tourists' chatter disturbs the quiet.

On the hill, wooden signs freshly painted white with legible printing, have replaced rotted ones but inscriptions are copied from the originals. More humorous than sad, they are typical of pioneer epitaphs which reflect the bravado of those times:

One: "Town Bully. 1878. Whiskey Killed Him."

Another: "Shoot-em-up-Jake Run for Sheriff 1872. Run from Sheriff 1876. Buried 1876."

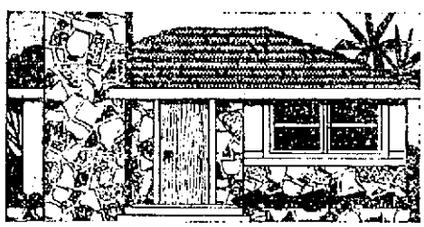

THE ONLY WOMAN buried there was dainty Dora Hand of Dodge City's Alhambra Saloon. Like all the fair of the old frontier, she was endowed with legends. These grew more fantastic after she was shot when mistaken for her steady boy friend, first mayor of the town. The minister chose as a text for her obsequies, "He that is without sin, let him cast a stone at her."

During its heyday, Dodge City and Boot Hill were often in the news of Eastern papers. The town was once called "The Beautiful, Bibulous Babylon of the Plains" because of killings and bawdiness. With so many saloons, it was indeed a drunkard's paradise. Tall Texans, their pockets full of money from their cattle drives, even drove their horses to the bars asking for "a double toddy" meaning one for the horse. After Kansas went dry, it has been said, any accredited person could still get "tanked-up" in Dodge City.

Come Sun or Snow

By Steve Ellingson

For summer, it can be used as a coaster. When winter comes it can go to the snow as a sled. Tommy Nolan of TV rides it.

GRASS is always greener on the other side of the fence. Ask any southern boy where he would rather live and he'll choose the north for it's winter sports. But a northern boy will take the south everytime to get away from his snow shoveling chores.

Of course, we can't bring snow to boys who live down south, but we can help them to have a sled. The one pictured here with NBC's Tommy Nolan, star of the Buckskin series works just as well on a sidewalk as it does in the snow.

In a way, I guess this could be called a year-round sled, or a sled for any climate. In the summertime when there isn't any snow, you simply put on the wheels and you have a sidewalk coaster. When snow comes to the highlands just take off the wheels and you're off to the snow areas for good sliding. It's a convertible — you get two things for the price of one.

IT'S AN EASY project. You simply trace the full-size patterns on wood, saw out the parts and put them together. The pattern, which is designed to be used by inexperienced amateurs, lists the required materials and gives easy to understand directions. The cost is very little when you build it yourself. It's a sturdy design and will last for years. The front runners are on a swivel, which makes it easy to steer and safe to operate. A sled is something every body or girl enjoys having. It makes a dandy gift.

Boot Hill

Wyatt Earp's time, shows his sign announcing "Carrying of Firearms within city limits is forbidden." He enforced it, too, by threatening those who argued with his long-barreled Buntline Special.

But whether Earp fired the shot or someone else did, no-one bothered to remove the boots of those who were buried on Boot Hill.

"This inflation is terrible! Every time we go out to eat the price goes up a few more dishes!"

End of a Symbol in Hollywood

By Jane Hamer

Tall pines shade the villas of the Garden of Allah where some of Hollywood's most famous persons lived and played.

THIS MODERN urge called "progress" is soon to destroy another of the Babylonic symbols of a fabulous era of movie-making, Hollywood's Garden of Allah Hotel. By fall this epic by-product of filmland's high-riding days will have been flattened to make way for a $755,000 project to be known as Lytton Center.

The three-acre hotel site in the Hollywood Hills occupies a busy corner and half a block on the "strip" at Sunset Blvd. and Havenhurst Dr. It was built in 1926 by Nazimova, siren of the silver screen and pet of Paramount Studios which gave her the property as a gift. Those late 1920s were days of extravagance in the film colony, as elsewhere. Movies were a most popular pastime and a whole rosy new era loomed as talking films tested different techniques.

Everything was going up, including skirts and excluding hairstyles which hugged the eyebrows. Jazz and the shimmy kept flappers hopping. Babe Ruth was appearing on the Pantages Theater Vaudeville stage at 7th and Hill Sts. in Los Angeles, and Catalina Channel swims were making national headlines. Radio, too, was reaching out from its battery boundaries to electric horizons unlimited. The Los Angeles Open Golf Tournment paid $3,200 or an unheard of $11 per stroke, the Giants paid Rogers Hornsby $40,000, turkeys sold for 50 cents a pound and Peerless Motor Stock at 32. Hollywood was expanding in population so a big new high school opened at Fairfax and Melrose to serve the fat film colony. Movie theaters were gold and plush palaces.

NAZIMOVA REFUSED to be outdone. In keeping with the lavishness of that income-tax-less period, she enlarged her garden retreat by building 25 villas of Spanish-styled architecture. Each was unique and fashionably furnished. The then un-inflated, vast sum of $1,500,000 which she spent also created a 65x45-foot swimming pool, biggest in Hollywood and in the shape of the Black Sea, beloved of her childhood.

Around the guest villas and pool of the Garden of Allah, luxurious gardens were planted, including evergreen pine trees which now tower above the Spanish roof tile, and shade the Moorish fountain pools. Today, villas in a row still turn their backs on Havenhurst as they face a flagstone walk beside a central building now housing offices, bar and restaurant of the hotel which must soon hold its farewell party.

On Jan. 8, 1927, a humdinger of an opening took place to dedicate the Garden of Allah. Festivities which continued for 18 hours, climaxed with a caviar and champagne feast. It is said that before it was over, waiters were harmonizing with guests while troubadours played madrigals from the middle of the pool.

STORIES OF THE POOL with fact and fable intermixed like film plots of those fanciful days, live on in tales of other parties. W. C. Fields, the comic inebriate both on and off the screen, took a short cut across the water. Film folk still smile remembering how Charlie Butterworth pushed a wheelbarrow carrying Robert Benchley from Villa No. 1 party to Villa No. 2 party to No. 3, etc., etc. far, far into the night.

Revelry lasted for days, often moving from villa to villa tirelessly, and anecdotes of those affairs follow the same pattern. When the humorist Benchley, was cautioned that "drink is slow poison," he replied, "I'm in no hurry."

Lucius Beebe's remark that "The Garden of Allah has catered to the best-dressed

Pool of the Garden of Allah Hotel, shaped like Nazimova's beloved Black Sea, was the focal point of many gay goings-on in the free-spending era of the film colony.

He Started as a 'Silent Singer'

By Terry Vernon

Independent, Press-Telegram TV Columnist

HOLLYWOOD is noted as a place where talent is often wasted right along with plenty of money. Take the case of Dennis Morgan, the "silent singer" of MGM.

Signed by the studio to sing, he worked at the big picture lot for three years, but was never permitted to sing a note. Bit parts were all the crumbs he got except for his salary.

Morgan, who was born Stanley Morner, left MGM at the termination of his contract, worked around the Paramount lot for a time, and was finally signed by Warner Brothers and put to singing. He also got his name change from the brothers Warner.

SEVERAL PICTURES were under his belt when "The Desert Song" came along and he became a star and overnight sensation.

Now he is working in a TV series called "21 Beacon Street" for NBC, in the starring role of detective Dennis Chase.

"The series is unique in that it is not a 'whodunit' but a 'HOW are you going to do it. In each episode Chase and the audience know the problem, but the audience does not known how we will manage to solve it," said Morgan.

MORGAN'S DESIRE to become an actor, a singer or both, started when he was attending Carroll College at Waukesha, Wis. He appeared in school plays, toured with a chautauqua circuit troupe throughout the Midwest and recalls doing 60 one-night stands with the opera "Faust."

An outdoor type, Morgan enjoys golf, fishing, hunting and devoting his off-hours to his 500-acre ranch in Fresno. On Sundays he sings in the choir of his neighborhood Presbyterian Church and works at helping the Boys Club in Hollywood.

"How can we get reservations for the Olympics in Rome next summer?"

I TRIED to reserve a hotel room for the Olympics last April. Tried at the Flora with Signor Signori who is a friend of mine. He was completely booked.

Best thing I have heard of is a ship tour which will anchor 12 miles from Rome and drive you in each day. The ship is the Ocean Monarch and the complete tour is $1395, including your tickets to the games. (You return each night and sleep on the ship.)

The cruise is 32 days if you come back by ship, 22 days if you want to take the alternate home by air. You also get side trips and dinners at Paris, Monte Carlo and so on.

For the brochure, write Travel House of Great Neck, 93 Middle Neck Road at Maple Drive, Great Neck, New York.

". . . best place for a winter vacation in the Caribbean?"

I STILL hear that you get your best prices and color in the Windward and Leeward Islands — Guadeloupe, Martinique, St. Lucia, Antigua. British West Indies Airways runs an island-hopping flight out of Miami. So does Pan American.

Jamaica, only two hours from Miami, is very popular.

However, this is NOT inexpensive country. The new Arawak Hotel at Ochos Rios quoted me $63 a day per couple with meals. At Montego Bay, I am staying at Casa Montego today for $15—off-season. But on-season, my room goes for $48 single, $58 double.

Trinidad is a fine tropical island with a smell of nutmeg to it. Fairly inexpensive. Grand Cayman near Jamaica is a new resort area you reach by British West Indies Airways out of Miami But I don't know the prices.

Haiti is the most colorful island. But it is having a good deal of political trouble. I don't think you'd get hurt. But it is for the adventurous right now.

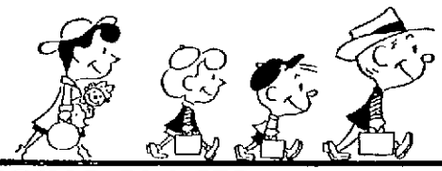

Cuba, 45 minutes from Miami, is a Caribbean Las Vegas: Shows, gambling, hot night life. Somewhat uncertain while the new Castro government shakes down.

Dominican Republic could get a revolution at any time. Too uncertain in my opinion for relaxed vacations. Again this is for the adventurous.

Stan Delaplane, Southland correspondent, will answer your questions on travel (no phone calls) from his own experiences in making reservations, changing money, locating restaurants and battling foreign languages. Make the question specific. Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

"Trompe de Montague" is huge low-voiced horn used to call cattle in northeastern France where regional folk-lore festivals are bright with costumes, dances.

GOING PLACES

by the Sloanes

RIFLING through a depleted checkbook on return from our recent transcontinental motor tour—it cost nearly one-third more than our estimates had indicated—we came to one inescapable conclusion: The cost of traveling has gone up distressingly in the past few years.

These factors seem to be causing the most trouble:

1. Tourist taxes. Probably the most unfair kind of taxation going, it burdens nonresidents who don't benefit from it yet can't vote against it. State and provincial levies on accommodations run as high as five per cent in many areas.

A new fly in the ointment is municipal taxation. In Reno, a sign over motel desks arrogantly announces that five per cent will be added to room rates to pay the cost of a new municipal auditorium. Just why tourists, who may never see the inside of it, must pay for this is not made clear.

Restaurant and gasoline taxes are an old story getting bigger. In many tourist-dependent areas visitors contribute more to the support of governments than local citizens who eat out and fill their tanks once a week.

2. Room rates. Panic seems to have gripped many small commercial motels. Long the mainstays of the highway accommodation trade, they are now faced with stiff competition from a resuscitated hotel industry and the new big-time motor hotel independents and chains.

Where these can afford not to charge for children, the small motels can't afford not to. Where the large operators can count on averaging a profit over the year with a certain percentage of occupancy, Mama and Papa are faced with the competitive urgency of charging what the traffic will bear when there is traffic.

Seasonal rates are approaching fantastic levels. Fifteen dollars for two in the most ordinary places is not uncommon. Once when we asked for two rooms, we were told the rate would be $30 plus—without batting an eyelash—$2 additional for a crib and $1.50 for television. We've paid less than that for suites in Las Vegas and Miami Beach resort hotels.

3. Memberships. One form panic has taken is an increasing dependency on memberships in motel organizations and charge-it clubs to draw the customers in. Many of the former have steep membership fees and the latter require commissions ranging up to seven per cent. Both must inevitably be passed on to guests in the form of higher room rates. Again, the larger operations seem better able to absorb these expenses.

4. Toll roads. We're as thankful for them as anyone, but the tolls do add to the costs of motoring.

5. Inflation. There isn't much left to be said on this subject except to note in passing that it has taken its toll on hotel and restaurant operating costs and automobile insurance, depreciation and maintenance as surely as it has one everything else.

Travel by public carrier isn't any cheaper these days either. The airlines, squeezed by labor and burdened by huge debts for new jet equipment are trying their best to pass some of the load on to the consumer.

Recently, fares were raised six per cent in the United States. Round trip discounts and stopover privileges were withdrawn and family plan savings reduced by most airlines.

The 10 per cent (U.S.) tax on tickets still exists, and most foreign countries have gleefully jumped on the bandwagon with senseless tourist card taxes, head taxes, baggage taxes and port taxes which benefit the tourist even less, if that is possible, than hotel taxes at home.

What to do about it all? Refusing to patronize places that take advantage of the tourist and raising cain with your legislators may help.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. All will be answered as soon as possible but those sending stamped, self-addressed envelopes will get preference.

Nonstop to London

Trans World Airlines will begin nonstop international jet service with Boeing 707 intercontinental models between New York and London on Nov. 23, according to Charles S. Thomas, president.

A second trans-Atlantic route between New York and Paris will start Dec. 3, Thomas announced.

The flights to London will continue to Frankfurt, Germany, and the Paris flights will continue to Rome.

The new international jet service will provide Los Angeles area passengers with direct connections to European destinations. Leaving Los Angeles at 9 a.m., a TWA passenger will arrive in London at 6:55 a.m. the following day, a total elapsed flying time of 11 hours and 25 minutes.

Flying time between New York and London will be reduced to six hours and 25 minutes eastbound by use of the 707 intercontinental jets.

Hostesses Learn Art in Real Jets

By Herb Shannon

AIRBORNE passengers of Continental Air Lines are receiving the benefits of improved service en route because of a couple of jet transports that never get off the ground at Los Angeles International Airport.

Both of the planes are full-scale mockups of sections of the jet aircraft used by Continental on its routes from Chicago west and south. The mockups are used as classrooms in the airline's school for hostesses.

The cabin models of the Boeing 707 Golden Jet and the jet-powered Viscount II are complete in every detail, containing seats, lights, buffet units and all facilities for passenger comfort as in their flying counterparts.

Student hostesses in school at Continental Airlines base at Los Angeles learn by watching demonstrations through the transparent side of land-locked jet plane.

THE 707 MOCKUP includes the first-class passenger lounge, the galley compartment and the first forward section of eight seats, exactly as in the real plane. The interior decor is also a duplicate of the real thing on one wall, while the other is transparent plexiglass so student hostesses can watch demonstrations inside.

The Viscount mockup takes in a similar slice of plane except that the section used is forward of the galley near the rear of the actual plane.

Both of these land-based aircraft enable Continental to simulate actual in-flight conditions, including the serving of champagne and hot meals, during the company's intensive hostess training course.

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Marilyn Ainlay, Continental's supervisor of hostess training, new girls practice serving each other according to the strictly-outlined regulations of their training manuals, while other students watch from outside the plane.

In addition to training some 50 new hostesses a year to replace those leaving the service, each of Continental's 200 hostesses receives a refresher course each three months.

Refresher training, which runs through the entire service manual in one day for classes of a dozen hostesses, is conducted by Susan Haggott, assistant supervisor of the school.

Hands Talk Plainly to Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

THROUGH the courtesy of Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, we are privileged to reproduce in this column highlights from an excellent article, "Good Hands With a Dog" published in Gaines Dog Research Progress, written by Stanley Dangerfield for the English journal, Our Dogs. They follow:

Man has, in his hands, the most powerful of weapons when dealing with dogs. These hands can tame, subdue, punish, heal, exact obedience, charm, comfort, and cherish. Make no mistake about it—the dog knows this. When man deals with man he looks at the other person's eyes. When dog deals with man, he looks at the person's hands.

DISTRACT A DOG'S attention from your hands by talking to him, thereby causing him to look up into your face to see where the noise comes from. Then try putting your hands in your pocket while you are talking. You will find the dog's eyes register the move. Try taking a swipe at a dog, hiding a ball which he wants, throwing the ball without warning. In each case, the dog's reaction is automatic and immediate.

All of which should make us careful with our hands. No dog should be taught to fear those hands. It is tempting to grab a dog that has just changed his mind about coming to you, but it frightens him and builds up a determination to stay out of arm's reach at all costs. Lifting a dog by the scruff of the neck is an absurd habit, and cuffing and slapping also build up the wrong sort of awareness of the hands. Even the lead can be a weapon in the hands of the unsympathetic.

THE OBEDIENCE section of the dog world knows all about hands. Often the merest flicker of a finger will prevent the dog from making a mistake. Field trial people know all about hands as well. Indeed the dogs are controlled largely by hand signals. With sheepdog, it is the hands that do the work, and they can drop a shepdog half a mile away onto a sixpence!

In the show ring, people who use their hands get results. Look at the terrier handler. He spends most of the time throwing imaginary bits of grass out in front of the dog which makes an enormous difference to its expression. Look at the judge who pretends to toss his judging book to the floor to bring a collie's ears up. Watch a well-known winner—he stands in front of his owner on a loose lead and takes all his commands from a finger.

A dog trainer can teach a dog to sit in a few minutes without using his voice. Walking with the dog held on lead with his left hand, he stops and immediately passes the index finger of his right hand from the front to a point low over the dog's head. The dog's eyes follow it, and as his head goes up, so his backside goes down! This experiment will teach you about hands; will teach you not merely to push, shove, and lift a dog into position.

and undressed stars in Hollywood" recalled an oft-told tale. When a Western Union messenger rang the villa doorbell of a famous Broadway actress, he was so startled that he handed the message to her monkey. The simian was perched on top of the head of his mistress who answered the door otherwise completely unadorned.

YEARS FLASHED BY in the Gardens where many stars glittered. There were such names as the Barrymores, Dietrick, Garbo, Sam Goldwyn, Vilma Banky, Scott Fitzgerald stayed on while he wrote "Diamond as Big as the Ritz." Later his star passed out of sight into eternity from Villa No. 1 at the uphill end of the flagstone walk.

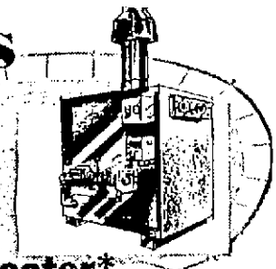

Hollywood is a passing show and the famed hotel has become dulled by the dust of hurrying traffic in a growing city. Several owners took over, trying to revive the glamour that faded with Nazimova's passing in 1942. Brief visits of celebrities restored its glow from time to time, each time a bit dimmer than before. The company of "My Fair Lady" used the quarters during the recent 6-week run of the play in Los Angeles.

The pool still shines clear and bright, but the Garden of Allah's slip is showing. Her villas droop with middle-age lines. The party is over.

Worth a Try

Large glossy leaves of Aralia sieboldi (Fatsia Japonica) are handsome additions to any garden that needs a cool-looking tropical for semi-shaded areas. But for real tropical effect, some Californians prefer the related Rice Paper Plant (Tetrapanax papyriferum), and its non-glossy finish and huge umbrella-like leaves. Inland, it occasionally freezes back in winter, but is worth trying in sheltered garden areas.

He Calls His Shots a World Away

By The Shutterbug

ONE OF THE maxims of good travel photography is to plan ahead. That is, estimate the amount and type of film and accessories needed for the pictures you'll encounter.

Never has good advice been carried to such extremes as in the case of Don Nibbelink of Rochester, N.Y.

Here is a photographer who planned a color slide story of an around-the-world trip one year in advance. He knew what he was going to photograph from sunrise to sunset during every day of the 10-week trip.

FOR INSTANCE, some time in June he had already planned to be in Nakorn Pathom, 46 kilometers from Bangkok, at 2 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 7, to photograph an important, colorful local ceremony. And that at 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 22, he would be on a boat in Ago Bay, near Toba, Japan, shooting pearl divers.

It is not surprising that the results of Don's travels have already been scheduled as a feature presentation at a national photographic convention. Called "Around the World in 80 Minutes," they will be seen in Louisville, Ky., when the Photographic Society of America gathers for a five day session starting Oct. 6.

Planning of this nature calls for teamwork. Since Don returns to this country barely in time to make a personal appearance along with his pictures, someone else had to be on the receiving end of the airmailed films. Catching the forward passes and running with the films is a fellow member of the PSA, John Fish, also of Rochester. He is director of the techniques division of the PSA for this convention.

AFTER PROCESSING, editing and arranging a musical background for the global adventure pictures a rather unique presentation has been planned. Three slide projectors will be focused on three screens, each 12-foot square and side by side. Individual slides, comparison views or panoramic vistas can be shown as needed to lend variety and visual interest.

In addition, a fourth movie projector is to be beamed on the center screen at strategic moments to show how the slide pictures were shot or to add the medium of motion to the scenes.

As you may have suspected, Don isn't on a one-man expedition. He is accompanied by his wife and two daughters. From personal experience, I know the blessings of a family retinue which supplies its own live models and serves as human packhorses for some of the equipment. But that's part of the planning.

CONTESTS FOR BLACK and white prints and color slide will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Long Beach Camera Club meeting in the Los Altos Library, 5614 Britton Dr. John Scheurer is new president of the club; Floyd Williamson, vice president; Doris Bradley, recording secretary, and Catherine Laursen, treasurer. Chairmen are Gerald Church, color; Les Willis, black and white print; Clara Watkins, Spotlight; Eugene Nye, parliamentarian; John Hults, field trip; Dana Bullock, technical adviser; Elva Hayward, SAC representative; Don Hayward, finance; Bert Laursen, membership and photographer; Floyd Williamson, program; and Jean Stuart, public relations.

with use and age. I wonder if it can be repaired so that our children may love it and enjoy it as mother did."

Rafferty smiles when he hears these familiar words. Like a skilled surgeon his highly educated fingers run along the ailing patient's spine as he diagnoses inner ailments. He opens the book. Examines its loose leaves. His fingers, sensitive as a violinist's, caress the worn binding.

"Yes," he will say, "There's life left in your beloved book," and you know he is just itching to get at it.

The Raffertys founded the Long Beach Library Binding Co. some 30 years ago. McSwain joined the firm in 1937. Eventually the senior Raffertys gave the business jointly to their son, A. W. (Pat) Rafferty and to McSwain. A terrific disaster occurred early in January 1957 that cost the lives of four persons including Pat Rafferty. The brick building housing the concern at 1420 Hayes Ave., was demolished, as was costly equipment and machinery. The tragedy occurred when the building was hit by a single engine military plane. Salvage consisted of two dozen business cards.

Believing that work is a panacea for all heartaches, A. W. Rafferty plunged wholeheartedly back into the business. The new Coronado Ave. building provides convenient headquarters for the firm.

financially. We have friends who collect seaweed and make interesting pictures; other friends who make exquisite shell jewelry."

All three O'Briens are members of the Long Beach Shell Club. They recommend for beginners the "Long Beach Shell Club Shell Book," and Percy Morris' "West Coast Shells." For advanced collectors, they recommend "Sea Shells of Tropical West America," by A. Myra Keen, covering marine mollusks from Lower California to Colombia.

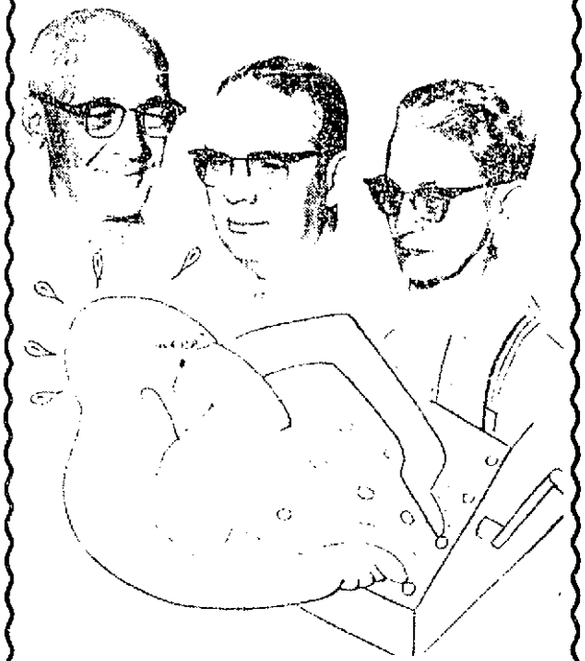

O'BRIEN, WHO in the 1930s was a lightweight and welterweight boxer under his own name and the name of Cyclone Gene Thompson, used to be an attraction at Kid Mexico's Westside Auditorium on W. Anaheim St.

He was Arizona welterweight champion in 1934. He fought Bob LaSalle, middleweight challenger here, in 1934. LaSalle got the decision.

The O'Briens live at the juncture of Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St. They have two addresses. Their front door is 278 Cummings Lane; their back door is 279 La 67th St.

YOUR GARDEN

October: Busy Planting Month

By Joe Littlefield

WE'LL BE plenty busy this month planting flowers and bulbs for winter-spring bloom. Snapdragons are one of the annuals that are becoming increasingly popular because of improvement work done on them. There's the dwarf, the intermediate, and the tall. Of all types, one of the new tall ones is F-1 Hybrid Snapdragon Rocket.

Jim Perry of Perry's Plants wholesale bedding plant growers, and state president of California Association of Nurserymen, considers it one of the best snapdragons produced in recent years. The hybrid vigor makes them grow taller.

THERE ARE SEVERAL ways you can use snapdragons. In a flower bed alone, as informal edging planting along a walk or a driveway, or better yet, in an annual or perennial flower bed, planting them in masses with other annuals like stocks.

A good example of group planting of snapdragons, other plants too, may be seen at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, Arcadia, in their demonstration gardens. There's where you'll get good ideas how to correctly mass different kinds of annuals for best showy effect. Yes, and its there too, you'll see a lovely free Fall Flower Show, Oct. 30, 31, Nov. 1.

Snapdragons, furnish some of the loveliest shadings, and gay colors you can possibly imagine, for your winter-spring garden.

OTHER ANNUALS you should plant are stocks, iceland poppies, violas and pansies. Be sure the little crowns from where side branches grow on pansies and violas, are slightly above soil level. Otherwise, soil smothers the young growth and dampness causes them to rot off. That's one of the main reasons why violas and pansies rot off usually two months or so after they've been planted out.

If you've tried delphiniums before and have been discouraged because you didn't get tall, handsome spike flowers, possibly you didn't plant them at the right time. One of the successful Southern California delphinium growers is Hans Burkhard. Each year he's grown some strikingly showy, tall spiked Pacific hybrid delphiniums. His secret is planting them from mid-October on for the next couple of months. Don't wait till spring to set out young plants if you want to grow five or six-foot tall delphiniums.

Work half cup of bone meal into each hole for the plants. Watch winter chewing worms and also slugs. Feed plant at least twice during the winter and you'll have tall, showy, gorgeous spikes of delphinium flowers come spring.

Snapdragons combined with group planting of stocks furnish warm color flowers during the winter months.

For the Fence Beautiful

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN improve the bare look of a garden fence by decorating it with ornamental plants. Subjects that have a climbing habit of growth will prove especially desirable. A wide range of both foliage and flowering plants is available.

Unless the fence is to be completely hidden, it will be best not to use shrubs having an extremely dense growth. Ornamentals that allow part of the fence to be seen will usually fit most harmoniously.

In selecting ornamentals for fence covers, determine their habits and rate of growth. The speed burners will prove gratifying at first but later on require a tremendous amount of pruning. The colors of the flowers should harmonize with the tone of the fence. And, a rustic type of fence should not be adorned with plants that possess a delicate appearance.

IT IS NOT NECESSARY to limit your fence covers to one variety. Several different ornamentals may be used but a sense of rhythm should be maintained. At the terminal points, where the posts are situated, a bank of color will prove desirable. Throughout Southern California, fibrous begonia serve this purpose well.

If flowering subjects are employed, you should remove the blooms at regular intervals. Flowers that go to seed are unattractive and rob the plant of energy that otherwise would be directed into additional floral production. Removing all old blooms prolongs the flowering period.

PLANTS EMPLOYED for covering a fence should be firmly attached to it. Otherwise they will droop and present an untidy appearance. Now available at your garden supply store are plant ties made expressly for attaching vine-like ornamentals to supports. As the stems grow they should be firmly trellised to the fence. This procedure should be continued as long as the canes stretch out.

Ornamentals set adjacent to a fence, directly below it and running parallel, will also prove attractive. Annual plants are very colorful used in this way. For dark-appearing fences a border of white-leaved centaureas will produce a brightening-up effect.

Begonia Society

Parent chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. Joe Taylor, of Redondo Beach, will be the speaker.

Ornamentals decorate and brighten up bare garden walls. Rustic fences should not be adorned with delicate flowers.

Plants Can Be Naturalized, Too

Daffodils are excellent for naturalizing in the garden.

By Dorothy Jonson

To bring your poinsettias into bloom at Christmas time:

Begin shortening the daylight hours for your poinsettias with a suitable canvas or cloth covering at about 5:15 p. m. (A friend of mine dyed some old bed sheets black and spread them over long stakes driven into the ground, thus creating a covering to prevent the daylight coming through.)

Five days later begin putting the covers on 15 minutes earlier, or at 5 o'clock.

Five days later begin putting the covers on at 4:45 p.m.

Every five days continue to set the time earlier by 15 minutes until you find that you are putting the covers on at 3:45 p. m. Continue to cover the poinsettias at 3:45 each day until the flower buds begin to form. This will be about the middle of November. And at this time, the days are so much shorter that you won't need to continue to cover them any longer. They will come into bloom for Christmas.

They Need Water

Geraniums have the reputation of being able to go for weeks on end without water. This is true—they will; but, they won't like it! In pots, especially, the geranium will give an inferior performance if water is lacking.

Don't be afraid to water potted geraniums every other day, and feed them about once a month through summer with a complete commercial fertilizer.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE

By Walter Finch

PLANTS that quickly become naturalized make gardening an easy and more enjoyable hobby. Ornamentals that lend themselves to this kind of landscaping must look and act as if they were natives of the area where they're planted. The amazing thing is that dozens of imported plants can be used in Southern California successfully for naturalizing purposes.

The most important qualification for plants utilized in this manner is their ability to thrive on little water. Growing conditions in this area are characterized by a lack of natural rainfall.

One of the best plants for naturalizing is the common narcissus, often termed a daffodil. Actually there is no difference between the two. Narcissus is the Latin and daffodil is the English name for the same plant.

WHEN NATURALIZING narcissus the bulbs should be planted in drifts. Plant about one dozen bulbs in each drift. One of the best methods of creating a natural effect is to throw a handful of bulbs into the air, planting them where they fall. The depth of planting roughly should be about three times the diameter of each bulb. This is a generalization, light soils requiring a somewhat deeper planting.

In planting, make sure that the base of each bulb rests on the soil. Modern trowels are often pointed which means the hole they dig is larger at top than at bottom. Bulbs therefore may not fit all the way down into the hole. When suspended by their sides the roots emerge into an air pocket. This is dangerous to the bulb.

The California juniper, as its name would seem to indicate, is very much at home in this area. Once the plant has become established you can almost forget it. The juniper, and this seems true of most varieties, is at home, whether close to the ocean or hundreds of miles inland.

CALIFORNIA JUNIPER is somewhat of a compromise between a large shrub and a small, spreading tree. The young foliage is characterized by a most attractive silvery coloring while the older leaves are dark green. For a dry, sandy soil there is really no comparable plant that will grow as vigorously as the California juniper.

Another interesting California ornamental is libocedrus decurrens, also known as the incense cedar. This is one of the most attractive small evergreen trees available for home planting in this area. It grows about fifty feet at maturity and has a more or less formal look. The foliage has a very fine fragrance. Libocedrus decurrens is long-lived and assumes a compact, pyramid-like shape.

Although not always easily obtainable the wild pea, known as lathyrus splendens, will prove an interesting subject. It looks like a sweet pea although the color range is limited, being restricted more or less to rose and lavender. This is a California native and performs well as a ground cover. It flowers mainly during the summer season.

Other possibilities for naturalizing in this area include: oxalis, ornithogalum, freesia, calochortus and babiana.

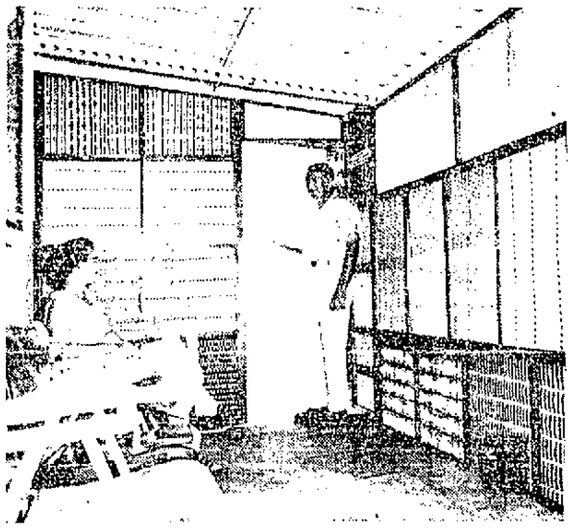

Garden Tips

GARDEN TIPS for the week. . . . This is a good time to level out depressions in the land around your home. It is advisable to have the land slope away from your home to prevent water seepage during rains under your home.

Tie securely all vine-like plants to prevent their being toppled over during heavy winds. Most garden supply stores offer a wide range of ties for securing vines to supports.

Do not apply plant foods now that show a high nitrogen content. Nitrogen encourages soft new growth which is extremely sensitive to the cold.

Screen for Your Patio

Bamboo and redwood screens function well in R. T. Blackburn home. Varicolored bamboo slats are laced into wood frames.

PROBLEMS of patio covers and screens are easily solved—make one, in color if you like, from bamboo and redwood.

Roy T. Blackburn, 4249 Hackett Ave., Lakewood, retired U. S. Navy commander, "invented" the process for the patio at his home.

"Take bamboo blinds, paint them in color," saiys Blackburn, "then take them apart and lace the slats into the design you want in redwood frames."

Blackburn used black, white, coral, yellow and green paint.

"If anyone wants to see how it's done, come by and I'll show them," he says.

HOW TO Tell Quality Lumber (How It Is Graded)

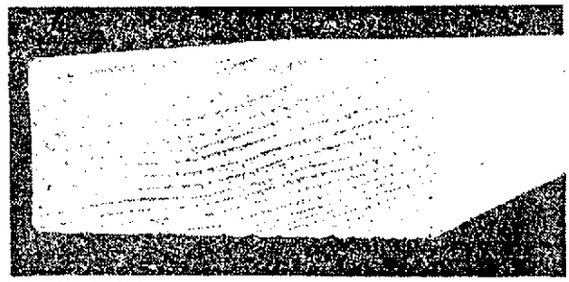

LUMBER GRADING methods vary, but it usually follows system below. Grades go by numbers, names, or letters: No. 1 (construction); No. 2 (standard); No. 3 (utility); No. 4 (economy), and so on.

1. HIGHEST QUALITY BOARDS: 1 and 2 clear or B and Better. Boards (from the bottom,) are 1 and 2 clear (few small imperfections); C Select (limited imperfections), and D Select (imperfections that can be covered with a coat of paint).

2. OTHER GRADES (from the bottom): No. 1 (tight knots, limited defects); No. 2 (larger, coarser defects); No. 3 (knots, pitch, checking); No. 4 (big knots, pitch, and so on); No. 5 (knotholes, loose knots, and so on). Common dimension stock includes all widths. No. 1 has tight knots, pitch pockets; No. 2 large knots; No. 3 large knots, knotholes. Structural dimension lumber is 4 or more inches wide. Select structural is strongest; common structural has some defects.

3-4. THE WAY THE WOOD GRAIN runs is another factor in lumber grading. Lumber that is cross-grained is weaker than straight-grained stock. Lumber with large cell openings such as oak is termed open-grained stock; that with small cell openings, like maple, is close-grained stock.

TOMMY NOH

Big Changes Due

THE FOOD is superlative, the view of Long Beach harbor is spectacular, the atmosphere is tropically exotic. . . . In fact, everything at The Reef restaurant, 880 Harbor Scenic Dr. on Pier A, is so interesting that the place—although only 1½ years old—has already outgrown itself.

To accommodate the crowds which appear during the rush hours, The Reef this month will embark on an ambitious rebuilding program. Hammers will bang, saws will hack away and when the work is finished, the restaurant will be so enlarged its east side dining areas will seat over 250 persons. In addition, the west patio will be enclosed to form a new cocktail lounge and waiting room. Other refinements will include a large banquet room and gift shop.

The improvements will be in the eye-catching south seas style which has made The Reef one of the Southland's most handsome dining places. New decorative touches will include a waterfall, an entirely different outdoor patio and more fire pits.

WHILE THESE major changes are being made, the restaurant will continue to be open as usual (from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily) under the skilled direction of Manager Tommy Noh, assistant manager Ralph Fulton and Chef John G. Verner. Featuring luncheons from $1.45 and dinners from $2.75 to $4.75, The Reef is just the place to take out-of-town visitors who want to dine on something different while they admire Long Beach's sharp, clean skyline and the harbor's blue waters.

Among the dinner entrees are superb broiled swordfish, $2.75; teriyaki steak (filet marinated in soya and ginger sauce, $4.75; chicken kona kai, $2.95; a variety of other charcoal-broiled steaks and the Polynesian Delight (two filets wrapped in bacon with mushrooms, $3.95. Dinners include chilled relish bowl, magnificent salad, baked potato and beverage.

U. E. BAUGHMAN: The President's safety is in his hands

Author Hermione Gingold, actress and comedienne, reminisces with Maurice Chevalier in Oscar-winning film, Gigi.

I'll always remember...

Tears at the seashore

by HERMIONE GINGOLD

I WANTED TO GO on the stage almost from the first moment I could breathe. This was particularly remarkable because I came from a family of stockbrokers and other conservative types, not one of whom had ever so much as stepped behind a row of footlights.

Suddenly there I was, at the age of 5, and opportunity presented itself.

I was with my family and my nurse at Broadstairs, one of those elegant English seaside resorts where expensive nannies sat on the beach with their charges and didn't allow them to get their feet wet.

Uncle Mac's Minstrel Show was at Broadstairs that year, and of course I wasn't allowed to go. Uncle Mac himself was the most glamorous figure I had ever spotted on the sands. He was rather tall and wore striped trousers, a pink bow tie, and a top hat—his face was made up with burnt cork. One day it was announced that Uncle Mac was launching a competition for child talent.

I was determined to go—and to win.

And so I ran away from Nanny. It was about a five-minute slow run down to the place on the sands where the competition was being held. I queued up with the other kids, all of whom were older than I—say 10 or 12. Each of them had some number he could sing or dance. The only thing I could sing was God Save the King. When my turn came, I rendered it to mediocre applause.

And then I burst into tears.

I wailed and bawled so loudly that they gave me the prize to shut me up. My Nanny arrived, to find all the other kids bawling—as well they might—over the obvious unfairness of the award.

Nanny snatched me away and confiscated my prize, a box of incredibly bad chocolates. But I didn't care, because the box was a symbol of my success.

Very early I had learned the lesson that it's no good relying on your talent alone. You need publicity, or a gimmick, or a little extra something to get ahead. In my case it was the tears, which I very purposely turned on because I knew my singing was so dreadful.

I applied the lesson again when I was 12 and played Cardinal Wolsey in a school play. It was a minor role. To draw attention to myself, I kept choking on my cottonwool beard during everyone else's lines.

Aren't children something? I wouldn't pull that sort of trick now. I grew out of that lesson long ago, I assure you.

Or maybe I've just learned to be more subtle. ■

Two fine newspapers today join the PARADE family, bringing to 65 the number that now distribute it each week. We are delighted to welcome the readers of the Asheville (N.C.) Citizen-News and the Sioux City (Iowa) Sunday Journal.

"A Yukon sight more glittering than gold" was described in our July 12th issue by Rev. Eugene Dinsmore Dolloff, a New Bedford, Mass., pastor. The sight was the crumbling ruins of an abandoned church in a remote part of Alaska. Built in the 1890s by hard-bitten gold miners, the church reminded Dr. Dolloff that "deep in every heart there is an unquenchable thirst for God."

Since the article appeared, Dr. Dolloff has heard from some of the miners who actually built the church. And, happily, funds are being raised to rehabilitate the church—to deliver to future generations the message it gave Dr. Dolloff.

Looking as proud as a peacock below is Carolyn Bray, of Birmingham, Ala. With no help, Carolyn whipped together, from our June 7th recipe by Beth Merriman, the "Fairy Tale Cottage of candy and cake" next to her. Miss Bray's age: a wise 11.

How to help keep naptimes happy

Tips on bathing a tiny baby

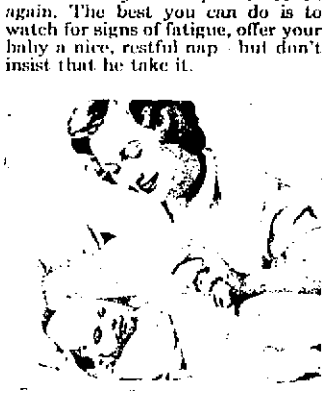

New baby-feeding picture book—free

For a young baby naps are no trouble—he'd rather sleep than do almost anything, except eat! But the more your little dynamo can see things and do things, the less sleep he wants or requires.

● Nap needs differ greatly from baby to baby. By his first birthday (or months sooner or later!) your child may shift from two naps a day to one. The tricky question during this change-about period is what time of day is naptime? Too early, and baby feels insulted; too late and he's exhausted!

● Clues to watch for: if baby shoves with his feet when you hold him, squirms restlessly, or sucks his thumb persistently, he's probably telling you he's had it for now, and wants a snooze. Crankiness and crying are obvious signals.

● One nice long nap after an early lunch may suit for several days, then suddenly two naps are needed again. The best you can do is to watch for signs of fatigue, offer your baby a nice, restful nap but don't insist that he take it.

● How long should you sponge instead of tub-bathe your new baby? A few weeks or a few months—until you feel ready to try tubbing. Important pointer: When sponging, keep your papoose under a cotton blanket, uncover only the place you're sponging. A snug wrap also keeps him from rolling—a frightening sensation for a little baby.

● If your baby ever decides he's tired of vegetables, surprise him—serve fruits instead for a week or so. He'll get many of the same vitamins and minerals in delicious Heinz Baby Fruits as in Heinz nutritious Strained and Junior Vegetables. You'll avoid mealtime battles—and probably get vegetables back on baby's menu sooner. Start with an extra-favorite, Heinz Freestone Peaches—Strained or Junior—picked and quick-packed when they're at their sweetest and juiciest.

● Easy to get at Heinz Junior Foods—many now come equipped with screw-on caps—another Heinz first! You can take off these convenient new caps with a single turn, and as easily reseal them to keep second helpings moist and tasty in the refrigerator. Mothers write us of other good uses for Heinz screw-top jars: storing safety pins, baby oil, cotton balls—or daddy's workshop supplies, such as nails and screws.

● A new picture-story book filled with nutritional facts about baby feeding is yours for the asking: "An ABC's for Baby's Mealtime." Illustrative pictures plus easy-to-read text help you help your baby start on Strained and Junior foods. Tips, too, on helping him learn how to use a spoon and cup to feed himself. For your free copy, just send your name and address to Heinz Baby Foods, Box 28, D-47, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

2 New Pillsbury Boston Cream Pie Mixes

Rich Chocolate flavor or Creamy Vanilla flavor

CHOCOLATE FLAVOR

Triple chocolate flavors—triple excitement when you bring on this modern Pillsbury version of the traditional Boston Cream Pie. Rich moist chocolate-flavor cake; smooth creamy filling; shiny chocolate-flavor icing make table talk—all down the block. Easy; all three mixes you need are in one package.

VANILLA FLAVOR

Exactly the right gracious note when you've invited guests for dessert and coffee. Moist golden cake; creamy filling; chocolate-flavor icing to drizzle down the sides for a shiny professional look. No bother, even when you're busy. Pillsbury puts all three mixes in one package, for perfect Boston Cream Pie.

Nothing says lovin' like something from the oven... and Pillsbury says it best!

by U. E. BAUGHMAN Chief, U.S. Secret Service, with Fred Blumenthal

When Ike tours Russia, the Secret Service will be at his elbow. The inside story of America's toughest job

Historic assassination in pre-Secret Service days cut down President Garfield. Disappointed office-seeker seen at l. shot him twice in back without warning.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

No one knows today whether President Eisenhower will be in danger on his coming visit to the Soviet Union. If Vice President Nixon's recent tour there is a guide, crowds will be warm and enthusiastic. But in those crowds might lurk one man of twisted mind and bitter heart. One moment of madness might change a good-will tour into an international disaster.

Immediately after the President's trip was announced, a team of agents of the United States Secret Service left for Moscow. There they have worked with Soviet security agents to prevent such an eventuality. The Russians, of course, are as eager to forestall a disaster as we are. Our agents have worked closely with their Russian counterparts before—on the Vice President's trip, at Geneva in 1955, at Potsdam in 1945, at Yalta in 1944.

Protecting our President in Russia is neither the most difficult task nor the easiest that the Secret Service has ever faced. Whether the President is in Moscow, U.S.S.R., or Moscow, Idaho, we must assume that any public appearance can spell danger. Thus, when the President appeared with Premier Khrushchev in this country last month, the Secret Service took equally elaborate precautions to protect the President.

Guarding Premier Khrushchev, however, was the province of the security division of the State Department. (Secret Service agents, of course, cooperated with them.) In recent years, the Secret Service protective duties have been limited to the considerable task of guarding the President and the Vice President and their families.

At times in the past, our agents have protected visiting foreign dignitaries as well. At the request of President Roosevelt, Secret Service agents guarded Dutch Queen Wilhelmina, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill during their wartime visits to Washington.

It is little known that in 1942 a quick-thinking Secret Service agent thwarted what could have been a tragedy for the Allied cause. Churchill, after a White House conference, was flying back to London. One of our special agents had been assigned to pose as an airport baggage handler. As the Prime Minister approached his plane, the agent heard a British airlines guard (a U.S. citizen, incidentally) mutter, "I'll kill him this time." The agent quickly took the man into custody. Churchill, jauntily unaware of the incident, told a Secret Service agent on departing, "Look after your President. We all need him."

A year later, Churchill's fears were almost borne out. Secret Service agents uncovered a truly fantastic —and yet technically feasible—plot on the life of President Roosevelt. Acting on a tip, agents picked up Clarence C. Cull, an Army deserter and former mental patient. In his rooming house they found four ounces of nitric acid, six ounces of glycerine, and scrawled instructions for the manufacture of nitroglycerine bombs.

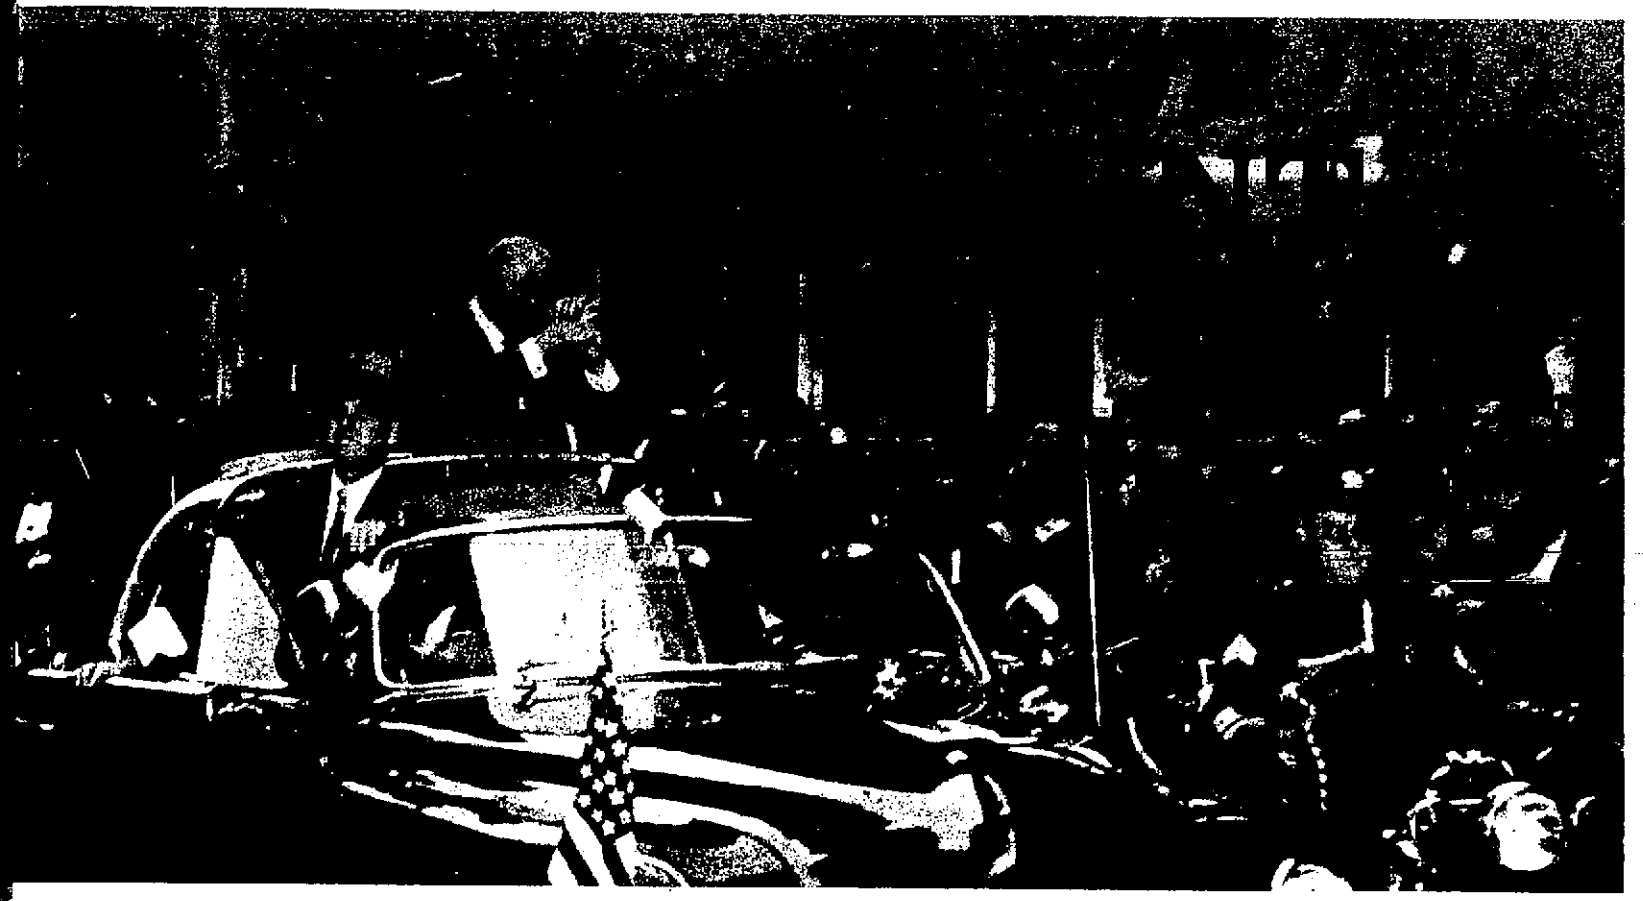

Cull confessed that he planned to make the bombs, strap them around the waist, put on his Army uniform, crowd as close as he could to the President's car, and "blow myself and anyone around me to bits."

No Time for Comedy

We might have dismissed Cull's plot as so fantastic as to be impossible. But with the lives of the President and Vice President at stake, the Secret Service can permit no margin for error, no unfinished business, no chance-taking, no distraction, however slight. Every threat must be treated on the assumption that it was made with deadly intent. Where the safety of our country's two most important leaders is concerned, we have no sense of humor. Murderers and pranksters, in our view, are equally dangerous.

Most unpredictable and therefore most dangerous

are the criminally lunatic, such as the 50-year-old man who appeared last January outside the Northwest Gate of the White House. He was convinced that President Eisenhower did not really exist, and refused to leave until he could prove he was right. When White House police refused him entry, he backed away and threatened to slash anyone who stood in his path. When he was seized and arrested, we found a long curved knife under his coat.

The Secret Service regarded as equally serious a letter intercepted at the White House last October. "We conspirators have been planning to assassinate the great President Eisenhower," it read. "Beware! For the Ides of March in the year of Our Lord, 1959, gloom shall lurk over this great man."

Prankster or assassin? We couldn't take chances.

The envelope carried the postmark of a New York town of about 50,000. Tracking down a suspect, even in a town this size, takes a great deal of painstaking work. Yet in a matter of hours our agents had identified the letter-writers. They were two high-school students, aged 15 and 14.

Called on the carpet in the school principal's office, the two readily admitted that they had sent the threatening letters. They explained that they wanted to find out what steps were taken to guard the President against assassination. They soon found out. Accompanied by their parents, they were haled before the U.S. Attorney, and placed on pre-prosecution probation for an indefinite period.

Harsh punishment for a pair of juvenile pranksters? I couldn't disagree more heartily. A threat on the life of the President is no joke.

Some of those we must guard against are perennial troublemakers. Take the case of Laurence G. Thompson. In March 1956, a letter came to the White House bearing his signature, written on the stationery of a Gulfport, Miss., hotel, and with a "General Delivery" return address. The letter went straight to the point:

"I'm going to kill you if you run for office again. I hope you will take this warning."

The name alone was of little help. The only clue agents could find at Gulfport came from a bus station ticket agent. He recalled that on the postmarked date, a man either intoxicated or emotionally disturbed had asked him where he could mail a letter. Further investigation revealed that a man of the same general description had written threatening letters to other government officials. Agents also learned that this man once had been treated in a Federal hospital as a narcotics addict.

Mr. Thompson Returns

Handwriting samples convinced us that the man in each case was the same Laurence G. Thompson. From this information we were able to locate his half-sister in Meridian, Miss. When Thompson returned to her home on May 5, 1956, he walked into the hands of waiting agents. Later he pleaded guilty to threatening the President, was sentenced to 18 months.

That was not the last of Thompson. After his release, he phoned our Jackson, Miss., office to say he had sent another threat: "Dear Mr. President . . . I am going to kill you if you don't send me $500. I may just kill you, anyway, and Nixon, too. I mean this."

The Secret Service assumed he did mean it. So did the court, which imprisoned Thompson for another three years.

Secret Service agents always are racing against time. When Sam Stepp, Jr., threatened the President in 1956, we won by a narrow margin. Stepp had been trying for years to see the President to have a dishonorable discharge changed. One day he was heard to remark, "If I ever get close to the President, I'll kill him. I have a 30-30 bullet for him."

Told of his remark, Secret Service agents acted quickly. When Stepp was arrested in Glenwood Springs, Colo., agents found two bullets on him.

Since his first arrest, Stepp has been in and out of a mental institution and in and out of jail. Once, trying to phone the President, he set fire to a phone booth. Today he is on the loose again. But wherever he goes, we track his movements.

Also described in our files as "a specific danger to the President" is Howard Reed Liggett, 20. While serving time for auto theft, Liggett mailed a letter threatening to kill the President. So did three confederates. Later all four repeated their threats to a Secret Service agent.

All were hardened young hoodlums who, once free and armed, could be a peril to the President's life. Liggett's pals drew prison sentences. Liggett himself was committed indefinitely to a mental institution. Specialists there describe him as one of the worst cases they ever have examined—a young man obsessed by murder and mutilation.

In protecting the President and Vice President from men like Liggett, the Secret Service uses two principal systems. The "inner system" consists of the White House detail—the men you see around the President on his public appearances. The "preventive system" consists of field agents who investigate all written or uttered threats.

The "preventive system" checks the danger before it reaches the "inner system." Both are supported by the Protective Research Section. This section catalogues all communications and provides field agents with vital identity clues.

This efficient organization keeps us in touch with known dangers. But the most troublesome problem of all is the unknown person of twisted mind who suddenly decides that the defense of society calls for taking the President's life. He identifies the President with an imaginary persecutor and feels compelled to remove him as the source of all the world's troubles.

Since the Secret Service took over, all

Abraham Lincoln, the first President to die by an assassin's hand, was the victim of such a twisted mind. Had the Secret Service been charged with the President's safety then, John Wilkes Booth never would have succeeded in killing Lincoln. Advance work would have discovered Booth's targeting on the Presidential box at Ford's Theatre. Nor is it likely that our other assassination victims, Presidents James A. Garfield and William McKinley, would have died if the Secret Service had been at work.

It was McKinley's death in 1901 that aroused the nation to demand proper protection for the President. Not since the Secret Service has had this responsibility has an assassin succeeded.

But there have been some close calls.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, as President-elect, came within an eyelash of stopping a bullet at Miami, Fla., in 1933. The gunfire killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, with whom the President-elect was chatting.

The next near-miss came November 1, 1950, when two fanatic Puerto Rican nationalists, Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo, tried to shoot their way into Blair House and kill President Truman. White House policeman Leslie Coffelt died heroically defending the President's life. Before he died, Coffelt helped to kill one of the would-be assassins and to wound the other.

Secret Service men are trained to shoot to kill with either hand. They are trained, too, in when not to shoot. They also are given lessons in mob psychology.

Never, perhaps, was this training more crucial than in May 1958, when a frenzied mob at Caracas, Venezuela, stormed Vice President Nixon's car. The mob spat on Nixon, stoned the car, and smashed its windows with sticks.

The Revolvers Stayed Put

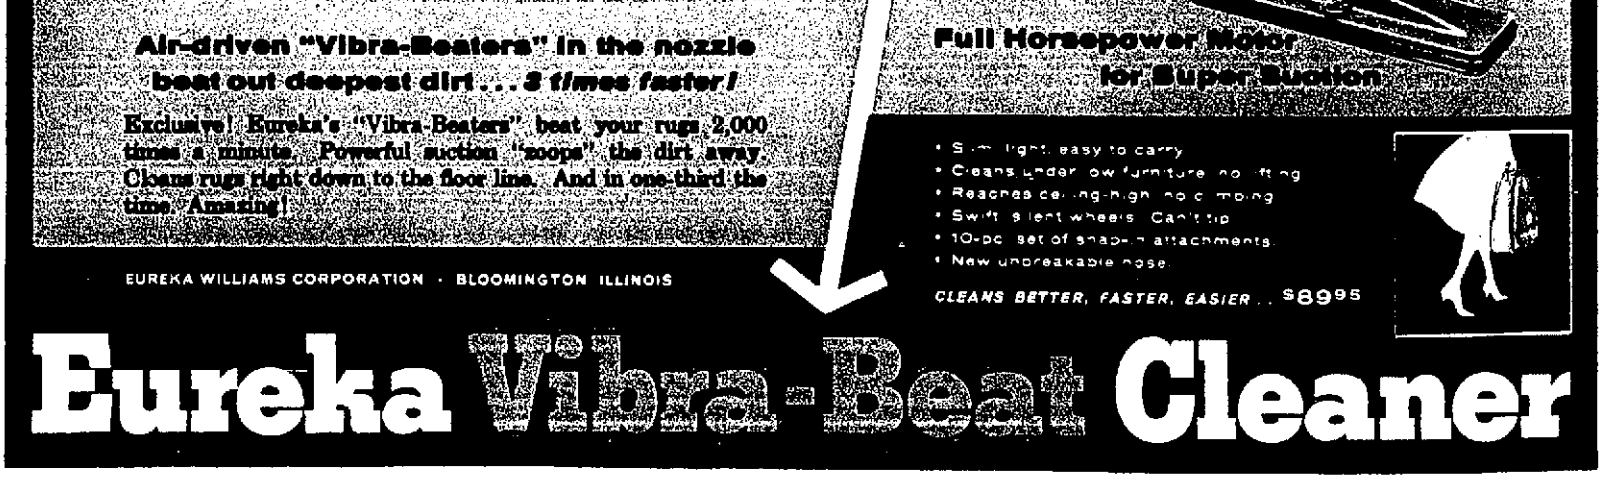

The two Secret Service men in Mr. Nixon's car were under great provocation to pull their revolvers and fire into the mob in defense of the Vice President's life. But with admirable restraint they withheld their fire, and succeeded in helping Mr. Nixon through his grave peril. Trigger-happy agents might have incited the mob to kill the Vice President and created an international incident.

It is not only the lone-wolf lunatics and the uncontrolled mobs who test our vigilance. There are the practical jokers.

Several years ago, President Eisenhower was scheduled to attend commencement exercises at a New England college. Special agents of the Secret Service were dispatched in advance to make a pre-survey of every foot of the President's route. While they were fine-combing the platform to be used during the exercises, they found a can containing two messages.

The first was addressed: "To the Guardians of the Beloved President of the United States of America."

The agents were shocked at the heart of the message.

assassins have failed

"We students have decided that you, the Secret Service, have been too lax in your precautions. We are in the midst of proving that even a young college student, untrained in the methods of subterfuge and surreptitious actions, can devise a scheme which could go unobserved and thereby constitute a threat to our great leader. This can, placed under the podium on which Dwight D. Eisenhower will walk Graduation Day, could easily have been a powerful bomb!"

The second message read:

"Congratulations! You have earned our deepest gratitude and appreciation in the fulfillment of your duties as protectors of the life of our President. We will never again attempt to match wits with your organization."

Yes, the tin can might well have contained dangerous explosives. And, had it not been discovered, the Secret Service would have been exposed to scathing criticism, against which the Service would have been defenseless. But the can was found, and the lack of enthusiasm with which the college authorities viewed the joke convinced the prankish students not to invite a further encounter with the Secret Service of the United States.

Failure is not, and cannot, be part of the Secret Service lexicon. And we will not fail if every citizen cooperates, if every prankster is aware that his joke will have serious consequences for him, if every would-be assassin realizes he can't win. ■

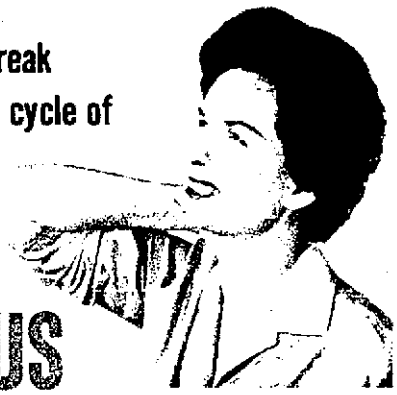

Presidential stroll took place as customary after 1950 attempt to assassinate President Truman. With him is a Secret Service agent.

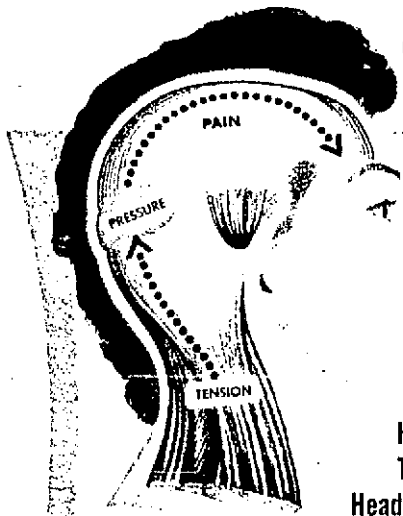

Nixon-greeters are held back by Venezuelan troops during Vice President's 1958 visit to Latin America. His Secret Service protectors held their fire despite the stone-throwing demonstration.

How you can break the vicious cycle of

NERVOUS TENSION HEADACHE

Better than aspirin even with buffering added

How Tension Headaches Start

Most headaches are caused by tension that tightens the muscles in the back of the neck and scalp. This tension puts pressure on nerves and causes headache pain. In turn, the pain builds up more tension, more pressure – makes your headache worse. To break this vicious pain cycle and obtain fast, more complete relief – you should try the special medication in Anacin, not obtainable in aspirin nor in aspirin with buffering.

ANACIN® relaxes tension

• releases pressure • relieves pain fast

Tension headaches need the extra medication in Anacin. So why limit yourself to aspirin or buffered aspirin which contains only one pain reliever and has no special medication to relax your tension? Anacin is a special combination of medically approved ingredients which 3 out of 4 doctors recommend for pain of headache, neuritis and neuralgia. Anacin Tablets give a better TOTAL effect in pain relief because they relax tension, release pressure and relieve pain fast. They break up the vicious pain cycle! Safer, too. Anacin does not upset your stomach. See if Anacin doesn't work better for you.

My favorite jokes

by DENNIS DAY

Dennis Day, who started out in life as Dennis McNulty and in radio as Jack Benny's singing stooge, has developed over the years into a superb mimic, a top tenor, and a first-rate comedian in his own right. Father of seven little Days (shown above with Mom and Dad), Dennis, now in his early forties, lives in Los Angeles, stars in television shows, makes periodic appearances at leading supper clubs throughout the country. —EDITOR'S NOTE

AN IRISHMAN boasted of his eight sons. "It's proud I am of them, indeed," he bragged. "They're the finest that come. An' I want you to know that I never laid violent hands on them . . . except in self-defense."

A LITTLE OLD MAN named Simpson was near his death. His three sons were in the room waiting for the inevitable end. While they were waiting they began to discuss funeral arrangements. The first son said, "We should have 10 cars for the funeral. That way we'll take care of all the relatives and friends." The second son said, "Let's just rent two cars and let our relatives follow in their own cars." The third son said, "Why don't we just rent a station wagon, the three of us get in, and take the casket in beside us?" At this point the old man, hearing all this, raised himself from his bed. "Boys," he muttered, "stop arguing. Just get me a pair of pants, and I'll walk to the cemetery."

MRS. FLANAGAN told her dear friend Mrs. Murphy that her son was coming home from prison. Mrs. Murphy said, "But I thought he had another year." Explained Mrs. Flanagan, "He got off for good behavior."

"Ah," said Mrs. Murphy, "it must be a great consolation to know you have such a good son."

ONE MORNING Mrs. Kelly was about to send her husband's suit to the cleaners. She went through his pants pockets and found a slip of paper. It read Dolores White—Hollywood 8824. At breakfast Mrs. Kelly confronted her husband with the note and said, "What's the meanin' of this, Charley?"

Charley shrugged it off. "It's nothin'. Just a horse I bet on the other day."

"You mean," his wife said skeptically, "that Dolores White is the name of a horse?"

Charley nodded.

"And how about the telephone number?" his wife persisted.

"Simple," Charley said. "Hollywood's the name of the track and the odds on the race are eight to four."

Charley's wife grudgingly accepted the explanation. That night when Charley came home, he said to his wife, "So what's new?"

"Nothin' much," answered his spouse, "except that horse called up."

ONE WINTER a friend of mine had his gall bladder removed at a local hospital. I won't reveal its name. Anyway, I visited him, and in the course of the conversation I asked how he was getting along.

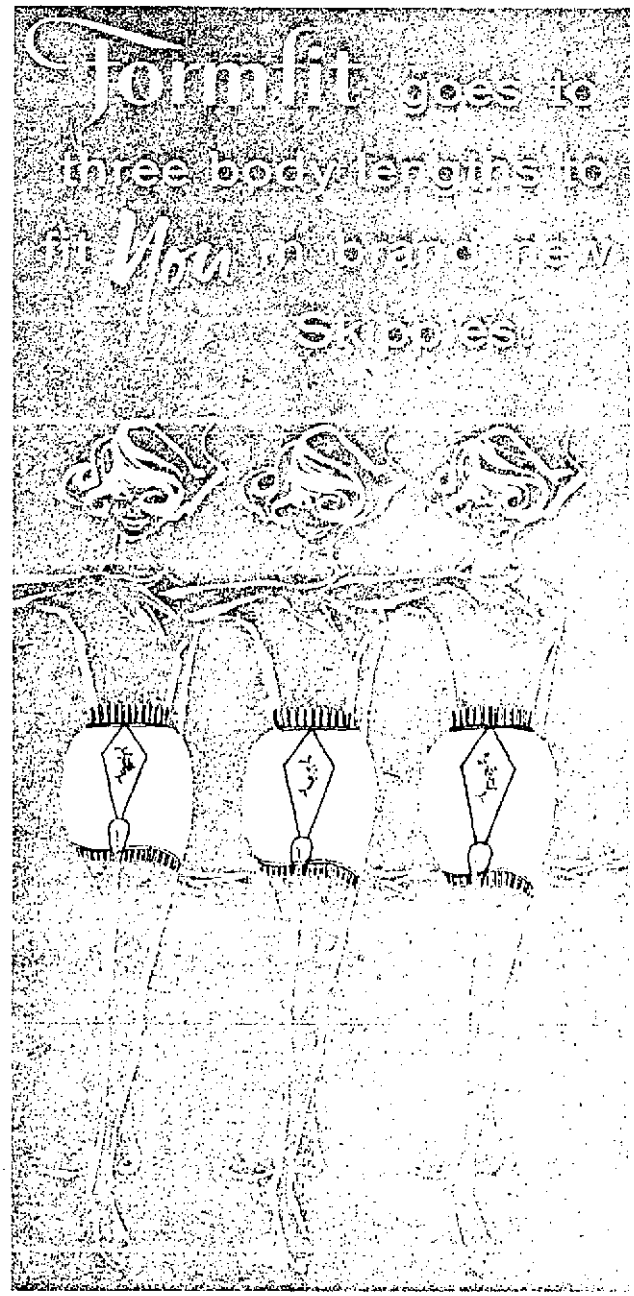

"I'm fine now," he said, "but what a mess my operation was. A day after it was over they had to open me up because they left a sponge inside the wound. Two days later they opened me up again because they'd left the surgical scissors inside."

Just then the surgeon who'd operated on my friend walked into the room. "Anyone seen my glasses around here?" he asked.

THERE'S A VARIATION on that joke and it goes like this. "I had an operation last week and the doctor left a sponge in me."

"Got any pain?" the patient is asked.

"No," he says. "But boy! Do I get thirsty!"

here for the first time anywhere... elegance with economy

There's nothing like a new car . . . and no new car like this Impala 4-Door Sport Sedan.

SUPERLATIVE '60 CHEVROLET

Here's new gem-bright beauty, new room to sprawl in and sit tall in. New lean-muscled engine economy, new spirit and silence in its going. For fineness of features, for precise craftsmanship—for all the things that make a car good to own—the '60 Chevrolet stands alone in its price field.

Just wait till you see it. Everything about the '60 Chevy, every styling accent, every engineering detail, has been polished and refined to a degree of perfection never before thought possible of a car in Chevrolet's price class.

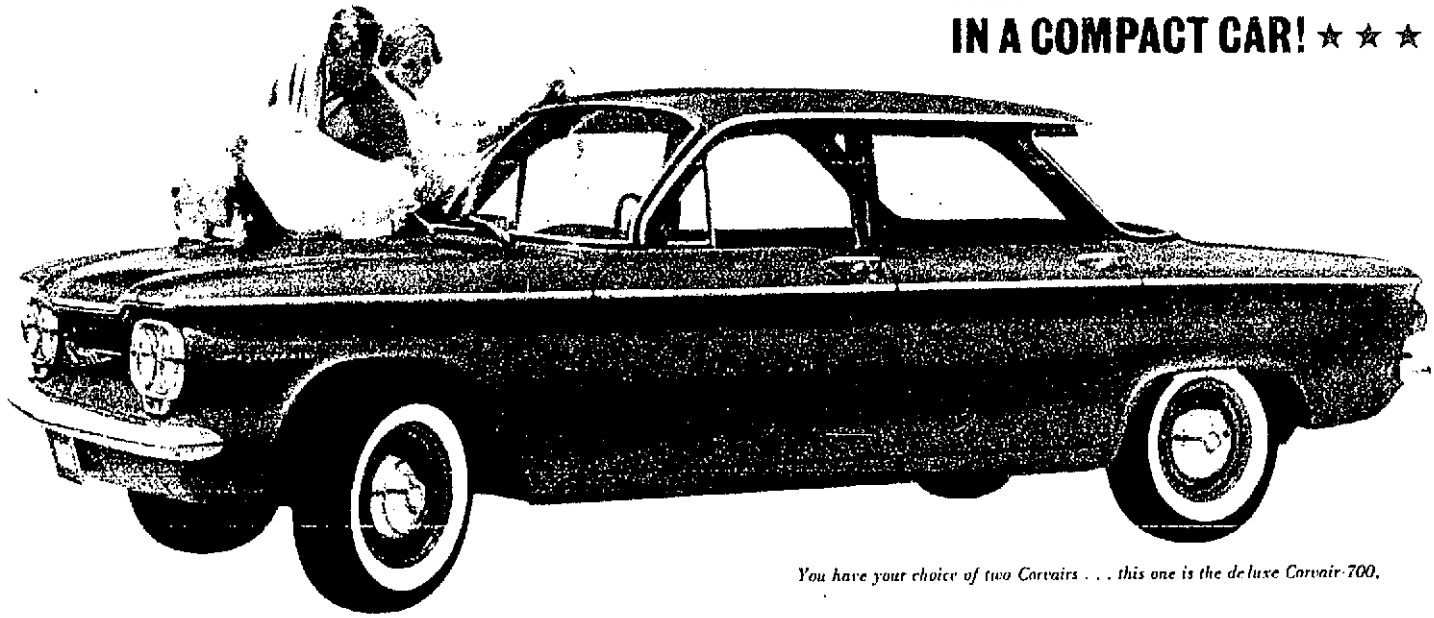

Picture practicality and economy (there's even more of it in a new gas-saving V8!) combined with much of the luxury and hushed comfort usually associated with high-priced automobiles. That's Chevy for '60. Its overall effect is one of quiet elegance, a sophisticated new shape that embodies spacious inner dimensions. Space for long legs and broad shoulders, with sofa-wide seats and even more foot room for front seat passengers. Space that specializes in family travel!

Really, you have to see this one up close to appreciate its fresh beauty and fine workmanship. You have to take a turn behind the wheel to know its astonishing smoothness and almost total absence of road hum and vibration. We'll admit our enthusiasm's showing just a bit . . . but when you drop into your dealer's and discover all that's new and different about this '60 Chevy, we're sure yours will be, too.

NOW! THE REVOLUTIONARY Corvair BY CHEVROLET WITH THE ENGINE IN THE REAR WHERE IT BELONGS IN A COMPACT CAR! ★ ★ ★

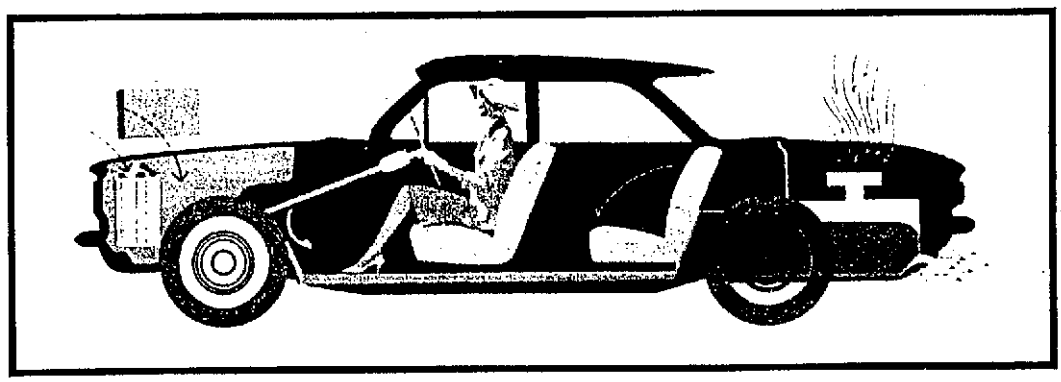

You have your choice of two Corvairs . . . this one is the de luxe Corvair 700.

The only American car with an airplane-type horizontal engine!
The only American car with independent suspension at all 4 wheels!
The only American car with an air-cooled aluminum engine!

The rumors about this one were right—but they didn't go far enough. Because here, for the first time, is a truly compact, economical American car that retains the ride and 6-passenger comfort you're used to in a big one. The key to this small miracle: America's first and only rear-mounted aluminum engine—a revolutionary 6-cylinder power plant that combines compactly with the transmission and drive gears in one lightweight package. It works small wonders with mileage and—because this engine is air cooled—you'll never have to fuss with antifreeze.

Floor's practically flat—for more foot room. Corvair's size—some 5 inches lower, 2½ feet shorter, 1,300 pounds lighter than conventional sedans—makes it a joy to jockey through traffic and park in tight spots. Yet its unique Unistrut Body by Fisher offers plenty of room for 6 broad-shouldered passengers. And, thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is virtually flat, front and rear, so there's generous foot room for everybody. Easy handling without power assists. Shifting engine weight to the rear also adds extra gound-gripping traction and gives better compact car handling and braking. And with independent suspension at all 4 wheels, Corvair rivals much more costly cars in the poised, unruffled way it rides. A price your budget will appreciate. Wonderfully practical as all these advances sound, you'll find the most practical thing about this new Corvair is its price. Make it a point to visit your Chevrolet dealer soon—and see what a wealth of engineering a modest amount of your money buys!

FLOOR'S PRACTICALLY FLAT FOR MORE FOOT ROOM. TRUNK'S UP FRONT and you can have a folding rear seat (optional at extra cost) for added storage space. Lightweight rear engine, compactly combined with transmission and drive gears, is world's first production 6 with ultra-smooth power of horizontally opposed pistons. And wrapping up all these brilliant features is Corvair's brilliant new styling—pure and simple as modern architecture. THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A NEW CAR—AND NO NEW CAR LIKE THE COMPACT CORVAIR.

Chipmunk slacks? Yes, indeed. Chipmunk, masquerading under the exotic name of "Burunduki," this fall joins the family of fashionable furs. The little striped animal is being worn for sporty fashions, as in these slacks by Fredrica for after-ski or lounge wear. About $155. Red wool-knit sweater is by Mike Geist.

MINK, MOVE OVER

Chipmunk, hamster, zebra are the newest furs for fall

by VIRGINIA POPE
Parade fashion editor

Three newcomers are invading the world of fashionable furs this fall: zebra, hamster, and chipmunk. Few of us would have voted these unusual furs as "likely to succeed," but here they are—rubbing shoulders with such fur aristocrats as mink, fox, and chinchilla.

There is little similarity among these three animals, but each in its own way is beautiful in color and marking. The zebra has bold black stripes on a tawny ground; the hamster shows ornate brown, black, and white markings; the chipmunk displays delicate black and white striping on beige.

Because of its heavy pelt, zebra is the least used. Hamster, which science students know as cricetus cricetus, has a much softer skin and is showing up in just about everything from hats to coat linings. Chipmunk, a great favorite of children, now has become the pet of sports designers for fun clothing. ■

For information on where to purchase these fashions, write: Miss Virginia Pope, Fashion Editor, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N.Y. (Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Specify the article of clothing, and mention the name of this newspaper.)

Wild zebra from Africa is tamed by designer Scaasi for this dramatic jacket. Zebra's natural stripes are placed diagonally for full impact. Sleek new fur also makes the turban. About $850.

Costume jewelry, Monet; sport shoes, Capezio; skirts, Harry Frechtel. Tax not included in fur prices. Photographed in the ice plant of City Products Corp., New York

Apple pie with an orange accent

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Meet an apple pie with a brand-new accent: the tart taste of orange! It's got juicy apple slices baked tender between two flaky crusts in a spicy golden-brown syrup that's fragrant with orange.

The touch of orange is a French idea that blends ever so diplomatically with this favorite American dessert. The silky smooth orange-flavored icing over the top crust, and the scatter of grated orange peel, make this an apple pie to remember. The sugar glaze is so easy to make you'll use it again and again.

FROSTED APPLE PIE

2 teaspoons flour
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
5 cups thinly sliced raw apples
Pastry for 8" pie
2 tablespoons butter

Orange Sugar Glaze

Mix flour, sugar, cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, orange peel, and apples. Line pie pan with pastry rolled ⅛" thick. Fill with apple mixture; dot with butter. Moisten edge of pastry. Cut slits in top crust to permit escape of steam and adjust, opening slits with knife. Bake in hot oven (425°) 40 to 50 minutes or until apples are tender. Frost top with Orange Sugar Glaze. Sprinkle with additional grated orange peel.

ORANGE SUGAR GLAZE

Combine ¾ cup 10X frosting sugar with 3 to 4 teaspoons orange juice to make a thin, smooth frosting. Add a few more drops of orange juice if necessary.

Young athletes are led in singing of hymns before talks from stars. Sign on stage is quotation from the Old Testament. At right: Pro basketball's high scorer, Bob Pettit, is teaching the push shot.

They learn to PLAY

Paul Dietzel shows would-be passers how to lob the ball over charging linemen. Catholics and Protestants attended conference, which charged a fee of $40.

by BILL ROSE
Religion editor, Oakland Tribune

On these pages you see some of America's great sports stars, teaching high-school and college athletes how to be better athletes and—more important—how to be better human beings.

The young men were attending the annual conference of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, held recently at Estes Park, Colo. On the staff of the nondenominational Fellowship are such heroes to the sports-minded as:

Branch Rickey, head of the new Continental League.

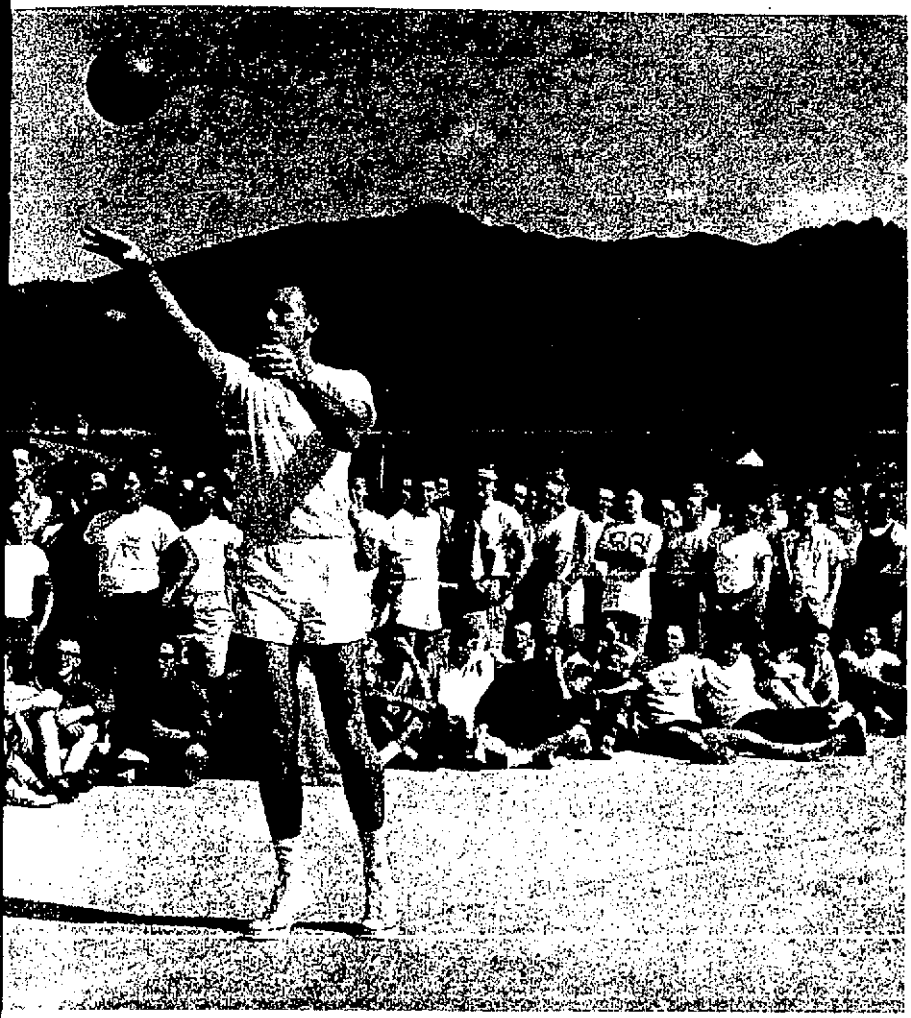

Del Crandall, Al Dark, Robin Roberts, Bob Feller, and George Kell from baseball.

Bob Pettit, pro basketball star.

Coaches Frank McGuire (North Carolina), Bud Wilkinson (Oklahoma), Paul Dietzel (LSU).

Such personalities came to Estes Park to speak to the 600 boys who flocked there from 30 states (another 200 boys had to be turned away because of lack of space). In four days of talks and workouts, the stars and coaches polished the youngsters' athletic skills. Then, in small Bible huddles or mass meetings, the stars talked on the importance of religion.

ON GOD'S SIDE

"Frankly, we take advantage of hero worship," says one Fellowship staff member. "A minister's sermon might bore a kid, but what boy would be bored listening to Otto Graham or Bob Feller?"

A typical talk came from Dietzel: "It's not sissy to believe in God." Added Feller: "With faith in God, you can meet any challenge."

Such words have borne fruit:

• "Last year I came here as a student," says SMU quarterback Don Meredith. "I was sure I was a Christian because I went to church. I learned that wasn't enough—but now I know Christ is in my heart."

• "When I got home," says Carmel (N.Y.) football hero Bob Dahnke, "I was determined to stop being a star and start being a Christian."

Organized in 1954, the Fellowship has its headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. Besides its summer conference (there will be an extra session next summer, at Lake Geneva, Wis.), the Fellowship each winter sends a team of 20 great names in sports to hold conferences in any city that asks.

The Fellowship reaches millions who never attend a conference, points out California's football coach Pete Elliott. "We're not just sending one boy to camp," says Elliott. "We're sending an athlete home, already a hero to his fellow students, who can exert great influence on dozens of young lives." ■

Pettit talks religion at lunch. Fellowship has produced two movies, starring sports figures, available to church and social groups. New Fellowship head is Otto Graham, ex-pro football star. He succeeds "Biggie" Munn, now of Michigan State.

ARE YOU VICTIMIZED BY HARSH LAXATIVES?

A wholesome cereal food succeeds where harsh laxative drugs fail

Corrects irregularity due to lack of bulk

It's easy to fall into the chain laxative habit. And once trapped, it's hard to escape. You continue with larger and larger doses, getting only brief relief.

Isn't it nice to know that if your constipation is caused by lack of bulk in your diet, you can start to free yourself from laxative slavery tomorrow at breakfast!

Just eat a half-cup serving of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk. And continue eating this wholesome cereal food morning after morning. You'll find Kellogg's All-Bran gives you all the good bulk food you need for safe, dependable regularity.

It's a grand and glorious feeling. While laxative drugs do their "job" harshly and drastically, good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran is gentle and natural.

Stop being a victim of the chain laxative habit. Try eating Kellogg's All-Bran for 10 days and see if it doesn't work for you. But be sure you get Kellogg's All-Bran—Kellogg's is the original whole bran cereal. It's America's favorite by 3 to 1.

Now, the Big Green Man brings you 4 kinds of corn!

A BRAND NEW ONE

Here's a new kind of fun in corn, Green Giant Brand shoe peg white corn. Very tall, very slender kernels the shape of a shoe peg and the color of white gold. Unusually crisp with a delicate flavor like no other corn you've ever had. Quick-cooked and vacuum packed to save the fresh flavor and nutrition. Surprise the family soon.

Green Giant Niblets Brand corn is now quick-cooked to save the fresh color, flavor and vitamins. Vacuum packed, too, so every kernel stays crisp. Only thing missing is the cob. Get some.

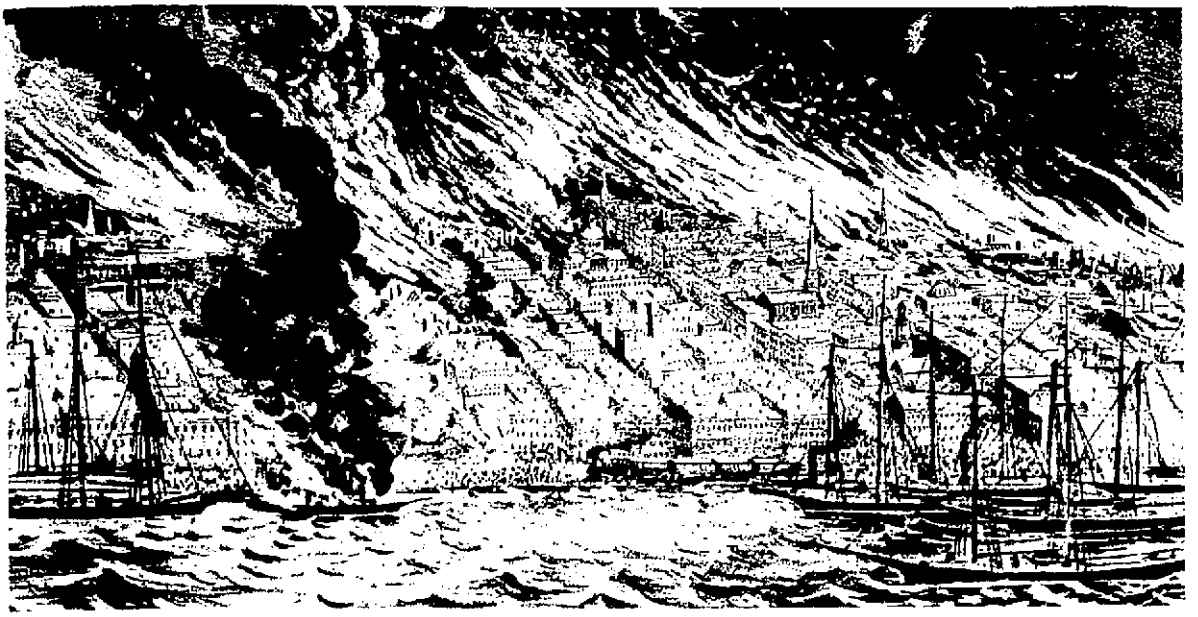

Wait'll you taste what quick-cooking has done for Green Giant Brand Mexicorn Brand corn with sweet red and green peppers. New fresh flavor. New natural color. New crispness. Serve it soon.

What makes Green Giant Brand cream style corn so special is this: It's grown from the same exclusive D-138 seed as Niblets corn. You get plump, tender kernels of sunshine in their own rich cream.

A PARADE QUIZ

Hey, where's the fire?

by KARL KOHRS

TODAY MARKS the beginning of Fire Prevention Week. It's a good time to make an attic-to-cellar check for fire safety—and to keep your family and your home from becoming one of the nation's grim fire statistics. Fire takes an annual death toll of 11,000 persons—20 per cent of them children under 6 years of age. Every day 1,500 home fires take place, and each year we have a fire loss total of more than $1 billion. How much do you know about fires and about fire prevention? Test yourself with the quiz below.

1 Fire Prevention Week, which grew out of Fire Prevention Day, commemorates the: a) San Francisco Fire; b) Great Fire of London; c) Great Chicago Fire.

2 The instant you smell smoke or suspect there's a fire in your house, for your family's safety, you should: a) search out the fire at once; b) look for a fire extinguisher; c) get everyone out of the house without any delay.

3 Which of these household aids could ignite without any source of outside heat? a) paint brush soaking in paint remover; b) plastic bag; c) used oil mop.

4 For normal, safe usage, fuses in your household electrical circuits should be: a) 25 amps.; b) 15 amps.; c) 30 amps.

5 Which of these electrical appliances requires a special, heavy-duty electrical circuit? a) oscillating fan; b) air-conditioning unit; c) electric clock.

6 When your clothing catches fire, the first thing you should do is: a) run to find water; b) roll on the ground to smother burning area; c) beat at flames with your hands.

7 When you use a blanket to aid a person with clothing afire, correct procedure is to: a) start wrapping at shoulders; b) throw blanket over victim's head; c) start wrapping at feet.

8 One quick way to snuff out a fire in a frying pan is by dousing it with: a) vinegar; b) baking soda; c) scouring powder.

9 Safest place to build a campfire is: a) atop a small platform of rocks; b) in a hole in the ground; c) between two large logs.

10 If you awake at night in a bedroom with the doors closed and smell smoke, first thing you should do is: a) open bedroom window wide; b) close window immediately; c) test door with palm of hand.

11 Fire can burn through an ordinary wooden door of the type found in a home in: a) 45 minutes to an hour; b) 5 to 10 minutes; c) 20 to 30 minutes.

12 In the form of fine dust or powder, almost any material can be exploded. Which of these materials will not explode? a) talcum powder; b) flour; c) iron powder.

13 The biggest single cause of fires is: a) lightning; b) matches and smoking; c) misuse of electricity.

ANSWERS

1 c) Great Chicago Fire (see picture above). It started on October 8, 1871, when—so the story goes—Mrs. O'Leary's famous cow kicked over a lantern, setting the cowshed afire. About 250 persons lost their lives, 100,000 were made homeless. Estimated damage: $196 million.

2 c) When everyone is out, you can help firemen by closing doors behind you as you leave. This will help retard blaze.

3 c) Used oil mop. An oily mop or rags can catch fire by spontaneous combustion. Keep mop or rags in metal container in well-ventilated place.

4 b) 15 amps. Don't overload your circuits. Overloaded wires heat up, can cause fire. One of every seven fires results from misuse of electricity.

5 b) Air-conditioning unit. Consult an electrician when you install one. You may need new wiring.

6 b) Roll on the ground to smother burning area. Never run— you will only fan the flames.

7 a) Start wrapping at shoulders—to keep flames from victim's face.

8 b) Baking soda. Throw it on in large quantities to speed smothering action.

9 b) Building your campfire in a hole concentrates the heat, helps keep embers from blowing. It is also easy to extinguish —by throwing earth or pouring water on the fire.

10 c) Test door for heat with palm of hand. If the door is hot, the hall outside is filled with deadly heated gases.

11 b) Fire will burn through an ordinary inside door in 5 to 10 minutes.

12 a) Talcum power. One of the rare dust forms that is not explosive. Never throw flour, uncooked cereals, or vacuum-cleaner dust into a stove fire or into a burning incinerator.

13 b) Matches and smoking.

SCORING: If you answered 11 to 13 correctly, you rate as an honorary fire chief; 8 to 10, as a rookie fireman; 0 to 7 indicates you may be playing with fire—and with the safety of your family. ■

It's not too early to reserve your "million dollar"

St. Joseph 1960 FAMILY ALMANAC CALENDAR

WORTH 50¢ TO $1.00 EACH!

It's going to be your druggist's

FREE GIFT

to you this Christmas*!

It's a new type of calendar, in living color: with over 150 "magazine" features and pictures!

LOOK WHAT IT CONTAINS!

Last year some seven million families got a St. Joseph Almanac Calendar. This year, demand will be greater. That's because it's all new—different—all in full color, front and back, for a total of 26 pages. The world's most useful calendar. A few of the features (such as illustrated at left) are:

The man who gave us Santa Claus ... Ways to wrap Christmas gifts for more glamour ... How to get your child to make friends with the doctor ... How to keep your nails lovelier ... Beauty's "night shift" ... How to make over old furniture easily ... How to protect child from colds ... Hearty one-dish meals for winter nights ... How to make Thanksgiving easier for Mother ... Quick 'n easy Hallowe'en treats ... 3-in-one Christmas cookies recipe ... How to glaze fruits ... Stretching exercises for beauty and health ... Dieting can fool you ... How to look better in a bathing suit ... Life-saving resuscitation ... Picnic, camping, vacation ideas ... Tips on getting a glorious suntan ... Fall floral arrangement ...

PLUS wise sayings for better living ... famous historical dates ... weather predictions ... birthstones ... fishing calendar ... planning information ... other almanac features ... immunization chart ... large spaces for writing birthdays and anniversaries ... daily memo spaces ... large, clear, easy-to-see calendar numbers. See your druggist now ... ask him to save a St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar for YOU!

Not for sale—this calendar is yours free from your druggist. So speak up—don't miss out this year! Your druggist will be glad to save you one in appreciation of your patronage!

Don't think it's too soon to ask your druggist to reserve your 1960 St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar! Because—this year it's a totally new kind of calendar. And—they'll go like hot cakes as soon as he opens his supply!

Here's why. The 1960 St. Joseph Almanac Calendar is a "million dollar" calendar. Gloriously new and glamorous in many ways. It contains literally hundreds of tips and features and ideas—enough to interest every member of the family every day in the year.

There are health and beauty ideas ... Tips on child care ... Christmas decoration ideas ... Diet aids and recipes from top authorities. In fact this is a regular "magazine." Full of information for every season. To help you live better in 1960. To give you more inspiration.

The 1960 St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar was prepared with the help of the country's leading magazines and newspaper supplements. It contains material never before available in a calendar. It's the liveliest, most beautiful calendar you ever saw.

Your druggist buys this calendar to give to you. But he may have ordered only a limited supply. So—don't miss out! Reserve your St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar ... right away!

*Many calendars that contain far less actually sell for over a dollar! If your druggist hasn't yet ordered his supply of 1960 St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendars, send his name and address without delay to Plough, Inc., Dept. 31, Memphis 1, Tenn.

APPROVED BY MORE DOCTORS THAN ANY OTHER†

That's just one of many reasons every family with children will benefit by asking for the St. Joseph

"FAMILY ASPIRIN PAIR"!

FOR YOURSELF: Scientific facts prove aspirins are not all alike! And St. Joseph adult Aspirin (regular 5 grain tablets) is the best, safest, fastest aspirin you can buy.†

Actually, St. Joseph Aspirin tablets are smaller—because not loaded with starch "filler." They don't disintegrate in your throat ... yet are ready to act faster than all other pain relievers tested! And they don't upset the stomach!

St. Joseph Aspirin costs less, too! So ... why overpay for strong combination drugs you don't need ... or for so-called buffering? Remember, more doctors approve aspirin than any other single agent for pain relief. Get St. Joseph Aspirin.

FOR YOUR CHILDREN: St. Joseph Aspirin For Children was first with the dosage doctors favor ... first with the flavor children prefer ... first with the new doctor-approved safety cap that makes it safe from children as well as for them—helps prevent accidental opening!

No wonder more doctors prefer St. Joseph Aspirin For Children than all other children's aspirin combined ... than any other medication for children! No wonder mothers insist on it whenever children need aspirin for fever or pain.

Don't risk untested medicine. Get specialized St. Joseph Aspirin For Children with the 1½ grain creamy-textured tablet that you know is best.

St. Joseph (adult) Aspirin and St. Joseph Aspirin For Children are products of Plough, Inc., makers also of Musterole ("baked heat" relief for chest colds and aching muscles), Maxsana Medicated Powder and many other quality products.

"You can't miss our place, Al. There's a drug store on this corner, and over here . . ."

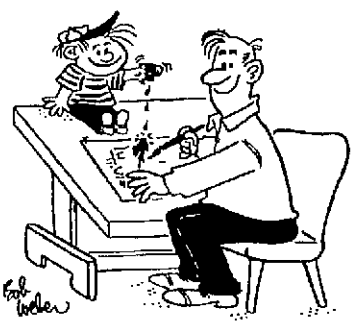

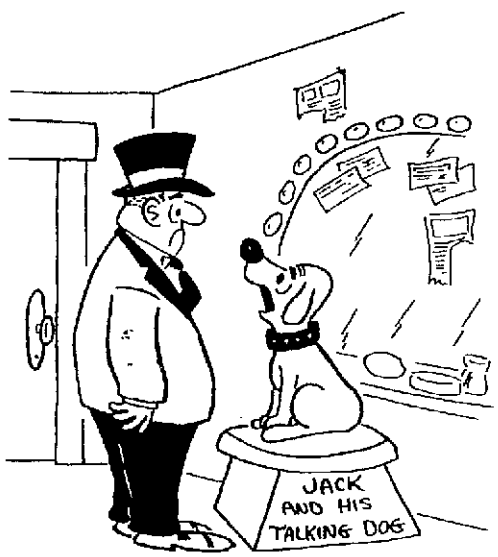

"Whatever gave you the silly notion that I can't get along with the people in my department?"

'These are my funniest'

. . . says BOB WEBER

On the right is a self-caricature of today's cartoonist, 24-year-old Bob Weber (he doesn't really look that way). Plopped on the drawing board is 2-year-old Bob, Jr. (who doesn't really act that way). From Baltimore, Bob now lives in Hollis, N.Y. Where does he get all those ideas? "I bang my head against the drawing board every morning." Hobbies? "Drawing more cartoons." His goal? "Selling a cartoon feature to a syndicate—and living happily ever after." ■

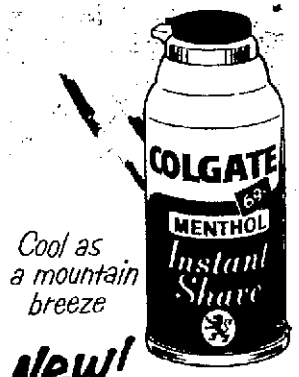

"I'm sorry, Jack, but I've decided to do a single."

"Did you hear what I said, Harry? I passed my driver's examination."

PLATO

FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition of PLATO is the famous Jowett translation. It contains the five great dialogues: Apology, Crito, Phaedo, Symposium, and the Republic. In these dramatic conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS

MEDITATIONS

THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured all beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion. With an introduction by Irwin Edman — and scenes describing early Christian rituals, from Walter Pater's novel Marius the Epicurean.

ARISTOTLE

ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE

"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. Living over 2,000 years ago, he was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals—he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays — Metaphysics, Parts of Animals, Nicomachean Ethics, Politics, and Poetics. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library — as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today . . . and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the fine buckram ordinarily used for $5 and $10 bindings. They have tinted page tops; are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

A Trial Membership Invitation to You

You are invited to accept a Trial Membership. With your first books will be sent an advance notice about future selections. You may reject any book you do not wish. You need not take any specific number of books — only the ones you want. No money in advance, no membership fees. You may cancel membership at any time.

Mail this Invitation Form now. Paper, printing, binding costs are rising. The low introductory price for these THREE beautiful volumes cannot be assured unless you respond promptly. THE CLASSICS CLUB, Roslyn, L. I., New York.

Russ Claim Space Station Launched

TALE OF TWIN TURTLES

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO male and female turtles belonging to the children of the Victor Johansons, 375 E. 69th Way, disappeared from the yard and never returned. Apparently the turtle couple left behind a couple of healthy eggs, however, for Saturday two baby twin trutles appeared on the premises. Sun to Shine for Record Series Game

93,120 Will See L.A., Sox Resume Baseball War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This baseball-happy metropolis is set to supply a record crowd and ideal Indian summer weather today for the first Far West world series game.

The crowd for the third meeting between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox is guaranteed —a sell-out 93,120. Biggest past series turnout was 86,228 in Cleveland in 1948.

• • • •

SCALPERS STILL were offering tickets at big prices Saturday, but there weren't as many around as Friday.

This probably is because of a warning by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that anyone caught selling tickets without a license will be prosecuted.

One seller offered a newsman a strip of three $10 tickets for $165—135 over their legitimate price. Some say they have paid as much as $125 for a single box seat.

• • • •

THE SERIES is tied at one win each and the Dodgers are favored 6-5 for the third game and 11-10 to win it all.

A crowd of some 5,000 sign-waving fans greeted the team Friday night when it flew in from Chicago. They roared after manager Walt Alston said:

"We'll do our best to win. We've done everything the hard way all year, but now we're up there and we'll be hard to beat."

Mr. K. Boasts Reds Have Top-Secret U.S. Code System

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev bragged while in Los Angeles that his country had obtained top-secret American intelligence codes, a Russian-speaking film executive said Saturday.

Victor M. Carter, the city's official guide for the premier, said Khrushchev told him Russia had intercepted secret messages from President Eisenhower.

• • • •

OF THE U. S. Central Intelligence Agency headed by Allen Dulles, Khrushchev was quoted by Carter as saying:

'Automatic' Device May Circle Moon

Soviets Say Last Stage to Return to Area of Earth

(Combined Wire Services)

LONDON (Sunday) — The Soviet Union today successfully launched its third cosmic rocket, carrying an interplanetary space station, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced.

Tass said the "automatic interplanetary station" will pass about 6,000 miles from the moon and after flying around the moon will continue its movement to the area of earth.

The chosen orbit makes it possible to observe the station from the earth's northern hemisphere, the Soviet news agency said.

• • • •

TASS SAID THE last stage of the newly launched rocket weighed 1,553 kilograms (3,424 pounds) without fuel.

The announcement read: "The launching was effected by means of a multi-stage rocket. The last stage of the rocket, after it attained the necessary speed, put the automatic interplanetary station into the required orbit. The orbit for the interplanetary station will insure (its) passage near the moon . . ."

Establishing an interplanetary space station is considered by scientists an essential step in man's program of outer space exploration. Such a station could be used for storing supplies needed for future astronauts in trips to the moon and eventually to the planets.

• • • •

IT ALSO could be used as a construction station and scientific observation outpost.

A recent Soviet film on outer space exploration showed how a huge interplanetary station housing sci-

55 Aboard Ship Safe After Fire

ST. GEORGE, Bermuda (UPI)—A storm-tossed American freighter with 55 persons aboard succeeded Saturday night in controlling raging fires in two of its holds and reached Bermuda with a Coast Guard escort.

The Coast Guard cutter Diane radioed that the fire, which at one time was described as "blazing fiercely," had been controlled aboard the South America-bound freighter, SS Mormacteal, after a battle of more than six hours in rough seas and 40-mile-an-hour winds caused by hurricane Hannah.

• • • •

THE MORMACTEAL anchored off the entrance to St. George harbor Saturday night and the Coast Guard said the ship planned to move through the channel and dock this morning.

Two Coast Guard cutters stood by the ship, which reported a fire in its No. 1 hold was extinguished and the once-fierce blaze in No. 3 hold was only smoldering.

The cutters and a plane rushed to the aid of the Mormacteal, which had radioed for an escort while it proceeded to Bermuda with its 43

Oklahoma Floods Rout 6,000 From Homes, Damage High

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Floodwaters pushed higher in eastern Oklahoma Saturday night, and officials estimated some 6,000 state residents have been routed from their homes by high waters in the past three days.

Civil Defense Director Tom Brett said property damage has soared into the millions of dollars. He said damage may be the highest of any flood in state history.

The Red Cross set up a disaster headquarters at Oklahoma City, flying in a 19-member team to run it.

A Red Cross spokesman said 1,931 Oklahoma families have been affected by flood waters. Projected, this would mean almost 6,000 persons driven from their homes.

• • • •

A WEEK OF rain has sent floodwaters into Tulsa, Bixby, Guthrie, Stillwater, Pawnee, Blackwell, Avant and Skiatook.

Heavy rains are expected to end today. But the Weather Bureau says some "occasional showers" may continue across the state.

There were warnings of possible flash flooding Saturday night in southeastern Oklahoma.

On the rampage Saturday night was the Arkansas River in the Tulsa area.

Floodwaters of the Arkansas spilled into the downtown section of Bixby, but officials said fewer than 50 people left flooded areas.

Meanwhile, booming thunderstorms soaked Texas with rains up to eight inches and sent waters from the Middle Concho River over lowlands in the San Angelo area.

The small town of Knickerbocker, 18 miles southwest of San Angelo, was isolated by high waters after an 8-inch downpour in that area.

Shot in Head, Man Refuses Explanation

A critical bullet wound mysteriously inflicted on a service-station attendant was being investigated by Torrance detectives Saturday night.

Investigators said Douglas Frank Drobeck, 39, was found wandering near his trailer home at 1820 Prairie Ave., Torrance, by a friend who took him to a private physician. Drobeck, whose trailer is parked in back of the service station where he is employed, had his head wrapped in a towel to stanch the flow of blood from the bullet wound in his right temple.

• • • •

DROBECK, WHO is in critical condition at Harbor General Hospital, refused to divulge how he received the wound but denied it was self-inflicted or had been caused by a woman with whom he had kept company Friday night.

Det. Sgt. Myles Hamilton said the wound evidently was inflicted in Drobeck's trailer, where bloodstains and a .32-caliber automatic pistol were found. The victim admitted ownership of the gun.

BUDGET SQUEEZE

Navy, AF Will Cut Forces 5,000 Each

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy and the Air Force, caught in a cost squeeze between men and missiles, will sacrifice some manpower next year to stay within proposed budget allocations.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Charles C. Finucane, in charge of manpower and personnel, made this forecast at a news conference Saturday. He said the Pentagon had neither directed nor dictated the personnel reductions but that the two services had volunteered to make them in order to have more money for missiles and equipment.

He indicated the cuts would be relatively small — about 5,000 men each.

• • • •

FINUCANE TOLD reporters the Army certainly "would not volunteer" to drop below the 870,00-man level authorized for the current year.

Finucane called the news conference to set forth achievements he said were made during the last two years in raising the quantity and quality of enlisted men.

His report conceded something less than success in getting and holding more good men who are capable of high technical skills. He noted, for instance, that although re-enlistment rates for electronics and technical specialists had risen about 6 per cent between 1957 and the current year, the re-enlistment of such service categories as cooks and unskilled military labor had jumped almost as much.

• • • •

THE FISCAL years 1957 and 1959 were used because it was during this period that the revision of military pay scales went into effect along with a number of programs designed to attract and hold good men.

Among other hopes held for the revision of military pay scales was one that eventually the draft might be discontinued.

Finucane said Saturday the Pentagon wants the draft to continue indefinitely. He added that draft calls running at about 6,000 monthly would certainly continue through the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Finucane said the Army es-

Pair Ascends From Sub at 302-Ft. Depth

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A 302-foot buoyant ascent by two Navy men has set a new record for such ascents and given new hope for submariners trapped on the ocean floor in crippled submarines.

Cmdr. George F. Bond of Bat Cave, N.C., and C.P.O. C. G. Tuckfield of Miami made the record-breaking dive off Key West Thursday. They used no auxiliary breathing apparatus and were clad in bathing suits, face masks and Mae West life jackets.

The ascent started from the submarine USS Archerfish, which had submerged to 302 feet, and it required 53 seconds.

Cubans at Red Fete

LONDON (UPI) — A five-member Cuban delegation arrived in Peiping Saturday for Red China's 10th anniversary celebrations.

K Concludes China Talks, Flies Home

LONDON (Sunday) (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev wound up his talks with Red China's leader, Mao Tze-tung, and left Peiping for Moscow today, Moscow Radio announced.

The announcement was made in a Russian language broadcast and quoted the official Soviet news agency Tass. There had been rumors that Khrushchev might decide to stop in North Korea before going home.

Khrushchev arrived in Peiping Wednesday from his conference with President Eisenhower, urging the Communist world to resort to negotiations, not force, in settling cold war differences.

Khrushchev had been closeted in a series of secret conferences with Mao, head of the Chinese Communist Party. Nothing official has come from any of these secret talks.

L.B. Clerk Sets Catalina Swim Mark

A 27-year-old Long Beach drugstore clerk Saday smashed the women's record on the swim from the mainland to Catalina Island.

Distance swimmer Joan Florentin, 111 Corona Ave., stroked her way across the channel from Marineland in 15 hours and 4 minutes to break Greta Andersen's mark by 21 minutes.

Miss Florentin delayed her swim more than 20 minutes when her pacer was injured aboard the accompanying boat.

Reported in good condition at the dispensary at the Long Beach Air Force Base was Capt. William Ryan, 25, who suffered severe bumps when he struck his head on the edge of the boat.

Capt. Ryan, a dentist at the base, was airlifted from the accompanying boat by a helicopter which flew him to the dispensary.

Doctors Saturday night said the captain was in good condition, but they would hold him overnight for observation.

Ryan was pacing the girl and, after swimming about 10 miles away from Catalina Island, had climbed into the escort vessel to rest.

When the accident occurred, the girl swam back toward the boat and remained nearby until the helicopter removed the injured man. She then continued her swim.

Miss Florentin started at 10:40 p.m. Friday from Marineland and reached Emerald Bay at Catalina at 1:44 p.m. Saturday.

At the same time, Miss Andersen, also of Long Beach, announced plans to swim from the mainland to Catalina within the next two weeks.

"I just want to set the record straight," the previous recordholder said, "or maybe I should say to set a straight record."

A year ago, she completed the only round-trip crossing of Catalina Channel. Swimming from the Island on the first lap, she set a mark of 10 hours and 47 minutes.

On the return trip, she established the women's record for the mainland-to-island crossing of 15 hours and 25 minutes.

L.A.C. Says:

Younger Husbands

A well known marriage counselor advises women to marry men younger than themselves to avoid being widows for a longer period. He bases his advice on the actuarial tables which show women have a longer life expectancy than men. He says a girl marrying a man six years older than herself faces 10 years of widowhood.

This assumption does not take into consideration the fact that this difference in longevity decreases with each year of life. According to the current Fact Book used by life insurance companies a female at birth has six years more expectancy than the male. It is about the same at age 20. At age 50 the female has only 4.6 more years—at 60 it has been cut to 3.5 years and at 65 the difference is only 2.7 years, when the male has 12.7 years and the female 15.4 more years of expectancy. If they live to 70 years the female has only two more years than the male.

It raises a question as to which one will be the more lonely if deprived of their mate in these advanced years. It has often been pointed out that the widow adjusts better than the husband if left alone. She has a greater interest in her children or grandchildren—she is more occupied in housework, clubs and other social activities. But the older man left alone—after a lifetime of companionship and business activities—is often more desolate.

We often hear that pensions cost much more—that population increases are due to the greatly increased span of life given us by modern science. This is true only because the death rates at birth have been so greatly reduced. This also applies to the mortality of children. In 1900 the average life expectancy at birth was only 46 years. Today it is 68 years—a gain of 22 years.

But for persons 50 years or older, life expectancy is only two or three years more than it was 60 years ago. The great growth in population is due to more children surviving childbirth and children's diseases. We have not materially added to the length of life of those who have reached maturity. This is especially true of the relative number of years between the male and female who have gone beyond middle age. The marriage counselor believes the difference in longevity in women is that they have an inherent strength that produces longer life and that some among the "driving women" could well produce, in part, the fatal diseases that cause the shorter lives of their husbands.

The discussion and recommendation is based on overall actuarial studies. But the same reasoning does not apply to the couple at 30 or 40 years of age compared to those who have lived together to 60 or 65 years of age. What may be true for the very young does not apply to the older couple. When they reach the advanced ages the span of life is about equal according to the tables. That is the way most older couples would like it to be—and it seems science has not changed the plan of life—so much—for those who are fortunate enough to spend a lifetime together.—

timated its strength would have to drop between 560,000 and 520,000 before it could give up the draft. The Army is now the only service accepting draftees, but Finucane said the existence of the draft makes it easier for all the services to get volunteers.

THE PENTAGON official said the military services need about 60 per cent of their total re-enlistments in the higher skilled categories, including ground combat leaders. Figures cited by Finucane showed, however, that re-enlistments were considerably under this percentage and the armed forces have "still not yet succeeded in getting enough men out of cookery into hard skills."

The total authorized military manpower for the current year ending next June 30 is 2,520,000. The Army, at 870,000, is the largest service. The Air Force follows with 845,000, the Navy is next with 630,000 and the Marine Corps has a ceiling of 175,000.

Finucane's report disclosed that regular Army enlistments of men with no prior service jumped more than 60 per cent between 1957 and 1959 and that one result was a reduction of 66,000 in the number of draftees taken by the Army.

A considerably increased percentage of enlisted men in all services is now signing up for four-year or longer terms, Finucane said, and more men are signing up for a second hitch.

The vessel's owner, Moore-McCormick line in New York, said the 439-foot freighter radioed at noon EST that the fire was being brought under control and no help was needed.

Hurricane Hannah was to the north of the southbound vessel and the line said the weather was "steadily improving."

There was no report of injuries to any of the passengers or crewmen aboard the ship, bound from New York to South America with a load of general cargo.

The 6,183-ton vessel radioed the Coast Guard in Bermuda the fire broke out in its No. 3 hold, then spread to the No. 1 hold. The second fire was controlled with the help of foam chemical.

entists and space workers might look.

The announcement referred to the rocket as "the third cosmic rocket." The first went past the moon into orbit around the sun to become the first artificial planet. The second hit the moon, marking the first time any man-made object had ever been placed on the moon.

* * * *

RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS recently had discussed the possibility of casting a "Peeping Tom" satellite into orbit only six miles above the moon.

That would be close enough to get a detailed look but high enough to avoid crashing into the moon's tall mountains.

The possibilities were outlined in a technical report by Dr. A. Shternfeld, a noted Soviet scientist.

The baby satellite contemplated in the scientist's report would be equipped with television and other devices designed to transmit map-like pictures of the moon to the earth as a prelude for future spaceship landings.

* * * *

THE RUSSIAN scientist said in his report, made public in Washington in mid-September, that it would be technically possible to get such a snooper satellite into orbit around the moon—but that it shouldn't come closer than six miles above lest it run smack into lunar mountain peaks towering as high as 5½ miles.

Traveling in a polar orbit above a moon that was slowly revolving beneath it, the satellite envisioned by the scientist would gradually survey the entire surface of the moon in less than a month's time.

In Washington, Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, said the bare Russian announcement of today did not give enough information for him to know exactly what the Soviets had launched.

But he added that space scientists use the term "interplanetary station" to mean a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets.

Canadian Airliner Cracks Up, All Safe

TORONTO (AP)—A Trans-Canada Airlines Viscount with 38 persons aboard crash-landed Saturday night at Malton Airport, 23 miles northwest of Toronto, in a thunderstorm.

None of 34 passengers and 4 crewmen aboard the four-engined turboprop airliner was injured.

Only the plane's pilot, Capt. W. G. H. Bell, was detained in a hospital for observation.

The three other crew members and several passengers were shaken up.

The British-made Viscount was on a flight from Montreal. The crash-landing occurred about 8:45 p.m. The airliner skidded 300 feet along a slippery runway, and into a fence.

Airline officials said that since no one was injured seriously or killed they would not issue a passenger list.

Here's Long Definition of Beatnik

NEW YORK (AP)—"Members of the generation that came of age after World War II-Korean War, who join the relaxation of social and sexual tensions and espouse anti-regimentation, mystic disaffiliation, and material-simplicity values, supposedly as a result of 'cold war' disillusionment."

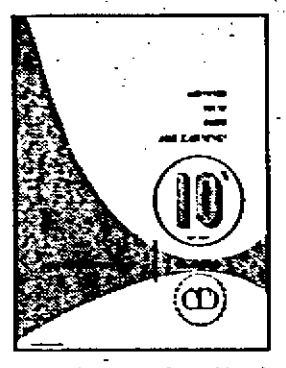

Who's that?

Beatniks.

The mouth-filling definition was supplied recently to the American College Dictionary by avant-garde author Jack Kerouac. The dictionary wanted help in defining "beat generation," a term it is including in its word list this year for the first time.

Khrushchev's comments were made in a boasting tone, Carter said, while a party of nine drove through the San Fernando Valley near Los Angeles. Among those present was Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and Khrushchev's official host in this country, representing Eisenhower.

Carter said the Premier said his agents intercepted a highly confidential message to India's Prime Minister Nehru during India's border troubles with China. Laughingly, Carter said, Khrushchev told Lodge, "If you want a copy I'll send you one."

Carter said Chrushchev also claimed to have a copy of a secret message in which the Shah of Iran asked Eisenhower to intercede with Khrushchev on the Shah's behalf.

* * * *

CARTER SAID Khrushchev was "very friendly" during the ride, although after he left for San Francisco Khrushchev objected to having had "the son of a Rostov manufacturer during the czarist regime" designated to guide him in Los Angeles.

Carter is a director of the California Bank and former president of the City of Hope Medical Center.

He said he notified the Central Intelligence Agency the following day of the conversation.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation to the U.N. said that Lodge would have no comment on Khrushchev's statements to Carter.

Missile-Armed Sub Launched

DOWN THE WAYS

The nuclear submarine USS Theodore Roosevelt starts down the ways at Vallejo after christening by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth of Washington, D.C. The vessel is specially designed to carry 16 Polaris ballistic missiles, and is the first such craft launched on the West Coast. By JAMES A. ALLEN
(I. P-T Military Reporter)

MARE ISLAND NAVAL SHIPYARD—The West Coast's first Polaris submarine, the 380-foot USS Theodore Roosevelt, was launched here Saturday afternoon—an awesome realization of the naval power advocated by its namesake a half century ago.

The 6,700-ton ship is the third of a fleet of revolutionary craft described as "the ultimate deterrent weapon."

These submarines are designed to lurk beneath the oceans of the world, ready to fire 1,200-mile, Lockheed-built Polaris missiles at any aggressor foolhardy enough to attack the United States.

* * * *

IN THE Theodore Roosevelt, the solid-fueled missiles will stand upright in 16 launching tubes, ready for immediate retaliatory action. Later Polaris submarines will have as many as 24 tubes.

Thomas S. Gates, deputy secretary of defense, who attended the launching ceremony, said the Polaris system has been planned and developed "with all of its facets carefully timed and phased."

"When the submarines are ready for sea, the missiles will be ready to put aboard," he said. "When the ships are ready to proceed on patrol, the communications and shore stations and tenders will be ready to support them."

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the President, christened the submarine with the traditional bottle of champagne.

* * * *

THE BOTTLE failed to break on the first two tries, but the third time was a success and the ship slid swiftly into the water as thousands of persons assembled at the yard cheered.

Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced the Theodore Roosevelt will be powered by a nuclear reactor which is expected to have a longer-lived fuel charge than the core which took the USS Nautilus more than 62,000 miles.

Westinghouse has the prime contract for the missile-launching and handling equipment. The Lockheed Missiles and Space Division is Polaris the Aerojet-General Corp. is missile system manager and subcontractor to Lockheed for missile propulsion.

2 Stone Jewish Temple

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said Saturday that two 15-year-old boys on horseback stoned a Queens synagogue Friday night, the start of Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

The horses, rented from a nearby riding stable, trampled the synagogue lawn and the youths smashed three plate glass windows, police reported. Damage was put at $3,000.

Police said the boys admitted the vandalism and quoted one as saying, "If we had known it was holiday time for the Jewish people we would not have done it."

* * * *

THE BOYS, Edward McDermott and Anthony Klotz, claimed they had merely had an urge to "go out and break some windows."

The attack occurred shortly after the finish of Rosh Hashanah services at the Rockwood Park Jewish Center at Howard Beach, Queens.

Worshippers had already left, but residents in the neighborhood—a solid middle class area of private one-family houses—reported hearing glass break and the sound of horses' hooves.

Detectives were led to the boys after a check of local riding stables disclosed they had rented horses earlier in the evening.

Jury Deadlocked in Polio-Shot Suit

OAKLAND (UPI)—An Alameda County jury has hopelessly deadlocked in the $1,200,000 damage suit charging Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley with negligence in the manufacture of Salk vaccine, it was reported Saturday night.

Jury foreman Alexander Hunter said the jury stood 6-6 after three days of deliberation.

The combined suit was brought against the firm by the parents of five Idaho children who came down with polio during April 1955 after they were innoculated with Salk vaccine produced at Cutter.

The plaintiffs and damages sought:

Jessie Singleton, St. Anthony, $250,000 for daughter, Linda Lee, 7.

Kenneth Turner, American Falls, $250,000 for son, Terry, 8.

Lester V. Pierce, Pocatello, $150,000 for death of daughter, Susan, 8.

Rex Cranen Preston, $300,000 for son, Dan, 9.

Lenn Garner Paul, $250,000 for daughter, Janine, 10.

Nehru Launches Power Experiment

NAGPUR, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru flew here last week to inaugurate a Rajasthan statewide experiment in decentralizing government power and giving it to elected village elders (Panchayats). The occasion was the 90th birth anniversary of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, who felt village autonomy would help arrest the one-way trend of villagers to India's overpeopled cities.

WORLD TOURNEY

U.S. Youth Defeats Russ Chess Master

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Teenage U.S. chess champion Bobby Fischer from Brooklyn, N.Y., Monday night stunned the chess world with a thrilling three-hour victory over Soviet grand master Paul Keres in the Candidates' Tournament for the chess world championships.

Fischer's win, in 27 moves, was the sensation of the tournament, now in its 15th round.

SANTA IN PERIL

Cuba May Prefer the Three Kings

HAVANA (AP)—Santa Claus may fall victim to Cuban revolutionary zeal and austerity.

Merchants have been given a Castro government plan for a "typically Cuban Christmas" this year.

It urges that Cuban-made decorations and greeting cards be used and that the Three Kings replace "Santa Claus because (he) is foreign to our customs and of recent importation."

Victim of Truck Upset Succumbs

A 19-year-old youth died Saturday night in Harbor General Hospital from injuries suffered Friday when the Good Humor truck he was driving overturned in Wilmington.

Russell Bocox, of 3105 Kerckhoff Ave., San Pedro, suffered the fatal injuries on E. Highway 101, when he swerved to avoid a car that was turning to enter a motel.

Keel to Be Laid Monday for World's Biggest Ship

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The keel will be laid Monday for the world's biggest cargo vessel—a 106,500-ton tanker.

The huge ship, which will fly the American flag, is being built for Manhattan Tankers Co., Inc., of New York, one of Greek shipping magnate Stavros S. Niarchos' companies.

Bethlehem Steel Company's Quincy yard is scheduled to deliver her early in 1961.

The 940-ft.-6-in. craft will have 38,242,000 gallons capacity, enough to fill the tanks of 1,911,000 automobiles. She will have a 132-foot beam and her loaded draft of 49 ft., 6 in., will be too deep to navigate any existing canal.

Geared turbines and twin screws will furnish 39,000 horsepower and a speed of 17.5 knots fully laden.

Macmillan Sure He'll Win

LABOR PARTY LEADER Hugh Gaitskell, waggles a finger as he addresses election rally at Manchester, England. British electors will go to polls Thursday to choose between Gaitskell and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Vote to Be a Toss-Up, Polls Claim

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan predicted Saturday his Conservatives would win Britain's boiling hot election next Thursday. But latest public opinion polls show the outcome nearly a toss-up betwen the Conservatives and Laborites.

"I have become more and more confident of the result," Macmillan told a news conference.

With only five days left, the polls showed 39.5 per cent of the voters behind the Conservatives and 38 per cent for Hugh Gaitskill's Labor Party.

• • • •

A LITTLE MORE than two weeks ago—when Macmillan called the election on the crest of a popularity wave and in the flush of President Eisenhower's visit here—his Conservatives appeared a sure thing to win an unprecedented third term and run Britain for another five years.

At that time the polls, usually accurate in forecasting elections in Britain, gave the Conservatives a 7.5 per cent margin as against the present 1.5.

It may be the 18 per cent of undecided voters who will determine which party controls the 630-member House of Commons and forms the next government.

• • • •

MACMILLAN and Gaitskill both embarked in final campaign swings this weekend through the hinterlands.

They were slugging it out on the main issues—the Conservatives' claim to the right of representing Britain at an East-West summit meeting and Labor's promises to raise old age pensions and do away with sales taxes on necessities.

Said Macmillan, the urbane, 65-year-old Etonian:

"I do not see how a party which is split, as the Laborites are, on every major issue, can possibly form a government with a large enough majority to play an effective role at the summit."

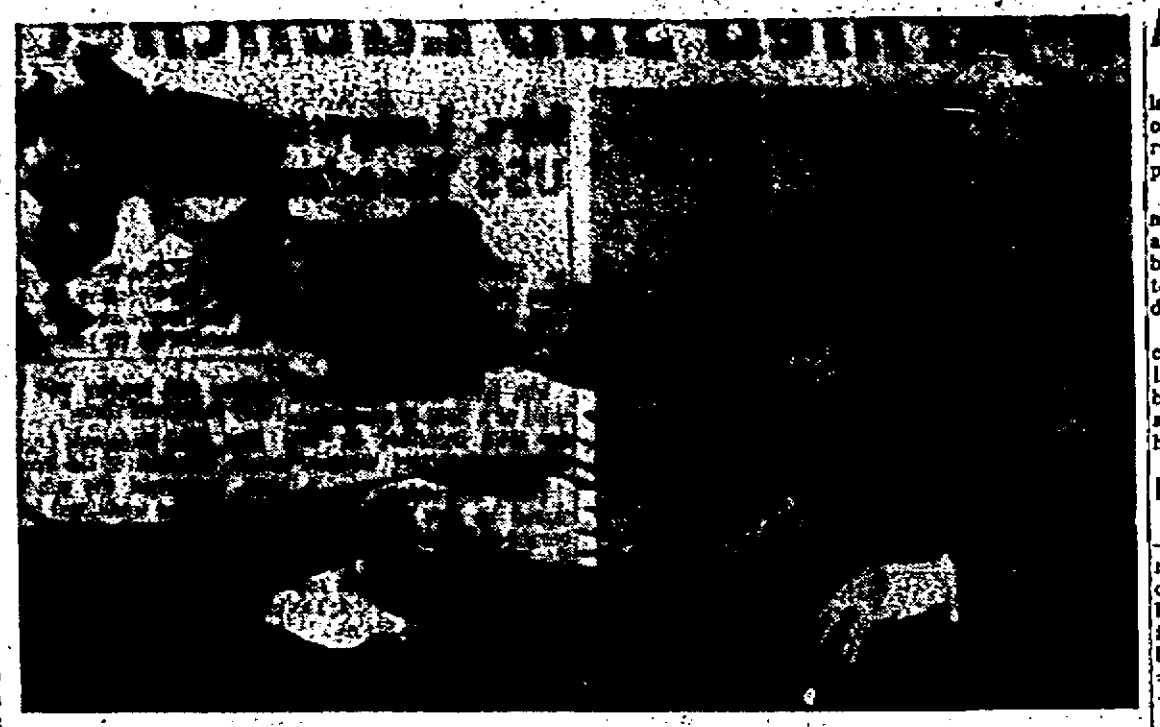

Macmillan, former defense minister and foreign secretary, took over as prime minister in January 1957 when ailing Anthony Eden stepped down in the wake of the Suez invasion crisis.

• • • •

MACMILLAN CALLED for an overwhelming Conservative victory to give him authority "to go to the summit" this winter.

The prime minister, before leaving London for his final drive, accused Gaitskill of resorting to bribery without regard for the national budget in promising higher pensions and repeal of the heavy purchase tax on consumer goods.

Gaitskill, snapping back in a campaign speech in Liverpool, argued that the Conservatives were "hopping mad" about Labor's pledge of sales tax relief.

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Harold Macmillan, campaigning in Clapham sector of London, is greeted by wave of outstretched hands. The prime minister is seeking re-election on Conservative Party ticket in Thursday's general election.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Acid Hurled Into Eyes of Love Rival

VENICE (UPI) — A jealous laborer Saturday hurled a can of acid into the face of a love rival who may lose his sight, police reported.

The center of the argument, Ruby Mae Moore, 43, also was burned on the body by the chemical which was tossed through a broken window into her apartment.

Jessie Lee Thurman, 40, a construction worker, was hit in the face by the acid thrown by George Duffie, 55, police said. Duffie was arrested two hours after the alleged attack.

Bear Shot in Tree

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (AP) —Mrs. Annie Gibson, 68, took rifle in hand and shot a bear out of an apple tree at her Dawson Point home for old folks. She said the bear had been stealing apples.

Quiz Show Probe to Start Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "on a big scale" by quiz House investigators worked overtime Saturday picking the cast for public hearings on the alleged rigging of some television quiz shows.

They hope to prove in hearings opening Tuesday that the viewing public was deceived shows in which contestants were tipped off beforehand on correct answers.

Star performers are expected to testify whether the shows were fixed in advance so they couldn't lose on even the trickiest questions.

• • • •

REPRESENTATIVES of producers, advertising agencies, sponsors and television networks also may be called for sworn testimony.

Robert W. Lishman, counsel for the House Commerce subcommittee which is conducting the inquiry, refused to name any of the witnesses.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), is the same one that held the celebrated Adams - Goldfine hearings in the same House caucus room in 1958. Those hearings led to the resignation of presidential aide Sherman Adams following disclosures he had accepted gifts from New England industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

The quiz show scandal goes back to August 1958, when Edward Hilgemeier, a standby contestant for "Dotto," complained the show was rigged. The program was cancelled.

• • • •

THEN HERB Stempel told a similar story about "Twenty-one," a show on which he had been a money winner. That show soon departed, and not long afterward so did "The 64,000 Dollar Question" and its companion, "The 64,000 Dollar Challenge."

The National Broadcasting Co. announced in New York Saturday that it had terminated its relationship with Jack Barry and Dan Enright, producers of the defunct "Twenty-One" but a spokesman said there was no connection between this and the impending House investigation.

Barry and Enright have denied any wrong-doing. One of their aides, Albert Freedman, was indicted on charges of perjury for allegedly lying when he denied he provided any contestants with answers.

Russ Rap Cambodia Proposal

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin accused Britain Saturday of trying to scuttle the international control commission for Cambodia behind the Russians' backs in order to submit that Indochinese nation to "foreign influence."

In one of the most strongly-worded notes on southeast Asia in months, the U.S.S.R. charged that Britain —cochairman with the Soviet Union of the 1954 Geneva agreement ending the eight-year-long Indochinese war— made the proposition to Cambodia without notifying Moscow.

It said Britain's "meagerly bankrupt" action, which the Soviets got wind of from Cambodia, had placed London in "an unenviable position."

• • • •

(IN LONDON, the Foreign Office said it was studying the Soviet note. It declined further comment, but responsible British authorities who declined to be named said Britain had privately approached Cambodian officials on possibilities of dissolving the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission because of British feelings it had outlived its usefulness. They emphasized that the approach was in no sense a formal proposal.)

The Russians said Britain's action was highlighted by the fighting in Laos, a neighbor of Cambodia, where a U.N. fact-finding mission now is investigating Laotian charges of aggression by Communist North Viet Nam.

L.B. Internist Hands Gavel to S.F. Doctor

Dr. Walter P. Martin of Long Beach was succeeded Saturday as president of the California Society of Internal Medicine by Dr. James H. Thompson of San Francisco.

Other officers elected at the society's meeting in Santa Barbara are Dr. A. Lee Edgar of La Mesa, president-elect; and Dr. Phillip Pillsbury of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer.

The society also passed a resolution urging support of health-insurance plans offered by private firms. It said federal and state prepaid plans "are bringing socialized medicine in through the back door."

Dr. Lewis A. Alesen, past president of the California Medical Assn. from Los Angeles, said in support of the resolution, "The citizen must not become a mere number in the medical structure of a slave state."

Fires Stampede Elephants, Lions Toward Homes

ZAKA, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — About 60 stampeding elephants and lions were fleeing toward settlers' homes Saturday night before mammoth fires sweeping across thousands of acres of ranchland.

A pall of smoke cut visibility and added to the danger facing farmers in the southeast of Southern Rhodesia.

A ranch of 50,000 acres has been destroyed.

Find Black Marble

TOLUCA, Mexico (AP)—Officials report a huge deposit of black marble, similar to that quarried in Italy, has been discovered near Zompango.

Mosley Election Cry: Send Negroes Home

LONDON (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, a Fascist voice out of the past, is campaigning in Britain's national election with this single refrain: Send the Negro immigrants home.

Other candidates may still be looking for the issues that they feel will swing the votes their way Oct. 8. The former leader of British Fascists believes he has found one.

"You want to settle the color problem?" he tells his street meetings. "Well, do it with votes, not violence."

• • • •

THIS IS PRETTY heady talk in Notting Hill, which has seen some of Britain's worst race riots and where police have had to break up marauding gangs of Negroes and whites armed with axes and broken bottles.

Mosley, 63, next month, is campaigning for a seat in Parliament from London's North Kensington District, which includes sleazy Notting Hill, as a union movement candidate. This is the party he now leads from his home in Ireland or his villa at Orsay, outside Paris.

To all the election issues—employment, housing, disarmament, the common market, peace—Mosley has one answer: send the colored immigrants home.

One of his workers stands on the back of an open panel truck in a London street booming out "the message" over a loudspeaker. He drones on until Mosley turns up from another meeting.

• • • •

"NOW HEAR FOR yourselves," says the underling, "from the man who walks among you."

Up the street, from an auto parked around the corner, comes Sir Oswald, sixth baronet to a title created in 1781. He waves and smiles, showing his prominent teeth, and acknowledges the frenzied applause of three or four of his supporters.

He is a gray man, his hair is gray, his toothbrush mustache is gray. His suit is gray and his tie is gray.

"Housing problem?" he says, "of course there's a housing problem. And it'll get worse if colored immigration isn't stopped. In 10 years time there will be five times as many colored people in Britain. This area will be quite impossible for white people."

AMERICAN PRESTIGE DAMAGED

U. S. Diploma Mills Lure Foreign Money

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

It takes from three to five years of hard work to earn a Ph. D. degree at a reputable American university.

But if you aren't too choosy about your alma mater, you can acquire a "doctorate" with far less trouble. All you have to do is mail a check to one of the numerous phony "colleges" and "institutes" that specialize in exchanging spurious academic prestige for real cash.

There are at least 200 of these diploma mills now functioning in the United States. They take in—the expression is used advisedly—about 750,000 "students" a year. Their gross income is estimated at $75,000,000 annually, and it's nearly all clear profit since they aren't burdened with the expense of maintaining a faculty or a campus.

This racket has been flourishing for many years, and only a few sporadic efforts have been made to stamp it out. Many educators who were aware of its existence have tended to shrug it off on the grounds that anyone foolish enough to buy a worthless degree should be allowed to waste his money.

* * * *

AN ABRUPT change in this laissez-faire attitude is now brewing. The highly respected American Council on Education, an organization that is fairly awash with legitimate Ph.D.'s, is girding to do battle against the purveyors of bogus degrees.

The reason for the council's concern is made clear in a special report which it will make public in Washington this week.

The report discloses that America's mail-order degree factories are now going in big for international trade. Through glittering advertisements in foreign newspapers and magazines, they are misleading thousands of students in other countries into believing that they can get a bona-fide correspondence course education by scraping up enough dollars to "enroll" in the phony American schools.

Students in undeveloped countries, who attach high value to an American degree, are easy targets for this kind of fraud. So many of them have been bilked, the council says, that foreigners are beginning to "question the integrity and quality of all American education."

Many U.S. officials abroad have reported the racket to the State Department, warning that it is heavily damaging American prestige.

* * * *

A FEW STATES, like New York, California, Arkansas and Virginia, have tough licensing laws which can be used to crack down on diploma mills. But a large majority of states have no effective legislation on the subject, according to the report, and "twenty-six states have no legal control whatever over educational institutions granting degrees."

To clean up the situation, the council says, the basic need is for nationwide adoption of uniform state legislation to set minimum standards for licensing and operation of all institutions of higher education, particularly those that grant degrees. The Council of State Governments has already indicated readiness to sponsor this effort.

The council also recommends that a congressional committee conduct full public hearings on the problem next year.

I, P-T Exposed Racket

The diploma mill racket in Southern California was exposed in 1957 by the Independent, Press-Telegram. Reporter Bob Wells purchased a Ph. D. in psychology from Commonwealth University in Los Angeles for $200.

As a result of the investigation by Wells and others, Commonwealth University was closed, its state charter revoked and its "dean" convicted. Information gathered by the Independent was utilized by a State Assembly committee investigating diploma mills to strengthen California licensing regulations.

Fire Sweeps Huge Avro Aircraft Plant in England

CHADDERTON, Sunday (AP)—Flames early today roared through a 300-yard-long section of the A. V. Roe aircraft factory which produces atom bombers for the Royal Air Force.

Fire brigades from all over Lancashire county finally brought the blaze under control after a three-hour fight.

Fire officials were attempting to establish the cause. Shortly before the fire alarm, three deafening explosions rocked the factory.

The plant makes the huge Vulcan delta-wing atom bomber and the new Avro 748 twin-engined turboprop airliner which is due to make its first flight next year.

Several firemen, overcome by smoke and fumes, were dragged from the plant as flames shot 60 feet high. Four firemen were hospitalized.

What Baseball's All About

If You Don't Know Strike From Hit—Don't Admit It

By STERLING BEMIS

Even though the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox are playing for the world championship, there are still some individuals who do not know what baseball is about.

If these assorted wives, girls, backward boys and foreigners will pay attention, it will all become simple.

Baseball was invented in 1839 by Col. Abner Doubleday. He was promoted to general, anyway. The first game under a code of rules was played in 1846 in the Russian village of Hoboken, N.J. One of the teams was the Knickerbockers. To this day, players wear knickerbockers and other droopy garments, such as sleeves that look like long underwear.

* * * *

EACH TEAM has nine players and substitutes. On the opposing team the substitutes are better than the regulars. On your team, they are even worse.

The infield is a square called a diamond on the hither side of the outfield. At each corner is a base. The base where the batter stands is called home plate, even by the visiting team.

The batter's object is to score a run by starting out at home plate and ending up at home plate, traveling via first base, second base and third base. First, second and third bases are known as bags or sacks, but nothing derogatory is intended. Once they were known as "One Old Cat," "Two Old Cat" and "Three Old Cat." (Until recently, boys still played "One-o'-Cat." Their fathers organized the fun out of that by forming Little Leagues in which the boys do as they are told.)

There are several ways for a batter to arrive at first base. One is to hit the ball where the opposing team isn't. Another is to induce the pitcher to throw four balls. A baseball is just a ball when it is thrown outside of the strike zone. Officially, the strike zone is "that space over home plate which is between the batter's armpits and the top of his knees." It is sometimes an advantage, except in social circles, for a batter to have high armpits.

ENEMY BATTER

* * * *

ALL YOU NEED to know about strikes is that they are times when a batter does not get anywhere with his bat. After three instances of this clumsy futility, the batter is out. The plate umpire decides strikes and balls. The umpire is an arbiter who wears black sackcloth with a matching scowl. He is not an exponent of free speech. A player who questions an umpirical decision is subject to being dispatched to the showers, whether it is Saturday or not.

A player is out if he hits a ball which is caught by any of the nine opposing players before it strikes the ground.

He is also out when the following events conspire against him:

First—The ball hits the ground in fair territory, or "that part of the playing field within, and including the first base and third base lines, from home base to the bottom of the playing field within, and including the first base and third base lines, from home base to the bottom of the playing field fence and perpendicularly upwards." (This covers a lot of territory, particularly when the enemy is at bat.)

Second—A fielder catches the ball and throws it to the base where the batter should be and isn't yet.

* * * *

THERE ARE OTHER ways for batters to be out, but most of them are nauseating to think about.

A bat is not just a piece of leftover lumber. The rules say it "shall be a smooth, rounded stick not more than 2¾ inches in diameter at the thickest part and not more than 42 inches in length." It is not ethical for either a player or a bat to be loaded.

A person who makes a lot of hits with his bat has a high batting average, or .300 or more. When the score is tied in the ninth (normally the last) inning and an enemy batter is up, he usually is a behemoth with a batting average of .564. He appears to be swinging a loaded bat 54 inches in length and 5½ inches thick at the thinnest part. This is only a television illusion.

The object of the game is to score more runs than the other side does. With this handy guide, that should be a rather easy chore.

Those who are interested in the advanced course, including a panel discussion of the Infield Fly Rule, should register when class takes up this afternoon at the Coliseum.

Boy She Never Knew Gives Woman Sight

SEATTLE (AP)—Because of a small boy she never knew, Mrs. Duane Vincent experienced the miracle of sight Saturday.

"The doctor put some medicine in my eye this morning," Mrs. Vincent said. "I could see he was wearing a dark suit. But I can't tell you what a thrill it was."

A cornea taken from the eye of 12-year-old Robert L. Jenness, killed Wednesday in a traffic accident, was transplanted to Mrs. Vincent's left eye Thursday night. The boy had willed his eye to an eye bank about three months ago.

Hospital attendants said Mrs. Vincent is making good progress, but it may be as long as a month before the success of the operation is known.

Mrs. Vincent, herself the mother of two small boys she has never really seen, said she has been praying for Robert and "that poor boy's mother."

"I only hope," she added, "that I or my family can do something as wonderful."

2 Campaigners Take Truce for Jewish Holidays

LONDON (UPI)—The Jewish New Year stopped campaigning in the Willesden constituency Saturday among men of different faiths.

Maurice Ohrbach, a Jew and the Labor Party candidate, said he would spend the weekend in Rosh Hashanah devotions.

His Conservative opponent, Trevor Skeet, a Christian, said he would not take unfair advantage and stopped campaigning.

Sunday at sundown, when the holiday ends, both men will be back hammering at each other.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Technique in Heart Exam

("Medicine and You," a regular Sunday feature of this newspaper, is prepared in collaboration with the Department of Medical Education, Seaside Memorial Hospital.)

Often, in an examination, the doctor may wish to determine whether your heart is enlarged or whether you have been subject to a heart attack in its severe form (infarct) or milder form (angina).

The doctor relies on tests made by highly complex instruments such as the electrocardiograph, vectorcardiograph, ballistocardiograph, fluoroscope, etc. In spite of all this, the results still may be equivocal.

Now comes an interesting report in the Bulletin of the Johns Hopkins Hospital by Dr. T. Harrison of the Medical College of Alabama, which summarizes the findings of several years of careful study of the movements of the heart. One result of the study has been the determination that the physician may arrive at a diagnosis of some heart abnormalities simply by applying his hands to the patient's body in the region of the heart.

The doctor who has acquired the necessary skill frequently can determine that a heart attack has occurred. He does this by sensing a special pattern of abnormal pulsation. This technique, Dr. Harrison says, may provide information where the electrocardiograph has failed.

* * * *

ONE FORM of angina pectoris, a heart ailment which occurs most frequently in males 40 to 60 years of age, often can be prevented by a drug called nylidrin (trade name—Arlidin).

Ordinarily, angina attacks consist of chest pains brought on primarily by exercise or emotion. However, in another type, the pain comes on when the subject is at rest or engaged in ordinary activity. If the attacks continue long enough, they may lead to death.

Dr. Myron Prinzmetal, of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles, reports in the American Journal of Medicine that attacks of the variant type of angina may be prevented by prescribing nylidrin, which in the past has found some application in the treatment of hardening of the arteries.

"Since many patients can predict the time of their attacks, it is possible to prevent the attack by giving a dose of the drug shortly beforehand," Dr. Prinzmetal and his associates say.

* * * *

DO YOU HAVE blue eyes? Then you can consider yourself truly steely-eyed.

Blue-eyed persons can withstand pain better than those with brown eyes.

The conclusion is that of Dr. Philip R. N. Sutton of Melbourne University Dental School. He noted pain reactions in 403 patients whose teeth were being drilled, and reported his findings in Nature.

The bluer the patient's eyes, the less pain the patient reported, Dr. Sutton found.

* * * *

YOU'VE HAD YOUR FIRST Salk polio injection but failed to obtain the second four weeks later. Do you have to start the series over?

No, say researchers in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Assn. They found that persons responded adequately to second injections given as long as seven to 10 months after the first inoculation.

The response was as strong, the investigators said, as that observed in persons who got their second shot one month later.

The journal report concluded: "If there should be a delay in giving a second dose, inoculation may be continued as if there had been no interruption in the series."

THREE-WHEELER IN ACTION . . . A Motor Vehicle Is a Motor Vehicle

CLASSED AS MOTOR VEHICLES

Ban on Sidewalk Parking May Face Drivers of Electric Cars

By JIM McCAULEY

Electric vehicles, traditional Long Beach get-me-abouts for thousands of handicapped drivers here, soon may have to park off the sidewalk under 1959 state laws.

In some California areas outside of Long Beach, the electric vehicle operators also will be likely to get traffic tickets if they use the sidewalk as a road. Los Angeles is one city that bans all vehicles from sidewalks.

Why the new headache for electric vehicle owners? State law now regards the three-wheel electric vehicles as motor vehicles rather than wheel chairs. And the state law forbids vehicles to park on sidewalks.

Sidewalks long have been the "parking lots" and main "traffic arteries" for Long Beach's electric three-wheelers.

But it turns out state lawmakers threw the book at the 4,000 electric vehicle operators in the Long Beach area. The book: the 1959 California motor vehicle code.

• • • •

LAWMAKERS CHANGED a few words when they rewrote the vehicle code, intending to make operators of the motorized wheel chairs liable for driver's licenses as a safety measure. In so doing, lawmakers firmly classified the three-wheel electric vehicles as motor vehicles.

Technically, any self-propelled highway vehicle always has been defined as a motor vehicle. But electric vehicles were regarded as something almost outside the law because they were excluded from licensing and registration laws if owned by handicapped drivers.

In past years, some non-handicapped drivers operated three-wheel electric vehicles without paying any registration or licensing fees. One drunken driver, his motor car license revoked by the state, continued to drive—in an unlicensed electric vehicle.

In an unofficial opinion for The Independent, Press-Telegram, a spokesman in the Long Beach city attorney's office said:

"There is no doubt but what the 1959 motor vehicle code firmly considers electric vehicles as motor vehicles. Apparently, that means electric vehicles must conform to all motor vehicle laws."

• • • •

THERE HAVE BEEN no test cases yet. Hard hit already by the law which compels electric vehicle operators to get driver's licenses, electric three-wheelers now must face these headaches if the motor vehicle laws are enforced:

—PARKING. Prohibited on all sidewalks in California by California law.

—SIDEWALK DRIVING. Oddly, not prohibited specifically by the California codes. You even can drive a Cadillac down the sidewalk. But the California Highway Patrol tickets sidewalk drivers for reckless drivir . Los Angeles City prohibits it. Los Angeles County bans bicycles, motorcyles and scooters—but not automobiles, trucks nor electric vehicles by specific designation.

—LIABILITY INSURANCE. Motor vehicle owners must meet the provisions of California's financial responsibility law if they get in a traffic accident. Thus far, not one electric vehicle driver has taken out vehicle liability insurance from Long Beach's largest automobile insurance office.

—VEHICLE SAFETY FEATURES. Turn signals are required on some models of electric vehicles. The law also states a vehicle's windshield must be of safety glass. Some plastic-windshield electric vehicles thus far have escaped this measure by a ruling which classifies the three-wheel electric vehicle with three-wheel motorcycles—which also have plastic windshields, but are excluded from the safety glass rule. A similar "motorcycle" ruling saves the electric three-wheelers from having to meet requirements on windshield wipers.

• • • •

LONG BEACH POLICE are studying future enforcement policies. Traffic officials here haven't yet indicated how they will apply the motor vehicle laws to electric vehicles. Are the three-wheel motorized wheelchairs safer on a road or a sidewalk? That's a question police must decide.

The Department of Motor Vehicles, 700 E. Broadway, rivals Lincoln Park as an electric vehicle center as operators of the three-wheelers rush to get driver's licenses.

Thus far 300 licenses have been issued and processing begun on 300 other applications. Some can't be given driving tests until the vehicle gets turn signals.

Howard R. Link, DMV manager here, estimated it will be more than two months before licensing is complete. Law enforcement officers have agreed to hold off citing unlicensed drivers till testing is completed.

The deadline for new licenses was last month, but it was impossible for the DMV to process and test all the electric vehicle operators. Long Beach, believed to be world's capital of the electric vehicle set, has more motorized wheel chairs than all other California cities combined.

"I may be driving one myself before we solve our headaches on electric vehicles," quipped one local DMV man.

SENATOR HUMPHREY
Given Advice

Humphrey Told to Wait Adlai's Move

By ROBERT E. LEE
of L. P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — Some of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's political advisers think he should announce that he'll be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination only if Adlai Stevenson is not.

Humphrey's apparent failure to get off the ground in the early maneuvering for the nomination has puzzled not only his friends but also impartial observers.

Many believe it is linked to the question mark shrouding Stevenson's plans. Humphrey had hoped to draw heavily on Stevenson supporters for backing. But the Stevensonites have been slow to respond. They aren't convinced the two-time candidate is yet ready to cede his mantle to the apparent heir.

• • • •

THEREFORE, a number of the Minnesotan's friends think, his best hope for the present is to condition his own race on Stevenson's plans. The theory is that Humphrey can't win the nomination if Stevenson decides he is available for it, nor can Humphrey attract more than modest support from the Stevenson camp while Stevenson's plans are uncertain.

However, Humphrey might be more attractive to Stevenson's friends if they were given an out through an announcement they were free to return to the fold when and if Stevenson gave the word.

Despite a trip through neighboring Wisconsin last week that the Minnesotan's friends considered highly successful, Humphrey seems to have rung few bells elsewhere in the nation during several months of vigorous campaigning.

• • • •

A RECENT POLL in California was a real shocker to the Humphrey camp. In a state where he has many friends and which he has visited often, the copyrighted Field Poll showed him with only two per cent of the votes in two categories — which Democrat would you like to see nominated and which would make the strongest race?

In each category, Humphrey trailed Stevenson, Sen. John F. Kennedy, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, and Sens. Estes Kefauver, Lyndon Johnson and Stuart Symington.

In other polls, too, Humphrey's strength has been revealed as unusually small. Even politically influential labor leaders who might be expected to rate him highly have been reserved in their enthusiasm for Humphrey's candidacy.

THE UNION chiefs — and, indeed, many other Democrats of prominence — have nothing but praise for Humphrey's voting record and campaigning skill. But the majority seem to believe either Stevenson or Kennedy would run a better race against either Vice President Nixon or Gov. Rockefeller of New York.

The danger in a Humphrey announcement that he would withdraw from consideration anytime Stevenson said he was available might draw some criticism of the Minnesotan as a "stalking horse" for Stevenson. On the other hand, it might benefit Humphrey greatly in states where Stevenson backing is strong—notably California, New York and Oregon. In those states—and especially in Oregon, where all candidates must enter the primary—it might provide Humphrey with the votes of persons who are reluctant to cast their ballots "against" Stevenson.

Settlement of Chrysler Strike Up to Workers for Vote Today

By JACK VANDENBERG

DETROIT (UPI) — One of two major roadblocks in the path of production of new 1960-model cars apparently was removed Saturday when the United Auto Workers of America and Chrysler Corp. worked out differences at the company's key Twinsburg, Ohio, stamping plant.

The agreement reached by company and union negotiators still has to be ratified by the 3,500 employes at the stamping plant. But company and union officials were hopeful that the tentative agreement might end the strike which forced Chrysler to lay off 18,000 workers and threatened to idle up to 45,000.

EVEN IF THE Chrysler workers return to their jobs next week, however, the nationwide steel walkout still will pose a threat to production of the cars which are just beginning to appear in dealer showrooms.

General Motors already has laid off more than 8,000 employes in various parts and accessory plants throughout the nation because of steel shortages and has announced plans to lay off at least 4,300 additional workers during the next week if the steel strike is not ended.

The strike at the Twinsburg plant, which is the sole producer of certain body stampings for all Chrysler Corp. cars except Imperial and Valiant, forced Chrysler to cut its planned production for the past week by 1,000 units. Company spokesmen said it would have cut Chrysler's production at least in half if it had continued into next week, and even more as it progressed.

A company spokesman said it could not be determined immediately when the workers already laid off because of the stamping-plant strike would be recalled but Chrysler was working on a recall schedule and would announce it if the new agreement is ratified in a membership meeting Sunday.

THE STAMPING - PLANT strike started last Tuesday. Details of the agreement were not revealed pending ratification by the workers.

Chrysler was the first company to lose any production since work started on 1960 model cars.

Son of L.B. Woman Killed When Navy Jet Crashes

Lt. Cortney M. Anderson, son of Mrs. Francis Hiller Weaver of Long Beach Yacht Harbor, was killed Friday night when his Navy jet plane crashed in landing aboard an aircraft carrier 300 miles off Myrtle Beach, S. C., it was learned Saturday.

The Navy said the plane plunged into the Atlantic and the pilot's body was not recovered.

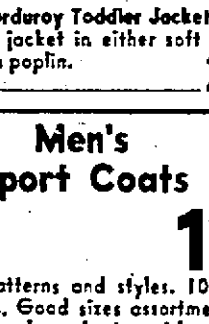

The jet skidded off the deck and sank immediately.

Also surviving the pilot are his widow and a son, Craig, 2, of Jacksonville.

SINGS OWN SONGS

Rock-and-Roll's Got Teacher, Too

ARDEN JERVEY
'This Wicked World'

In Long Beach City College is a teacher who makes rock n' roll records.

Arden Jervey, for four years physical education instructor at City College, sings "This Wicked World" and "Why Do You Deny Me?" in Cupid records, just released.

They are her first records.

• • • •

HOW DID it happen?

"I write songs for fun," says Miss Jervey, who lives at 6015 E. Charlwood St., Lakewood. "I went to the Cupid Record Studio at Santa Ana, with my guitar, and sang some of my numbers.

"They asked me if I would be interested in recording, and I said OK. I did 'This Wicked World' and 'Why Do You Deny Me?' with piano, drum and guitar accompaniment."

Miss Jervey is a graduate of Ohio State University.

Author Calls Suit Leopold's 'Thanks'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Author Meyer Levin said Saturday that thrill killer Nathan Leopold's $1,513,000 suit against the book and movie "Compulsion" was the only thanks he ever received for helping Leopold get out of prison.

Levin, who wrote the book, said he was "utterly astonished" by the suit which was filed against 57 defendants Friday in Chicago.

"All I can say is, that's gratitude," Levin said. "I think it's generally conceded that my book got him out of prison. His own attorney, Elmer Gertz, said so a year and a half ago to me.

• • • •

"IN FACT IT was Gertz who asked me to plead before the parole board for Leopold's release, and I did appear as a principal witness. Some members of the board even told me they read the book and it changed their thinking about Leopold.

"But this suit—this is the only thanks I've gotten. I've never had any contact with him since he's been out of jail."

Leopold served 33½ years in the state penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., for the thrill murder of little Bobby Franks. Leopold and his partner, Richard Loeb, were convicted in one of the most sensational trials of the century. Leopold was paroled in 1958 and works in Puerto Rico as a medical technician. Loeb was killed in prison.

EPHRAIM LONDON, attorney for Levin and Simon & Schuster Inc., publishers of the book, said Leopold was violating the conditions of his parole by filing the suit. He said Leopold had promised the parole board he would not seek to capitalize on his crime in any way.

Leopold charged in his suit that "Compulsion" invaded his privacy and contained fiction about him.

Seiners Slated to Sail Today

SAN PEDRO—After more than a month of idleness, the local purse-seine fleet was due to sail today following settlement of a price dispute.

Members of both the ILWU Fishermen's Union and the AFL-CIO Seine and Line Fishermen's Union agreed Saturday to terms reached earlier by the boatowners and canners.

The new price structure is $35 a ton for sardines, $40 a ton for mixed fish and $50 a ton for mackerel.

• • • •

THE NEW contract provides that canners may refuse to accept fish upon 72 hours notice.

Last year, a price of $50 a ton for all three types of fish prevailed through most of the season.

The agreement reached is substantially the same as that concluded last month in northern California.

The Southern California sardine season officially began Sept. 1, and ends Dec. 31.

FRATERNITY PLEDGES 'GET WORKS'

7 Hurt in High School Hazing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A high school fraternity, using inch -thick paddles fashioned by shaving baseball bats, injured seven boys during an initiation ceremony, it was disclosed Friday.

The incident had parents hopping mad. Efforts were being made to outlaw the organizations despite refusal of the state legislature some years ago to ban such social groups. They are outside the control of schools.

Dennis Hopkins, 16, one of the most severely injured, said that during the initiation Jerry Thompson, president of the fraternity, "didn't think we were getting enough" and ordered the works for initiates.

"HE'S JUST bloodthirsty, that's the only way I can express it," young Hopkins said.

Jerry's mother, Mrs. D. M. Thompson, said he was hospitalized following his own initiation last year. He was recovering from a broken hip at the time and a blow from one of the paddles caused a re-injury.

Members of the Tri-W fraternity at Woodlawn High School initiated seven new members Thursday night by again beating them with the heavy paddles. Two initiates required treatment at a hospital and another was treated by a physician who notified police, touching off an investigation.

• • • •

MRS. THOMPSON said she blamed the city and the school for allowing fraternities to continue. But the Thompson parents told UPI they had not asked Jerry to withdraw from the group since the beatings became known.

Woodlawn Principal Ralph Martin said there had been no effort to bar fraternities at the school and no injuries reported to him previously.

Martin said the groups "have nothing to do with the school. The Board of Education does not recognize or sponsor the groups and neither does the school," he said.

• • • •

LEROY TUCKER, whose 16-year-old son, Leroy, required treatment at a hospital, said the law was going to break up the fraternities.

"If I had beaten my boy like that they would have already had me in jail," Tucker said. "They made those boys eat fried grasshoppers and poured syrup on them but they went too far when they beat him up like they did."

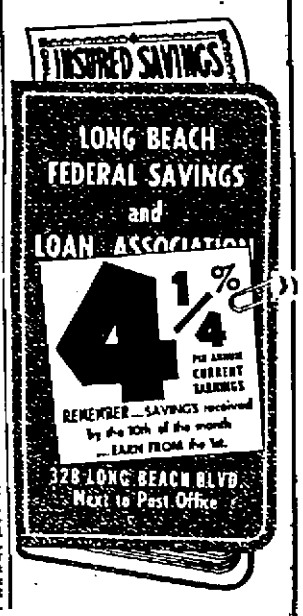

The Hopkins boy said the initiation started with the boys being taken to a grocery store parking lot and whipped with the paddles. He said members stood in line and the initiates ran by as members hit them. He said he got "10 extra licks for coming in last."

Typhoon Raises Price of Pearls

HONG KONG (UPI)—Damage caused by typhoon Vera which hit Japan last week will cause prices of cultured pearls to rise slightly, Yoshitaka Mikimoto said today.

NEW DISCOVERY FOR HARD OF HEARING
To all readers of the Ind.-P.T. the Diagnostic Offices will give the first treatment for only $3.00.
According to the Basic Diagnostic office it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.
So many have told us we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.
The treatment is simple, it consists of three steps and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given, if the loss it due to catarrh, a different treatment is given, if it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.
According to Basic Diagnostic 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.
We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Red Tide Breaks Out Again Along West Coast of Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A new outbreak of the dreaded fish-killing red tide spread 100 miles down the Florida west coast from St. Petersburg Saturday, threatening the tourist-rich beaches that dot the shoreline.

An aerial survey late Saturday showed the main infestation, first spotted Thursday, was still several miles off shore, but some dead fish were washing up at the tip of Longboat Key, a popular bathing beach near Sarasota.

Dr. Robert F. Hutton, biologist in charge of the state marine laboratory here, said rotting fish were floating so close to the shore at Sarasota Key that "any kind of a westerly wind would wash large numbers of fish onto the beach."

Red tides are caused by micro-organisms which intensify under certain conditions and color the water a rusty red. The organisms kill fish by secreting a poison which paralyzes their respiratory systems. When vaporized by crashing waves on beaches, the poison can irritate the mucous membranes of humans.

The current outbreak is the first in two years and extends from St. Petersburg to Venice. In past years the rotting fish and vaporized poison has caused beach dwellers to abandon homes and head inland.

Race Cases on Supreme Court List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court gets back to work Monday, facing a docket liberally sprinkled with racial-issue cases.

The court already has agreed to hear arguments on three of the cases. It still must decide if it will examine others.

The list includes two challenges to the voting section of the 1957 civil rights law, still another appeal by fiery racist John Kasper, four school-integration suits, and an attempt by Little Rock, Ark., to force the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) to reveal its membership lists.

• • • •

THERE ALSO are an appeal by a young Negro law student who was evicted from a white restaurant in the Richmond, Va., bus terminal, an appeal by six Negroes sentenced to jail for playing on a North Carolina golf course, another look at an earlier decision to set aside a $100,000 contempt fine levied against the NAACP by Alabama, and a bid of seven Negro teachers who were put out of work when a Missouri community integrated its schools.

Cases with Communist overtones also are high on the docket, along with issues important to labor and arguments on federal-state control of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

Radio-Carrying Balloon Floats in Hurricane Eye

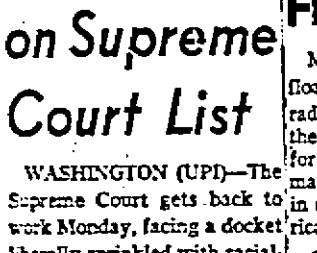

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A free-floating balloon carrying a radio transmitter has been in the eye of hurricane Hannah for more than 24 hours. It may represent a breakthrough in development of a new hurricane-tracking technique.

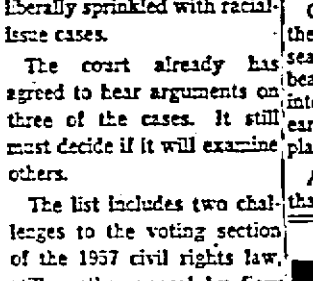

Cecil Gentry, director of the National Hurricane Research Project, said the beacon balloon was dropped into the calm storm center early Friday by an Air Force plane flying out of Bermuda.

A hurricane-hunter plane that flew into Hannah Saturday morning found the beacon still floating in the eye. A similar balloon dropped into the eye Thursday descended into the ocean after six hours.

"Further experimentation in other hurricanes will need to be done before the beacon can be considered operational," Gentry said.

"If future experiments prove that free-floating balloons will remain in the eye of a hurricane, it will be possible to track future storms from shore-based radio stations with radio direction-finding equipment."

EZRA TAFT BENSON

American in Pupit Stirs Russ to Tears

Editor's note: The following occurred in Moscow Thursday. U. S. correspondents present did not attempt to report the story until after leaving the Soviet Union.

By OVID A. MARTIN

MOSCOW (AP)—It was a special occasion at the Central Baptist Church, located on a back street within the shadow of the Kremlin. About 1,000 Russians assembled there to worship God in participation with a group of touring Americans.

Worship of God is not encouraged in the Soviet Union. Its rulers require the teaching of atheism.

• • • •

ONE OF THE Americans was invited to take the pulpit. He looked over the congregation. What he saw obviously moved him. With emotion he told o fhis visit in Moscow and what he thought of the Russian people.

"I hope," he said, "that you will be blessed. Be good citizens of your country.

"But," he added, "be true to your convictions."

The congregation listened intently as his words were translated.

• • • •

"GOD LIVES," he added. "I know that He lives—that Jesus is the Christ, the Redeemer of the World. Be not afraid and keep the Commandments."

The speaker was U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is touring Europe with three members of his family, four department officials and 10 newsmen on a good will and trade mission.

His words had a powerful impact. Tears rolled from the eyes of worshipers. At the finish, the congregation arose and thanked him with the hymn "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again." Then they waved handkerchiefs in farewell.

• • • •

AS THE AMERICANS made their way to the door, scores of hands thrust out to grasp those of the departing visitors in an action that spoke more than words.

The Americans entered their cars with not a dry eye among them. Finally a seasoned newsman broke the silence.

"I believe they were the only really happy people we saw in Russia," he said.

But his appraisal was tempered by the fact that the congregation was largely of the waning generation. Few young people were present.

Gale-Torn Boat, Lone Man Saved

TOKYO, Sunday (AP) — The battered Chinese junk High Tea carrying a lone Briton, Brian Platt, arrived Saturday in tow of a fishing boat at a small port in eastern Hokkaido after being found adrift in the Pacific.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Board said the mast of Platt's junk was broken by typhoon Vera. The 28-year-old Briton was in good condition.

The 32-foot junk was found Thursday by the 40-ton fishing boat Kinkei Maru some 470 miles east of Kushiro. It was towed to the fishing port of Hanasaka.

Platt's last port of call was Choshi, a fishing port 60 miles east of Tokyo, which he left Sept. 20 for a 90-day transpacific cruise to San Francisco.

TB Expert Says Many Diagnosed Mistakenly

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Hundreds of persons have been sent to tuberculosis sanatoriums for treatment of a disease that appears to be TB but isn't, the annual meeting of the Michigan State Medical Society was told Saturday.

Dr. Michael L. Furcolow, medical director of the U. S. Public Health Service's field station at Kansas City, said the disease is called histoplasmosis, or histo for short.

Of 22,000 patients checked in 52 sanatoriums in the United States and Canada, Dr. Furcolow said, 1,300 were found to have histo. Only 20 per cent of these patients also were found to have TB.

"TB treatment doesn't do these patients any good, and, in fact, may do some harm since they are in daily contact with tuberculosis patients," Dr. Furcolow said.

He describes histo as a lung fungus that imitates the symptoms of tuberculosis but is non-infectious and usually mild. It is apparently spread by chickens and other fowl and birds, and possibly bats.

New Record for Military Hike Claimed

FORT DEVENS, Mass. (AP) — A 26-year-old Army lieutenant Saturday completed a 104.8-mile march in 40½ hours — a mark believed to be a new U.S. armed services record.

First Lt. Wayne B. Nicoll of Bow, N.H., completed the grueling hike from Camp Edwards at Falmouth to Fort Devens at an average speed of 2.58 miles per hour.

Nicoll was dressed in a combat fatigue uniform and boots and carried a carbine, pistol belt, first aid kit, bayonet and canteen. Other than an occasional rest period, the lieutenant, a member of the Second Infantry Brigade, paced off the distance without letup.

Owners of Unused Autos Get Warning

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Director of Motor Vehicles Robert McCarthy has warned automobile owners they must register unused vehicles if they are left on public roads.

A new law which goes into effect Oct. 17 requires that vehicles parked or left standing on public streets or highways must be registered whether or not they are operated during the current year, McCarthy said.

TV and Film Actor William Bishop Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor William Bishop, 41, died of cancer at his home Saturday after a three-month illness.

Bishop was a nephew of the late playwright Charles MacArthur.

His acting career began in New York little theaters and he got his first major role as the juvenile lead in the Broadway production of "Tobacco Road." Later, he formed the ill-fated Mercury Theater with Orson Welles.

• • • •

IN RECENT years, Bishop had played in western films and television shows. He was a regular on the NBC-TV series, "It's a Great Life," with Michael O'Shea and James Dunn. He is featured in a new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "The Oregon Trail," with Fred MacMurray.

Survivors include his wife, Shirley; his father, Edward T. of New York City; his mother, Helen MacArthur Bishop of Chicago, and a brother, Robert, of Chicago.

Funeral services are scheduled for Tuesday at Gates, Kingsley and Gates mortuary in West Los Angeles. Cremation will follow.

8,684 Flee to West

BERLIN (UPI)—Police announced Saturday that 8,684 persons fled to West Berlin from Communist East Germany during September. This was 1,700 less than in August.

Park Ride Hurls 2 on Roof

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A rocket-shaped cab on a "dive bomber" thrill ride snapped in half at an amusement park Saturday hurling two boys to a nearby roof and injuring one seriously.

Bob Lussier, 16, was admitted to a hospital with a possible concussion. Walter Budowski, 13, escaped with cuts and bruises.

The cab snapped at the bottom of its swinging circle and was swept up by its own momentum 20 feet into the air before it dropped onto the roof of the dodgem, a bumper car ride.

The boys, strapped in, were not thrown out. No one else was on the ride, which consists of two cabs held together by a steel girder.

Kauffman, Hero of Air-Sea War, Found Dead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Retired Rear Adm. Roland Phillip Kauffman, a hero of the bloody battle of Leyte Gulf in World War II, was found dead in the elevator of a hotel early Saturday.

Kauffman, 60, apparently suffered a stroke. He lived at Palm Beach, Fla.

Kauffman was awarded the Silver Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry as executive officer of the carrier Intrepid against the Japanese forces Nov. 25, 1944.

Cardinal Improves

ROME (UPI) — Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, 85-year-old archpriest of St. Peter's, was released Saturday from the clinic where he had undergone an operation for a serious intestinal ailment on Sept. 2. A Vatican source said he appeared to be in "pretty good health."

Bum Resents 50-Cent Gift, Slugs Sailor

A moocher, provoked because he only got 50 cents from a U. S. Navy man, attacked his benefactor, knocking him down a concrete stairway on Chestnut Pl. south of Ocean Blvd.

However, Clifton L. York, 18, of the USS George A. MacKenzie, had the last laugh. York scrambled to his feet, grappled with the goatee-wearing panhandler and tossed him into a nearby fish pond. York then sought a policeman. But when they went to the pond, the moocher was gone.

Reservists Select L.B. for Convention

Long Beach was selected Saturday as the site of the 1961 national conference of the Reserve Officers Assn. of the United States.

The decision was reached by 100 reservists attending a California Department Council meeting in the Lafayette Hotel.

Dr. Charles R. Brantingham of Long Beach, department surgeon, said the conference will be held here the latter part of May, 1961. The 1960 conference is scheduled next year in New York City.

Attending the Long Beach meeting were Capt. John Riner of Lafayette, Calif., department president, and Maj. Gen. (Reserve) Henry Kellog of Los Angeles. Principal speaker was Maj. Gen. Carl Sutherland of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Army Affairs Committee and, in private life, personnel director for the City of Atlanta.

Credit Union Host in New L.B. Building

The Credit Union of General Telephone Co. held open house Saturday in its new $43,000 building at 1510 E. 7th St.

The one-story structure, which contains approximately 2,900 square feet of space, is one of the few in Long Beach area designed solely for a credit union.

Known as the Long Beach Gentelco Federal Credit Union, the group is headed by Joseph R. Kirkpatrick, president, and Ray Baldauf, manager.

It was formed in 1936 with a capitilization of $25. Today, capitalization is $1,100,000. More than 2,500 employes are members of the credit union.

Authorities on Weights to Convene

For security reasons, the guest-speaker at the opening session Wednesday of the California Assn. of Weights and Measures Officials in the Lafayette Hotel will not be identified until he speaks.

Officials of the conference identified him Saturday only as a person from a country behind the Iron Curtain.

"In deference to the speaker and for reasons of security, we have agreed to keep his identity a secret until the time of his appearance," the official program notes.

It said that the speaker will "give us an intimate view of how weights and measures laws are administered there (in his country.)"

ANU Installs Officers for Coming Year

Officers of Capt. A. D. Borden Garrison 139, Army & Navy Union, were installed Friday evening in Veterans Memorial Building with David J. Segal, past national junior vice commander, officiating.

John W. Teed was seated as commander, succeeding Segal, and with him William P. Boland, senior vice commander; Donald Daugaard, junior vice commander; John Knight, judge advocate; Harold Brooke, adjutant-paymaster; Homer Moore, chaplain; George Nicodemus, historian; Charles Craig, officer of the day; Charles E. Williams, patriotic instructor; Segal, service officer, and Harry E. Elliott, public relations officer.

Steel Union Calls Two Conferences

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Maneuvering in the 81-day-old steel strike took on a note of urgency Saturday as negotiators tried to beat possible Taft-Hartley action to get the 500,000 strikers back in the mills.

McDonald

The United Steelworkers summoned its powerful wage policy committee to meet here Monday at 10 a.m.

David J. McDonald president of the USW, also summoned the union's international executive board to meet in an unusual Sunday session at 2 p.m.

Some observers were optimistic over the developments.

But others saw no concrete moves leading to a quick end of the strike which has resulted in the loss of millions of dollars in wages and production.

Ike's Cold Starts to Yield

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—President Eisenhower's nagging cold is beginning to yield to Southern California's warm sunshine and dry climate, his doctor reported Saturday.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician, sent word to newsmen that in his opinion the sunshine and the desert weather generally "has been beneficial to the President's cold."

But Snyder, in a message relayed by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, added that the cold which brought Eisenhower to this resort area for an eight-day stay has not completely disappeared.

Segni Hopes for More Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's premier, Antonio Segni, arrived here Saturday for a two-day visit and voiced hopes for increasingly favorable trade relations between his country and the United States.

Segni

"Italy is especially interested in foreign investments," he declared, "particularly in those enterprises most apt to speed the process of industrialization, above all in southern Italy and the islands."

Segni spoke at an America-Italy Society luncheon after his arrival by plane from Washington. He flies back to Rome tonight.

Nixon Eyes Entry in N. H. Race

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon broke ground Saturday for a giant flood control dam—and perhaps for an entrance into New Hampshire's early presidential primary next March.

His trip to the state was billed as non-political but he was surrounded during the day by some of the state's chief political leaders including Gov. Wesley Powell and U. S. Sens. Styles Bridges and Norris Cotton.

Sen. Cotton told newsmen later he considers Nixon—whom he supports for President—"is running like a startled deer." He said "there is a tremendous undercurrent of support for Nixon."

Bus Wreck Kills 1, Hurts 22

RED BLUFF, Calif. (UPI) — A huge truck-trailer slammed into a Greyhound bus carrying 36 passengers on a lonely two-lane highway south of here Saturday during the early morning darkness.

One woman possenger in the bus was killed and at least 22 other persons were injured. The dead woman was identified as Mrs. Celia Schloemer, 65, Oak Harbor, Wash.

Dock Strike Pact Bleak

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects appeared bleak Saturday for any early settlement of a three-day dock strike that has tied up more than 200 freighters in East and Gulf Coast ports.

Freight piers stood idle from Maine to Texas as employers and longshoremen held fast to their deadlocked positions in a contract dispute. The dispute led some 85,000 workers to walk out Thursday.

Find Drowned Bodies of 30 Soldiers

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The drowned bodies of 30 North Vietnamese soldiers were found in the Nam Ma River when Laotian troops recaptured Xieng Kho village near the North Vietnamese frontier, a Laotian army officer reported Saturday.

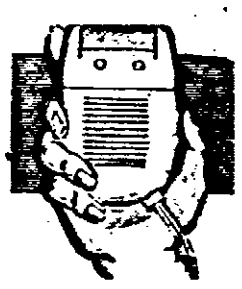

The officer said the Communist troops apparently committed suicide to escape capture and thus provide additional evidence supporting Laotian charges of Red aggression by North Viet Nam.

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

COMES World Series time and long-time residents of these parts inevitably bring up talk about the great magnetic board that showed Long Beach area fans the progress of Series games back in the 'twenties.

Bob Metzger, the harbor public relations man, recalled yesterday that as a kid in a nearby grade school he joined a big throng on a large vacant lot at Seventh and Locust (now the Board of Education property) to watch the Press-Telegram's magic board with its magnetic ball in operation.

"It was marvelous," said Metzger, who doesn't admit it but probably played hookey to watch the ingenious gadget. "Of course it couldn't be simultaneous with every play like radio and TV, but what difference? It seemed mighty fast to us in those days."

THE BIG board presented a diagram of a baseball diamond, on which the Series game was recreated on the basis of reports coming in by Morse telegraph wire to an operator who sat right back of the board.

The operating crew took messages from the telegrapher and then went to work on the board, showing every play. The ball, a hollow steel sphere about the size of a baseball, was moved about on the diamond by means of a magnet from behind the board. There was a bat that swung through the home plate at the proper time, and players were represented by metal discs.

It was a great operation, and a delight to the huge crowds which consumed vast quantities of peanuts, crackerjack and pop and yelled their heads off as the plays were enacted on the board.

THE Press-Telegram and the Optimist Club cooperated in this enterprise, with the newspaper furnishing the board and telegraphic reports and the club handling the concessions.

Over a period of ten years or so, the board was operated at the newspaper building, at Broadway and Atlantic, at the site of the old Virginia Hotel on Ocean Blvd., at Seventh and Locust, and elsewhere.

Crowds ran as high as 10,000, and typical baseball atmosphere prevailed. Shouts and groans greeted every play as the P-T crewmen scurried around back of the board, making things go.

Reporter Charles Fessier wrote in the Oct. 5, 1928, edition of the P-T that "giving an impressionistic account of what was going on before the magnetic scoreboard is akin to giving a blow-by-blow account of a race riot."

They did it up with trimmings. An orchestra played between innings. The mayor made a speech.

TWO fellows who worked on the board crew and are still with us are Wade Maplethorpe and Deane Downer, who remember it all as if it were yesterday. Then youngsters, it was a big time of the year for them when they played the World Series.

Downer, an able ballplayer in his own right, was assigned to run the magnetic ball over the board. Maplethorpe operated the bat by pushing a button.

"Nobody ever batted as often as I did in the World Series," said Wade yesterday.

IT WAS about 1934 when the annual magnet board parties were given up.

"Too many people were around with portable radios, beating us to developments," said Downer. "We used radio ourselves a season or two and were right on the plays. But eventually radio reports made our play-by-play board show unnecessary. It was great while it lasted."

SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY

El Dorado Park Plan Big as All Outdoors

Funded partly by a $4,900,000 bond issue approved in 1956, El Dorado Park is gradually developing in a "big as all outdoors" program which envisions an outlay of about $5,000,000 in a decade. Tentative Long Beach Park Department plans are presented here.

There is something for everybody — for sportsmen, for picnickers, for dancers, riders and prancers. Even animals will have a field of play on the bridle paths and in the wild life sanctuary.

A community building and partly developed playground already serve the neighboring Lakewood Plaza housing area.

Preliminary work is under way on an 18-hole golf course, which will occupy half of the 285-acre tract on the west side of the San Gabriel River Flood Control Channel. A 30-acre section east of the Flood Control has been planted as a tree farm.

* * * *

FEATURES OF the total park development of 885 acres will include:

A 3,000-seat amphitheater.

Four lakes, two of them devoted to boating, swimming and fishing.

A lakeside pavilion for dining and dancing.

Baseball and softball diamonds.

Tennis courts.

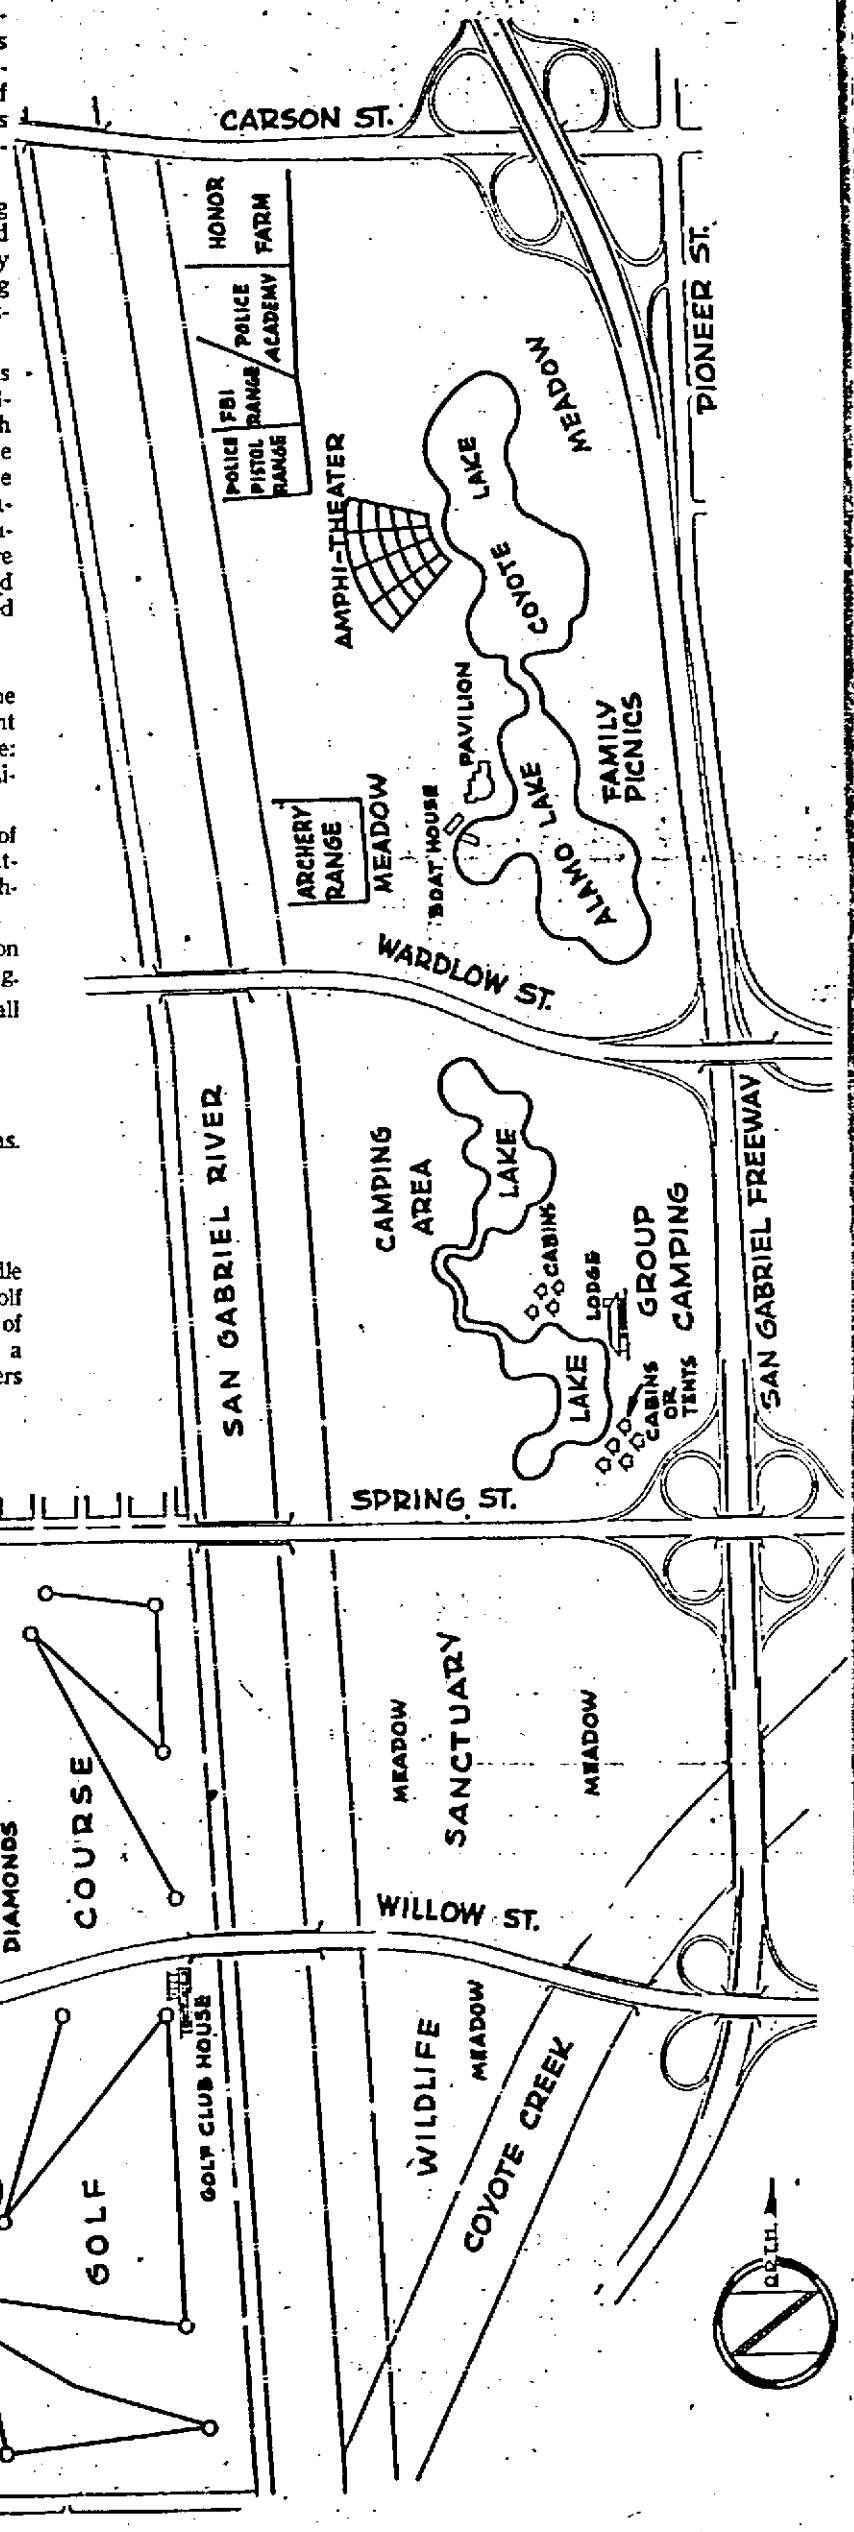

An archery range.

Wooded picnic areas. Camping sites.

A lodge and cabins.

A play meadow.

An eight-mile bridle trail will skirt the golf course and portions of the picnic areas, with a rancho as headquarters for the riders.

City Fathers Eye Project for Shoppers

By GEORGE WEEKS

The idea of a downtown Long Beach mall—a leafy park replacing Pine Ave.'s traffic jumble—is advancing gradually in official and unofficial agencies.

Nothing decisive will be done for months, and probably not for years. But there are these indications that the proposal is getting serious consideration:

1. The City Planning Department has just embarked on a six-month study of the downtown area, with emphasis on economic trends and present and future land use.

* * * *

2. OFFICERS OF DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH ASSOCIATES said they have been interested in the concept for years—and will continue to be if agreement can be reached on a practical plan.

3. City Traffic Engineer Robert D. Dier made a special trip while in the midwest to view an experimental shopping mall in Toledo, Ohio. He reported: "It is conceivable such a mall would be a part of the long-range plan for Long Beach."

4. City Manager Sam E. Vickers agreed, commenting: "We are coming to something of the kind eventually, when we have solved some of our more pressing parking and traffic problems. But the impetus must come from outside the city hall.

Planning Director Werner Ruchti and his staff said the object of their study is to try to "find out what is the future of the central business district."

* * * *

THEY EXPECT TO LOOK ahead 20 years to transitions in parking, traffic and use of land, with a downtown mall as one possibility.

Vito Romans, general manager of Downtown Long Beach Associates, noted that the business group has been appraising such an experiment for at least four years. Among those interested is the association's new president, Leo Shultz.

"Our Good Old Days and Fiesta Days could be considered steps in that direction," said Romans. "So is our program for the planting of trees in the business district."

* * * *

DIER REPORTED that the Toledo experiment has attracted nationwide attention. The trial mall was installed and is still in operation along two parallel streets in the main shopping section.

"Special curbs were constructed within the pavement area, in curved, pleasing patterns," Dier said. The area within the curbs was filled with dirt and planted with grass, flowers, potted trees.

"There are running fountains, flagstone walks, statues and other interesting arrangements. Scattered along the street are seats for weary shoppers. These were much in use.

"The landscaped areas are provided with special lighting for night. Loudspeakers along the street play soft music much as you find in shopping centers. A fenced-in play area is provided for children in one block. This area has slides, sand boxes, swings and landscaping."

* * * *

THE TRAFFIC EXPERT listed six goals that must precede the installation of a successful, permanent mall:

1. Freeways from outlying areas.

2. A circumferential freeway system surrounding the downtown area.

3. Good access facilities from this system.

4. Offstreet parking facilities of the garage type, surrounding the business district and convenient to shoppers.

5. Provision for serving businesses, such as underground tunnels, conveyer belts or the like.

6. Improved mass transportation.

ANTI-FLAME QUEEN

Miss Fire Prevention for Long Beach and environs is blonde Rita Reinertson, 17, who looks as though she might fan a flame in male hearts. — (Staff.)

WAR ON SMOKE

Fire Prevention Stoked by Blonde

Long Beach's fire prevention people have told fiery tradition to go to the blazes—all for a pretty blonde.

Since caveman hovered over his first fire, these basic rules have reigned over fire prevention doings:

1. Fire engines must be red.

2. The hair of fire prevention beauty queens must be red.

But this year blonde Rita Reinertson, 17, was picked as Miss Fire Prevention. "And I won't dye my hair red just for tradition," insisted Rita. She fears red dye would spoil a career as a model and clash with her blue eyes, said William C. Boyd, spokesman for a panel that selected her.

LONG BEACH BURNED UP tradition once before. Deputy Chief William M. McGree admitted that the Long Beach Fire Department had some white fire engines more than 35 years ago.

Miss Reinertson, who measures 36-22-36, is a Wilson High student and a part-time fashion model. She and her blonde tresses will appear before civic groups here this week in behalf of National Fire Prevention Week.

Meantime, the Chamber of Commerce, Insurance Assn., Safety Council and Fire Department have arranged for second and third grade school children to take home fire prevention educational materials this week.

THE CHAMBER also surveyed 597 industries, 650 commercial firms and 206 churches on fire prevention activities.

The big reason why a year-around fire prevention program is conducted in Long Beach: fires here last year killed 7 persons, injured 53 others and caused $728,057 damage. There were 1,900 fires here in 1958.

Nationally, the fire death toll averages 11,602 persons a year. In 1958, fire killed 3,100 persons over the age of 64—giving senior citizens the highest fire death rate of any age group. Children (4 and younger) were next with 2,350 victims.

Chest Organizes New Teams for Drive at Service Stations

A new section of volunteers who will visit service stations in the Community Chest campaign was announced Saturday by Henry H. Clock, driver leader.

Maurice Hubbell, secretary-treasurer of Lomita Gasoline Co. will head a special team contacting 300 service stations as a section of Wilbur B. Harrison's oil division. The section campaign starts Monday.

With a quota of $34,500 of the total $982,154 campaign goal, oil division workers are busy with in-plant drives of firms with more than seven employes. Group leaders are R. N. Chace, Richfield Oil Co.; H. T. Romine, Pacific Valves; Cornell Ramsey, Long Beach Oil Development; W. T. Westergard, Signal Hill Electric Co., and Edward Stokes, Richfield.

Calling on smaller oil firms will be Howard Ahlborn, Martin-Decker Corp.; Robert Thompson, Servco Corp.; Robert Cree, Cree Oil Co., and Elliott Thompson, A. R. Merritt Insurance Co.

Burning Issue of the Hour Discussed

LET OUR WASHINGTON pundits talk about Khrushchev. We intend to talk about the burning issue of the hour.

Baseball.

This is written in advance of the Sunday game of the current World Series between the Chicago White Sox and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But we need no knowledge of Sunday's game to say this much:

Win or lose, the Los Angeles Dodgers of 1959 have been one of the most exasperating and admirable major league teams in baseball history.

Exasperating because they do everything the hard way.

Admirable because they play ball right down to the last strike, whether the stands are full of cheering crowds or occupied by nothing but the evening shadows.

AND WE MIGHT ADD THAT it has not been often that the stands have been thinly populated with the Dodgers in town.

The folks come out to see how in the world they do it.

They do it with (o. k., so it sounds corny) spirit.

Let's take this series, for example.

The Sox started it off with a humiliating 11-0 slaughter of the Dodgers. But the Dodgers didn't feel humiliated. They didn't even appear discouraged.

Any other team taking such a beating would probably have concluded that it was outclassed.

To the Dodgers the 11-0 defeat was no more damaging than a 1-0 loss.

They came right back the next day to win 4-3. The victory was by 10 points less than the Sox victory of the preceding day—but just as conclusive.

THE DODGERS DON'T KNOW when they're outclassed.

This ignorance brought them through the strangest season of National League history and left them standing at the top of a startled heap of teams that seemed in the beginning better suited and more likely to wear the crown.

And it probably will bring them victoriously through the series.

But whether they win it or not, you can be sure of this much:

They played baseball every inning.

Nikita Didn't Know Distance to Peiping

By WALTER T. RIDDER
Washington Bureau Chief

WASHINGTON—While waiting for Prime Minister Nikita S. Khrushchev's press conference to start last Sunday afternoon, several of us were talking to him in the East Lounge of the National Press Club. This reporter expressed amazement that Khrushchev had so well endured the rigors of his transcontinental trip that he looked considerably better than some of us who had survived that prolonged circus.

"I don't know why you people are so tired," Khrushchev commented. "After all, take my case. The day after I get home I have to go to another city."

"How far is it from Moscow to Peiping?" the reporter asked.

Khrushchev looked utterly blank. He looked around the group surrounding him and suddenly shouted: "Gromyko," meaning Andrei Gromyko, the Russian foreign minister. He posed the question to Gromyko who looked equally blank and in turn roared for one of his assistants who couldn't answer the question either.

We never did get the answer from the Russian entourage, but in case you're interested the answer is 3,5505 miles.

• • • •

WE determined during our travels with Mr. K that he is not averse to being elected President of the United States. We reported to him that a group of American newspapermen had called him "a consummate politician" and they had expressed the thought that if either the Democratic or Republican parties could capture him, they would have a most formidable candidate.

Khrushchev smiled upon hearing the words and answered promptly: "Well, let's have a go at it."

• • • •

RELATIONS between the Russian and American reporters during the K trip varied with the political climate. At first all was friendliness and fraternization was the order of the day. When things began to go sour, however, the temperature in the press section began to get chilly and after the Los Angeles blow-off, the Russians held to themselves and the westerners went their way. When the sun began again to shine, the ice melted and by the end of the trip everyone was getting along fine.

• • • •

INSIDERS credit Henry Cabot Lodge, the President's personal representative on the Khrushchev tour, with doing a fine job in mollifying the overwrought Russian when he was threatening to go home. Lodge, it is said, finally convinced Khrushchev that all the things which went wrong on the trip were not the result of a deliberate State Department plot, but were just human errors, misjudgments, and the kind of foul-ups which inevitably happen on a trip of that nature. The job was difficult, but Lodge pulled it off and saved the journey from being utterly calamitous.

• • • •

DESPITE the physical beating taken by the reporters on the Khrushchev circuit (they got back to Washington in varying states of physical exhaustion, varying from complete collapse to only partial paralysis), the almost unanimous verdict of those accompanied the tour is: "Greatest news story I ever covered."

• • • •

IT'S NICE to see things in a child's perspective. When this reporter came home from the K trip, his youngest daughter asked him inaccurately although flatteringly: "Daddy, was Khrushchev on that trip with you?"

With Nothing to Lose and Everything to Gain

DAVID LAWRENCE

Commie Boss Gushes Words but Who Will Believe Them?

WASHINGTON—Words, words, words—many thousands of them now have been poured forth by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as an assurance to the world of his peaceful intentions. But who will believe them? What has he done to make people trust him?

The French Minister of Foreign Affairs, Maurice Couve de Murville, has just put his finger on the "key word," and that's "trust."

LAWRENCE

In a speech in New York before the General Assembly of the United Nations, the French statesman has exposed the trickery and duplicity of the disarmament proposal made by Mr. Khrushchev so dramatically before the United Nations. The French Foreign Minister says:

"The other day we heard Mr. Khrushchev explain his own position forcefully. The Soviet Union, as I understand it, accepts the idea of controls (on disarmament), but envisages that these will not be set up, or at least will not actually function, until after the agreed measures of disarmament have already been implemented (put into effect).

"We believe on the contrary that one cannot dissociate the actul process of disarmament from the setting up of controls. The latter guarantees the former and consequently conditions it. Moreover, lacking real controls, the vitally necessary trust would be utterly lacking.

"I purposely use the word trust, for it is the key word. The problem of disarmament has certain technical aspects and those are important. But basically it is a political problem."

• • • •

WHAT ALL this means is that the Soviet government wants a stage-by-stage formula, including a withdrawal of American forces from Europe, a transfer of all atomic weapons from Europe and perhaps their destruction before any control measures are set up to determine whether the Soviet government is complying with the corresponding pledges it will have been asked to make under the disarmament agreement.

Mr. Khrushchev either is naive or purposely feigned innocence as he asked in his TV speech last Sunday to the American people:

"Have you ever pondered over this question? If we are not planning to fight, whatever for do you or we need all these armaments for?"

• • • •

THE TRUTH is nobody knows what the Soviets are really planning because the world has seen them break pledge after pledge.

The Soviets openly admitted that they furnished arms and ammunition that were used by the North Korean armies to fight the United Nations forces which were sent to Korea to repel Communist aggression in 1950.

Likewise, the Soviet government has instigated revolts in Southeast Asia and in the Middle East and has infiltrated many countries around the world. Yet Mr. Khrushchev, in his TV address last Sunday, said that "the principle of noninterference by countries in each other's domestic affairs should be strictly adhered to."

The record is plain. The question now is whether the Soviet chief can expect by a few speeches to erase the past altogether and to receive trust where no basis for it has ever been established.

DREW PEARSON

Baby-Kissing Won Dictator at Least One Friend in U.S.

WASHINGTON—There were some interesting aftermaths to the Khrushchev visit in Iowa. Nikita Khrushchev won some friends he didn't know about. One of them was the partner of Roswell Garst. Though the partner hasn't been in the headlines, one part of the successful Garst corn combination is Charles Thomas of the Garst & Thomas Seed Co.

Inside fact is that Charlie Thomas has been very much opposed to selling seed corn to the Russians. He has even opposed having any Russians come to Coon Rapids.

Pearson

"I don't want any Russians brought into this office," he has complained. "We're selling seed corn to the folks in Iowa."

So, whenever delegations from behind the Iron Curtain came to see Garst in Coon Rapids, Charlie Thomas simply got up and left.

After Premier Khrushchev and his smile came to Coon Rapids, however, it was different. One day, after he had departed, Charlie Thomas was talking about the visit to a newspaperman. Pulling a photograph out of his pocket he showed a picture of Khrushchev holding up a little girl.

"That," said Charlie Thomas proudly, "is my granddaughter."

• • • •

INSIDE fact is that it was Vice President Nixon who had much more to do with delaying the President's visit to Moscow until next spring than the Eisenhower grandchildren.

And thereby is revealed the fact that the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange has been assayed politically and generally found vote-productive. It also means that the GOP will run in 1960 on a platform of peace.

Originally is was planned that President Eisenhower would go to Moscow this fall, probably in October. But now he will go in the late spring, almost the summer. He will get back a few weeks before the Republican National Convention, and with the certain plaudits of the Russian people ringing in political ears, it should be fairly easy to make peace the overriding battle cry of the election.

• • • •

THE VICE President, who is studying 1960 strategy as carefully as Russian scientists aimed for the moon, has had his ups and downs regarding the wisdom of embracing Russia. He has been pulled both ways by his advisers. But he has finally decided that it will win votes.

His hesitation is significant. It was influenced by the crosscurrents inside the Democrat party, with many Democrat politicians betting that the Khrushchev visit would boomerang against the Republicans.

Nixon is now betting that they will be disappointed.

DORIS FLEESON

Nikita's Visit Made 'Peace' Big Issue of 1960 Campaign

WASHINGTON—Presidential politics was sidetracked by the Khrushchev visit, and the camps of all the candidates admit to feeling that what their hero does or says now is probably irrelevant to the main issue of 1960. That issue is peace, and the form it will take is only partly within the control of Americans, including the President.

Even before the historic events of September, party organizations and ambitious political leaders did not see their way clearly in the first wide-open presidential nominating conventions in years. Their reluctance to commit themselves is now intensified.

FLEESON

This is particularly true in the big states where elections are won and lost. Their controlling politicians are unsure of the effect of the new Eisenhower policies on their ethnic and minority groups, their church people and their white-collar voters.

Every one of these states is holding back. In Troy, N. Y., last week, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, a powerful voice in Illinois politics, predicted a dark horse, "perhaps a president of one of our great universities," might win the Democratic nomination rather than any present contender. Having scanned the list of presidents of universities without encountering any eye-catching possibilities, the pros here believe Daley was simply playing it safe.

Some surprise was expressed that Daley did not add at least one kind word for Sen. John Kennedy to whom he was thought to be friendly. The mayor himself refused to elaborate.

Possibly Adlai Stevenson has been helped by the present trend of foreign policy. At the very least, he is a prophet now with honor in his own country, for the Eisenhower pattern clearly repeats what he has proposed and discussed in his campaigns and other writing and speeches. His reactions were eagerly sought amid the stormy proceedings at the Garst farm in Iowa where he was the other guest of honor and, in important instances, were made the lead story of that day.

He has not made an irrevocable disclaimer of interest; his close friends still stress his availability. But many pros also still stress their belief that he cannot be re-elected even if he is renominated.

Sens. Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey are doggedly touring the Midwest, with no apparent break for or against either one of them. Each seems to feel he will be helped if he can eliminate the other by a decisive victory in the Wisconsin primary.

• • • •

EVEN THIS seems hardly enough if the big states hold out. Sen. Estes Kefauver took the primary route in 1952 and entered the convention with 350 delegates but failed to make the grade. The big states also help to create what is a vicious circle for present contenders. The smaller states seem less and less willing to take a chance as they perceive that the nomination may go into bargaining sessions. Maryland, for example, is increasingly coy about its choice.

• • • •

REPUBLICANS, for their part, have a job ahead in the way of promoting unity on the new Eisenhower direction. The President has reversed himself with wonderful ease and grace, but there are many mutterings behind the scenes, especially among Midwest Republicans. The Nixon-Rockefeller contest still looms as well, with no make-or-break developments in sight.

Takes Issue With Supervisor Bonelli

EDITOR:

Re your editorial about Supervisor Bonelli's plan to reapportion the State Senate:

1. There are 40 Senate seats, 58 counties in California.

2. The basis for our state governments is the same as our national—a two-house legislature, one house based on population, the other on equal representation where size is not the primary factor.

3. Not so long ago the Supervisors spent an amount of taxpayers money on survey to see what could be done for L.A. County government. The results were neatly filed in the wastepaper basket.

4. If Mr. Bonelli would spend the time on the affairs of L.A. County he is spending on the reapportionment issue, perhaps the affairs of this county would be on a more even balance.

5. The argument that the North is being unfair to the South and hindering its progress is rather doubtful in the face of certain facts.

• • • •

A WATER BILL was passed by the last legislature of the $7 million apportioned in August from the highway users taxes $2,247,903.28 was allocated to this county, a southern county.

The argument that because this county has more people than Ventura county or Mono-Inyo Alpine counties and thereby should have more of a voice in the Senate overlooks the fact that the Assembly is based on population.

Perhaps we should reapportion the U.S. Senate because L.A. County after all has more population than the states of North and South Dakota. Mr. Bonelli sounds like a little boy who will not play marbles unless you play by his rules.

Bouquet for DMV Manager

EDITOR:

Congratulations to the State Department of Motor Vehicles! And bouquets to Manager Howard R. Link of the Long Beach office who placed the special problems of electric car owners of Long Beach before the director.

It is recognized that the written examination questions do not all apply to electric cars and careful consideration is given to the qualification of drivers, as well as language difficulties in reading and interpreting the questions. Fees are determined as of the time of registration.

• • • •

MY PERSONAL opinion is that with the growing use of these vehicles, the written examinations should contain ONLY such questions as an electric car driver needs to know for the safe operation of his vehicle in the limited area in which he CAN operate. This would minimize the frustration of trying to answer questions completely foreign to actual experience.

Poulson Had No Right to Speak

EDITOR:

The objection to Mayor Poulson's remarks to Mr. K in reference to the much publicized "burying" comment is objective rather than subjective.

Ostensibly Mr. K visited our shores for the purpose of exploring with President Eisenhower possible new channels for raising the level of world peace.

• • • •

TO PROVIDE Mr. K with the most intelligent approach possible for these interviews it was decided that he should make a short trip around our country. This trip should have given Mr. K an insight into the thinking processes, life and environment of this free nation.

By every possible concept it was the responsibility of local authorities to make this picture as honest and all-inclusive as time permitted.

There was no provision intended that any local authority was to publicly question the policies of communism nor were they to endeavor to compare or contrast our philosophy or way of life with Russia.

• • • •

THE MOST effective advantage that we could gain from Mr. K's visit would come from his own private evaluation of what we already have as against what he had promised his own people.

Mayor Poulson's effort to engage in a public controversy on a subject and at a time that he had absolutely no right to express an opinion, either official or personal, endangered any possible benefit that could be derived from Mr. K's visit.

The mayor's job was to sell our story, not to unsell communism. He failed dismally in both cases.

Chisox Just Don't Scare You--Dodgers

By GEORGE LEDERER

The circus is here—two three-ring shows within a tightrope traffic jam of each other.

For baseball fans, 92,000 lucky ticket holders and millions of shutouts who will have to watch on TV, the greatest show on earth will be in the Coliseum. For the kiddies, three years and younger, the circus is at the Sports Arena, across the street.

Featured at the Coliseum are the Dodgers and White Sox, tied at one game and several insults apiece in their battle for the largest checks ever to come out of a World Series.

The Dodgers, convinced that the White Sox aren't in a class with the top National League clubs, are looking forward to wrapping up the series without a return trip to Chicago. And the oddsmakers, apparently convinced that the Dodgers know whereof they speak, have made them 13-10 favorites to win today's game and 11-10 to take the Series.

Game time this afternoon is 1 o'clock, and not a ticket can be purchased unless you'd like to take a second mortgage on your home. For those who already have a second, channels 11 and 4 will carry the action.

While each club planned to take only a few rounds of batting practice Saturday, it didn't work out that way. Both got in some verbal licks as well.

Listen to George Lederer's report of today's game over KIEV (860) at 4:30 p. m.

"This team doesn't scare you when you play the Braves, Giants and Pirates all year," said infielder Don Zimmer as the Dodgers took the field first. Third baseman Junior Gilliam added the Cubs and Reds to Zimmer's list. And Johnny Podres, the winning pitcher Friday, added, "the White Sox definitely aren't as good as the Braves or Giants. They sure don't have the power."

Even the conservative Walter Alston agreed that "over-all, the White Sox aren't as good as the Braves or Giants."

The White Sox were quick to retaliate when they inspected the Coliseum for the first time at 3 p. m.

"We'll give 'em our answer on the ball field," said outfielder Al Smith.

Jungle Jim Rivera reminded the Dodgers that they won the pennant on an error. "How come they didn't blast us after losing the first game? Ask 'em if they ever got beat 11-0 by a fourth rate club in their league. We won the pennant against the best clubs in ours. They won on an error."

Early Wynn, who pitched seven innings of the opener before his elbow tightened, was equally bitter and sarcastic. "Just tell 'em the minor leaguers are happy to be playing a big league club. But tell 'em that time will tell which is which."

Don Drysdale, claiming "I'm about due for a good one," is scheduled to pitch for the Dodgers against Dick Donovan this afternoon.

For Drysdale, a 17-game winner but a loser in seven of his last nine decisions, this will be his first World Series start. He relieved in the 1956 Series against the Yankees "when Hank Bauer picked on me to start his home run streak."

Drysdale loosened up for 15 minutes in the bullpen Friday and reported he was throwing better than he had in a month. "I concentrated on keeping my arm up and my fast ball was sinking again. I also was able to break off some good curves."

Screen Would Make Slugger Out of Me--Fox

By NELLIE FOX
Chicago Second Baseman

I was out at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon and took another look at that left field screen. I saw it when I was here for the second All-Star game and I've been thinking ever since that maybe it was just a dream.

But the screen is still there—250 feet away from the plate. I paced it off myself and I think maybe I'm going to start shooting for Babe Ruth's home run record. I average about 2 or 3 homers a year but maybe here I could pop 40 or 50 over that fence.

It still surprises me that major league baseball games, for two years now, have been played here and that there haven't been more squawks. It just seems ridiculous to play a regulation game in a park where the left field fence is only 250 feet from the plate.

I hope that Walter O'Malley and the Dodgers have their ball park in Chavez Ravine soon and when they build it, I hope, too, that it's a perfectly symmetrical field constructed on the order of Comiskey Park in Chicago—about 350-355 feet down the lines, 385 to right and left center and about 400-420 to dead center.

• • • •

THAT'S THE IDEAL measurements for a ball park, even though sometimes I wish the fences were in closer so I could pop one out once in a while. But even so, I'm not a slugger and I don't believe in getting cheap doubles and homers in a freak ball park.

Major league baseball is probably the only big-time sport where the playing field differs according to the location. All the other sports I can think of—football, basketball, tennis, hockey and even lacrosse—have standardized playing fields.

As a result each team in the majors must tailor its personnel to fit its park. For example, the left field wall in Boston is also very short so the Red Sox try to load up with right-handed sluggers and in Detroit the right field fence is pretty close so the Tigers are always looking for left-handed hitters.

Even the White Sox ball club has been put together with an eye on the park dimensions. It's impossible to get a cheap homer in Comiskey Park. It's a park that just defies home run sluggers and so the Sox have had few home run champs down through the years.

• • • •

INSTEAD THE TEAM is built so that everyone can carry a glove and play good defensive ball. It's the same way in Baltimore. The Orioles have a big park and I'm sure that my old friend Paul Richards will admit now that the first prerequisite for such a park is a couple of fast outfielders.

This idea of standardized ball parks would also be a great equalizer so far as the records are concerned. For instance, every time I go into Fenway Park and realize that it's about 385 to right center I wonder and ask myself how Ted Williams has been able to hit so many home runs.

If Williams played in Detroit, where the fence is about 325 feet, he probably would have broken Ruth's record of 60 homers in one year. Mike Higgins, who recently resigned as the Red Sox manager, once said Williams would have been able to hit 70-75 homers if he had played there when he was in his prime.

But getting back to the Coliseum. The short left field fence poses a problem. Especially for left-handed pitchers. They tell me only two southpaws have pitched and went complete games in the Coliseum in the last two seasons.

I'm in agreement with our manager Al Lopez who says a good pitcher can work in any park. Lopez was telling us only the other day that Grover Cleveland Alexander, a right-hander, pitched 11 shutouts in the Baker Bowl in 1915 even though the right field fence was only 286 feet from the plate.

Here's Thumbnail Sketch of Dodger World Series Foe

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

What kind of men are these Chicago White Sox, whom our Dodgers will meet before our very eyes in the third, fourth and fifth games of the World Series, starting today in the Coliseum?

To familiarize you with the Chisox personnel, here's a thumbnail sketch on the key players:

PITCHERS

Early Wynn — You saw what the staff ace did to the Dodgers Thursday. A clever veteran, he throws every pitch in the book and seldom gives batter a good pitch.

Bob Shaw—Young surprise of the staff, whose bread-and-butter pitch is a low, sinking fast ball. Lost a heartbreaker to Dodgers Friday, though.

Dick Donovan — Known as "slider crazy," he has good fast ball and curve. Had disappointing season because he depended too much on the slider, his "nickel curve."

Billy Pierce — Veteran ex-fastballing southpaw, he now relies mainly on good curve, changeup and control.

Gerry Staley — Short stint reliever, who utilizes good screwball and outstanding control.

Turk Lown—Also a bullpen workhorse with tremendous speed. Like Staley, he's used mostly for short relief jobs.

Ray Moore — Great curveball reliever, used mostly for "long" stints.

Barry Latman — Youngster has great sidearm fast ball like Don Drysdale. Developed fast this season.

CATCHERS

Sherm Lollar—Power-hitter and known as best catcher in league handling pitchers. Been key to club's success.

John Romano—Good fast-ball hitter with fine mechanical ability behind plate.

Earl Battey — Seen little service, but an excellent receiver with some power.

INFIELDERS

Ted Kluszewski (1b)—Outstanding power pull-hitter who murders the fast ball, but is weak on slow curves and changeups. Good glove man despite size.

Earl Torgeson (1b) — Like Dodgers' Jim Gilliam, he utilizes sharp eye at plate. Weak on curves also, but good glove man.

Nellie Fox (2b)—Outstanding glove man and scatter hitter. Excellent bunter who rarely makes error or strikes out. Team's sparkplug.

Luis Aparicio (ss) — Absolutely murder on the basepaths—he stole 56 bases during season—and a sensational glove man. Good hitter, too, who drives pitcher daffy with both good "eye" at plate and ability to steal.

Billy Goodman (3b) — Another excellent spray hitter and outstanding at stealing other team's signs. Covers little ground, but rarely makes error.

Bubba Phillips (3b)—Great defensive player, who can bunt well and can give the fast ball a long ride. Weak on curves, though.

Sam Esposito (utility)—Fine fielder, but weak batter. Used mostly in late innings for defense.

OUTFIELDERS

Al Smith (lf)—Drives in the "big" runs. Good fastball hitter with good arm. Covers position well.

Jim Landis (cf)—Best defensive centerfielder in league—has tremendous arm and excellent range. Improving as hitter, as his three hits opening day will attest.

Jim McAnany (rf)—Still developing, but swift on bases and good in field. Hasn't learned how to hit curve and slow stuff yet.

Jim Rivera (rf) — Another swiftie on bases and one of Sox' top hustlers. Can't hit fastball anymore, but handles curves and changeups well.

These are the men we'll see for the next three days—and maybe in another TV game or two from Chicago!

MY DODGERS ARE CINCH--CAMPANELLA

Roy Campanella, paralyzed Dodger catcher, Saturday boldly predicted his club would defeat the Chicago White Sox and take baseball's world championship.

"I've watched the American League teams play and talked to the players on my New York radio show all season," Campanella said. "And I think my Dodger boys are a cinch. They showed just a flash of what they are capable of doing Friday in the second game."

4 TD PASSES BY TONCIC

Bruins Ambushed by Panther Rally, 25-21

By JEROME HALL

PITTSBURGH—Br'er Bruin was ambushed at Allegheny Pass Saturday, beaten 25-21 by a badgered and berated bunch of Pittsburgh U. Panthers, who staged a whirlwind finish that had the Uclans dizzy watching the pass receivers whiz past.

The howling citizenry here, numbering 30,683, spurred the Pitt players to far, far better things than they have ever done before this season and UCLA was simply overrun by raw enthusiasm in the homeland of world-famed Slippery Rock Normal.

A lad named Ivan Toncic, who rammed the football down the throats of the Bruins in the Coliseum last season, picked himself up off the seat of his pants in the second half and led a fierce aerial onslaught that overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit.

Toncic, so weary at the end he had to be helped off the field, completed the smashing comeback with a pair of long passes that must be called desperation heaves. The capper came just 37 seconds before the final gun.

The Panthers scored two touchdowns in the last three minutes of the game; and three in the final six minutes.

All four Pitt scores came on Toncic passes as he completed 15 of 28—12 of them in the second half. He accounted for 247 yards through the air, and the Pitt offense, which was held to nearly nothing by SC last week (the Trojans won, 23-0) rolled up 384 yards against what had been considered a "typically great UCLA defense."

The first half was controled by UCLA, but after intermission it was all Pittsburgh. The Bruins passed for two scores in the second period and drove 77 yards early in the fourth quarter for a 21-6 lead that appeared completely safe.

The winning drive was a stirring Toncic composition. After he had thrown a 49-yard TD pass to end Mike Ditka with 3:15 left on the clock to close to 18-21, he got the ball back with 1:56 left. The goal line was 64 yards distant.

With a fourth and nine on his own 37, he threw to end Steve Jastrzembski on the UCLA 16 for a gain of 47 yards. There were 49 seconds left. He threw two incomplete passes. On third down he hit Jastrzembski in the open on the goal line with 37 seconds remaining and that was the old ball game.

The Bruins fooled around with their straight single wing through the opening quarter and were forced to punt three times. They opened the second quarter with another punt but then swung into high gear with W formation and some passes.

The Uclans moved from midfield to the nine on a series of Bill Kilmer completions, but the drive was stopped there. On Pitt's first down, Ivory Jones smashed into Andy Sepsi and Jim Johnson recovered the bounding ball at the 18.

After a gain of two and loss of 10, Kilmer fired a pass up the middle to Marv Luster, who was behind the defender. It was a peculiar play in that Kilmer had to delay it to wave Luster out to his split end spot in the W formation. The play covered 26 yards.

Another Pitt mistake set up UCLA's second touchdown. End Trusse Norris intercepted a Toncic pass at the Pitt 40 and returned it to the 33.

On first down wingback Gene Gaines took a reverse and swung wide. Luster broke straight up field. Everybody in the stands saw the play developing except the two Pitt deep men who let Luster run right between them; the pass was perfect. Luster reached high and took it a step behind the goal line.

The Panthers came back from the intermission with a tremendous bounce. They took the second half kickoff 65 yards in 14 plays for a TD.

Toncic mixed his plays well and the middle of the Panther line did a good job on the Bruins. The touchdown came from the nine and it was a perfectly executed play. End Ron Delfine made a diving catch to the outside in the deep corner of the end zone.

How They Scored

SECOND PERIOD

UCLA 7, Pitt 6—Kilmer passed 26 yards to Luster. Drive started on Pitt 19 after fumble recovery. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 8:14.

UCLA 14, Pitt 6—Gaines passed 33 yards to Luster. Drive started on Pitt 33 after pass intercepton. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 13:21.

THIRD PERIOD

UCLA 14, Pitt 6—Toncic passed nine yards to Delfine. Drive of 65 yards, 14 plays. Conversion—Pass failed. Time: 3:47.

FOURTH PERIOD

UCLA 21, Pitt 6—Ray Smith plunged one yard. Drive 77 yards, 9 plays. Jones kicked PAT. Time: 5:02.

UCLA 21, Pitt 12—Toncic passed 9 yards to Cox. Drive 69 yards, 11 plays. Conversion—Toncic pass incomplete. Time: 9:19.

UCLA 21, Pitt 18—Toncic passed to Ditka 49 yards. Drive 55 yards, 3 plays. Conversion—Pass failed. Time: 11:45.

UCLA 21, Pitt 25—Toncic passed 16 yards to Jastrzembski. Drive 64 yards, 7 plays. Cox kicked PAT. Time: 8:37.

WILL THEY REPEAT THIS PERFORMANCE TODAY?

Walter Alston, Dodger manager, and his baby-faced pitcher, Don Drysdale, were all smiles when this photo was taken on April 23, 1956, the day the then-Brooklyn hurler won his first major league game. Drysdale, 19 then, received a smile and pat on the head from Alston after defeating Philadelphit, 6-1, in his debut. Both Alston and Drysdale hope they'll be able to repeat their smiling performances after today's game, for Drysdale will hurl in the first World Series tilt to be played in the Coliseum.

Chisox Boss Wrong Twice

"This is the only place in the world," observed Bill Veeck Saturday as he surveyed the Coliseum and its surrounding area, "where two circuses are going on at one time. You people in California really know how to do things big."

The ringmaster of the Chisox circus was referring to the Barnum and Bailey extravaganza which was holding forth in the beautiful Sports Arena adjacent to the Coliseum and also to the Dodger-Sox carnival due to take the spotlight this afternoon.

Knowing Veeck's flair for the unusual—he's the chap who hired a three-foot midget to bat for the old St. Louis Browns and also the character who staged a 12-cow milking contest at Chicago's Comiskey Park earlier this season—a person wondered if Veeck might even be contemplating asking Walter O'Malley to bring the circus into the Coliseum as a pre-game attraction today.

BILL VEECK
Circus Starts Today

Veeck won't need a circus today, Monday or Tuesday because the joint's sold out lock, stock and barrel. (The ambitious Dodger ticket people even sold a few hundred of O'Malley's personal ducats while the Dodger boss was in Chicago the past few days!)

"I figured you people would get 75,000 for Sunday's opener," said the world's best-known sportshirt advocate, "but no more than 55,000 for the next two. I guess I guess wrong sometimes."

The Sportshirt guessed wrong earlier this season, too, when he wrote in a national magazine, "I hate to admit this, but we can't beat the Yankees."

Alongside Veeck Saturday was the man who proved his boss a liar, field manager Al Lopez.

"Bill's like Cleveland's Frank Lane," laughed Lopez. "He says things just to hear himself talk."

"A crack like that could cost you your job, senor," snapped Veeck, a well-known hated foe of Frank the Trader. Actually, the only two people in baseball today who might fire a pennant-winning manager would be eccentric Lane or Veeck!

LOPEZ RATED outfielder Jim Landis and pitcher Bob Shaw as the two big reasons the Chisox won the American League pennant.

"Landis gave us our big lift when he developed overnight into a top centerfielder," declared Lopez, "while Shaw was our most pleasant surprise. Landis is the best centerfielder in baseball today—he can run, field and throw, then soon will be a .300 hitter."

Landis is a .300 hitter now, judging from his three-hit performance against the Dodgers Thursday.

"Shaw pitched good ball even though he lost to the Dodgers Friday," continued Lopez. "He gave me the added starter I needed to win the pennant—and I almost considered shipping him to the minors last March. My Lord, if I'd made that decision I'd be watching the series in front of my TV set right now."

I UNDERSTAND Shaw's emergence as one brilliant starter came when he changed this season from a talky, cocky kid to one who now keeps his own counsel. The man who changed Shaw was his roomie, wise old Early Wynn, who told the youngster "to keep your mouth shut or get out of baseball."

Shaw started out with Detroit, which wouldn't have come out so badly giving him up if only it had hung on to the kid it got for him—Tito Francona, Cleveland's sensation this year!

VIGNETTE OF LIFE: A half dozen years ago, when Chico Carrasquel was a national hero in Venezuela, he used to come home from his chores with the White Sox to make appearances at ball parks. Every time he showed up in Maracaibo, a little olive-skinned kid was outside the park with paper and pencil in hand, waiting for Chico's autograph.

The kid? Luis Aparicio, as big now as Chico ever was in Venezuela—and the man who drove Carrasquel off the White Sox!

Illinois Surprises Army 20-14

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois came up with its own version of the lonely end formation made famous by Army to upset the fourth-ranked Cadets, 20-14, Saturday before a thundering crowd of 64,891.

	Ill.	Army
First downs	20	18
Rushing yardage	173	71
Passing yardage	128	187
Passes	9-15	17-31
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3-31.3	3-37.7
Fumbles lost	2	4
Yards penalized	35	0

Illinois surprised Army with its new formation. The Illini would send a right end to the left side of the line, about 10-15 yards wide, thereby leaving the opposite tackle eligible. The lonely end would go deep while the halfback in motion would go about 10 yards past the line of scrimmage and grab the pass.

Record Crowd on Hand

By JERRY WYNN

Long Beach State missed a big opportunity to win friends and influence sports editors when the fizzling 49ers fell to San Francisco State, 12-0, at Veterans Stadium Saturday night.

Coach Don Reed's force, failing to toss a touchdown punch, gave a school record crowd estimated at 4,500 little to cheer about. The previous record was a 3,100-plus gathering.

	SFSC	LBSC
First downs	13	11

Yards lost	18	21
Net yards gained	204	259
Fumbles	3	1
Own fumbles recovered	1	0
Penalties (by yards)	35	36

A 49er victory—that looked mighty conceivable at times—would have been a considerable boost to prestige.

* * * *

THE GAME TURNED out as expected. Powerful San Francisco, a two-touchdown favorite, racked up its fourth win without a loss. Long Beach absorbed its second setback against a single win.

The Golden Gators scored in the first and third quarters. A 36-yard pass from quarterback Jim Sochor to end Ford Joy accounted for the first tally with 9:20 gone. Defender Bob Heberer jumped for Joy but missed on the 10-yard line. Bill Breslan's PAT kick was wide.

San Francisco's third quarter TD resulted from a 39-yard drive in six plays following an interception. Charges up the middle by Hank Marshall and Charley Fuller carried to the L.B. 11 from where Marshall caught the 49er defense napping on an end run into the end zone.

* * * *

THE PASS for conversion failed with 8:18 elapsed.

Long Beach's sputtering attack was paced by Roger Hull, who ran 16 times for a 4.3 average. Ron Johnson's passing was always dangerous but only slightly effective. He completed eight of 20 with three interceptions.

The 49ers put together an 87-yard march in the dying seconds of the first half only to be stopped in the shadow of the goal line. With inches to go on fourth down Johnson was smeared on an attempted keeper.

Long Beach had one earlier drive—sparked by a 21-yard run by Hull—halted on the S.F. 25 and was turned away several times while in enemy territory in the second half.

Texas Posts 3rd Shutout

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The high flying Texas Longhorns shook three backs loose for 40-yard touchdown scampers and used a bristling defense Saturday to make California a third straight shutout victim, 33-0.

Halfback Rene Ramirez, gracefully tailing a bruising interference corps, curved 46 yards for Texas' first score to give 20,000 rain-soaked fans and a national television audience a preview of coming events.

Sprinting sophomore Jack Collins, whose Texas-record 82-yard quick kick led to Texas' second score, spurted 44 yards for one touchdown with three seconds left in the half.

	Texas	Cal.
First downs	20	11
Rushing yardage	205	113
Passing yardage	79	91
Passes	6-13	5-11
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	4-40.5	11-33.3
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	114	72

Two scoring pass plays, one for 19 yards and another for 11 yards, preceded a bulldozing 40-yard rumble by 210-pound Texas fullback Mike Dowdle to cap the scoring.

The out-manned Bears got their best chance to score when a fumble gave them possession on the Texas 17. A stiff defense and two penalties set the Bears back to the Texas 45 before a fourth down punt.

It is the first time since 1933 for a Texas team to hold three opponents scoreless. The victory is Texas' fourth straight shutout over a two-year period.

The bench-loaded Herd came up with another sparkling sophomore in Bart Shirley. The 175-pound Corpus Christi back ran a punt back 45 yards for a score but a clipping penalty nullified it. Two plays later from the 19, Shirley arched a soft pass to end Bob Moses for Texas' second score.

Texas ..... 13 6 6 8—33

Tex—Ramirez 46 run (Lackey kick).
Tex—Moses 19 pass from Shirley (kick failed).
Tex—Collins 44 run (pass failed).
Tex—Cooper 11 pass from Lackey (pass failed).
Tex—Dowdle 40 run (pat pass from Saxton).

Bass Hot but Tribe Wins 1st

STANFORD (UPI) — Dick Norman, Stanford's passing wizard, got some help from the defense Saturday as he passed for two touchdowns and set up another score through the air in leading the Indians to a 21-6 victory over College of Pacific. It was the Indians' first win of the year.

	Stanford	COP
First downs	17	13
Rushing yardage	154	307

Passes	12-21	13-28
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	3-47.3	4-37.5
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	35	34

Only the smashing running of halfback Dick Bass made College of the Pacific any kind of a threat. Bass carried the ball 22 times for 110 yards. Bass carried seven times for 65 yards during the first quarter Tigers' touchdown march. Fullback Henry Wallace plowed over from the one.

Stanford came right back in the second quarter on a Norman-engineered drive. Tricky Dick passed five times, completed every one on an 82-yard march.

When COP started to gamble with five minutes left in the game, Stanford got two quick touchdowns.

MUSTANGS REAR UP

95-Yard Pass Interception Ruins Bluejackets, 20-7

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Tired Tirey Wilemon jolted a desperation Navy race with the clock with a 95-yard pass interception touchdown runback Saturday to give favored Southern Methodist a palpitating 20-7 victory before 46,000.

A rampaging Navy offense twice surged goalward in the final quarter to try and pull off an upset, but a slippery turf and a fumble tripped up one drive on the SMU 22 and Wilemon's breathtaking fourth-down interception on his five-yard line turned the second one short in the last minute.

SMU was never behind after dapper Don Meredith flipped a screen pass to fullback Mike Hackney for a 28-yard scoring play to cap a 67-yard drive from the opening kickoff, but Navy always was close.

DUCKS EDGE WSU IN THRILLER

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon's Webfoots grabbed their third straight football victory of the 1959 season Saturday by edging Washington State, 14-6, in a thriller that wasn't decided until the closing moments.

Oregon, hoping for a Rose Bowl bid, boomed into an early 7-0 lead and then fought off the Cougars most of the afternoon before adding its final score with only 21 seconds to play.

It took two timely pass interceptions and a great goal-line stand to keep Coach Len Casanova's team unbeaten.

Fullback Dave Powell, who racked up 60 yards in 12 carries before he was injured in the first half, smashed over from one yard out early in the second period to climax a 69-yard drive. Roger Daniels kicked the conversion which was to prove all-important.

	Oregon	WSU
First downs	14	15
Rushing yardage	177	113
Passing yardage	32	112
Passes	4-14	11-22
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	7-39.3	7-37
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	35	15

For Washington State, halted once on a pass interception by Alden Kimbrough, again on the Oregon nine, and still again on a fourth-down play from the one-foot line, finally pushed over a score early in the final period on a four-yard pass from Mel Melin to Don Johnston.

The Cougars, going all-out to win, sent halfback Keith Lincoln around end on a two-point conversion try, but he was thrown on the two by guard Dave Urell and tackle John Wilcox.

Oregon, with Harry Needham doing a fine job of subbing for Powell and Dave Grosz doing a cool job of quarterbacking, drove 58 yards to score again. Needham made the touchdown from a yard out and Daniels again converted.

Oregon ..... 7 0 7 0—14
WSU ..... 0 0 0 6— 6
(Scoring)
Oregon—Powell 1 run (Daniels kick).
WSU—Johnston 2 pass from Melin (run failed).
Oregon—Needham 1 run (Daniels kick).

UNITAS CONNECTS TOO LATE

Bears Shock Colts, 26-21

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, coupling excellent line play with a brilliant display of scoring versatility, Saturday night survived a dramatic fourth period rally by the Baltimore Colts to record a 26-21 win.

The Bears appeared to anticipate quarterback Johnny Unitas' every move, particularly his passes. Unitas was forced to eat the ball time and again by the surging Bear line and the Bears led, 26-0, after three periods.

But the Colts, NFL defending champions, picked themselves up from the turf and Unitas threw three touchdown passes in the final quarter to give the Bears a real scare. One Unitas touchdown of seven yards went to end Ray Berry. The other two, for four and 14 yards, were caught by end Jim Mutscheller.

	Colts	Bears
First downs	19	13
Rushing yardage	74	180
Passing yardage	183	102
Passes	17-38	12-25
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	9-33	6-45
Fumbles lost	0	1
Yards penalized	40	45

The Bears opened the scoring at 10:10 of the first period when half-back Richie Pettibone intercepted a Unitas pass on the Colt 37 and rushed for a touchdown. End John Aveni's conversion attempt was wide.

Little more than a minute later, Aveni kicked a field goal from the 33 to push the Bears ahead, 9-0.

Chicago continued to outplay the Colts in the second quarter. Fullback Rick Casares scored on a one-yard plunge after the Bears moved to the Colt goal line on a series of runs by Willie Galimore. With only seconds left to the half, quarterback Ed Brown hit end Harlon Hill with a 35-yard touchdown pass.

Aveni contributed another field goal, that one from 42 yards, late in the third period to end the Bears' scoring.

Chicago Bears	0	14	3	9—26
Baltimore	0	0	0	21—21

Bears: TDs—Pettibone (24-yard intercepted pass), Casares (one plunge), Hill (35-yard pass from Brown). PAT—Aveni 2. FG—Aveni 2 (33, 42).
Colts: TDs—Berry (seven yard pass from Unitas), Mutscheller 3 (four-yard pass from Unitas, 14-yard pass from Unitas). PAT—Myhra.

SAN FRANCISCO — If the Rams have hopes of avoiding quick elimination in the 1959 National Football League title chase, they had best get the show on the road.

And that's just what they plan to do here today.

Favored by five points, but minus their leading man and several important character actors, Southern California's NFL entry opens a three-game road trip against the San Francisco 49ers.

Today's first installment (at 1:30 p.m.) on the three-part television show will be followed by Sunday spectaculars against the Bears and Packers, originating from Chicago (Oct. 11) and Milwaukee (Oct. 18).

• • • •

THE TV SERIES was made all the more important because the Rams laid an egg in their debut against the New York Giants last Saturday night. Another flop today would be near disastrous in view of the coming attractions in the Midwest.

And all signs here indicate the Rams are going to have a difficult time making the point spread stick.

The Rams trounced San Francisco, 48-14, in an exhibition game three weeks ago. Last year the 49ers were humiliated in two league games.

But since the exhibition massacre, the 49ers have been on the upgrade and the Rams have suffered more surprising setbacks and injuries than an anti-Palermo fight manager.

TODAY, FRANK RYAN will open at quarterback in place of Bill Wade, whose injured knee will permit only limited action. Also listed as "doubtful" are Jon Arnett and the defensive safety pair of Don Burroughs and Will Sherman.

Ram hopes rest in Ryan, and the sophomore pro from Rice has shown signs this year of being ready for the challenge.

"I'll be nervous out there at first, but I am sure I can do the job," said the QB with the high IQ Saturday after the Rams plane landed here at 4 p.m.

"My big problem," Frank admits, "will be in trying not to run off with that ball when the primary (pass) receiver is covered. I've got to remember to look for the secondary receiver."

The 49ers came to life with a bang last week as they whipped the Eagles in their league opener.

EAGLES EYE REPEAT OF '58 UPSET VS. GIANTS

NEW YORK—The National Football League's Eastern Division champion, is a six-point choice to defeat the Eagles today at Philadelphia, but don't bet too heavily on the Giants. This is the kind of game they often lose.

Sunday's situation matches last year's when New York invaded Philadelphia after thumping the Chicago Cardinals in their opener, 37-7. The Giants were favored to give the underdog Eagles the same treatment but lost, 27-24—one of two victories produced by Philadelphia in 1958.

In other games, the Steelers are favored over the Washington Redskins by 7½ points at Pittsburgh; the Cardinals are picked over the Cleveland Browns by 2½ at Chicago; and the Packers are slim, one-point choices against the Detroit Lions at Green Bay.

Pittsburgh, with quarterback Bobby Layne taking a hand in all the club's scoring, upset Cleveland in its opener, 17-7. The Steelers face a Washington club that took a tongue-lashing from Coach Mike Nixon after it took a 49-21 whipping from the Cardinals last Sunday.

Oregon St. Two-Pointer Fails, 7-6

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—An extra point kicked by sophomore Ron Meade squeezed Nebraska past Oregon State's Beavers, 7-6, Saturday before a sun-washed crowd of 25,000.

The Huskers kept the pressure on Oregon State throughout most of the game in picking up their second victory in three outings. They turned a recovered fumble into their only touchdown and halted other Beaver drives with two pass interceptions and another fumble recovery.

Oregon State scored midway in the third quarter on a seven-yard pass from Earl Harbin to Jerry Doman, climaxing an 88-yard drive. A run for the extra point failed.

Bob Kelley Says---

Hayes a Real Eccentric

SAN FRANCISCO—Pro football has completely spoiled me. Watching a portion of the Cal-Texas game on television, I was squirming around and having a tough time keeping my eyes on the picture. Yet this is far more exciting football than the kind which used to keep me taut and tense as a youngster.

By contrast with the pros, though, it is simply no show. Poor Cal was just not fast enough for the Texans. They tried like the dickens, but lacked speed and agility. It was almost embarrassing to watch.

HAMP POOL
Was Always Polite

Friday night, I found the Trojan-Ohio State game far more enjoyable. Not that it was exciting, but I had a rooting interest in seeing Don Clark finally come up with a good club. Nice to see the Trojans lick a Big Ten club at its own game, too—out-roughing the Buckeyes in the line.

When Woody Hayes threw that alleged punch at the sportswriter, he sure blew up my theory about Big Ten teams not caring about losing intersectionals. Woodrow seemed to care quite a bit.

I always felt Hayes was given an uncalled-for-bad time by the Southern California press. Sure, he's sort of an odd duck. But is he a villain simply because he doesn't want to spend three hours a day patting guys like Hollingworth on the head, ala Duffy Daugherty?

TO BECOME A "BAD MAN" all you have to do is snub the sportswriters. After that, you're a bum coach, and a bum—period. If you give them the peaches and cream treatment like Daugherty, however, you're the greatest coach in the world.

That's where a man like Frank Leahy was always smart. Frank may not have believed a thing he told the writers, but he always made them feel like big shots. Let's face it, we all like that.

Of course, Hayes was certainly out of line in the punching incident . . . he missed. He ought to take a lesson from Harvey Knox, who was right on target the night he belted the writer in Aragon's dressing room.

I believe Harve really fell for the publicity buildup. He was holding court in the dressing room like he really was Aragon's manager.

Being serious about the Hayes incident, however, there is no excuse for a man tossing a punch like he did. It's childish, and a great example for the players who are supposed to look up to him.

THE WRITERS WERE DOING their job, and it is part of a coach's job to bear with them after a game, win or lose. I have seen Hamp Pool in the Ram dressing room after a particularly bitter defeat, being asked absurd questions that even a five-year old kid wouldn't ask.

Biting his lip, Pool would smile patiently and answer them anyway. That's part of the game.

Of course, Hayes has always been a little eccentric. The sight of him lumbering onto the field with his team, decked out in coats and a baseball cap, has long amused me.

Woody had better keep his fingers crossed and hope the scribe he finally belted doesn't get in the hands of an ambulance-chasing lawyer. The writer has already set the stage for a suit by declaring he might have suffered a back injury.

But what am I worrying about Hayes' problems for? I'm as nervous as Gillman this morning. With all the injuries, I keep seeing the picture of Y. A. Tittle fiddling the Rams' secondary today. Wonder if Elroy Hirsch wants to play defense today?

Boilermakers Rock Fightin' Irish, 28-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's football team, always at its best against Notre Dame, hammered the Irish Saturday for the fourth time in six years, 28-7.

Bob Jarus, Purdue's bulldozer fullback, scored two of the touchdowns that gave the Boilermakers a 21-0 lead at the half.

On the fine passing and running of quarterback Don White, Notre Dame looked like it might come back in the second half—but Purdue's little Jim Tiller broke away on a 74-yard scoring run that broke the Irish back.

Passes	3-6	10-24
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	4-33	3-43
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	34	10

It was the first defeat for Notre Dame under new coach Joe Kuharich, whose sophomore-sprinkled squad beat North Carolina last week, 28-8.

Quarterback Ross Fichtner's brilliant running on the option set up the first Purdue score. He suffered a severely bruised shoulder early in the third quarter, but Bernie Allen took over efficiently. Allen also kicked the four extra points.

Fichtner's runs of 25 and 16 yards set up a Jarus touchdown plunge from the 5, just 10 plays after Purdue took the opening kickoff. Purdue poured on two more touchdowns in the second quarter on Fichtner's 6-yard pass to end Dick Brooks and a short plunge by Jarus.

Notre Dame's fullback, Jim Crotty, scored from the Purdue 3 early in the third quarter.

Just as Irish fans were perking up, Allen intercepted a White pass on the Purdue 13. A couple of plays later, Tiller took off and outran a half dozen Notre Dame tacklers in his 74-yard jaunt.

Michigan State Routs Hapless Wolverines, 34-8

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State struck for four quick touchdowns Saturday and coasted to a 34-8 victory over hopeless Michigan before a sellout crowd of 101,001.

The Spartans, who were a bitter disappointment last year and in their season opener a week ago, failed to score on their first series of downs but punched across touchdowns the next four times they got the ball.

Three of Michigan State's touchdowns came on short smashes by Herb Adderley, Blanche Martin and Dean Look. Another was on a 94-yard sprint by Bob Suci after he intercepted a Norkin pass and the final Spartan score was picked up by Don Stewart on a 25-yard pass-run from Look.

Frantic NL Flag Race Kept TV Networks 'On The Go'

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP) — The frenzy of the National League pennant race was only the beginning. Until it ended in the anticipated tie, not a move could be made to bring the playoff games to millions of baseball fans across the country.

How it was done, and how quickly the TV people went into action, is a story as intense as the games themselves.

It all started the last Friday night of the regular season, the night Milwaukee lost to Philadelphia and the Dodgers went one game up on the defending champions.

Representatives of the three television networks—ABC, NBC and CBS—began tentative negotiations with Dodger president Walter O'Malley and Milwaukee president Joseph Cairnes.

At the time, O'Malley thought the Dodgers would be able to schedule the second playoff game for Tuesday night in Los Angeles, and it was on this basis that the networks made their proposals.

NBC, the network that has the contract for the All-Star and World Series games, said it would televise the first and third (daylight) games, but not the Tuesday night game. CBS made the same proposal. Their feeling apparently was that a night game in Los Angeles would cause too much re-programming of regular shows.

But ABC made the flat commitment that it would televise all three games at any time, regardless of previous program commitments.

Then Sunday, when the pennant race ended in a tie and NL president Warren Giles ruled that all games be played in daylight, ABC was awarded the radio and TV rights by the Dodgers and Braves on the basis that it had presented the most accommodating original proposal.

So ABC had the playoff for a reported $125,000 per game. All the network had to do was clear air time, sign up stations, arrange for announcers and most important, from a network viewpoint, enlist sponsors.

Time for the first playoff in Milwaukee was 3:30 p. m. (EDT). At 9:30 a. m. (EDT) in New York, ABC began arranging for the stations and sponsors. And in less than four hours, 151 TV stations had agreed to air the game and all time on both radio and TV had been completely sold out.

Before that, announcers had been routed out of bed during the night and asked to fly to Milwaukee. And the camera crew of WISN-TV, the AEC affiliate in Milwaukee, showed up at County Stadium at 7 a. m. to set up the operation.

These camera hands—12 of them handled six cameras—had televised the Braves-Phillies Saturday game back to Philadelphia, then worked a Marquette football game in the rain Saturday night and did the Braves-Phillies for Philadelphia again on Sunday. It was amazing that they were able to do the job they did, considering all the circumstances.

Neither Milwaukee nor Los Angeles televise regular season home games. Hence, the playoff games were the first (other than World Series or All-Star Games) ever televised for home fans or the cities in which they were being played.

SOPHOMORES SPARKLE

Georgia Tech Holds Back Clemson, 16-6

ATLANTA (UPI)—Clemson's Bill Mathis startled Georgia Tech with a 99-yard touchdown dash, but the Yellow Jackets rode superior speed and gritty defense to a 16-6 football victory Saturday.

The loss was the first of the season for Clemson, which entered the game ranked sixth nationally. Tech, rated No. 7, is undefeated in three outings.

Two sophomore halfbacks, Johnny Welch and Bobby Gene Harris, were key men in Tech's offense, expected to suffer from the loss of their regular halfbacks to injuries.

Harris got Tech's first touchdown march going with a 21-yard sprint to Clemson's 26, but on the next play was hurt and left the game. Quarterback Fred Braselton kept the march going with some short passes and scored himself on a sneak.

Welch got into the game later and scored Tech's second touchdown on his first run as a varsity player.

Once Over Lightly

Woody Hayes — A Charming, Nasty Man

Lovable Woody Hayes has done it again! The fiery, frank-speaking, ill-tempered Ohio State coach flipped his lid once again Friday night after his Buckeyes were slaughtered by the Trojans, 17-0.

But he flips it so often that he's installed hinges to save wear and tear.

The score may not indicate it, but the Buckeyes were really cut up and the use of the word "slaughtered" is entirely correct. It's been a long time since an Ohio State team has been outgained by a margin of 467 yards to 143.

WOODY HAYES
What a Temper!

It was obvious that Hayes was working up a king-sized mad as he stalked the sidelines during the second half.

The boiling point was reached as his men trooped into the dressing room after the game . . . and exploded when Woody saw a couple of reporters lurking near the door to the Buckeye quarters.

He screamed for them to go away, although they were in the foyer of the dressing quarters—an area over which Woody has no jurisdiction. They turned and started to walk away, though . . . but not fast enough to suit Hayes.

So, he took a swing at a scribe from the Examiner, missed, but hit a representative of a Pasadena paper in the back, then grabbed the latter and pushed him into a wall.

Woody then wheeled and roared into the dressing room and locked the door for a half-hour.

WHEN HE CAME OUT, WOODY was as charming as he was nasty a few minutes earlier. In fact, his remarks to the press were a little longer than usual, but at no time did he apologize for his actions.

He hates the L. A. press, anyway. This feeling dates back to the 1955 Rose Bowl game in which he beat SC, 20-7, in a terrific downpour.

Making matters worse, the Trojan band performed during the half and turned a field that was in fair condition into a quagmire. Woody blew his top over this . . . and was justified. But this criticism coupled with statements that the Trojans of that season would have been "murdered" in the Big Ten didn't set very well with members of the Southland press.

Hayes was worked over pretty good, even though he was right on both counts. It wasn't what he said, but how he said it. His timing also was very poor.

Woody has always possessed the faculty of insulting someone. When he can rile people when he wins . . . you can imagine what he's like when he loses. Paul Brown and Buddy Parker, the notorious bad losers in pro football, are men of peace compared to the volatile Hayes.

WE HAD A BRIEF RUN-IN WITH WOODY ourselves three years ago when we dropped by the Ohio State campus to see him one afternoon during practice. He was still nursing a grudge against the California press and he was belligerent for awhile, but finally calmed down and said more than enough to make what we felt was a terrific column.

At the time, school officials were busy trying to soothe feelings Woody had ruffled with a few exceptionally frank statements to a downtown businessmen's group in Columbus.

It seems that a couple of such "incidents" a month is merely considered par for the course where Woody is concerened.

However, Hayes is one of the truly great football coaches in the country. He was coach of the year in '57 and runner-up to UCLA's Red Sanders in '54. In eight years at Ohio State, he's won two national championships, three undisputed Big Ten titles, and set an all-time conference record with 17 consecutive Big Ten victories from 1954 through '56.

Friday night marked Woody's fourth trip to Southern California and his first defeat. The other three trips were to the Rose Bowl where he disposed of Oregon, 10-7, in '58; SC in '55, and California, 17-14, in 1950.

ONCE HE COOLED DOWN FRIDAY night, he had nothing but praise for SC. "You fellows can be mighty proud of your team. We knew the Trojans were strong and expected a rough evening. SC is by far the best club any of my teams have played on the Coast. This is a team that would do real good in the Big Ten.

"SC didn't have the depth of this team when we met the Trojans in the Rose Bowl. I said then that they wouldn't do very well in the Big Ten because of a weak defense . . . but this club is terrific on defense. In fact, only weakness I could see was the lack of a breakaway runner. They had men out in the open quite a few times, but couldn't go all the way.

"As a member of the rating board of one of the national polls, I personally rated the Trojans higher than the sixth place they were given last week. I think my judgment has been proven beyond any doubt.

"Meanwhile, we're trying to jell, but SC was too good to let us. But we'll make this Ohio State club produce one way or another. We'll be hard at it next week."

Knowing Woody, we can only add "amen" to that!

Wildcats Nudge Iowa, 14-10

Interception Kills Hawks

IOWA CITY (UPI)—Northwestern lost quarterback Dick Thornton on the opening kickoff Saturday and then overcame a 10-point advantage spotted Iowa on Wildcat errors to win, 14-10, on a 42-yard return of an intercepted pass by Ray Purdin with less than six minutes to play.

The Wildcats even turned down three points on a successful field goal attempt by Mike Stock in the second period.

Thornton, who with halfback Ron Burton has been the star of the Wildcat offense, caught a short kickoff to open the game, and after returning it 25 yards, suffered a fracture in his ankle when tackled. He probably will miss the rest of the season.

That left the signal calling to Chip Holcomb and John Talley.

The Wildcats, though, got unexpectedly good passing from Holcomb and Talley, and the latter connected to Purdin on one pitch for 74 yards for a school record. Purdin was tackled on the Iowa six, and then began a series that led to Northwestern's spurning three points.

The penalty cost Northwestern five yards, but Talley passed to Purdin to put the ball on the three with fourth down. Stock's field goal attempt was perfect, but Iowa was penalized for roughing the kicker, and Northwestern took the penalty, putting the ball on the one-and-one-half.

Talley tried a wide pitchout to Purdin for a touchdown, and his toss was so high it would have gone into the stands except for Purdin's long arms. John Brown recovered for Iowa.

Then the Wildcats gave away a touchdown as Purdin fumbled on his own 49 and Don Norton hauled in the ball in midair and scampered 47 yards to score. Ray Jauch then intercepted a Holcomb pass and, after Wilburn Hollis ran 27 yards to the Northwestern three, Tom Moore booted a field goal for a 10-0 edge.

All these points came in the third period and the Wildcats, ranked second nationally with Iowa third going into the game, came back.

Holcomb sparked a 68-yard parade, completing three straight passes for 29 yards including a seven-yard scoring toss to Burton.

Duke Rips Rice, 24-7

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Twice-beaten Duke turned two recovered fumbles and an intercepted pass into touchdowns behind the running of halfback Joe Arrington Saturday to defeat Rice, 24-7.

A crowd of 21,000 saw Duke strike quickly for two second period touchdowns, add another in the fourth quarter and a 19-yard field goal in the closing minutes by fullback Jack Bush.

Rice scored in the third period when fullback Roland Jackson went over from the one. Quarterback Jon Schnable set it up with a 49-yard run to Duke's seven.

Wisconsin Romps, 44-6

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Wisconsin's football Badgers tuned up for the rugged Big Ten schedule by trampling their "cousins" from Marquette for the 16th straight year, 44-6, Saturday as Dale Hackbart and Billy Hobbs each contributed a pair of touchdowns.

Hackbart, an all-America quarterback candidate, turned in a brilliant first half despite a heavily-bandaged left knee, then let sophomore Jim Bakken carry most of the load in the final two periods.

Sooners Crush Buffaloes, 42-12

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Oklahoma's Sooners blended near-perfect passing with a strong running game and routed the Colorado Buffaloes, 42-12, in a Big Eight Conference football opener at Owen Field Saturday.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's Sooners now have gone through 72 conference games without a defeat. It was their 70th victory with only two ties included in the winning streak.

Colorado's two touchdowns came in the final minutes of the game. The Buffs moved 88 yards with 3:10 left and halfback Don Maurer plunged from the one-yard stripe. In the waning minutes a 15-yard pass to end Kirk Campbell by quarterback Joe Dowler provided the other Buff score.

Minnesota Awakens, Raps Indiana

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Minnesota's Gophers, prostrated by 14 defeats in 16 games, rose and smashed Indiana, 24-14, Saturday with a wide open attack.

With its hefty, aggressive line holding Indiana to two first downs through the first three quarters, the Gophers turned loose their splashiest offensive show in years to win their Big Ten inaugural before a crowd of 52,927 at sunlit Memorial Stadium.

Not until the Gophers rolled up a 24-0 lead did Indiana offer anything approaching the class it displayed in whipping Illinois by three touchdowns a week ago.

LSU Powerhouse Rolls Roughshod Over Baylor

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI)—Louisiana State clubbed Baylor's befuddled Bears with an early scoring burst Saturday and then made it stick through a scoreless second half for a 22-0 victory.

Coach Paul Dietzel's "white" team showed 35,000 fans why LSU is rated tops in the nation in the first three minutes. Quarterback Warren Rabb hit fullback Donnie Daye with an eight-yard touchdown pass to climax a six-play, 76-yard drive.

With the second period only minutes old, all-America halfback Billy Cannon intercepted a pass by Baylor quarterback Ronnie Stanley on the 50 and raced to a touchdown behind Max Fugler's key block. Wendell Harris' extra point kick was good.

Sophomore Harris accounted for the next score with a 26-yard field goal. Baylor forced the kick with a stubborn defense that stopped an LSU march on the 10. It was Harris' third successive field goal.

LSU's "go" team collected the final score. With three minutes to go in the first half, quarterback Durel Matherne hit end Don Norwood with a five-yard touchdown toss. The touchdown was set up by a fumble recovery on Baylor's 37.

Cannon led the Tigers with 73 yards in eight carries for 9.1 average. Harris was second with 37 yards in seven carries.

LSU completely dominated the first half. Baylor did not get into Tiger territory until seconds were left in the second period.

Twentyone Guns Equals Mark as Pomona Closes

POMONA — Twentyone Guns added another to his list of stakes events Saturday afternoon, when he shot down the top money of $12,000 in the $20,000-added Pomona Handicap. The race climaxed the 14-day race meeting at the Los Angeles County Fair and was definitely the highlight of the season as Twentyone Guns, stepped the mile and one-eighth in 1:50 3/5 to tie the track record and establish himself as the best horse ever to grace this half-mile oval.

Ridden by Mitchell Shirota, Twentyone Guns returned $7.20, $3.80 and $2.60 to many of the getaway crowd of 20,591. Count Arrow paid $2.80 and $2.60 and Infantry paid $2.60 to show.

Total attendance for the meet was 156,135, an average of 11,153. Total mutual was $9,885,917 for an average of $706,137. Robert Mundorf took top riding honors with 17 winners. Shirota had 13.

Sophomore QB Leads Syracuse Over Terps, 29-0

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Syracuse dotted Maryland's "T" formation Saturday with a barrage of touchdowns that brought a second victory to the ambitious Orange eleven, 29-0. It was the second loss in a row for the Atlantic coast team after an opening victory.

Syracuse, rated one of the East's best in pre-season calculations if a quarterback could be found, saw sophomore David Sarette guide the Orangemen with the poise of a veteran for a second Saturday.

The 19-year-old turned the ground gaining over to Ernie Davis and Gerhard Schwedes, German-born halfback. Two tackles also broke into the scoring.

Soth Sets Mark; SC Wins CC Title

Bob Soth of Long Beach broke his own course record in the second annual three-mile cross country run near Peters Canyon in Orange County Saturday. SC captured team honors.

Soth, running for the SC Striders, toured the course in 14 minutes and 23.2 seconds, breaking the mark he set last year of 14:30.0. Fernando Leon of SC was second, Larry Wray of the Striders third.

Following SC in team standings were San Diego State, the Striders, UCLA and the Occidental Frosh. Wayne Van Dellen of Orange Coast CC was tops among Orange County finishers, coming in 13th.

Arkansas Spills Horned Frogs on 28-Yd. Field Goal

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas beat Texas Christian, 3-0, in a steady rain Saturday on a 28-yard field goal by Freddy Akers.

The hard-running of halfback Darrell Williams set the Razorbacks up for the only score of this dripping wet Southwest Conference football game with a 23-yard run after Arkansas took over on the Texas' 40 when Leslie Letsinger recovered a fumble in the second period.

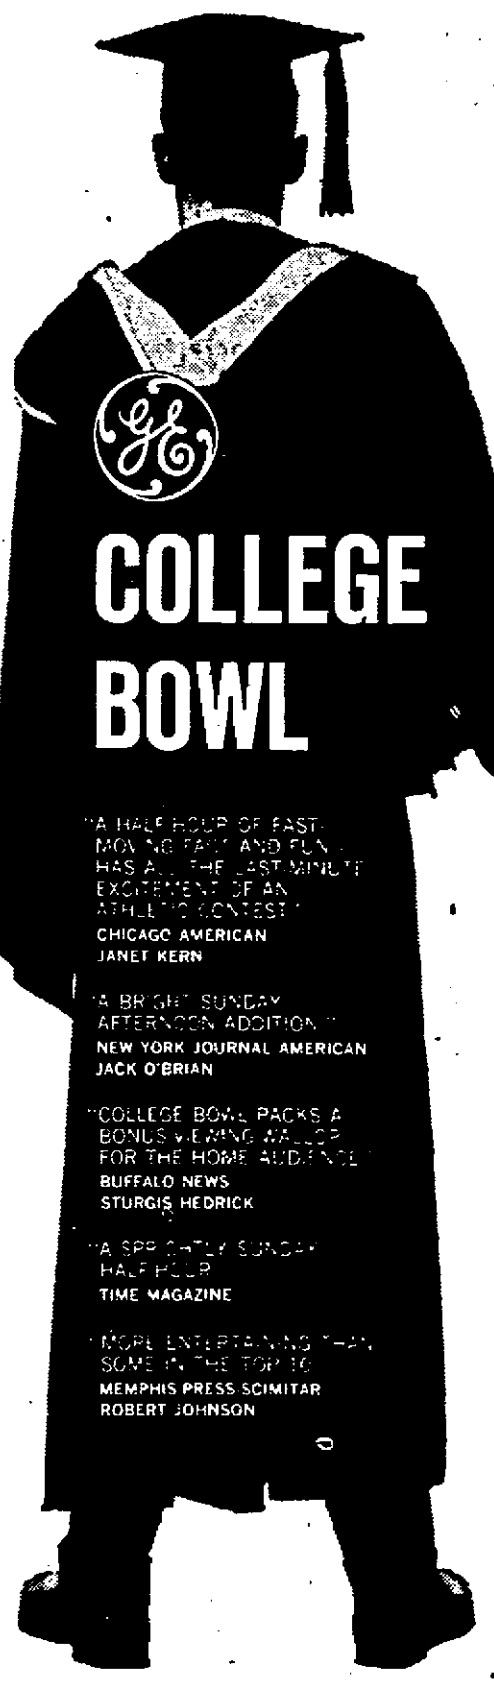

Texas Christian was late and short with its most potent scoring bid. Midway of the final quarter TCU picked up three first downs in a row, mostly by Harry Moreland and Larry Terrell.

The Frogs had a first down on the Razorbacks' 23, but Porker center Wayne Harris intercepted quarterback Donald George's pass on the 14 to end the threat.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Wednesday marks the start of the migratory waterfowl hunting season, which may prove to be one of the most controversial periods ever set for the shooting of ducks and geese. Already, in fact, some hunters have virtually blown the tops of their heads over the 5-and-10 limit.

And, as usual, the Fish and Game Commission, which is forced to set seasons and limits within the federal framework, has been caught in the middle and blamed for everything.

For once, let's get the commissioners off the hook and give them a pat on the back for doing the best they possibly could under the circumstances.

As all hunters should know, the Fish and Wildlife Service, a branch of the U. S. Department of Interior, sets the general season and gives state fish and game bodies a choice to suit their own individual needs.

In the case of California, there was a choice of taking six birds a day and six in possession, OR five birds a day and 10 in possession. The F&GC chose the latter, feeling that it would be fairer to the hunters, but knowing also that the Department of Fish and Game would have one hectic time trying to enforce such a limit.

WE ALSO KNOW that the duck population is down. Only the elements, mostly the drought, can be blamed for that. The flights will be off in eastern and midwestern flyways from 25 to 35 per cent, with certain species down farther than that. However, Californians argue that there will be as many birds on the Pacific flyway as ever. That remains to be seen. Preliminary surveys do not indicate such a rosy picture. Tule Lake is down 35 per cent, and there are few birds in Southern California.

Even should the Pacific flights be near normal, the F&WS was under pressure from all other sections to keep the limits more or less in line throughout the nation.

That 5-and-10 regulation isn't nearly as tough as the new law which prohibits shooting before sunrise. Prior to this year, hunters were able to start hunting at one-half hour before sunrise and that often meant the difference between a limit and an empty bag.

THERE WAS NO CHOICE for California's commissioners on that one. They had to go along with the federal plan. And this writer predicts that it will do more to cut down the duck kill than any other measure.

Also the noon time on opening day will favor the birds.

Hunters should know that the California commissioners protested the shorter time, the shorter limits and the elimination of the three bonus birds such as we had last year. That bonus-bird plan is particularly important to California because it means: (1) A shorter bag to take home, and (2) Farmers are going to suffer crop depredations before the season ends Jan. 8.

Other states have joined the California protest, but no action is expected from the F&WS. When that bureau sets up its duck-shooting regulations, it makes them stick.

SO THE SEASON begins Wednesday and duck hunters have a law that they'll have to live with.

Whatever you do, don't blame Ducks Unlimited for any part of the strange proceedings. If you didn't have DU, you probably wouldn't even have a season. And, if you are smart, you'll keep up your DU contributions and memberships.

And, when you start feeling sorry for yourself while sitting in a blind, remember that the drought took its toll everywhere this year. Even Saskatchewan, one of DU's great duck factories, cut the limit from 12 to 7 per day and reduced the number of shooting days and hours.

Regulations may be obtained from any license agent. You'll find correct shooting hours for each day of the season, area by area, statewide. You certainly should study those regulations before shouldering a gun and marching to the marshes.

WORLD SERIES—

Dodgers' brain trust finally was able to detect Drysdale's puzzling ailment. Campanis clipped a picture from a Chicago paper Friday and discovered that Drysdale was locking his hips on the follow-through.

"That's something we couldn't see from the sidelines," said pitching coach Joe Becker. "This picture was taken from behind the plate. I believe it helped to straighten him out."

Donovan, who won nine and lost 10, is a "stuff" pitcher who relies mainly on a sinker and slider. He had only a 5-5 record in July, then missed a month because of a pulled muscle in his right shoulder.

He did not regain his top form until the last two weeks of the season, then finished with five shutout innings against Detroit.

Alston's choice for Monday's fourth game is Roger Craig, the first game loser. White Sox manager Al Lopez was undecided between Wynn and southpaw Billy Pierce.

Alston made one lineup change after Saturday's workout. He elevated Gil Hodges to the No. 5 position in the batting order, dropping Norm Larker a notch.

Lopez added righthander Bubba Phillips at third base, hoping he could pop a few against or over the screen.

The weather forecast is for sunny with a high of 83 degrees.

Speedboats Roar at Stadium Today

A national champion will be crowned today when the inboards of the Southern California Speedboat Club and the outboards of the Los Angeles Speedboat Assn. combine for a regatta at Marine Stadium.

Action gets under way at 12 noon. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for youngsters under 16.

Two five-mile heats will be held for the Pacific One Design Hydroplane class with the winner to be crowned national champion.

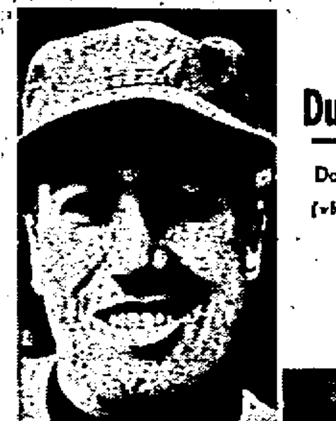

On hand to defend his title will be Howard Harris of Van Nuys, driving his world speed record holder Little Beaver. His chief opposition is expected to come from Elmer Cravener's Ol' Pudge of Hollywood.

Several other national champions will be competing in the nine inboard and two outboard classes. The L. A. Speedboat Assn., originally scheduled to sponsor the regatta entirely for outboards, will sponsor races for the swift B and C hydroplanes.

Raytheon's new sub-division,
SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT,
extends an invitation to
THEORETICAL SYSTEMS ENGINEERS and OPERATIONS ANALYSTS

to talk systems, not just electronics.

The systems we foresee run the gamut and beyond — undersea and outer-space super-systems . . . "gaming" and logistical data processing for central command . . . continental air defense . . . missile fire control . . . communications lash-ups . . . ground support . . . IPV (interplanetary vehicle) checkout . . . our RAMP microwave platform.

The thinkers we need come from diverse backgrounds: systems analysis and synthesis . . . hardware design . . . operations research . . . proposal engineering . . . systems sales.

Most are outstanding systems or project engineers. Some are physicists. A few are geo-political analysts.

All are broad thinkers, experienced at systems planning, hardware, and analytical approaches to systems generation. They now work on guidance, control, radar, communications, sonar, countermeasures systems. By nature they gravitate toward the big picture.

Each is aware of the increasing electronic content of systems. Each knows that the minds which understand this content determine the future influence of systems upon civilization.

We hope you are among these people, and desire the broad responsibilities of systems management. We would very much appreciate the chance to describe them in detail and answer any questions you may have.

To arrange a get-together, please phone us at the following times:

Ol' Chuck's Miffed--He'll Miss W. Series

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Chuck Connors muttered gloomily into his tea and his lip was longer than his sideburns, which themselves were longer than Xavier Cugat's and Vincent Lopez's sideburns combined.

"I wanted to see the World Series this year," he pouted.

"And my mother ——."

Out in Brooklyn, Kevin Joseph Aloysius Connors' 64-year-old mother Marcella had always hoped her baby boy would play in a series.

Instead of which he grew up to 6-feet-5½, with long sorrel hair, getting rich playing "The Rifleman" on TV, and besieged for autographs even by the ball players who remember him as a very short time major leaguer.

• • • •

CHUCK'LL BE a-ridin' and a-shootin' in the Ak-Sar-Ben (that's Nebraska spelled backwards) Rodeo when the series is on.

"My mother, who isn't too well, has known all my ups and downs—then all of a sudden comes these last five years in TV and pictures — recognition — pretty good dough.

"She still speaks with a nice brogue. And after the Old Timers' game, she said, 'Kevin, TV is all well and good, but I was really thrilled when you got that single'."

CHUCK CONNORS
No Time For Series

Chuck was not only thrilled—he was astonished.

More for his TV fame than his baseball rep, for he had played in only 77 major league games in 1950, Chuck was summoned to pinch hit.

"Carl Erskine threw the pickle right down Broadway for me and I hit it to center field," Chuck whooped happily. "He had to put it down the middle for me, otherwise I'd have struck out — and they'd all seen that bit from me before!"

• • • •

MOM CONNORS, sitting upstairs with Mrs. John McGraw, was ecstatic.

Chuck probably thinks baseball today instead of rifles. Having dinner with Branch Rickey, whom he considers one of the three great men of our era (Churchill and FDR he named as the others), Chuck offered advice on the new third league.

"Update your public relations," he hammered through. "Radiant-heated floors in new stadiums . . . luxurious restaurants, roof-parking . . . more color . . . I like to see players jaw at umpires. What was wrong with 'the Gas House Gang'?"

Chuck is so baseball-minded that he thought Branch Rickey very sage in saying "I would rather let any baseball player go two years too soon than one year too late."

"Sure, it's business office!" Chuck granted. "What he means is his job is giving the public a winning ball club."

Chuck was an unusual ball player: he liked umpires. He membered how umpire George Magerkurth thumbed a batter out on a called strike, whereupon the batter threw his bat into the air.

The umpire leveled a sharp finger at the player and shouted, "If that bat comes down, you're out of the game!"

Girl Can Be Too Sexy, Cara Says

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cara Williams, a red-haired temptress who moves in sections, says her sexiness has been a drawback in her acting career and her marriage to John Barrymore Jr.

"Most producers," she said, "thought of me as a chorus girl type until 'The Defiant Ones' got me a nomination for best supporting actress of last year.

"Unfortunately, I look like the kind of girl that producers chase around a desk."

Wearing tight white slacks and matching blouse, the Brooklyn-born actress slinked into a chair in her living room and explained:

"Sexy looks can be a handicap in this town, Baby. You don't know how many people told me to change my hair, but it's mine and it's natural.

• • • •

"NOBODY listened when I said I had talent and had worked on the stage under Elia Kazan and played in 'Born Yesterday.'"

Miss Williams, who admits to being somewhere between 30 and 32, lamented that being sexy also made for troubles in her ill-fated marriage to young Barrymore, 27.

"John's a fine actor and a nice boy, but he resented my looking attractive," said the actress, who is in the process of divorcing Barrymore.

"Most of the time in our six years of marriage I wore blue jeans and no makeup so he wouldn't be concerned. I didn't pay much attention to acting and even gained a little weight."

Cowpokes Knights on Horseback?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Novelist-Producer Frank Gruber raps the sophisticates and pseudo-sophisticates who depreciate westerns as entertainment.

"The classic 'Odyssey' of Homer embodies the same basic elements that go into the construction of a modern drama of the Old West—love and hate, deception and intrigue, man pitting his skills and resources against nature and his enemies—all elements of high adventure."

Gruber adds the only essential difference between the modern western story and older pre-western adventure yarns is the setting—"It makes little difference whether it's Gary Cooper walking down the western street with his hand over his holster or a mediaeval knight charging on his stallion with mace in hand. The same elements are there.

"The westerns will always be with us—as long as love of adventure remains."

Mexico-U. S. Link of TV Considered

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Emilio Azcarraga, Mexico's top TV magnate, says plans are under study to link Mexico with U. S. TV networks. Taped American programs are well received in Mexico and Mexicans believe their musical shows would prove popular north of the border.

REAL SHOCKER

Might Call It Double Seature

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Producer-Director William Castle guarantees that his newest horror film will shock some people.

At the press preview of "The Tingler," he wired 150 seats with 45 volts apiece. He'll do the same when the picture shows around the country.

"What good is a title like that," he asks, "unless some people get tingled?"

Smuggled Radios Seized by Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazilian police report seizure of $35,000 worth of portable transistor record players as the latest haul from smugglers of goods made in Japan. Such goods, especially things made for the Christmas trade, have become favorite objects for smuggling, police say.

Decide Soon on New U.S. Bonn Envoy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A decision is expected soon on whether Robert D. Murphy, top-ranking career diplomat in the United States, will replace David K. E. Bruce as ambassador to Germany.

Bruce, who became ambassador to Bonn in March 1957, has sent word to Washington that he wants to be relieved of his duties this fall. President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter are expected to decide the matter within three weeks.

Murphy's name has dominated speculation about Bruce's successor, although the possibility that he would be transferred from his present assignment as undersecretary of state for political affairs has drawn periodic denials.

• • • •

AS FOR TODAY it can be reported on excellent authority that the situation is this:

Herter and Murphy have yet to hold a serious discussion about Bruce's successor. If Murphy wants the assignment, his rank and prestige are such that he can undoubtedly have it. He is known to have found the possibility of returning to diplomatic service in Germany an attractive one. He was there on various assignments after World War II.

On the other hand, as undersecretary of state for political affairs, Murphy has a key position in policy-making at a critical period of maneuver following up the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

Under these circumstances, associates say, Herter must decide whether he can afford to let Murphy go. Should he do so, Murphy's successor probably would be Deputy Undersecretary of State Livingston T. Merchant, former assistant secretary for Europe.

'THE END IS SPLIT'

Obviously the right end is split in this confusing formation unveiled by Informal Normal in a crucial Saturday afternoon tilt with What-the-Heck Tech. The game was played in the Wrigley District of Long Beach—on the neighbor's lawn. It ended with several players untied.—(Photo by John H. Neagle.)

Scientists to Probe Depths of Indian Ocean, May Find a Sea Serpent or Two

THE HAGUE, Holland (UPI)—Scientists from all over the world will probe the secrets of the Indian Ocean, where sea serpents may very well exist, it was announced Saturday.

The International Council of Scientific Unions, concluding its annual meeting, decided upon an "Indian Ocean Year" starting in 1962, which will see a coordinated investigation of the Indian Ocean depths.

Sir Rudolph Peters of Britain, council president, said it "might well be possible" that one of the search vessels would come up with a genuine sea serpent or two.

"Their existence is not at all unlikely," Peters said.

Peters said there was a theory that sea-serpents always have existed, but have been in hiding since noiseless, fumeless sailing vessels were replaced by noisy, smelly motor-powered vessels.

The sea-serpent possibility, however, was only the most spectacular of the things scientists will search for.

"More basic are the mysteries of the Indian Ocean's exact depth, temperatures, tides and currents, Peters said.

The special year will be coupled with a world magnetic survey, aimed at solving the mysteries of the earth's magnetic field, he said. This survey had been planned originally within the framework of the International Geophysical Year, but had to be postponed since research in this field can only be successful during a period of low solar activity. The year 1962-'63 will be such a year, scientists predict.

Peters said that two ventures will be undertaken together because the Indian Ocean area is a vital factor in the field of magnetic research, of which very little is known at the moment.

Expedition to Seek New Sahara Route

PARIS (AP)—A French expedition using 15 special tracked vehicles will set out in mid-November seeking a new route through the remote Taffassasset district in the eastern Sahara, often called "The Desert Within the Desert." Ten scientists are making the trip.

Oregon Boy, 10, Says He's Been Riding Freight Trains 2 Months

SAN FERNANDO (CNS)—A 10-year-old boy from Bandon, Ore., who said he had been riding freight trains since July 31, was picked up by San Fernando police this afternoon.

The officers had a tip that the boy was seen getting on a slow freight leaving Burbank en route to San Fernando. When police saw the boy he jumped out of the freight car and disapeared.

• • • •

POLICE searched the freight yards for the boy and finally found him hanging on the rods underneath the train.

When officers questioned him, the boy pointed to his mouth and ears indicating he was deaf and unable to speak. After he was taken to the San Fernando police station, an officer crept up behind him and dropped a heavy chair with a loud crash.

Police said the boy jumped 3 feet in the air.

He then told him his name was Joey Mason and he lived at 1777 Seven Devils Road, Bandon, Ore. He said he had left home July 31 after a family argument and had been riding freight trains up and down the coast since then.

His parents are Paul and Henrietta Mason, the boy said.

• • • •

JOEY WAS dressed in a T-shirt and jeans. He said he met other people on the freights who offered him food and often shared a blanket with him "when it got cold."

He said he had been in Los Angeles for a while and was now on his way to Las Vegas where he thought he would become a barber. "I know a little bit about barbering," he said.

San Fernando officers bathed him and fed him while they put in a call to Bandon, to try to determine what to do with him.

Earring Recovered by Surgery on Dog

WINNIPEG (AP)—Shortie, a 2-year-old dachshund, is frisking around in fine shape after an operation for recovery of an earring of his mistress, Mrs. Dave Halparin of Winnipeg. He swallowed it last week and was opened up in a hospital after other means failed.

Savings in India Prove Surprising

NEW DELHI (AP)—The average Indian income is low but a surprising amount winds up in the bank. Savings averaged the equivalent of $80 a year, or 11 per cent of the annual income, in the case of 600 New Delhi households selected at random in a study by the National Council of Applied Research.

State Leads in Buying of Duck Stamp

(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON — The number of Federal "duck stamps" sold during the fiscal year which ended June 30 dropped 189,791, but California still led the states in individual sales.

Of a national total of 2,165,562 of the 1958-59 issue, 161,068 were sold in California. This compared with sales of 183,011 the previous year.

Spokesmen for the Fish and Wildlife Service predicted that sales would drop off more in the current fiscal year in view of drouth conditions in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central flyways.

In only five other states were more than 100,000 duck stamps sold last year — Minnesota, 147,895; Texas, 145,079; Michigan, 110,260; Wisconsin, 109,856, and Illinois, 108,456.

The Fish and Wildlife Service noted that the 1958-59 stamp was the last of the $2 series. This year's stamp, which went on sale July 1, costs $3.

2 L.B. Holdup Suspects Seized

Three recent armed robberies in Long Beach were solved with the arrests of George W. Pike, 38, 821 E. Ocean Blvd., and Arvin Lee Wallace, 30, 11226 S. Figueroa St., Apt. 3, Los Angeles, Detective Inspector C. A. Wiggins announced Saturday.

The two men are suspects in the robberies of His Shop, 2011 E. 4th St., on Sept. 25; Jones Liquor Store, 2435 E. Broadway, on Sept. 23, and Community Pharmacy, 1999 Atlantic Blvd., on Sept. 30.

Pike was arrested Friday at an apartment house at 932 E. 2nd St. The house was kept under surveillance and Wallace was arrested there Saturday by Inspectiors Fred Whitmore, A. E. Perle and R. L. Barlow. The suspects are booked in city jail.

Whitmore said narcotics were taken in the pharmacy robbery.

A .35 caliber automatic, believed to have been used in the robberies, was seized when Pike was arrested.

DR. COWEN, Credit Dentist

An open letter from DR. COWEN

I am receiving inquiries from many people who want to know whether it is necessary—in order to obtain dental care on credit—for them to join any of the new credit and charge plans which have recently been announced by the banks in this area.

The answer is definitely NO. In my offices, credit is offered to you without any restriction as to your bank account—without any requirements that you qualify for a bank loan, or any type of bank credit plan . . . in fact you don't have to have a bank account or charge account.

It has been my experience over the years that a simple, friendly, face-to-face discussion of the payment arrangements, right in my own offices, is the most satisfactory way to provide for people the type of credit plan that is best for them. People have different budget problems, so we do not try to make one rigid type of credit plan fit everyone; instead, we take the individual conditions into consideration, and we find that in practically every case we can work out a reasonable arrangement that will avoid financial hardship for the patient and his family.

It has always been my policy—and I am continuing this policy—to make NO EXTRA CHARGE OF ANY KIND FOR CREDIT. At the Dr. Cowen Offices there is never any interest charge . . . no carrying charge . . . no penalty whatsoever when you arrange for credit terms.

This is an important extra saving enjoyed by my patients. It means they obtain professional dental care at low cost . . . and the cost remains low, regardless of whether they prefer to pay cash, or to use my liberal credit plan and spread the small monthly payments over a long period of time.

There is no bank, no finance company, no loan company involved when you obtain dental care on credit at my offices. You don't pay one penny for interest or carrying charge—there is no "credit service" charge—I repeat, you pay no penalty whatsoever for liberal credit, on your own reasonable terms, at the Dr. Cowen Dental Offices.

I am proud to have been a pioneer in the introduction of credit into the practice of dentistry. It has resulted in better dental health for more people, particularly in the middle-income and low-income groups. And it has resulted in the building of large practices which make it possible to offer a complete modern dental service, conforming to the required professional standards, at economical prices. Men and women who are in need of Modern Dental Plates will find my Credit Plan most helpful and convenient.

AUTONETICS' Field Engineering forecasts show an expansion of more than 10 times present size in the next 5 years.

Our products are:
DIGITAL COMPUTERS
ARMAMENT CONTROLS
INERTIAL GUIDANCE
AUTOMATIC CHECKOUT CONTROLS
FLIGHT CONTROLS

If you have several years of field engineering experience on any of the above systems, but now wish an in-plant job that doesn't require travel, then you will definitely be interested in the excellent positions available in our Field Engineering Training Department. We will train you on our systems and you will then instruct new field engineers, customers, etc. Supervisory potential is good (degree preferred but not required).

If you prefer field engineering assignments, we offer either Navy or Air Force assignments. Liberal per diem, and thorough training on digital computers, and the various systems shown above.

Field assignments involve systems rather than components, on new long-range contracts such as:
MINUTE MAN
HOUND DOG
GUIDANCE FOR THE FOLARIS LAUNCHING SUBMARINE

PROBLEM!

To invent an angular position detecting device with electrical simplicity in the degree of operation in the VISIBLE and INFRARED.

RTT

The Radiation Tracking Transducer (RTT) solves this problem. Developed by Electro Optical Systems, Inc. engineers and scientists, it is a SINGLE element solid state device. Electrical output of this device varies in AMPLITUDE and PHASE as the radiating source moves across the field of view and varies sensitivities approaching that of extremely fast film.

EXAMPLE . . .

Of just one of the exciting and stimulating developments at EOS.

EXPLORE!

Some temporarily small technical problems are proving some challenging problems in the following research and development programs.

FLUID PHYSICS

Production & manipulation of ion beams, ionic physics, surface ionization phenomena, etc.

ENERGY RESEARCH

High rate electrochemical systems, vacuum ultra violet & thin film optics, advanced communications systems, advanced space power systems, etc.

SOLID STATE PHYSICS

Radiation tracking transducer, solid state aspects of recombination, thermoelectric effects in semiconductors, crystal growth processes, etc.

ADVANCED ELECTRONICS

Light modulation, Kerr cell effect, etc.

Ph.D., M.S. & B.S. Degrees

Citizenship required.

Laureldale, Pa.
and
Whippany, New Jersey

Western Electric, for over 90 years an acknowledged industry leader in communications equipment, is embarked upon a broad program of expansion. Important military commitments provide unusual opportunities for men of superior qualifications and training to apply their full skills in advanced areas of development and manufacturing engineering. Many of these assignments will involve close collaboration with the professional staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories in developing models and introducing new products into manufacture.

In addition to the experience with new concepts in engineering and personal satisfaction derived from contributing to challenging projects, engineers with appreciably more Western Electric benefits

- Parallel paths of advancement in engineering or management fields
- Tuition refund program
- Company-operated graduate engineering training program
- Premium hours within
- Liberal company paid benefit plan
- Employee stock purchase plan
- Liberal relocation allowance for hired and moving aids company assistance in locating suitable housing

Typical advanced projects under way at Western Electric:

NIKE ZEUS Anti-Missile Missile System - Missile Guidance Systems - Associated Ground Control Radar Systems - Fire Control Radar - Underwater Defense Systems - Digital Computers - Transistors and Circuits - Precision Electronic & Solid State Devices.

AN OPEN LETTER
TO THE
People of Long Beach

Dear Friends:

This letter is to inform you of our Appreciation Sale.

For the past 30 years we have had the pleasure and privilege of taking care of your automobile needs.

As in the past, we shall continue to warrant your confidence, sell you only good cars and always at a fair price.

No business or individual can give merchandise away without some profit. We are against such advertising.

We invite you to come in and look at our fine selection of fine cars.

by TERRY VERNON

Despite the return of "Dinah Shore" and "Jack Benny," the debut of "Dennis the Menace," the "World Series," etc., we must first congratulate the "new MAJOR" network, ABC, and its local outlet (7).

Today ABC comes of age and joins the other two majors in the field of programming. New tonight are "The Rebel" starring Nick Adams, at 9 p.m. and "The Alaskans" at 9:30 starring Roger Moore, Jeff York and Dorothy Provine. ("Hawaiian Eye" starts Wednesday and this takes care of our 49th and 50th states.) Other new shows this week are "Bourbon Street Beat" and "Adventures in Paradise" on Monday, "Philip Marlow" on Tuesday and "Man From Blackhawk" on Friday. Returning today are "Lawman" and "Colt .45."

"The Rebel" has had wide acclaim from its press preview and is a Mark Goodson, Bill Todman production. Young Nick Adams is a returnee from the Civil War who finds the town run by hoodlums, his father killed and the newspaper editor brainwashed. He cleans up the town, then moves on to other areas of the frontier for adventure after adventure.

"The Alaskans" opens by introducing the central characters to each other and to the viewers. Theme has them hunting for a broken sled supposedly heaped with gold and lost somewhere in the wilderness.

DAYTIME BRIEFS

"Theology and Jazz" (2) at 8:30 features Dave Brubeck's group and the Rev. Alvin Kershaw, latter one of the first winners on "$64,000 Question" . . . "Talk Back" debuts on (7) at 8:30 with Dan Riss a host. Drama and discussion about problems that concern Americans most according to a poll . . . Prince Aly Khan on "U.N. in Action" (2) at 9 a.m. . . . Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to "Face the Nation" (2) at 9:30 . . . "Dodgers Win Pennant" replay of Tuesday's 9th and 12th innings on (11) at 12 noon . . . Gov. Pat Brown on "770 on TV" (7) at noon . . . "World Series" in COLOR on (4) and (11) at 12:45 p.m. . . . Rams and 49ers on (2) at 1:30 from Frisco . . . Notre Dame-Purdue game on (13) at 1:30; USC-Ohio State (11) at 3:30 or after baseball via tape . . . Rep. James Roosevelt on "Cavalcade of Books" (2) at 4:30 . . . "Greatest Show on Water" is special on (4) at 5 p.m. filmed in Florida and featuring water ski champs . . . Oregon vs. Stanford teams on "College Bowl" (2) at 5:30 with Arthur Fleming, secretary of health, education and welfare as a guest.

6 p.m.

Dr. Robert Strausz-Hupe, director of the Foreign Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania, will "Meet the Press" (4).

"This Is Alice" is back on (11) early enough for the kiddies. She gets "helpful" to a millionaire and winds up with her father being sued.

7 p.m.

"Colt .45" (7) is back again with Wayde Preston again in the role of Chris Colt. He's on a Mississippi gambling boat staking his life in a gamble to prevent the enactment of a plot that could prove the downfall of two nations. (New time as "You Asked for It" moves to (13) and Colt's old spot goes to the new "Rebel.")

There's another "Riverboat" involved on (4) as Anne Baxter guests on this series that stars Darren McGavin and Burt Reynolds. A trio of farmers are out to stop a shipment of peaches that could save another's farm.

Timmy and "Lassie" (2) train a race horse on the sly and help a man out of a jam.

7:30 p.m.

"Dennis the Menace," well-known cartoon character, comes to life in the person of Jay North. First show has him giving his new baby sitter the slip by passing off his friend, Joey, as himself, then spends the evening in "innocent fun" at the neighborhood movie.

The full-time grave digger of a western town tells Bart "Maverick" (7) that most of his customers are provided by a man named Lindell. Bart sets out to make the acquaintance of this killer and this results in a full-fledged battle with Bart dodging bullets from all sides.

8 p.m.

Danny Thomas, whose own show returns Monday, will guest with "Ed Sullivan" (2) from Chicago. Other stars are Joe E. Lewis, Julius LaRosa, the Trio Rayros, Jane Morgan and the Marquis Chimps, all in New York.

COLOR — "Sunday Showcase" (4) with part two of "What Makes Sammy Run?" in which Sammy has everything that money can buy but he wants social position and a wife. He gets both by marrying a millionaire's daughter but this does not work out and he winds up a lonely man.

Taped from Saturday's game comes "UCLA-Pittsburgh" on (11).

8:30 p.m.

"Lawman" (7) is back again with John Russell and Peter Brown co-starred. Peggie Castle joins the cast as a regular in the role of a gambling-hall operator and entertainer. She arrives in town to set up her business and has a clash with the marshal, who suspects her of harboring a killer.

9 p.m.

COLOR for "The Dinah Shore Show" (4) as Dinah bounces back from her vacation to present Groucho Marx, Ingemar Johansson, Carl Reiner and Gwen Verdon . . . originating in New York. Dinah wears gowns by Balmain this week.

Raymond Massey, Everett Sloane, Whit Brissell and Robert Loggia are starred in "G.E. Theater" (2) in the first of 10 live-on-tape shows. "Hitler's Secret" concerns the beginnings of the rise to power of Hitler in 1934.

Monorail for L. A. is a controversial subject so "Dan Lundberg" (13) digs behind the scenes to get some facts for debate.

9:30 p.m.

"The Alaskans" (7) debuts and details are above.

A pretty young English bride of six months determines to remain faithful to her husband's memory, although her devoted friend tries to tell her she is wasting her life. Patricia Owens and James Donald star and Alfred Hitchcock personally directed this segment for "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2).

10 p.m.

The 10th season for "Jack Benny" starts on (2) with a demonstration of what the show will look like 30 years from now. Don Wilson, Dennis Day, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson and the Sportsmen quartet are all featured. He has this new time plus a new sponsor.

Bishop & Malco Sign Long Lease With $500,000 Modernization Set

Officials of Bishop & Malco, Inc., formerly Walker's department store, Fourth St. and Pine Ave., Saturday signed a new 59-year lease on their building and announced plans to modernize the store at a cost of about $500,000.

The new lease contemplates operation of the store until at least the year 2012, and the proposed remodeling program calls for extensive modernization of both the exterior and interior of the department store building, particularly the ground floor and mezzanines.

Plans for the project are now being completed, and the modernization work is scheduled to commence in February.

"The undertaking of this program is a demonstration of our confidence in the future of the Long Beach area," said Joseph F. Bishop, president of the Pine Ave. store, a Long Beach landmark since 1933.

Bishop said that both he and Leo C. Malco, vice president and general manager of the store, look forward to great growth and development in Long Beach, particularly the downtown area, in the years ahead.

• • • •

HE PREDICTED that new and proposed multiple apartment buildings, the new municipal hospitals, public safety building, court house, harbor administration building and the projected new multi-storied Edison building are but a sample of great development to come and said, "We are determined to keep in step with progress."

Bishop described the new exterior planned for the building as "our contribution to the aesthetic beauty of Long Beach." The existing cast stone exterior will be removed and replaced with porcelain enamel walls.

The parapet at the top of the existing structure will be removed, marquees will be extended along both Pine Ave. and Fourth St. sides of the building and glass walls will take the place of numerous display windows.

• • • •

THE GROUND FLOOR of the department store will be modernized completely.

"We will feature a luminous ceiling, install all new fixtures and arrange the merchandise to make shopping with us a real pleasure," said Malco.

Air conditioning will be added. A modern escalator system was installed two years ago at a cost of $150,000. The store is approximately 100,000 square feet in size, with 75,000 square feet of space devoted to merchandising.

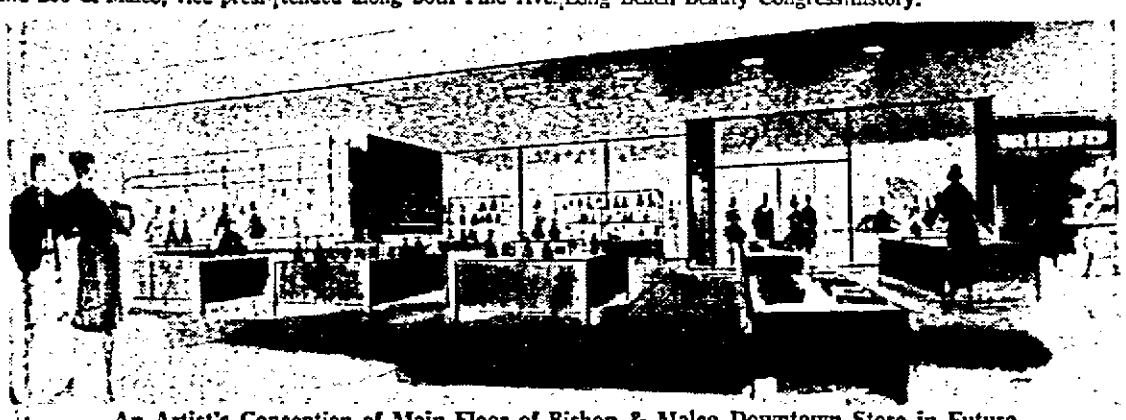

Both Bishop and Malco have outstanding records of community service. Bishop, a member and past president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners and past president of the Water Commission, the Long Beach Beauty Congress and Long Beach Retailers Associated, earlier this year was selected as "Citizen of the Year" by the Long Beach Exchange Club.

Bishop came to Long Beach in 1925 and has been in business at Fourth and Pine since that time. He first was with the Marti Department Store at that location, then Walker's and then the Bishop & Malco organization.

MALCO STARTED his business career as a stock boy with Walker's and worked his way up to his present position of vice-president, treasurer and general manager.

The announcement of the lease extension and modernization program coincides with the 26th birthday sale at the store.

"George Kidd, our assistant merchandising manager, combed the market in advance of this sale," said Malco, "and we believe we have the best merchandising values in our history."

New Downtown Site for Coast Federal

Coast Federal Savings and Loan Assn. has taken a long-term lease on the ground floor corner of the Buffum Hotel Building at 200 East Third St., corner of Locust, it was announced by Joe Crail, president of Coast Federal, and Dr. Robert L. Buffum for the building owners. The site will become the permanent location of Coast Federal's Long Beach office.

Extensive alterations are planned to both the interior and exterior. The plans will provide an attractive atmosphere for both the interior and exterior. With the use of planters, glass screens and the planting of trees in the sidewalk curb much will be added to the appearance of the location. Remodeling work will start immediately and it is planned that the new facilities will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 15.

• • • •

THE PRESENT OFFICE, 237 E. 1st St., held its grand opening a year ago September, under manager Rich Mathers. It will continue to serve until the new location is readied.

Coast Federal has reserves of over $30,000,000 or more than 10 per cent of savings captial, and over $100,000,000 in cash and government bonds as a part of total assets amounting to over $367,000,000, making Coast Federal the third largest financial institution of its type in world, Crail reported.

Directory Out Soon

New telephone directories for the customers in General Telephone's Long Beach service areas will be delivered starting Tuesday through Oct. 10, according to C. E. Scott, southern area general manager.

Scott pointed out that some 2200 customers in the Long Beach areas would have new telephone numbers, effective Oct. 11, and that the new numbers would appear in the new directory. Customers affected by the number change have already been notified by means of a notice in the monthly bill some months ago, he added. "The number changes became necessary owing to a realignment of central office facilities, necessitated by expansion," according to Scott.

The numbers changed were drawn from the HEmlock 2-'s 5-'s, 6-'s and 7-'s. The new numbers will begin with GArfield 6-.

Open House for Rental Units Today

Open House will be held today, sponsored by the Southern California Edison Co., at the "Kingston Apartments," a new Ben F. Marron apartment located at 4530 East Fourth St.

For the past 34 years the Ben F. Marron Co. has been building "own-your-own" apartments in the Long Beach area and this is the first time they have built a rental apartment with many of the features that are found only in own-your-own apartments.

Among the many features found in the "Kingston" are electric range and oven, 12-ft. refrigerator with freezer, disposal, snack bar, 20x40 swimming pool, large patio, and recreation area, lounge and laundry room, all-wool carpeting in decorator colors with drapes to match and Class A subterranean garages.

Hayes to Present Market Lectures

"How to Make Money in the Present Stock Market—How to Protect Yourself against Inflation — How to take Advantage of various Bull Market Opportunities—How to Protect yourself against losses in the Bear Market" will be a few of many topics of a free public lecture to be given by the D. E. Hayes Financial & Investment Institute Wednesday at Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave., starting 7:30 p.m.

Realtors Arriving for Meet

Realtors from every community in California will arrive in Los Angeles today to register for the 55th annual convention of the California Real Estate Assn. at the Biltmore Hotel.

Over 3,000 of the Realtors paid their registration fee in advance to avoid the congestion of registration at the hotel, according to James B. Clayton, Jr., of San Jose, president of the 30,000-member association. Arthur L. Loomis, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, official host for the meeting, reports that this will be the largest convention in the 55-year history of the state association, with the total registration expected to exceed 4,500.

• • • •

MORE THAN 80 sessions on specific real estate subjects are listed in the 40-page convention program covering all departments of real estate. An impressive list of nationally prominent speakers will address the general sessions which will be held in the Philharmonic Auditorium. The conferences, panel meetings and after-breakfast roundtable discussions will all be held in the Biltmore Hotel. Luncheon and banquet events will take place at the Beverly Hilton, Statler Hilton and Biltmore Hotels.

First event of the convention will be the CREA past presidents dinner this evening.

Promotion on Eastgate Homes Results Shown in Heavy Sales

The new 50 million dollar Eastgate residential community being built by Laramore Construction Co. in Garden Grove received the 1959 Achievement Award for the best home development promotion of the year at the annual awards dinner of the Orange County Advertising Agency Assn. in Santa Ana. The ward was accepted for Eastgate by William B. Stoops of Marketing Engineers, Santa Ana advertising agency, who is handling the Eastgate promotional program.

Now in its second month, the Eastgate program has been extremely successful, drawing crowds of thousands to view the model homes on display. In accepting the award, Stoops said that the development was also setting new records for buyer acceptance, with sales averaging more than 100 homes per week since the opening.

• • • •

PROMOTION ON the Eastgate community includes newspaper advertising and special promotional activities such as a weekly free holiday trip to Las Vegas.

Eastgate is one of the largest residential developments in Orange County history. In addition to 2,500 homes with original custom styling, special construction features and spacious floor plans for average income families, Eastgate has apartment units, a major shopping center, churches and recreation parks. Carefully planned, it has attractively landscaped streets, sidewalks, complete improvements and an ideal location in the center of Orange County's fastest growing residential area.

• • • •

THE EASTGATE HOMES have many features seldom found in homes in their price range of $11,950 to $14,450, spokesmen point out. A wide selection of exterior designs and floor plans is offered with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room and well-equipped kitchen. They have an attached double garage and a large yard area for outdoor family activities.

Special construction features include a plastic membrane moisture barrier in the foundation, rigid roof trusses, underground copper water piping, and a heavy-duty wiring system with both 110V circuits and 220V conduit installed.

Among the numerous built-in features of the homes are a waste disposal, linen cabinet, work center, recessed lighting, and aluminum frame sliding glass windows and patio doors with screens. The larger homes have wall-to-wall carpeting and a counter top gas range and wall oven. A wood-burning fireplace is optional in all models.

Families interested in visiting the Eastgate furnished model homes will find them conveniently located at the corner of Knott and Chapman Ave. in Garden Grove, just west of Hwy 33.

Dutch Haven Newest Unit Nearly Sold

One of the major contributing factors to the fast sales of the Dutch Haven College Series, has been the proximity of the new Orange County State College, according to salesmen for Luxury Home, Inc., builder of Dutch Haven.

The college site is just a block from the development, and will be one of the largest state colleges in the country, encompassing 240 acres with accommodations eventally for 30,000 students. Consequently many of sales have been to teachers and students who plan to further their education in various fields of higher learning.

• • • •

THE DUTCH HAVEN COLLEGE SERIES, is located in the east Fullerton-Anaheim area, in the city of Placentia, where the rolling hills and large trees create a natural back drop of scenic beauty.

These 3 and 4-bedroom homes with up to two full baths, are considered among the finest values in the southland, a spokesman adds. There are four homes left and are priced from $14,350, with payments as low as $79.50 per month, including principal and interest, and are available with no down to vets except small costs, low FHA terms as well as Cal-Vet terms.

From Long Beach, go east on South Street (which becomes Orangethorpe) proceed east on Orangethorpe to Placentia Ave. then left on Placentia to the development.

Chamber Installs Board of Directors

Ten more Long Beach business leaders have become directors of the 2,700 members to the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Those installed Wednesday for three-year terms are C. George Deukmejian, attorney; David Feuer, division manager, Insurance Securities Trust Fund; Hugh Gibbs, architect; Robert L. Irvin, public relations counsel; Ken L. Hemphill, E. J. Hemphill Co.; J. S. Jacobs, president, J. S. Jacobs Co.; Edward A. Killingsworth, partner, Killingsworth, Brady and Smith; Lloyd C. Leedom, real estate; J. E. McClintock, general manager, Pierpoint Landing Inc., and Robinson A. Reid, vice president, California Bank.

Also installed to the 36-member board were six directors appointed for one-year terms by President-elect Albert L. Code. They are William Becker, vice president, Max W. Becker, advertising; William J. Crawford, vice president, Belmont Savings and Loan Assn.; B. Ray Bilby, president, Ray and Eddy's Market; Jess W. Grundy, Hill Richards and Co.; George R. Johnson, Johnson and Johnson, attorneys, and Smith Newberry, plant superintendent, Douglas Aircraft Co.

• • • •

INCUMBENT members of the board served as hosts at the installation, which was held in conjunction with a formal dinner dance.

Incubent members are Llewellyn Bixby Jr., president, Bixby Land Co.; Samuel C. Cameron, general manager, Independent, Press-Telegram; Albert L. Code, district manager, Southern California Edison Co.; Donald M. Comfort, district manager, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co.; James C. Craig Jr., vice president, M. S. Nishkian's Engineering Firm Gets Atomic Energy Project

The consulting engineering firm of M. A. Nishkian & Co., 3754 Long Beach Blvd., announced they have been commissioned by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission at Idaho Falls, Idaho, to prepare plans and specifications for two highly specialized projects at Arco, Idaho.

One of the assignments awarded the Nishkian firm, is to prepare a comprehensive engineering study of the present and needed Chemical Reactor Steam Plant facilities. The second assignment calls for a special report on engineering work that will be required in connection with planned additions to the Material Testing Reactor Power Plant.

• • • •

KEY PERSONNEL of the Nishkian Company have already left for the Idaho project to begin preliminary work.

The local firm, headed by consulting engineer, M. A. Nishkian, has participated in over $40 million in government contracts here on the west coast, including not only top secret high level atomic energy contracts, but also numerous contracts with the Public Works department of the U. S. Navy.

Among recent Southern California Naval projects, engineered by Nishkian firm is the ultra-modern heating system at Camp Pendleton and the Jet Fuel Storage facilities at Naval Island, San Diego.

• • • •

NISHKIAN ACHIEVED national recognition for his introduction of a multi-building feeder-type steam generating plant and distribution system at Terminal Island for 11 independent fish canners. Later, the engineer's design of the County of Los Angeles Central Heating and Refrigeration Plant at the Los Angeles Civic Center, brought him additional laurels.

The new Long Beach gas compressor station is another engineering project of the Nishkian firm.

IN SHOWROOMS OCT. 8

Here is the Ford Starliner, the newest in the Ford line of 15 models of cars which will go on display at dealers' showrooms Oct. 8. The roof of this Starliner, a tudor hardtop, is one of three distinctly different roofs in the Ford line for '60.

Styling of Fords for '60 Advanced

By ART STEPHAN
L. P-T Auto Editor

The 1960 Ford represents a styling theme originally created for later use but brought forward because of the spontaneous enthusiasm of company management when they first saw the car in advance studios.

J. O. Wright, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager, said the 1960 Ford was redesigned from bumper to bumper because "we wanted to increase passenger space and comfort and improve the roadability and handling ease and performance."

He said, "After the car originally planned for 1960 was well under way, the advanced styling office showed us some designs for Ford Motor Company cars even farther advanced than our planned 1960 model.

"One of these was called 'Quicksilver'," he said. "It captured everyone's imagination immediately, and we began to explore the possibility of advancing it to the 1960 models. We were faced with a crucial decision involving millions of dollars.

"When the engineers pointed out that a complete new car also would enable them to design additional quality features into the vehicle, company management gave the go-ahead.

"One of the most important features of the new Ford," Mr. Wright said, "is that it has been 'comfort-engineered'. There is substantially more hip room, shoulder room, leg room and head room in the 1960 Ford than there was in the 1959 model—which ranked far above its competitors in these vital comfort areas.

"With the new body design, the new frame, redesigned suspension and improved power train, the 1960 Ford rides better, handles better and performs better than any Ford in history," Mr. Wright said.

Passenger comfort and convenience have been given particular attention in the design of the new Ford cars. New, swept-back windshield pillars have eliminated the troublesome "dog-leg" found in cars with the full-wrap windshield.

Yet, the new model Ford has 17 per cent more windshield area than last year's Ford, provides better visibility out over the hood, and has a windshield wiper pattern one-third greater than in 1959.

Ford's "posture-perfect" seats permit the driver and passengers to sit in comfort on foam padding and at what Ford research has proven to be the most comfortable seating angle.

Adding to the convenience of the new Ford line are such features as a trunk opening that is only 27 inches from the ground, a foot-operated parking brake with the release knob located on the instrument panel, and two-stage door checks.

The 1960 Ford line includes 15 models that offer a total of six different roof lines. At the low end of the line is the Fairlane series, which includes a two- and four-door sedan and a business Tudor. In the Fairlane 500 series are two models, a two- and four-door sedan. The popular Galaxie series, with its own Thunderbird-styled roof, includes a two- and four-door sedan, plus a four-door hardtop called the Town Victoria.

The Starliner, a new two-door hardtop entry in the Ford line, is one of two special models. The action-styled Starliner features a unique "fast-back" roof that sweeps gracefully back to blend with the elegant rear deck. The other special model is the Sunliner, Ford's soft-top convertible.

Lemon Heights No. 2 Draws Big Throng

Custom homes at Lemon Heights No. 2 have been drawing record crowds since the announcement that Schwartz-Yedor, builders of this community in the Tustin-Santa Ana Lemon Heights West District have, for the second successive year, won Better Living Award", reports Tom Yedor, of the building firm.

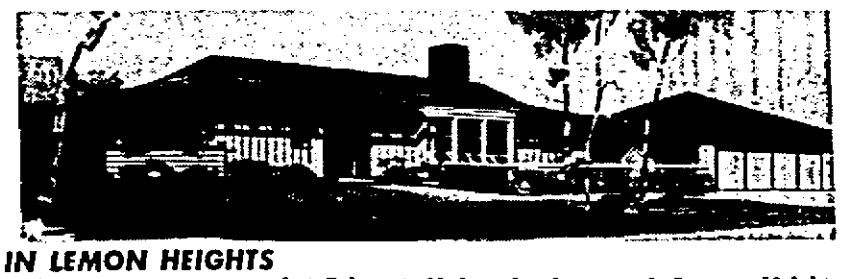

Typical of the "better living" features that earned the award are the spacious interiors which encompass 2,200 square feet of actual living area, Yedor pointed out. Flexible plans, available in a wide selection of distinctive architectural designs, offer a choice of 3 and 4 bedrooms and 3 baths, in addition to family rooms, separate dining rooms as well as dining areas, master-bedroom suites with private bath, powder rooms and unique sunken playrooms.

INCLUDED TOO, are such "better living" features as wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning and heating systems, custom-designed fireplaces, expanses of window walls and sliding glass doors and appliance-equipped kitchens.

Available on excellent conventional terms, Yedor said, the luxuriously appointed homes are fully priced from $34,375.

From Long Beach, models are reached by driving east on 7th St. to Harbor Blvd. Turn right to Westminster which becomes 17th St. in Santa Ana. Follow 17th St. east to Hewes, then turn north to Spaulding, and west to the homes.

Or take Santa Ana Freeway to the 17th St. turnoff in Santa Ana, follow 17th St. Hewes, north on Hewes to Spaulding to the develop- Spauldiing to the development.

IN LEMON HEIGHTS

Recent announcement that Schwartz-Yedor, developers of Lemon Heights West No. 2 in the Tustin-Santa Ana Lemon Heights West District, won McCall's "Congress on Better Living Award" is drawing record throngs to this community of custom homes, officials report. Here is one model.

Telephone Man Gets Service Award

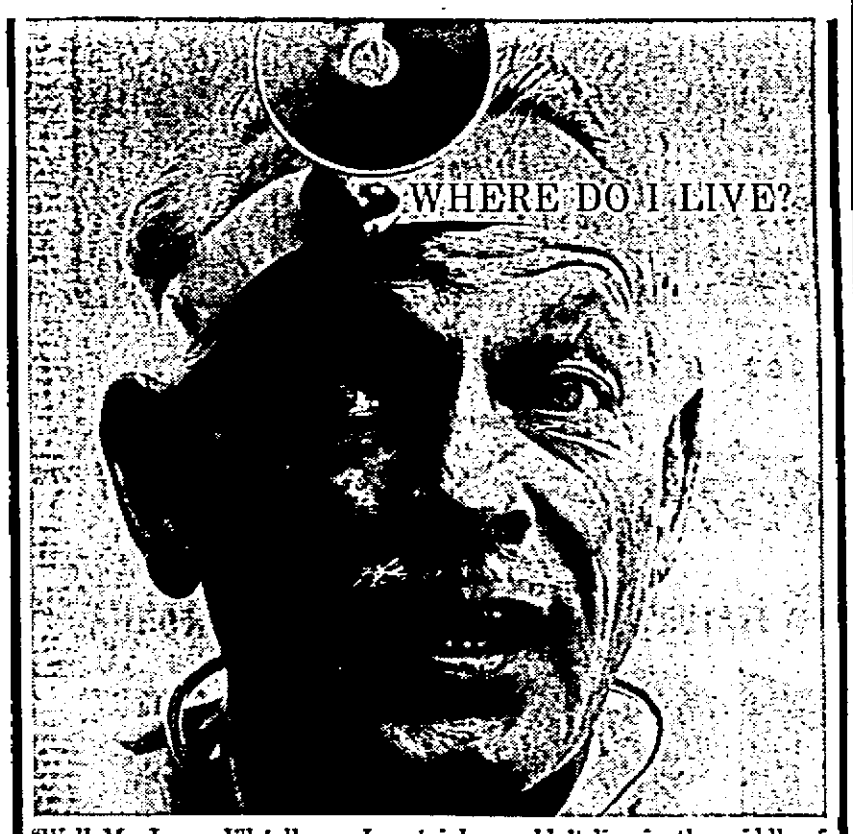

Member of a "telephone family," William H. Rough, station repairman for General Telephone Co. in Long Beach, received his 25-year service award from C. E. Scott, Long Beach division manager and Robert Taylor, main district manager.

Other members of Rough's family who work for General, include his daughter, Mrs. Betty Brazil, customer supervisor of Santa Monica, and a granddaughter Wendyl Edwards, desk clerk in the Long Beach office. A telephone man since 1916, Rough joined General's staff in Long Beach 25 years ago. His home is 711 West Broadway.

Ralph J. Davidson has been appointed district sales manager for the Pacific Southwest by Grayson Controls Division, Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Co., according to H. F. Jacobsmeyer, general sales manager. Davidson has been a Grayson sales representative since 1956. Previously, he was associated with Signal Oil and Gas Co.

"Well, Mr. Jones, I'll tell you. I certainly wouldn't live in the middle of smog, like others do, and here's why: according to a Los Angeles County Medical Association survey, 60 per cent of physicians specializing in chest ailments had recommended that patients leave the smog area. So had 51 per cent of internists and 50.6 per cent of general practitioners! They advised this because their patients were suffering from eye irritation, chest pains, cough, shortness of breath, nausea, headache—and so on. Not good for adults—and assuredly not good for children. Now, why not move your family out where I live? Clean ocean air, smog-free, water sports, golf, tennis, plenty of shopping facilities. Oh, didn't I tell you the name of the location, yet? It's Grandview Palos Verdes!"*

Golden Key Has New 1960 Homes

The new, 1960 Rod and Reel mobile homes are now on display at the Golden Key Trailer Sales, 7032 Orangethorpe Ave., Buena Park.

The 10-foot wide homes are larger this year and come in three lengths, 47, 51 and 55 feet.

The buyer has his choice of Danish Modern or Provincial interiors.

The Golden Key Trailer Sales opened Mar. 15, 1959 and in seven short months has become the leading Rod and Reel mobile home dealer in California.

Heading the successful firm are Jack Stansbury and Frank Vogel, two well known Bellflower businessmen.

"We attribute our success to the fact that we give more liberal discounts and a greater trade-in allowance than our very stiff competitors," Stansbury and Vogel said.

"Also adding to our sales leadership is our excellent service department headed by Howard Henry, a veteran in mobile home service.

"Our service after sale record is unexcelled and the result has been shown by the number of new customers brought here by well satisfied, old customers," Vogel and Stansbury declared.

"Non - pressure" salesmen at the Golden Key lot are Art Marquez, Kenny Eien, Jim Bourgeouis and Dick Hill.

"They all thoroughly know the construction, floor plans and many advantages of Rod and Reel mobile homes," Vogel and Stansbury said.

"Each step of the sale is carefully explained to customers and in that manner, we avoid any misunderstandings.

"This policy of knowing our product and its advantages instead of hiring high pressure salesmen to sell some cheap, shoddy product at exhorbitant prices has been another great help in making Golden Key the Rod and Reel sales leader," Stansbury and Vogel emphasized.

Golden Key is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day except Sunday when the lot is closed.

Stansbury and Vogel said they have also found that their policy of taking equities in homes, second trust deeds or anything of value in trade on a modern mobile home has helped them attain sales leadership.

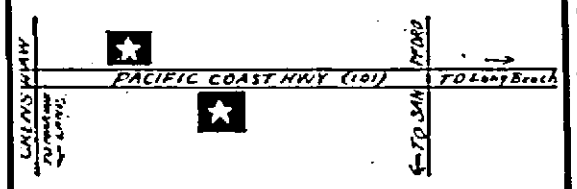

"We have found that many elderly people have raised their families and now are alone and retired want to trade their equities in their houses on a new Rod and Reel mobile home," Stansbury and Vogel explained.

"For they recognize that once in their mobile home they will no longer have a large house to spend hours in cleaning, no gardening and will have their choice of living in a large number of beautiful trailer parks with swimming pools and clubhouses.

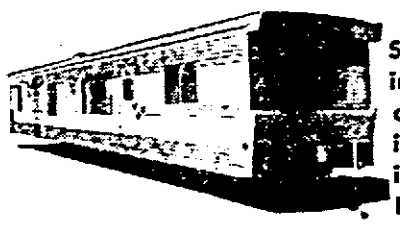

"Golden Key invites prospective mobile home purchasers to call us and make arrangements for them to visit the modern Rod and Reel mobile home factory in nearby Cypress and see the advances made in the mobile home industry.

"We believe this will induce many to join the large, growing group of happy mobile home owners," Vogel and Stansbury said.

Mobile HOME LIVING

By BERNICE MAY

With vacations nearly over, many plans are under way at Long Beach Trailer Estates, 6541 Atlantic Ave., for recreation and entertainment this fall and winter.

Carolyn Ward is in charge of our Halloween party. Judges have been chosen and they will award prizes for the best masquerade costume.

Dora Kortz will be entertainment chairman this month and Irene Shaffer will assist her. Our first event was a covered dish dinner Saturday in the clubroom. Bingo topped off the evening.

The Canasta club held its usual meeting with Alice Van Hyning as hostess.

Carolyn Ward, a beginning bridge player, has shown the regular members of the Bid-Em-Hi Bridge Club how to play the game. She was the winner two weeks in succession.

LAST WEEK, however, Ruth Topper won high score at the club meeting held in Matilda Sapp's mobile home.

Roy and Lucille Hoffman have returned from visiting relatives and friends in Kansas City. They report they had a good time, but are happy to be home.

Faye Mitchell is visiting her mother in St. Louis, Mo.

Pearl Thomas attended a cocktail party aboard the liner Matsonia in Long Beach harbor when her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Chandley sailed for Hawaii.

Carl and Laverne Green are the proud grandparents of a baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shelton.

JAMES KELLY is ill in Community Hospital. His friends and neighbors all wish him a speedy recovery.

Grace and John Kingdom, who spend their winters here, celebrated their golden wedding Sept. 13 at Hitchcock, S. D. Their daughter, Juanita came from Alaska to spend the happy occasion with them. Mr. and Mrs. James Kingdon, who live at the estates, also attended and they report the John Kingdons will soon be back with us.

New arrivals at Trailer Estates include Eleanor and Bud Hollins, who formerly lived in the Lakewood area. They have lived in this area for 32 years.

Lonnie and Mae Roberson and their 1960 Golden State and Nel Lindemann and her new Fleetwood are other new arrivals.

Agnes McGarvie entertained her daughter and her children during the past week. They are from San Diego.

Park Avalon Trailer Lodge

By ANN RILEY

The ladies enjoyed a workfree morning today as the men prepared and served breakfast from 8 to 10 a.m. in the recreation hall.

However, it will be the ladies turn next Saturday. On that day they will serve a pot-luck dinner in the recreation hall beginning at 7 p.m.

Life at Park Avalon Trailer Lodge, 750 E. Carson St., Torrance, continues to revolve around the recreation hall.

The Tuesday evening bingo games there continue to attract large crowds, but there is still room for more players. The same applies to the Wednesday evening card games.

The hall was also the scene of the first social hour of the season and some 40 residents and their guests enjoyed a picture on tuna fishing shown by Mr. Davis.

Four former residents of the Gardena Trailer Lodge, Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Irene Sheetz, Mrs. Frances Plantz and Florence Lockbrom entertained a group of their former Gardena neighbors at a luncheon in the recreation hall. The hall was tastefully decorated in yellow.

AMONG THOSE attending the luncheon was Mrs. Ida Anthoney, Mrs. Delene Roberts and Mrs. Betty Schadle.

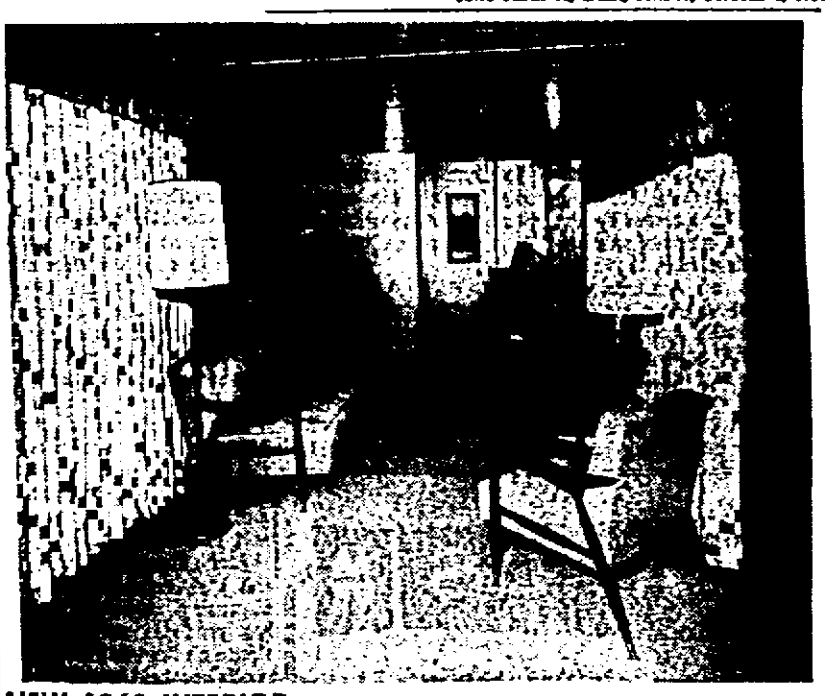

Managers Merle and Bernice Herbert entertained Mr. and Mrs. Gordon from Avalon Carson Trailer Park and Mrs. Jack Cable from Starlight Trailer Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeCette of South Pasadena visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Emery.

New tenants at Park Avalon include Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alberson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. William Denman, all of whom formerly lived in Avalon Carson Trailer Park.

Sign Top Act for Big Show

With the announcement that entertainment king, Louis Armstrong would head the all-industry dinner-dance Friday, Oct. 23 at the Chi Chi, climaxing Trailer Coach Association's Ninth Annual Travel Trailer Show and Rally at Palm Springs, John O'Connor, TCA executive director, also announced completion of plans for a full range of other activities.

High-style fashion creator George Beebe of Palm Springs will once again stage the Friday noon fashion show, planned for dealers' wives. Howard Manor Hotel, scene of past shows, will again host the show-luncheon, set for 1 p.m. with a price of $3 placed on the event.

The all-industry Golf Tournament will again be held at Indian Wells Country Club, located 14 miles south of Palm Springs on Indio Highway. The first tee-off time is at 8 a.m., according to Show Committee Chairman, Roy Clayton, president of Terry Coach Mfg. Co.

Other social activities to follow on "Playday," according to Entertainment Committee Co-Chairmen Bernie Miller and Warner Hamlen, will be the always popular Chuckwagon breakfast in the South Palm Canyon, also scheduled for 8 a.m. Guitar music by strolling troubadors will highlight an old-fashioned feed of flapjacks, eggs, ham and coffee.

According to Clayton, more than 2,000 feet of new-model travel trailers will be on the exhibit line at the Polo Grounds. Exclusive industry days are from Oct. 21 through 23. Public will be admitted free starting at Friday noon, Oct. 23.

Record Holiday Season Brightens U. S. Outlook

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

It's Christmas in the wholesale markets with merchants preparing for a record holiday season and a record sales total for all of 1959.

Income of consumers is high. The experts estimate that disposable income for the nation will approximate an annual rate of $344 billion in the fourth quarter, a gain of $21 billion over a year ago. Disposable income is personal income after taxes—spending money.

International Statistical Bureau looks for consumer spending for the remainder of the year to exceed the gain in income.

• • • •

IT IS EXPECTED the general public will buy heavily of both durable and non-durable goods with the greater gain in the durables. This is a sign of prosperity. In times of recession, consumers switch their buying to necessities and avoid the durables. Durables include appliances and automobiles.

Automobile men look for an increase of 12 per cent or more in sales for December.

In the areas which haven't been hit by the steel strike merchants look for heavier buying of higher priced items generally and a tendency to buy more luxury items.

Not a small amount of the buying for the remainder of the year will add to consumer credit totals, including department store charge accounts and instalment credit.

Prof. Thomas G. Gies of the University of Michigan, discussing consumer credit, has produced an interesting figure on the value of durable goods now held by consumers. Allowing for depreciation, he places this figure at an astounding $200 billion.

• • • •

PROFESSOR GIES LOOKS FOR sharp advances in instalment credit and wouldn't be surprised to see the figure mount to $100 billion in the next two decades, more than double the current figure.

Consumer credit currently is around $45 billion and the experts look for it to mount during the remainder of the year a rapid rate despite tight money at high rates of interest. All of which reflects confidence by the consumers, the economists point out.

Should there be a lessening of international tensions, as many think may come, the tendency on the part of consumers would be to spend more and save less, according to mercantile economists.

Helping the retail trade volume this year, the several factors are topped by increasing employment which has generated better consumer psychology. Store executives find consumers in a better buying mood.

• • • •

IT IS ESTIMATED that the volume of goods sold during the holidays will rise 7 per cent or more over the levels of last year. And last year set a record high in holiday trading and in sales generally.

Stores selling better and higher priced merchandise to make a more favorable showing than those handling medium-low and lower-priced items as the tastes rise to luxuries and semi-luxuries.

International statistical bureau believes the Christmas 1959 atmosphere will be one of the most favorable in history.

"It will be sufficient to result in the greatest gift giving year on record," says the bureau which watches and reports on details of trade.

"Public buying of more expensive items will be evident. This will be favorable to new items introduced."

The bureau looks for a gain of 10 per cent in December sales of furniture and appliances, and expects the trend to durable goods demand to continue upward for more months, probably through the first half of 1960 and possibly through the third quarter of 1960.

Bust of Lincoln Up Soon

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — world's largest bronze head of Abraham Lincoln will soon take its place at the highest point of the transcontinental highway that bears his name.

The head was sculptured in clay by University of Wyoming Prof Robert Russin and cast in bronze at the famous Fundicion Artistica Foundry in Mexico City.

It will go into place Oct. 18 looking out over U. S. Highway 30—the Lincoln Highway—at the route's highest point, 9,000 feet above sea level, about 10 miles southeast of here.

• • • •

RUSSIN MADE 63 separate plaster sections of his clay bust and shipped them to Mexico City. He personally supervised the casting into bronze and accompanied the statue from Mexico City back here by train.

The bronze head, which represents Lincoln during the war years, stands 12½ feet high. With its base of rough-cut native red granite, it will rise 43 feet and weigh three tons.

The unveiling will be the realization of a 12-year-old dream for Russin.

• • • •

"WE STOPPED at the summit once and I told my wife that it seemed to me to be a wonderful place for a head of Lincoln," he explained.

Come on in, Santa...the Water's Fine!

EXPERTS IN BUSINESS OF YULE DECOR—traditional or startling—members of Community Hospital Auxiliary demonstrate their prowess with purpose each holiday season by staging Christmas Decor Tour through outstanding homes as hospital benefit. This year's tour, centered in Los Cerritos area, is slated from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Dec. 3 under chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Goosman. Santa's helper, Mrs. William Todd, perches on diving board to decorate floating Christmas tree, while Mrs. Rustan Hicks checks wiring in colorful candy cane to be seen in one of six tour homes.—(Staff photo by Roger Coar.)

Community Hospital Unit Sets Decor Tour Dec. 3

By JOYCE KENT

Entertaining out-of staters during the Christmas season?

Be sure and include on their sightseeing itinerary Long Beach Community Hospital Auxiliary's Christmas Decor Tour Dec. 3.

Nothing will sell them more completely on the charm and wonder of Southern California than its answer to the White Christmas. A gaily decorated Christmas tree — bright sunlight reflecting on the baubles — afloat in a swimming pool!

* * * *

THE SEA-GOING Christmas tree pictured on this page is just one of hundreds of holiday decorative ideas to be presented during the scheduled tour of six homes in the Los Cerritos area.

On view from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, 4225 Chestnut Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Frank, 4004 Country Club Dr.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rodgers, 4235 Country Club Dr.; Dr. and Mrs. Max Hirschman, 4220 Virginia Rd.; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Schug, 611 Devon Pl., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peterson, 512 Devon Pl.

Although still two months away, the tour has been in planning since early summer under chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Goosman. Serving on her committee are Mmes Bruce Zacher, Earl D. Jones, Elmer E. Lenz, John J. Erwin and Everett Christensen.

* * * *

TEA WILL be served throughout the day in two homes, while the other four will be set up for sale of Christmas cards, gifts, homemade cookies, candy and fruitcake. Hostesses include Mmes. Orville Harper, Archie Belshe, J. Malcolm Johnson, Don R. King, Wayne Kalayjian and Royal Stanton.

Tickets which will be available from any auxiliary member are being handled by Mrs. George Moore. Other chairmen are Mrs. Lyle Gardner, cookies; Mrs. William Sparrer, candy, and Mmes. Glenn Manning and Richard Hoard, fruitcakes.

BPW Clubs Spotlighting Women's Role in Business

Throughout the nation there are 3,426 Business and Professional Women's Clubs with more than 174,000 members, intent, not only on celebrating National Business Women's Week, which begins today, but on informing the general public of the tremendous role women play in the over-all success of American business.

The four local BPW clubs — Long Beach National, Margaret Ives, Manuela Nieto and Belmont Shore — join forces each year in sponsoring activities of the week. Major event is a citywide contest to select the year's most outstanding careerist and bestow upon her the title, "Miss or Mrs. Business and Professional Woman of Long Beach."

* * * *

AN IMPARTIAL panel of judges makes the final selection, scoring contestants for a wide variety of attributes in addition to career accomplishment.

Contestants are suggested for the title by clubs to which they belong, employers, fellow employes or organizations aware of their exceptional abilities and background. Finalists are, and have been throughout the three year history of the contest, of such outstanding caliber that each could wear the crown.

However, only one can be the winner and she will be named at a gala banquet at the Petroleum Club Monday evening. This year's contest judges, chairmanned by Mary Lou Zehms, Women's Editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram, are Mrs. Julia Arri, president, Sierra Mar District BPW; Vito Romans, manager, Long Beach Retailer's Assn.; Vernon Hinze, principal, Lakewood High School; June Doherty, executive secretary, International Beauty Congress; and Antoinette Oster, well known local business woman. Lois Smith, classified advertising manager of the I-PT, last year's winner, will make the presentation to her successor.

Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, president of Long Beach State College, will be distinguished guest speaker of the evening. Special entertainment will be provided by Jean Hockney, soprano, LBSC coed.

* * * *

GENERAL chairman for all of this week's activities is Mrs. Marion Mundal, president of Long Beach

'ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE'

Community Players Will Raise Curtain on Big Awards Party

By Iola Masterson

With the general theme, "All the World's a Stage," third annual awards dinner of Long Beach Community Playhouse will be presented next Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Petroleum Club. From curtain to curtain—or, in this case, from salad to dessert—the night will provide a bountiful share of suspense, drama, entertainment and originality.

For suspense, seldom does anything on stage come close to topping the tingling excitement that always builds up to the moment when presentation of awards to best actors and actresses of the year are made.

* * * *

CANDIDATES for honors this year are being made public today by Morris Holmquist, chairman of the awards committee, which sifted and compared talents of players after each production, then made final selection by secret ballot.

Competitors are: leading male actor — Theo Boyd, Marvin Cloyd, Keith Houdyshell, Salvatore Mungo and Bill McIntyre; best leading woman — Kathy Davis Crump and Jeannie Danis; best supporting actor—Phil Hattery, Lloyd Martin, Rodney McKindric and Art Schwerin; best supporting actress — Claudene Atkinson, Ferne Branstetter and Alvetta Kay. No selections were made this year for best juvenile or bit part.

THE "MRS. WALTER CASE AWARDS" were named in honor of the woman who directed the theater's destinies for 30 years and is currently still very active, serving as business administrator. Popularly known as "Ethels," 57 of the golden statuettes have been awarded since the annual event began.

Plays of the year will be featured in conversational table decorations being arranged by Grace Hurt assisted by Betty Ledridge and in skits to be staged under direction of Art Schwerin. Best play of the year will be determined by popular vote of next Sunday's dinner guests.

* * * *

GUEST OF honor at a 6:30 p.m. reception preceding dinner will be Herbert Yenne, long-time and popular director of the Playhouse, who moved to Colorado on retirement a few years ago. Greeting guests with Yenne will be Mrs. Case, Larry Johns, current director, and members of the board of directors.

"Production managers" of the evening are June Doherty, dinner chairman; Marvin Cloyd, Playhouse president, and Salvatore Mungo, master of ceremonies.

SUSPENSEFUL as hit mystery drama (final scene, third act!) for Long Beach Community Playhouse actors and actresses will be next Sunday's third annual awards banquet at Petroleum Club. June Doherty (left), dinner chairman, and Marvin Cloyd, Players' president, both know big question Sunday, however, won't be "who done it?" but "who won it?" They are pictured with Mrs. Walter Case Award statuettes—known as "Ethels"—to be presented to best players of year. Total of 57 have been awarded to date.—(Staff photo.)

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

HERE WE are in the middle of a wonderful series—(pardon!)—season, we mean, and the bases (wups) days are loaded—(no, no, the word is filled)—filled with rhubarbs—(that isn't right either!) The days are filled with talk about . . . ah, ta heck with it. The days are filled with talk about ball and we don't mean dance. CHARGE!

"Charge"

(And don't youse Bums forget youse is Angels now).

The Salvation Army's civilian Christmas committee got in some snappy batting practice early Wednesday morning at the Lafayette Hotel, setting plans to help that wonderful outfit with all phases of its holiday cheer program. On the mound was chairman Margery Procter, pitching ideas like it was the top of the ninth and nobody out.

Catching (on) fast were team mates Corrine Fay, chairman of the board of directors, Ellsworth Beam, Wes Rollo, Norman Masterson, Gene Bishop and Army men, Major Howard Sloan and Lt. Lee Lindsay. They know there will be at least 15,000 people who will need help during the holidays and that means everyone trying to provide that help has got to play head's up ball for charity.

Incidentally, if any sorority or club would like to join the team—for an inning or the whole game—just call Major Sloan at the Salvation Army office.

IT WAS a round tripper and everyone safe for "Sandy" and Dick Morgan and Helen and Dr. Larry Spaulding who returned Wednesday morning from a European vacation. They left Aug. 28 by stratocruiser for such un-series conscious places as England (rugby, anyone?), France (en garde?), Austria (bicycling?), Switzerland (shall we climb?), Germany, Holland and Ireland. Why did they come back to the U.S. so soon? Are you KIDDING?

POUNDING around third and ready to slide home are Mattie and Kenny Henry. Newly acquired by the Alamitos Heights League, they'll settle into their new clubhouse on Ultimo Ave. in a day or two. Maybe they've stolen a base on us and are heading for the showers out there right now.

INTERNATIONAL education has another new and charming ambassadress in the person of Patricia Ann Carmody, daughter of Rita and Dick Carmody, who left Stanbridge Ave. Pat left last month for Spain and now is in Madrid (where did it finish in the pennant race?) where she will attend the U. of Madrid for the next year, "farmed out" from studies at Occidental with other Oxy coeds.

THEY POPPED out on a high fly Thursday morning. In other words, we're trying to tell you that Fern and Edwin Richards flew away on a jet 707 for Washington, D. C. to spend a week, then New York for a week, Boston for a week, back to New York for a week, and then home. Friends are keeping the Richards' television set well exercised for them, you can be sure, while they bird-sit with Fern and Edwin's many fine, feathered. Really.

CAUGHT 'EM looking at Jim Crooker's Chevvie emporium Tuesday night. The grandstands were packed with fans getting a preview glimpse at the traditional cocktail party ushering in the new model season. There were so many people it was something like the pitcher's view of the Coliseum will be today. A few of those seen scouting the situation were Lois and Bill Smith, Betty and Tom McCrae, Marge and Al Davis, Bill Kummer, Margaret and Bill Wallace, Peggy Gates (Earl was in Chicago, where else?), Werner Ruehti, "Mac" and Ruth Todd, Mary and Reg Barden, Peggy and George Cain, Ginny and Bob Hall, Hester and Brewster Gray (foreign car dealer Bruce was watching play pretty close in the opposing club's little league material), George Craig, Marvin Davis and Dick Browning (U. S.-type car dealer Richard always scouts the opposition like this. For him it's an Olds, Olds story).

WILY PARTY managers Barbara and Jack London and Jimmie and Don Nutter are switching strategy in their plans for today. They're co-hosting what started out to be a splash party at the Nutter's ocean front home. However, they've reversed the batting order and are pinch hitting with a watch and cheer affair at least during game time. They've rounded up enough portable TV sets to convert any place on the strand into a front seat in the stands for their guests. In addition to peanuts and Crackerjack they'll keep the fans happy with a smoked turkey dinner.

THERE'S going to be some mighty fine viewing provided by all three leagues today — American, National and Assistance. While two of them keep busy with hickory and horsehide in another part of the county, Assistance Leaguers will "take to the field" at their own clubhouse, 4th and Nieto, from 1 to 5 p.m. to hostess an Oriental tea and open house. The public is invited to come to the party and see the many art treasurers from the Far East at league headquarters.

President Marian Ritner and Jerry Green, tea chairman, will greet guests with members of the board. Dorothy Goodknight, chairman of the league's exceptional collection of art objects, and her committee will escort visitors and explain to them the history of the various treasures.

BATTING 1000% as party hosts were Delphine and Charles Wagner at their sparkling midnight buffet party following the Pops Concert last Saturday in honor of Amparo Iturbi, concert guest artist. About 80 guests enjoyed the extra inning of pleasure. Among those who chatted over punch, served around the pool, then chose delectable food from the Polynesian inspired buffet fare were Long Beach Philharmonic Orchestra director Lauris Jones and his wife, Jean, Mrs. Iturbi's daughter and grandson, plus Donna and Lee Foust, the Rex Hodges, Carolyn and Don Raney, Esther Bly, Laura and Ed Killingsworth, Jessie Lee and Don Malcolm, Evelyn and Walter Scott and the upcoming young artist, Francesco Sorianello. Assisting the hosts were Florence Wagner, Jean Doody, Mrs. Ina Wagner and the hosts' daughter, Lynnette.

AT COMISKEY Park the White Sox were hosts on Friday but at the Petroleum Club it was the Nylon Hose who stole the spotlight as Vi Hunter and Marion Groshong co-hostessed a welcome to fall card luncheon. If there were any runs it wasn't off Drysdale but on an accidental snag. The group of 60 women present included several of Vi's new found friends from Friendly Hills (that figures) as well as long time friends from Long Beach. Following punch on the terrace and luncheon all players were on deck—bridge or canasta, that is.

Boating Luau Sets Pace for Local Party 'Pirates'

There wasn't a more gleeful crowd in the country last Saturday than fans and fellow guests of Mary Alice and Les Dahl and Caroline and Bill Hardcastle when the two couples entertained at a "boating luau."

"Dr. Facsimile"

In Hawaiian dress, or reasonable facsimile, the natives met at the Dahls for 1 p.m. cocktails. Then, in less time than it takes to say, "Pirates," they acted like same, boarding the hosts' boats for a harbor cruise, returning about the bottom of the ninth or a little later.

Partaking of the day's pleasures were Marvelle and Bob McNulty, Artice and "Nick" Nicolaus, Madge and Hal Halvorsen, Otto Beck, Agnes Evans, Ralph Smith, Zelma Schooling, Louise and Lee Waldron, Leona and Glenn Price, Florence Durham (George was off hunting), Ed Strong, Barbara Hardcastle and Diane Dahl.

Mrs. William Howard Culver

Balboa Bay Club Dinner Honors Newlywed Pair

Judge and Mrs. Frank C. Charvat entertained recently at a family dinner at Balboa Bay Club honoring the marriage of their daughter, Jean, to William Howard Culver in Santa Barbara.

The newlyweds are at home in Los Angeles following a honeymoon trip to Catalina and Santa Ynez Valley.

Mrs. Culver received her early schooling in Long Beach and was graduated from Stanford University. She was awarded a certificate of merit following a year's study at the Sorbonne in Paris, and later earned a master's degree in European history at USC.

• • • •

SHE NOW is working toward a doctorate in history at USC and has been elected to membership in Phi Alpha Theta.

Her husband, son of William Sloan Culver of Appleton, Wis., and the late Ruth Tufts Culver, received a bachelor of science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Xi. He received his master's degree at UCLA, and will receive his doctorate in physics at that school next June.

Fleet Officers Wives Meeting

Fleet Officers Wives Club will meet Thursday at 11:45 a.m. in Allen Center for cocktails. After luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Hisashi Ohta of Kamakura, Japan, will demonstrate Sumi painting and will judge a few Japanese articles that husbands have brought from Japan. Ohta is an instructor at Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles and conducts a class in Sumi painting in Long Beach.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Vernice Putman.

Long Beach Woman Holds Top Presidential Placement

Mrs. George F. Taubman Jr. of Long Beach is one of 10 California women holding top Presidential appointments, a survey, "Women in the Public Service, 1959," reveals. The summary, published annually by the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, is the sole U.S. source of data on women's progress at national, state, and county levels of politics and government.

The record shows that during his two administrations, President Dwight D. Eisenhower has appointed 218 women to high-level positions in government, the diplomatic service, on boards and commissions. An additional 190 appointments by cabinet officials and agency heads brings the total to 408.

• • • •

IN ADDITION, a 37-percent spurt in a single year has shot to an all-time high the number of women holding statewide elective positions. A peak number, 347, sit in state legislatures, in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The number of women elected to the U.S. Congress remains at its crest of 17, first reached in 1955. Today 41 women serve as elected secretaries of state, state auditors, judges, superintendents of public instruction or in other state elective posts. This is an increase of 11 over the 1958 figure.

MRS. TAUBMAN serves as alternate U.S. representative, Executive Board, United Nations Children's Fund. She recently has returned from a meeting of the UNICEF executive board at United Nations, New York.

Other California appointees to important posts are Dr. Ruth Abernathy, Los Angeles; Dr. Anna Espenschade, Berkeley; Mmes. Rollin Brown, Los Angeles; Norman Chandler, Los Angeles; Faye Hartman, San Diego; Helen F. Lengfeld, San Mateo; Mildred Younger, Los Angeles; Ben Gage, Los Angeles, and Miss Frances E. Willis, Redlands.

DBE Meet Tuesday

Hawaii Comes to Benny

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
L. P-T Women's Editor

Thirty years ago a young man left his home in Hawaii with nothing more than talent and ambition to sail for the California coast. Under his arm was a ukulele. He was determined to become the best uke player and singer in the United States. And he did. Now, 30 years later, after fulfilling this desire, Benny Nawahi, called "King of the Ukulele," is residing in Long Beach. He never has returned to the islands to visit his 10 brothers and sisters.

Since Benny couldn't go to them, one of his older sisters, Mrs. Louisa Helenihi, has come to him. Mother of 15 grown children, and a grandmother many times, Mrs. Helenihi arrived last month for an extended visit in the Southland with Benny and a daughter, Mrs. Verl Sullivan of Buena Park.

* * * *

IT HAS taken her many years to realize this trip. It was possible only because she earned extra money by making orchid leis for passengers arriving each week in Honolulu aboard the SS Lurline or other Matson passenger ships. On some occasions she would make all the leis herself; other days, when extra large orders would come in, she would recruit the neighbor women to help her string the delicate vanda orchids which later would be placed around the necks of incoming vacationers to the islands as they were greeted with "Aloha."

"We are a happy, contented race," said the kindly lady. "We never rush around like you Americans. I doubt if any of the native Hawaiians have ulcers... in fact, a doctor would go broke if he specialized in ulcer treatment."

* * * *

"WE ARE a laisse-faire peoples. Although delighted to become the 50th state in the union, it didn't make too much difference, really. Live and let live has been our philosophy of life. Playing the ukulele, singing at family gatherings (we have family dinners at the drop of a hat), preparing our meals, tending the flowers in our gardens and rearing our children to be honest workers and good citizens ...these earthy things concern the natives most," said the gentlewoman from Wahiawa on her first visit to California.

A lot of reminiscing is going on at the Nawahi home, 848 Washington Pl., as Benny and Louisa try to gap the 30 years. An interested third party is Benny's lovely Danish-born wife, Betty who has been a dancer and entertainer for many years, but now retired.

Newspapers and national magazines have, in the past quarter of a century, carried accounts of Benny's career. Perhaps his best-known role was that of "Little Jakie" in Sid Grauman's Prologue to the "Big Parade." Not only did he popularize the part of the soldier ukulele player in the play, but later on radio from coast-to-coast.

* * * *

NAMES SUCH as Jack Benny, Paul Ash, Will Rodgers and others drop from his lips as he recalls the star-studded early days of his career. But here, he will be remembered best by his round-trip swim to Santa Catalina Island in 1946. He swam to Catalina, then turned right around and swam back to this shore . . . a feat never accomplished before or since. This powerfully built musician never has been in the water since, not even to swim in a back-yard pool!

Benny became blind several year ago. He has so many songs in his repertoire that he still does nightclub entertaining with his uke and electric guitar.

For 26 years, Betty has been his companion and wife and now more than ever. She spends her time doing housewifely chores, embroiders, works in their flower garden, and drives him to and from his nightly engagements.

On entering the Nawahi home one feels the peace and contentment which emanates from these kindly people who are our neighbors and friends across the Pacific. Vases in their home overspill with beautiful floral arrangements and the Oriental decor abounds in furniture appointments; for Betty, who comes of royal Danish lineage, has adapted herself to her husband's philosphy and way of life.

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted's on Stump for Young Citizens

By TED KREC

I'm not particularly a "defender of the faith" for young people—most of the kids I know today are pretty self-sufficient. But recently a situation came to my attention which I believe is worthy of notice.

You hear plenty of bad things about young people—gang wars, juvenile crime, motorcycle mobs, switchblade knives — but you don't hear the good side of the story. This is unfortunate, because the ones who get the bad notices in the news actually are a small minority. Most of the kids are plenty OK and grow up to be useful citizens.

OL' TED

But nothing much is said about these youngsters who are trying to learn and trying to win a place in society—and even when they DO try, they don't get much encouragement from many people.

I'll give you a classic case in point. Recently two young people of my acquaintance had a date. It was a special occasion, because the young lady was leaving on vacation. Her youthful escort, wanting to do something really nice, telephoned a restaurant in Laguna Beach and made dinner reservations for two, specifically stating that he wanted a table overlooking the ocean.

• • • •

THE KIDS put on their Sunday best—they're both as neat as pins—and went down to Laguna. When they arrived at the restaurant, they found that the girl who answered the phone for the restaurant had misunderstood and reserved a table for 10.

Despite the fact that there were only two other people in the restaurant, the kids were kept waiting 40 minutes, and then they were given a table behind a partition near the kitchen! Naturally, a good deal of the joy of the occasion was erased by this callous and unnecessary action. There were plenty of empty tables overlooking the ocean, but when the management saw they were "just kids," there was no interest in them.

This is not only cruel, it is foolhardy. Those kids are growing up fast, and soon they will be adults. Do you think they'll have happy memories about that place and go back again? Well, would you? I can remember the people who gave me short shrift when I was a kid, and I have a cold spot in my soul for them yet today.

What's more, this isn't the first time this same thing has happened to young folks I know. They've received the same treatment in Hollywood and Los Angeles.

Why do restaurants do this? I can give you a good guess. When they take the reservation, they don't know that the callers are young people who do not drink. Liquor is a big moneymaker in the restaurant business today — so since the kids are not going to be big drinkers, the restaurants don't want to be bothered.

• • • •

EVERYONE carps about young people — you can hear plenty of stuff about how they have no interest in important things—only hot rods, hot music, weird movies and rock 'n' roll. But when kids TRY to do something good, TRY to fit into our social life, they are chastised.

How can we expect young people to grow into an accepted social pattern of dress and behavior if they never are given a chance to try?

I think my young friend who was "rousted" in Laguna showed much more tolerance than I would have under a similar situation. Certainly he showed more than the operators of the restaurant. The mistake was the restaurant's, not the young couple's.

You remember when you were a youngster—particularly when you were a teenager—you felt rebuffs most keenly. Everyone should remember this when dealing with young folks. I don't care how old a person is, he has two God-given things which are important to him—pride and personal opinion. He is entitled to these things—they are his. If you take away either one, in my book you're a Fascist!

Dance Studio to Perform on Monday

Frances Bowling dance studio will present "Dance Varieties" on the Community Program, sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Dept. in Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Monday evening.

Dances featured on the show will be "Something Special" by Beverlyn Griffin, "Cordoba" with Gloria Flores, "Jazz Time" with Charles Culver, and a number by Wynne Wilson. "Alegrias" will be performed by Miss Bowling and Gloria Flores. The story of "Le Beau Danube" also will be presented.

• • • •

COMMUNITY singing will open the program at 7:30 p.m. conducted by Carl H. Robertson with Regenia Beam as accompanist.

There is no admission to this civic program.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Things are beginning to happen on the Long Beach State activities front.

Two sororities were busy with retreats last weekend. The Sigma Kappas were at Balboa and the Alpha Phi standard bearers were at Big Bear. In each case, the business at hand centered around closer relationships between actives and pledges and plans for the busy year ahead. Actually, Alpha Phi made it a long weekend with a Friday night potluck dinner at the home of Betty Soupos before attending the Hello Day Dance.

• • • •

IT ALSO IS a matter of knowledge that Saturday night after the football game with San Francisco State, Phi Kappa Tau fraternity sponsored the year's first after-the-game dance. Hope those present were in a festive mood, but we went to press before the score was available. Incidentally, a pat on the back to PKT pledges for their fine job in maintaining the scoreboard near the cafeteria during the National League pennant-clincher. You could see those Dodger runs halfway across campus, fellows!

And we admit that the Newman Club has not tried to cover up the fact that it is hosting an open house this coming Thursday evening in the Soroptimist House. Refreshments and dancing are on tap at this event, with a special invitation extended to all Catholic students and friends of the LBSC Newman Club.

List PBW Week Events

National BPW, coordinating efforts of the four Long Beach clubs. Serving on her executive committee are Mrs. Kathryn Campbell; Mrs. Alberta McKay, president of Margaret Ives; Mrs. Laura Jane Walter; Mrs. Opal Landy, president of Manuela Nieto; Mrs. Stella Roquemore; Miss Sadie Michnick and Miss Rita Dugan, president of Belmont Shore.

Theme for the special week, "A Right Turn to a Confident Future," points up basic purpose of the organization, largest group in the world devoted entirely to affairs of all business and professional women, which is to better the status of working women. To accomplish this, BPW clubs have worked tirelessly since the federation was established in 1919 to help women prepare for posts of leadership in community, state and nation; to help them advance in their careers; and, underscoring all efforts, to insist that conditions be established, and constantly maintained or bettered, to assure women, and men as well, opportunities to develop to their fullest capacities.

• • • •

NOW FIRMLY established in 26 countries, our own National Federation of BPW can point proudly to some magnificent accomplishments for women at both state and national level. It is credited with obtaining jury service for women and equal pay legislation in many states; obtaining equal status for women in medical services in the armed forces; and has given staunch and telling support in enactment of many other legislative measures to insure women complete equality.

Special Show, Open House for Opera Unit

"With a song in their hearts," members of Long Beach Civic Light Opera Assn. are planning a gala open house to be given in the Tracy Theater, 219 E. Seaside Blvd., Oct. 14 at 8:30 p.m.

A special program entitled "The Best Years of Our Lives" will be presented, and a social hour in the theater Green Room will follow.

Entertainment will feature past, present and future stars of the association in scenes from favorite former productions and a sampling of excerpts from anticipated shows.

• • • •

PERFORMERS who will participate are Patricia Zieg, Harvey Waggoner, James Jay, Betty Kimber, Arthur Carah, James Boyd, Jacqueline McFadden, Cliff Robertson, Henry Brantley, Dolores Burt, Betty Arntzen, Joan Strickland, Roy Malmberg, Ray Quigley, Marjorie Gibson, Patti Hayes and Sydney Cullum.

The production will be written and directed by Betty Kimber. Mrs. E. B. Leihammer will serve as hospitality chairman. Invitations are being prepared by a committee headed by Flora Atton.

Jr. Matrons in Program

Junior Matron Dept. of Ebell will mark opening of the 1959-60 club season with a luncheon and musical program Wednesday noon in the clubhouse.

Mrs. Merton Betts Smith, department chairman, will be assisted by Mmes. Herbert W. Ferguson, Glenn Ballentine and Homer A. Blaisdell as hostesses.

• • • •

MRS. O. GLEN Satterlee has arranged a musical program featuring Merrianna Brinkerhoff, contralto, and Cliff Robertson, baritone, who will entertain with light opera selections.

Mrs. Irma Wolford, chairman of decorations, will be assisted by Mmes. Charles Ritz and George C. Hansen in carrying out an Indian Summer decorative theme.

BIG WEEK FOR BPW PRESIDENTS

Annual "Business and Professional Women's Week," being celebrated Oct. 4-10, is one of year's busiest, most gratifying for these presidents of four Long Beach BPW Clubs which sponsor week's activities. They are, from left, Marion Mundal, Long Beach National, general chairman; Opal Landy, Manuela Nieto; Rita R. Dugan, Belmont Shore; and Alberta McKay, Margaret Ives. Story on Page W-1.—(Staff photo.)

Plan Discussion

A discussion on communism will be presented by Mrs. Frances Larson, member of County Republican Central Committee, when Los Altos Republican Women meet for noon luncheon Tuesday at The Hawaiian. The business session is slated at 1 p.m.

Dr. Moore Will Speak

"Eurasian Challenge to Americans" will be topic of Dr. Wallace Moore of Long Beach State College when he speaks at the first meeting of North Long Beach Women's Club Wednesday in Houghton Park Clubhouse.

Dr. Moore returned recently from a five-week tour around the globe as a representative of the United States Information Agency.

• • • •

COVERED DISH luncheon is planned at noon with members of Group One in charge. Charter members and past presidents will be honored guests.

Mrs. Clay Minnix, president, will conduct the meeting. Music will be by the "Melody Belles."

Executive board members convene at 10 a.m.

Fashion Show

With members as models, Wide Awake Rebekah Lodge 71 will view fall fashions from Penney's during its 8 p.m. meeting Monday in Machinists Hall. Loa Plummer and Marie Bueche are in charge.

A special program and refreshment hour also are planned. A 7:30 p.m. business session called by Bernice Candell, noble grand, will precede the style show.

Dear Abby

He IS Being Human!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who gets all steamed up about a "hobby" and then after spending a fortune on it, drops it?

Our basement is cluttered with fishing equipment, skis, cameras, golf clubs and hunting junk, complete with guns, boots, tents and sleeping bags. All as good as new. I could go on and on!

My husband makes good money, but when I spend $25 on a hat he blows his top. Is he being fair or not?

RUTH

DEAR RUTH: He is NOT being fair, but he IS being human. (How many hats, dresses and pairs of shoes have YOU been all "steamed up about" and later cast aside—as good as new?)

Find out if your husband's hobbies are positively dead or merely deferred. If he has no intentions of reviving his interests, either sell, lend or give away the equipment. But don't let it gather dust and ill will over the years.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and have a best friend (at least I THINK she is my best friend) who comes over to my house and goes through my drawers and closets all the time. She also takes my diary and locks herself in the bathroom while she reads it. What am I going to do?

KATHY

DEAR KATHY: If she is your best friend, look further. I think you can do better.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I will come straight to the point. I am 19, in nurses training and I made a mistake. Should I give my baby up for adoption or should I keep it? The father is a married man so there is no hope for us ever getting together. My parents have left the decision up to me. Please help me do the right thing.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: There are two lives to consider. Your own and the baby's. If you cannot give your child a good home and the proper bringing-up it would be better off being adopted by people who could. If you feel you might have regrets later on, and can afford to keep the child, don't sign anything so final as adoption papers. The decision must be your own.

• • • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO GOOD GIRL: You are using the wrong part of your anatomy. When the "cold shoulder" fails—give him the back of your hand.

• • • •

WHAT'S YOUR problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped-self-addressed envelope.

Sisterhood Lunch Set

Sisterhood of Temple Israel will hear dramatic readings by Mrs. Eugene Temkin during their luncheon meeting at noon Tuesday in social hall of the Temple, 3rd St. and Loma Ave.

Mrs. Temkin, active in Long Beach Children's Theatre and Magnolia Theatre, has chosen "Forsaking All Others" and Leon Cobrun's charming story, "Before the High Holidays," for presentation. She will be introduced by Mrs. Irwin Cohn, October program chairman.

• • • •

MRS. STANLEY Morris, Sisterhood president, will be in charge of a business session preceding luncheon.

Style Spectacular

Bazaar Set

Arthur L. Peterson Unit 27, American Legion Auxiliary, will have its annual turkey dinner and bazaar Tuesday afternoon and evening in Veterans Memorial Bldg., under chairmanship of Mrs. Ruth Thorington with Mrs. Nina Burckle as assistant.

Bazaar doors open at 2:30 p.m. with booths featuring handwork, silent auction, novelties, and foods. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7 p.m., followed by a social evening.

The public is welcome as well as visiting Legionaires and auxiliary members.

HOLIDAY VOWS PLANNED

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Montague announce engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Jeremy Vail Cassaday, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis V. Cassaday. All are Long Beach residents. Wedding will follow Christmas holidays.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Upset About 'Clients'

DEAR MOLLY:

Please help me with my brother, Jimmie.

He lives with my dear husband and me, is 26 years old, has done his stint for Uncle Sam, and now has a responsible position with an insurance firm.

Well, last weekend we went away to visit friends, and when we came home a neighbor told me he had staged a wild, but wild, party at our house on Saturday night, and it didn't break up until noon on Sunday. I said there were no evidences of this, and she said he had gotten a cleaning woman to come in and she spent Sunday afternoon tidying up.

She said that several times when we had been away he had had young women there overnight.

Naturally, I was shocked—and embarrassed. Rather than tell my husband, I went straight to Jimmie. He put on his famous "innocent look" and told me he was merely "entertaining clients." Did I mind his trying to make a success in his field, he wanted to know.

Now Molly, what am I to do? I certainly don't like my home regarded as a, shall I say, joint?

FRAN.

DEAR FRAN:

Indeed you don't. And there is one sure way of pulling brother Jimmie up short. Go straight to your husband and tell him how little brother has been acting, and let him talk to Jimmie straight from the noggin.

After all, there's more involved than wild parties and overnight dates.

This young man is taking advantage of your hospitality and bringing discredit to your home. Or, as you more or less suggested, he's turning your home into a house.

War Mothers Meet

Chapter 5, American War Mothers, meets at 1 p.m. Monday in Veterans Bldg. for election of officer. Cornelia Pollard presides.

Local AAUW's Braille Section to Open Classes

Braille Section of the Long Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women announces the beginning of fall classes Oct. 14 in the home of the chairman and instructor, Mrs. Charles C. Park, 3934 Pacific Ave. A morning and an evening class are available to those wishing to learn Braille transcribing at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

As a service section, the Braille Section fulfills needs within the community as requested. Numerous books have been transcribed into Braille for residents in Long Beach such as: three textbooks, "Success in Spelling," for Robert E. Lee school; "Pete the Parakeet," "Animals Everywhere," "Circus Ruckus," "Cinderella," "Just So Stories," "Peter and the World," "Pocahontas and John Smith" and "Sidi-Boy of the Desert" for the library to be located in a recreation center for blind children which is being planned and organized by Long Beach Lions Club; five copies of "Susan and the Milkman" for a project sponsored by the North Long Beach Junior Women's Club; "Poems of John Donne" for a Long Beach student at Pomona College; "Spanish Grammar" for a student at Long Beach State College.

• • • •

COMMUNITIES near Long Beach have placed requests with the AAUW Braille Section. Books were transcribed into Braille for the "Touch and Look Library" spoonsored by the Seal Beach P-T.A. for blind mothers to read to their children. These books enable sightless mothers to read to their children just as all other mothers do. Both Braille and print books are available in this library.

Textbooks are in great demand. Transcriptions have been made for the Garden Grove elementary school, for Pasadena elementary school, Montebello Junior High, and Tustin High School.

For the fall classes the number of students is limited. Anyone interested in learning Braille transcribing can do so free, except for cost of supplies, by contacting Mrs. Charles C. Park as soon as possible. Classes are not restricted to AAUW members.

P-T.A. Unit in Opener on Tuesday

Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of schools, will extend greetings to Long Beach Council of Parents and Teachers at its first meeting, 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, in Washington Junior High School Auditorium.

A skit, "Circles of Communication," by Mrs. Roland Raasch, program chairman, will feature members of the communications department under Mrs. R. A. West, director, and Mrs. Charles Reed.

• • • •

ALL P-T.A. members are invited, with special invitations going to all press, inside publicity, record book, exhibits and posters and magazine chairmen.

Completing the program will be a talk by Dr. David Langston, director of child welfare services for Board of Education, on the psychiatric clinic, and numbers by a Washington Junior High string quartet directed by William Thomas.

THEY'LL SPEND 'DAY IN COURT'

Thomas McCarry, president of Long Beach Bar Assn., flanked by Iris White (left), president of Long Beach Legal Secretaries, and Julia Hurley, governor, join forces in urging all legal secretaries to attend Superior and Municipal Court sessions Tuesday during fourth annual "Day in Court" for secretaries who thus add to knowledge of law, see their routine office paper work "come alive" in actual court procedure. Details in "Career Women's" column.—(Staff photo.)

AMONG CAREER WOMEN

Secretaries Go 'A-Courtin'

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Mayor Raymond C. Kealer, with unanimous approval of the City Council, has proclaimed Tuesday as "Day in Court" for Long Beach Legal Secretaries as a tribute to secretaries in law offices of this community.

Main purpose of this special day, being observed for the fourth year by the secretaries, is to give them an opportunity to attend sessions in both Superior and Municipal Courts under auspices of authorities in order to study, at first hand, the procedures of the courts. All legal secretaries are familiar with court routine, of course, but mainly in a second-hand way from the vantage point of their office work. It's like baking cakes every day but never tasting any of them.

Annual "Day in Court," now national in scope, was originated by Mrs. Robert (Libby) Krause of Long Beach, a past national president as well as past president of the local chapter.

Long Beach and Harbor Bar Assn. presidents consistently have endorsed the event and attorneys are being requested to urge their secretaries to attend a courtroom of their choice during part of the day.

Pilot Club

Pilot Club of Long Beach will entertain the lieutenant governor of District 18, Peg de Jaifre, at its meeting Wednesday night at the Lafayette Hotel. The official represents 15 California clubs extending from Sacramento to San Diego. For such a visit, the program will follow a 38-year-old tradition of the service women's organization and will consist of reviews by committee chairmen of their accomplishments and objectives to acquaint the visitor with local activities. President LaVey Louk will conduct.

Women Accountants

American Society of Women Accountants will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Lafayette Hotel. President Clara Christe will conduct. Clarence L. Knox, public accountant, will be guest speaker. He is a past president of both the Long Beach and Foothill Chapters of Southern California Accountants and is active in accounting education work through Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division. Knox will be introduced by Vera Lyons.

Most important issue to be discussed will be plans for chapter's participation in national ASWA convention to be conducted in San Francisco, Oct. 22-25.

Osteopathic Assistants

Long Beach Osteopathic Medical Assistant's Assn. will entertain at a 3 p.m. get-acquainted tea next Saturday in the library of Long Beach Osteopathic Hospital, 2776 Pacific Ave., to honor new personnel in the various osteopathic doctors' offices here. Carole Mondike (Dr. William H. Coats) is chairman of this strictly social event.

Long Beach was birthplace seven years ago of the now rapidly growing Osteopathic Medical Assistants organization. A statewide association was formed four years ago and increasing numbers of assistants in other states are asking for information relevant to forming new chapters.

Civil War Satire Premiere at La Shell

A satire on the Civil War by Sinclair Lewis, "The Jayhawker," will open at 8:30 p.m. Thursday at La Shell Playhouse, 5051 Long Beach Blvd. It has been announced as the West Coast premiere of the play.

The setting is the new state of Kansas. Ralph Cookson stars as a fast-talking politician, Asa Burdette, who will do anything to get votes as the first Senator from the prairie state. After instigating the war, Burdette tries to stop it by getting the warring factions together to invade Mexico.

• • • •

TRAVIS BRYAN plays the Rev. Joseph Peavie, a backwoods minister who becomes a general in the Union Army. Gayle Toren plays Burdette's daughter, Pat Miller is Gen. Smallwood. Ralph Richmond is Luke Kildare and Robert Bartlett portrays Will Starling.

Others in the cast are Jim Daugherty, Juanita Kinsella, Elson Irwin, Robert Faircloth, Scott Gaffney, Will Dimmitt, Julian Vochelli, Gary Pinketon, Pony Maples, Patrick Dunavan and John Fife.

Produced by Ben Rombouts, "The Jayhawker" is being directed by Ken Rose of Hollywood.

It is scheduled to run at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays for six weeks.

Lyle Talbot

Lyle Talbot, Wife Billed at Magnolia

A comedy by Norman Krasna, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" debuts at 8:30 p.m. Friday at Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Veteran Hollywood and Broadway actor Lyle Talbot will star in the play, portraying a mystery writer who concocts an elaborate excuse to get a professor friend off the hook with his wife.

The professor, played by David Roberts, is caught by his wife as he kisses a pretty exchange student. The wife's part is acted by Margaret Abbott who, in reality, is Mrs. Lyle Talbot.

• • • •

THE PROFESSOR calls in the writer, for an imaginative alibi. The excuse winds up involving the FBI, the Central Intelligence Agency, two showgirls and several Russian spies.

Other parts are taken by Paul Teschke who plays a busy FBI man, Bob Dupre, Jim Baltzell, Dick Pilcher, Ann Conward, Camilo Granados, Babette Mann, Walt Tasiemski and Nancy Lawrence. Pat Brown is director.

The comedy will run regularly at 8 p.m. Thursdays and Sundays, and 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Nov. 8.

Civic Music Assn. Tells Series Dates

An international flavor will prevail in the concert offerings of Long Beach Civic Music Association this season.

The Roberto Iglesias Spanish Ballet, a Sol Hurok attraction, will open the 1959-60 series at Wilson High School Auditorium Nov. 14. Iglesias and his company are especially noted for their Flamenco dancing. Gabriel Banat, the brilliant, young violinist who toured his native Roumania with George Enesco as a sonata team will be presented on Dec. 7.

Feb. 26 will bring to the Wilson Auditorium stage concert pianist Stanley Babin, a native of Israel, now an American citizen. This young artist is well known in the East, having played concerts with the New York Philharmonic and other leading eastern orchestras.

• • • •

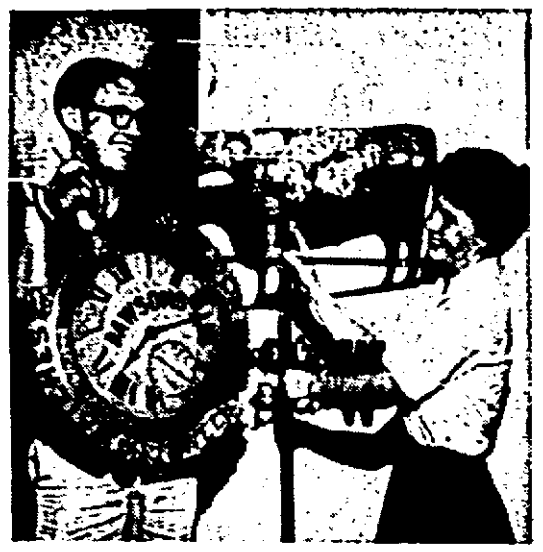

THE LOCALE will change for the fourth and final concert when the Roger Wagner Chorale is presented in the Concert Hall of the Municipal Auditorium March 31.

Civic Music Association operates on a closed membership basis. However, newcomers to the community are given an opportunity to obtain memberships at this time of the year. The Association secretary, Mrs. Alfred H. Durfee, 1550 Armando Dr. may be contacted for information concerning membership this week.

AGO Concerts

First of a series of four concerts to be presented by the Long Beach Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will feature the Gregg Smith Singers Tuesday in First Presbyterian Church, 6th St. and Locust Ave., at 8:30 p.m.

This excellent group of young singers from Los Angeles has become internationally known with performances in the Brussels World's Fair, the Salzburg Festival, the International Eisteddfod in Wales and throughout the United States.

SIGNS OF THE TIME
Joe Soldate shows Early American watch sign to Carie Van Deman who holds weather vane. Both items are in forthcoming art exhibit at LBSC.

Early American Spirit Seen in Signs, Symbols

The signs and symbols of Early America and Europe of that time will be displayed in the first exhibit of the school year to be staged by Long Beach State College art department Oct. 12 to 30 in the art gallery. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

The collection will include barber poles, cigar store fixtures, weather vanes and signs pertaining to such crafts and business establishments as taverns, watchmakers, shoemakers, optometrists, keymakers, wineries and booteries.

Items have been contributed by the following firms: Yeakel and Field, Laguna; George Harris, Smith and Houtchins, and Murray Braunfield, all of Los Angeles.

'Finland' First on Lecture Film Series

Tuition tickets for the 1959-60 Film Lecture Series go on sale this week at all offices of the Long Beach City College General Adult Division.

First of the seven programs will be Karl Robinson's "Finland" the week of Oct. 12-16. Each program opens at 8 p.m. Monday in Wilson auditorium and will be repeated at Jordan on Tuesday, Millikan on Wednesday, Polytechnic on Thursday and Lakewood High School auditorium Friday.

Tickets will be available during the day at the main General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St., and at West Adult Center, 1794 Cedar Ave. Hours will be 1-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday at Polytechnic Adult Center and 6-10 p.m. at Wilson, Jordan, Millikan and Lakewood High School's.

IN OPERA PREMIERE
John Noschese sings lead in contemporary opera, "Scanderbeg," by Bernard Wilets to be presented in Millikan High School auditorium Oct. 9 and 10. Optimists Clubs of Long Beach are sponsoring the production.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

The war called away the husband of Kathleen Ferrier, so she moved with her sister, Winifred, into a house so small that Kathleen averred she had to open the back door to look into the oven! But despite the gruelling days of the war the two sisters were happy together. Kathleen began a life of concertizing that would have killed a less hardy spirit. Traveling in cold trains, sleeping in unheated hotels, eating only sandwiches, the young singer cheered the hearts of the war-oppressed people all over England.

Constantly studying new music, she did the memorizing on the long train rides. Her accompanist said that "no matter what conditions they met, nothing seemed to upset Kathleen. Nothing deterred her; the long journeys, often in blackout, the uncertainty, the lack of facilities for changing, the various mishaps; her joy in her work and in the audiences' reaction were her reward".

• • • •

AS SHE steadily gained in experience and reputation, it is not surprising to to find her singing in Albert Hall, giving recitals in London and then an appearance at the Edinburgh Festival under the baton of the famous Bruno Walter. This was the beginning of a friendship with this great conductor, and she sang many times with him thereafter.

Two tours of the United States and Canada as detailed in letters and diaries leave one exhausted, just in the reading! At Town Hall recitals in New York there would be 100 people seated on the stage. Everywhere there were sold out houses and rave reviews from the critics. But what a pace! Twenty-three concerts in three months! Back in England there were concert engagements in Vienna, Holland, Scandanavia and Paris. Often she sang Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" and "Kindertodenlieder" with orchestra, under famous conductors.

• • • •

SIR JOHN BARBIROLLI, who became her last and dearest friend, induced her to sing with him the opera "Orfeo" by Gluck at Covent Garden. This was her last appearance. Cancer claimed her at the age of 41. A quotation from a letter truly describes her: "She put herself always at the service of music, seeking to enter into its spirit, rather than using it as a means for displaying her voice and talent."

If you would take a heroine to your heart, read "The Life of Kathleen Ferrier" by Winifred Ferrier.

New Displays at Museum

By VERA WILLIAMS
L-P-T Art Editor

Outstanding exhibitions open today at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Friends of the Museum commence the day with a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. and the first annual art auction beginning at 1 p.m.

Museum exhibitions include collections of primitive art from the Americas, Africa, Australia and the Pacific Islands, featuring "Gauguin's god"—sculpture of a Marquesan woman, and a selection of Eskimo carvings. The major portion of this exhibit will run to Jan. 31.

Also opening today extending through Nov. 8, are paintings by John Leeper, Dr. Charles and Jean Thompson, Rorstrand stoneware and Danish textiles. The group exhibition with works by Charles Papp, Robert Pritchard, Ed Rugels and Eva Slater is representative of the artists' one man shows at Alamitos, Ruth Bach, Bret Harte, and Dana Branch libraries respectively.

The film series begins Friday with the Gallic farce, "Wild Oats" starring Fernandel at his pantomimic best. Free tickets are available from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the day of the performance. The two showings are scheduled for 3 and 8 p.m. No telephone reservations are available.

• • • •

VARIED art works will comprise the opening show of the Artist of the Month series at the Unitarian Church, 5460 Atherton St. Twenty artists, members of the church, will show oils, watercolors, pastels and casein. Still lifes, landscapes, sea scapes, portraits, woodcarving, sculpture, mosaics, jewelry, ceramics and weaving will complete an all around show of talent.

The show opens today when artists will be feted at a between service coffee at 10:30 a.m. It will run a month. The gallery is open to visitors Saturdays and Sundays and from 1 to 5 weekdays.

• • • •

OPENING Wednesday, the work of Oregon painter-printmaker, Florence Saltzman will be on view in the Gallery of Prints and Drawings, 1261 Long Beach Blvd. The exhibition will consist of paintings and prints done in the past 20 years.

Miss Saltzman won many friends here as an instructor for the Long Beach Art Assn. and the West Side Adult Education Center. She is represented in major exhibitions, here and abroad.

Florence Saltzman lives in Portland, with her husband, painter Frederick Heidel, and two children.

Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily including Sunday.

• • • •

GAMBIT GALLERY, 23 39th Pl., announces a one-man exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Elaine Kramer of Denver. A reception for the artist is slated for 3 to 6 p.m. today.

• • • •

"PRESIDENTS in Sapphire," heads of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Eisenhower carved in Australian sapphire averaging 2,000 carats each will be shown through October in the Los Angeles County Museum.

Foreign Film Dates Told

Tickets are on sale for the third annual foreign film series of recent full-length features, to be presented October through May by the Unitarian Laymen's League of Long Beach. All showings will be at 8 p.m. on the third Saturday of the month at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

First program Oct. 17, the French film, "Fric Frac," will star Fernandel. Gina Lollobrigida will appear Nov. 21 in "Bread, Love and Jealousy," an Italian production. In the British picture, "The Detective," to be shown Dec. 19, Alec Guiness portrays Father Brown, rotund little detective priest.

• • • •

OTHER FILMS will be "Sadko," U.S.S.R., Jan. 16; "Ditte, Child of Man," Denmark, Feb. 20; "The Inspector General," Czechoslovakia, March 19; "Rasho-Mon," Japan, April 16, and "Little World of Don Camillo," Italy, May 21.

Modestly priced tickets for the series may be ordered by mail from Peter Ballou, 3316 Roxanne Ave., Long Beach, or may be purchased from members of the Laymen's League.

October Show at Coast Club Family Affair

The Richter family of Rolling Hills, former residents of Long Beach, will have an art exhibition during October in Pacific Coast Club. Guests will be welcomed at a tea from 2 to 5 p.m. today.

Exhibitors are Henry L. Richter, charter member of the Long Beach Art Assn.; his wife, Catherine M.; their son, Dr. Henry L. Richter Jr., associated with the Cal Tech Jet Propulsion laboratory where he is in charge of instrumentation for the space program; their daughter, Elsa Richter Hopkins, and Elsa's husband, G. Arthur Hopkins.

• • • •

RICHTER IS exhibiting oils, watercolors and pastels; Mrs. Richter, award-winning lettering, watercolors, an oil, and a pastel portrait of Leroy Cox, patriarch of Lomita; Dr. Richter, a sketch of the first concept of the instrumentation for Explorer I, America's first satellite to go into orbit; Mrs. Hopkins, sepia drawing, oil portrait, design in tempera and fashion design; Hopkins, an oil painting, various kinds of prints-lithograph, college and an etching.

Double-Ring Rite Unites Young Pair

Moore Methodist Church was setting for the recent double-ring marriage ceremony uniting Marion Kerr and Edward Humphrey. The Rev. John W. Grande officiated.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Jack Kerr, the bride wore a princess-style gown of white taffeta trimmed in seed pearls. Her shoulder-length veil was crowned with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis.

* * * *

PEGGY KERR was her sister's maid of honor, wearing blue taffeta and carrying pink roses. The bridesmaid, Esther York Burkholder, and flower girls, Laurie Burkholder and Susie Huleis, wore yellow taffeta gowns and carried yellow roses.

The new Mrs. Humphrey, daughter of famed butane pioneer, Arthur Kerr, received early schooling in Long Beach and won acclaim as a tennis star at UCLA. Her husband is a graduate of Youngstown Univeristy.

FALL FESTIVAL

Three exciting days of carnival atmosphere are in store next weekend when Our Lady of Refuge Church opens its third annual fall festival at 6 p. m. Friday at church featuring kiddie rides, refreshments and numerous game booths. Aiding in plans are (from left) Mrs. Bernard Hughes, Mrs. Neil Jacobe and Ray Brosterhous. Hours will be noon to 10 p. m. Saturday and 1 to 10 p. m. Sunday.—(Staff photo.)

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L-P-T Food Editor

There's one catch to being a bachelor! And since we've been in Chicago attending the Food Editor's Conference this week, our Chef of the Week column today is being devoted to those gents who do not have the "little woman" to keep 'em well fed.

Not every bachelor can enjoy being footloose and fancy free. There's at least one catch to it, especially if one lives alone: the possibility of being caught up short at the breakfast bar, the lunch counter, the dinner table.

Meals of those who live alone are apt to be deficient in essential vitamins, minerals, and proteins. And, boys, this word of caution comes to us from one who should know, a noted bachelor nutritionist.

• • • •

HERE'S WHAT he has to say on the subject:

"With no one to take care of—or to take care of him—the bachelor or anyone who lives alone is likely to forget to take care of himself. Shopping and cooking for one is more difficult than for a family, and it costs more per head. His time schedule for meals may be so flexible that it disappears with this result: no meal at all.

"Only those who take advantage of our adequate food supply to eat a variety of essential foods can hope for the health to live life to the hilt. These foods—meat or an alternate, milk or cheese, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal, fruits and vegetables—are calorie carriers all, as they are made up of proteins, fats, and carbohydrates. With these and the other nutrients calorie carriers offer—minerals and vitamins—live-aloners have the wherewithall to indulge their fancy.

"Following this easy plan of choosing meals from essential foods, it is possible to sidestep the nutritional hazard of bachelorhood—illness caused by a deficiency of nutrients—and still remain footloose and free for fancy."

Autumn Modes Will Be Shown

Fall modes from Harvey Wood's will be shown at the meeting of North Long Beach Lady Lions, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, in Hody's Lakewood.

A visitation meeting, guests are expected from other Lady Lions organizations in the area.

Guest speaker at the club's recent meeting was Richard L. Zweig, director of Reading Guidance Center, Inc., who explained purposes and aims of that group.

Court St. Ann Meets Tuesday

Court St. Ann 763, Catholic Daughters of America, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave. Grand Regent Martha Balough will preside.

Catholic Daughters of Southern California will have a fall district meeting Oct. 11 at Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena. Luncheon reservations may be made with Mrs. Balough.

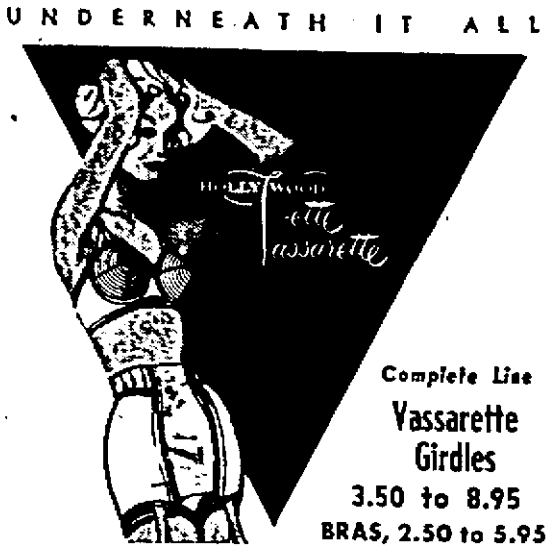

Meeting Tuesday

Widows of Spanish American War veterans will meet Tuesday noon in Linden Hall.

Public Invited

Golden State Auxiliary 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a noon luncheon and card party Tuesday in Veterans Bldg. The public is welcome.

Joseph M. Kennick, 44th District Assemblyman, will report on "Accomplishments of the Last Legislature" during the afternoon. David Kurth and Linda Robbins, accordion duo, will play.

School Menus

Food to Eat With a Beat

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Oct. 5-9.

MONDAY: Ham a la king on cornbread, garden peas, apple slices, cheese wedge and milk.

TUESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, chopped spinach, pineapple-grape compote, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Hamburger on bun, potato salad, sliced peaches, Lorna Doone cookie, and milk.

THURSDAY: Pizza pie, cut green beans, apple pudding with whipped cream, carrot sticks and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna noodle casserole, tossed salad with egg, garnish, cantaloupe slice, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 25 cents. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have have purchased the tray lunch.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY—Ham a la king on cornbread, garden peas, fruit gelatin salad, cheese slice and milk.

TUESDAY: Pizza pie, coleslaw, pineapple-grape compote, oatmeal cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Italian spaghetti, green beans, cantaloupe slice, garlic French bread and milk.

THURSDAY: Hot meat loaf sandwich, mashed with gravy, tossed salad with egg garnish, Lorna Doone cookie and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese casserole, spinach, apricot halves, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

South Has Grand Slam

South should really have opened with a two bid but chose to open one club only. North might well have passed but decided to respond one spade whereupon after a fast and furious series of bids South jumped to seven clubs.

His reason for the grand slam bid was that East had doubled four spades so that North probably was not very strong in spades and therefore would have more elsewhere.

• • • •

WEST OPENED the four of spades and after one look at the dummy South wished that he had been considerably more modest in his bidding. Then he saw a ray of hope and with everything breaking just right proceeded to wrap up his contract.

He took his ace of spades, cashed the ace and king of hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy and ruffed a third heart. He came back to his hand with the ace of diamonds, ruffed his last heart, led back to the king of diamonds and ruffed his last diamond.

East and West had to follow all this time and now all South had to do was to lead dummy's last trump, finesse his queen and drop the king and jack under his ace. A lot of luck but he did give the cards a chance.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.....OCTOBER 4, 1959

OUR COVER

Hoover Dam, just a hop and a skip from Las Vegas, has been one of Nevada's major tourist attractions since it was completed in 1936. Today it is more so than ever, attracting more than a million visitors annually. Quick to point out that the $108 million behemoth is self-liquidating, the United States Bureau of Reclamation offers guided tours daily into the interior of some of the 4,400,000 cubic yards of sculptured concrete. High light of this trip is a 528-foot descent by elevator to the two-block-long, 20-story-high powerhouses at the 660-foot base. Here 17 giant turbines take a 395-foot head of water from the penstocks behind the dam to drive 17 generators capable of turning out 1,036,000 kilovolt-amperes of energy. More about the dam on Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

The time to plan a garden that will bloom beautifully next spring is not early spring but during the fall months—right now! Also, this is the time to make plantings that will perpetuate color in the winter garden. Next week, Southland presents its Annual Fall Garden Number which gives scores of tips on how to do this. Watch for it, read it, and put it aside for ready reference.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please print information on VAN DUZER.—MRS. E. V., Wilmington.

E. V.: "Dry Place" was the meaning of the Dutch town-name Dursen. VAN DURSEN is self-explanatory, for "Van" means "from." The American ancestor, Abraham Van Dursen was born in Haarlem, Holland in 1607, the son of Pieter Van Dursen. He settled in New Haarlem, now part of New York City, in 1629. His great-great grandson Isaac changed the name to VAN DUZER when the family moved to Orange County, New York in 1741. No coat-of-arms is known for this family.

DEAR MISS RULE: We believe ALBEE is English.—MRS. H. P., Long Beach.

H.P.: "Alh-By" was a strange, prehistoric religious center, and the ALBEES of England assumed their name from this locality. "Alh-By" translates as "sacred settlement." Various surnames such as ALBEE, Albey and Alby developed from Alh-By. The family coat-of-arms, granted to the Alby branch, is a shield covered with six alternating gold and black vertical stripes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you print genealogy on WEISS.—MRS. C. M., H. A., Long Beach.

C. M., H. A.: The surname WEISS, shortened sometimes to Weis, and often translated in America as White, was a descriptive German word for an extremely blond man. The French surname LeBlanc and the Irish O'Bannon have the same meaning. The Weiss coat-of-arms has a gold lion centered on a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on GUTHRIE. —J. G., B. G., Bellflower; G. C. G., Lynwood.

J. G., B. G., G. G.: Guthrie in Forfarshire was a town in northeast Scotland. The town-name became the surname of a resident. The source was one ancient Scoto-Gaelic word Gaothaire meaning "windy place." The Guthrie coat-of-arms is a shield divided into four quarters. The upper left and lower right sections have a red, rampant lion on a gold background; the upper right and lower left quarters have a gold wheat sheaf on a blue backing. The inspiring clan motto "Sto prop veritate," translates as "I stand for truth." Among the descendants was the eminent Scotch historian William Guthrie (1708-1770).

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like history on LOPOSSA.—MRS. W. L., Long Beach.

W. L.: "The Powerful, Influential One" "POSSA" gave his name to his Italian descendants. The Italian surname LOPOSSA (the) Possa represented an important personage in early medieval times. The source was the Roman-Latin word "Possum" or "Possa." No other information is available on this family.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the analysis of BEDARD. —P. B., Long Beach; M. B., Garden Grove.

P. B., M. B.: An ancestor christened Bed-ard, an early warrior name, gave the BEDARDS of France their heroic cognomen. The ancient Franco-German "Bald-Ward" provided the basis, translated as "bold governor," a complimentary title used as early as the 7th century. No coat-of-arms is known for this name.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on McBRIDE. —MRS. E. M., M. M., Long Beach.

E. M., M. M.: The great Irish clan Mac-Giolla-Brighid, translated as "Sons of the servant of St. Bridget," were the ancestors of the McBRIDES. The clan founders considered this great Irish saint as their patron. St. Bridget's name meant "Strength and Virtue." The McBrides were natives of north Ireland. Their coat-of-arms has three silver chevrons placed across the center of a red shield between three silver sea shells. McBride descendants were mid-16th century settlers of south Pennsylvania.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on CAROTHERS, CARROTHERS and CROTHERS. — F.C., Long Beach; H.C., L.M., Lakewood.

F.C., H.C., L.M.: The Scotch CARRUTHERS descended from a proud family who have resided in Dumfriesshire over seven centuries. Their name means "from the red fortress," a castle named after red rocks that were used in its construction. William Carruthers, head of the family in 1329, was an active supporter of King David II. In 1440, Thomas Carruthers was specially rewarded by James II for his services against the English. The Carruthers coat-of-arms has two chevrons between three fleurs-de-lis on a red shield, with the motto "Promptus et Fidelis" (Ready and Faithful). Descendants in England and America altered the name to CAROTHERS, CARROTHERS, CROTHERS and CRUDDIS.

—Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

He's the Fastest of the Midgets

Alan Honore of Bellflower, quarter midget auto racing champion, and his car. He wants it known he didn't get crossed up here, but was put in this pose for the photo.

By Vera Williams

MEET Alan Honore, 9, quarter midget auto racing champ of the world!

In his Pacemaker quarter midget, he set a new world's record of 6.54 seconds for a twentieth of a mile last Memorial Day at Camarillo. The event is technically known as B modified quarter midget, senior class (9 to 15 years). The previous record was 6.70 seconds.

Alan, who will have been racing four years by next November, has 220 trophies. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Honore, 9847 Cedar St., Bellflower, and is in the fourth grade in the Bellflower Jefferson School.

His father, who runs a garage adjacent to his home, is president of the National Quarter Junior Midget Assn., which has 80 members, most of them in Southern California.

TO DATE, Alan has raced twice in the nationals at Phoenix, and has raced in Las Vegas, Fresno, Camarillo, Ventura, Redwood City, Sunnyvale, Mazon, Ill., and two tracks at Portland. He set a track record of 8.65 at Mazon; he set a track record of 7.65 at the Alpenrose Dairy track in Portland and 7.65 at the Centennial track in Portland.

Alan set fast time, with a new track record of 7.72 seconds, and took second in the main event, 35 laps, at the International Quarter Midget Assn. races Aug. 22 and 23 at Portland.

He expects to participate in the national races at Phoenix next Christmas.

His proudest possession is the National Junior Assn. track record perpetual trophy. His records, inscribed on it are 8.52, 8.33, 7.63, 7.58, and 7.45. He holds the trophy as long as he holds the record.

HOW DID ALL this racing start?

"In November 1955, my dad took me to the Little Gilmore quarter midget track at Rosecrans and Downey," Alan says. "Before the races were half through, my dad and I came home and he began building me my first racing car."

The latter part of that month, they went back to the Little Gilmore track and Alan won a heat race.

On Jan. 8, 1956, when he had been racing less than two months, he won the 30-lap championship at the track and got his first big trophy.

His father built him his first two cars, which carried the number "22." His last two cars were given to him by the employes of the H. Levine division of Myers Barrel Co. of Richmond, and carry the number "2."

"I wanted 2," explains Alan, "because my father's brother, Hector Honore of Pana, Ill., owns No. 2, the car in which Bobby Grim won the International Motor Contest Assn. dirt track championship four years."

Grim was named "rookie of the year" at the Indianapolis races last year.

ALAN CALLS HIS present car "Our Gang Special." It is 74 inches long, tread on the wheels is 31 inches. It is black with red trim and white numbers.

When anything goes wrong with his car, Alan can diagnose the trouble. He can take the motor apart; his father puts it back together again.

The Honores are active in the First Baptist Church of Bellflower and Alan goes to Sunday school in the morning before the races.

"Racing is fun," says Alan.

"It keeps kids out of trouble, gives them an interest," says his father.

"It's a family hobby—we all go to the races together," says his mother.

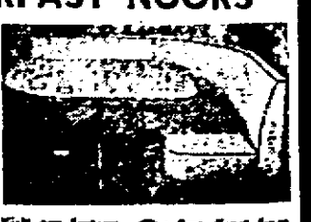

Alan can not compete in the senior class until he is 16. He does not expect to race after that.

He swims and plays ball as well as drives. He has a collie Lady, almost his own age; a cat, Tom; two rabbits and a parakeet.

Construction nears completion on 32-foot cabin cruiser Robert Gardiner is building single-handedly in his back yard.

Boat Builder With a Problem

How will he get this monster out of his tiny yard to launch it?

By Herb Shannon

ROBERT GARDINER, 34, who is putting a 32-foot cabin cruiser together in his 36-foot back yard at 3732 Nipomo Ave., has the classic problem of the enthusiastic home boat builder.

There is barely room to work fore and aft of his king-sized do it-yourself project, the block fence on the port side is equally close and the starboard gunwale nudges the garage roof. There is no alley in the rear and the entrance of the driveway at the other side of the yard is about two feet narrower than the boat's 11 foot, 6-inch beam.

So how is he going to get the monster out of the yard without chopping a room or two off the house?

GARDINER HAS THE ANSWER. Modern moving science has come up with an ingenious solution.

"There are a couple of moving companies that have double-jointed trailers with wheels that steer independently," the amateur boat builder explains. "They can go sideways as well as ahead and lift a boat right over low obstacles."

But even if he has to tear down the garage or remove part of his fence, Gardiner will feel it is worth the trouble.

"I only have about $5,000 tied up in the boat," he points out. "I've been offered $10,000 for the hull as it stands, and when it is finished it would cost about $25,000 to buy it in a shipyard."

GARDINER STARTED 2½ YEARS ago with a set of plans designed by Seattle naval architect Edwin Monk. The initial expense for blueprints and paper templates for the hull frames was $125.

The rest has all been his own contribution, especially the labor. Occasionally a friend interested in boats has volunteered a bit of help, but chiefly it has been a one-man spare-time job.

In a way, it is only appropriate that Gardiner should be doing it alone. In his regular job as service publications supervisor at the Long Beach Douglas plant, he writes how-to-do-it manuals for military plane repair kits.

But now that the boat work is mostly finicky finishing details, Gardiner's wife Barbara Jean and their three children, Jim, 11; Stephanie Jean, 10, and Debra, 9, also are getting into the act.

WHAT THEY WILL HAVE when the job is done will be a sleek trunk cruiser with a forward bunk compartment sleeping two, a main cabin with galley and dinette convertible to a full bed, an after cabin with twin beds, a flying bridge and fantail area for fishing.

The boat has been fiberglassed completely over the sturdy plywood of the hull and superstructure and will be equipped with everything necessary for living aboard for two weeks or more at a time.

Gardiner believes the boat will be ready for launching by Christmas. When it comes time for christening, he will have ready not only a name but a bottle of genuine French champagne.

"We'll call it Debbie Jean for all the girls in the family," Gardiner says. "The champagne is a present from one of the fellows at the plant who brought it back from a trip to Europe.

"Seems a shame to break the bottle on the bow of a boat, but we want to do this right all the way."

Wife Barbara Jean lends hand with main cabin detail jobs.

From flying bridge, Barbara Jean watches Bob work on galley light.

When Jesse James Came to California

When Jesse James (above) came to California with his brother, Frank, he found the ways of his uncle, Drury Wilson James, gracious and honest.

By H. B. Walters

CALIFORNIA almost made a different man of Jesse James. And because Jesse was the stronger of the two brothers, Frank would no doubt also have reformed.

Jesse was 21 when he arrived. He stood lean and tall like an Indian arrow. His jaunty, upturned nose gave him an impish look yet in his blue eyes was a look of suffering. And fear. For the James boys were wanted for robbery.

It was on a warm spring day in March 1868 that Jesse had been one of a gang of six which held up a bank in Russellville, Ky. Without losing a drop of blood they galloped out of town with $14,000 in their old grain sack which by now had become sort of a trademark of that gang. Jesse was a good rider and had no difficulty outdistancing the sheriff's posse. He felt smug and secure until a friend warned him that he was being watched. Detectives? This was a new menace. Jesse was bewildered. Never before had he had to meet the peeping tricks of a bank detective.

Since neither of the brothers knew exactly how to meet this spy system they decided to get out of the community. Being the leader, Jesse packed up their share of the loot and off the boys went for a spree in New York. Despite gay shows and bright lights they were suspicious of every pair of eyes that lingered on them. It was hard to enjoy the sights. Though they assured each other that nobody was following them the uneasy feeling dogged their hours. Unable to endure it they caught a boat for Panama.

ONCE OUT AT SEA, they breathed deep. Freedom and safety was theirs. Since this was before the days of radio no way would the captain have of knowing the identity of his two distinguished passengers as long as they minded their own business. This they did, keeping to themselves. The hours were given to complete rest of body and also of mind and spirit. No need to worry. At least not about being caught. And perhaps the voyage would heal a wound Jesse carried as a badge of a former encounter with steel.

Reaching Panama he wasted no time crossing the Isthmus. By luck and money the boys managed to get space on a steamer headed up the west coast. Again Jesse felt secure. Landing at San Francisco the brothers exchanged a little more of their loot for clothing. They must make a favorable impression on their uncle.

Drury Wilson James lived on the La Panza Ranch, a little plot of 10,000 acres which he and a partner had purchased and then stocked with cattle at $20 a head. Lush pasture land stretched over valley and hill. Enormous oaks furnished shade for young animals. The business venture began to prosper. Money rolled into the pockets of the owners. Mr. D. W., as Drury was called, built a house in the incorporated town of Paso Robles formerly known as El Paso de los Robles or Pass of the Oaks. In fact, he was a founder of the town. Everywhere he was admired as a citizen of integrity. When he married a beautiful girl named Louisa Dunn their home became a center for local society. Into this landed the two young bank robbers.

IF DRURY KNEW his nephews were the James boys wanted for crimes in Kentucky he kept the secret. The boys were taken in and made welcome. Perhaps Jesse, too, had a secret. His purpose in visiting Paso Robles may have been to heal his wound at the mineral springs. The place was a very ancient health spa. Early Franciscan padres had placed logs around the main spring to form a pool. Here by day came humans to cure rheumatism or other ailments. By night grizzly bears dipped in the warm waters and left their paw marks in mud under the cottonwood trees. Jesse could have learned of the mud and sulphur baths from newspapers that wrote of miracle healings. Or perhaps his uncle had written that he and a partner had bought the springs. Perhaps he offered Jesse a job when he put up a wooden hotel to house the patients swarming in by every stagecoach.

At any rate Drury believed in the healing power of the springs. Twice a week he brought his nephew there from where they were living on La Panza Rancho nearly 40 miles away. Jesse began to improve. His wound healed. Soon he was riding the range with the cowboys. Often he would be gone several days hunting stray animals. When he returned his uncle praised him in flattering words. His Aunt Louisa beamed for the quiet, six-foot boy had become a favorite with her. His blue eyes lost their look of fear and misery.

"You're such a nice boy, Scotty," she would say, using the name by which she knew him. Everybody called him that.

NOT A WORD was ever said by either Jesse or Frank to betray their past. Nor did Uncle Drury talk. Cowhands accepted the boys at face value. Both proved reliable and worthy of trust. Together as a team the ranch workers rode their range. When their cattle wandered away Jesse had a chance to see the western settlement of Santa Margarita not far from La Panza. If the animals went south he had a chance to see the Carisa or Carrizo Plain so different from his native land of Kentucky. This plain was a high plateau on which in prehistoric ages had been a lake. From its center, rose an odd rock or hill. And in the middle of the rock entered by a narrow opening was a mysterious hall decorated with Indian paintings in color. Over the walls, 132 feet in height, ran men, birds and unknown writing. None of the local Indians knew who did the pictures or what the signs meant.

"It's supposed to be an ancient temple," the boys explained while Jesse stood in awe. From his mother he had learned reverence for churches. Yet this one was now used as a corral.

At other times the boys rode to the coast and Jesse saw Morro Rock rising 570 feet above the sea. Sitting around their camp fire the boys told the legend of Don Vicente Canet. Perhaps they watched for the old Don's ghost said to ride a white horse on moonlit nights.

The cowboys liked Scotty despite his two odd traits. Because he was so honorable in other ways they excused these traits as the quirks of a tenderfoot. When they rode as a group Scotty always maneuvered to be on the outside as if for a quick escape. He joined them around a camp fire until time to bed down. When they rolled up in blankets near the fire he went off to sleep alone.

IF TALK TURNED to exciting tales of robbers, Scotty only listened. Nobody connected him with the notorious bank robber Jesse James. Why should they? The robberies were still taking place in the Middle West but the real James boys were safe in California. On dark nights tales were told of local highwaymen. The gold rush had brought not only miners but desperadoes who sallied out from wooded canyons to kill for a handful of gold dust. Had not the cowboys found bodies and skeletons on lonely trails? And in the town of Santa Margarita relatives were continuously hunting for travelers who had vanished. The stagecoach strongbox was a favorite target for bandits. The leader of one band kept a tavern near Santa Margarita. Not until he lost his black wig during a holdup was he even suspected. That led to his capture.

JESSE AND FRANK listened to stories of Joaquin Murieta. The years had turned him from a poor Mexican into a dashing outlaw, a sort of Robin Hood robbing local rich and befriending the poor. Scotty learned that Joaquin had headquarters in a place of caves and rocks not too far from La Panzo Rancho and lived there in an adobe fort at the mouth of a creek. His hiding place was surrounded by high rocks that had been named Las Tres Piedras or The Three Rocks. He kept a lookout on them. Yet with all his precautions Joaquin's head ended up in a bottle when he was only 21.

"Only 21," the boys repeated.

Jesse lowered his gaze lest they see the fear in his eyes. That was his age. Would his past catch up with him? Of course not. Nobody knew about it. His Uncle Drury was proud of him and said so. And he was proud of his uncle.

No doubt the character of the older man put its mark on the blue-eyed boy. Drury did business by a standard of what was right and honorable, not on what was legal. At one time he sold a parcel of land for $25,000 down payment. When time came for the next installment the buyer could not pay. The drought had almost wiped him out. It appeared that he would end up broke, lose his down payment and the land. When Drury heard this he went to the man.

"My friend, I can't do this to you. Return the land and I'll give you back your $25,000."

SUCH ADHERENCE to principle must have touched his nephew. But the two boys were growing restless. They resented the robberies being pinned on them when they were thousands of miles away. So they announced that they were going home. Scotty told his cowboy friends goodby. One young fellow was a close friend and it was hard to leave. The kid twirled his lariat which was made of horsehair and grass.

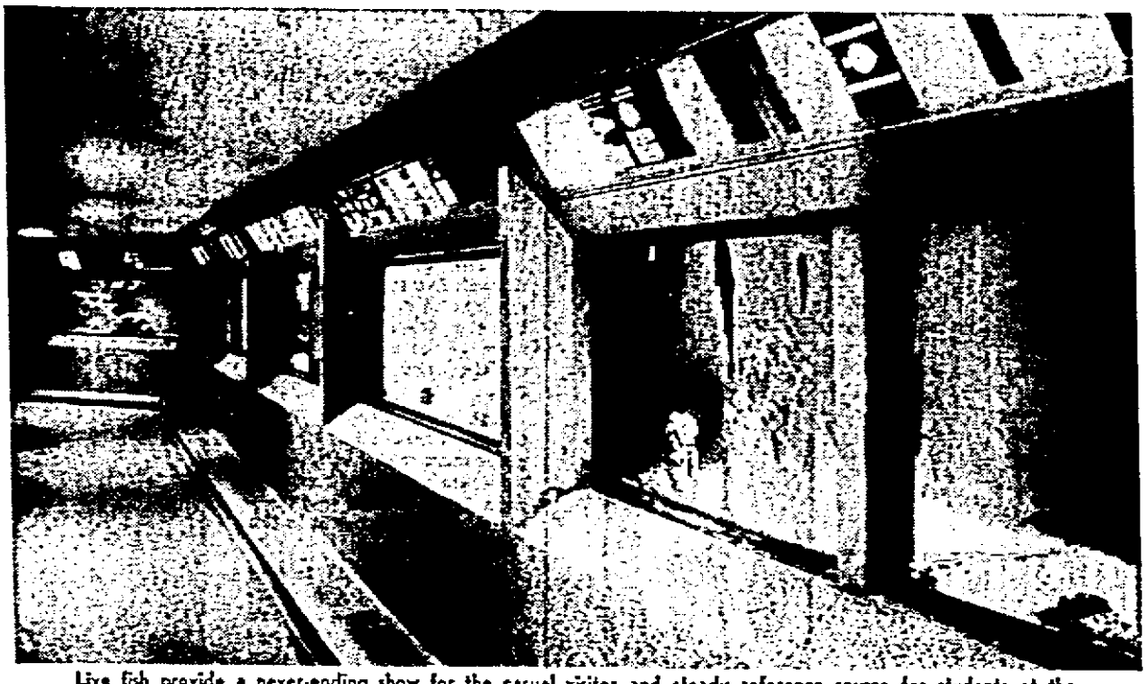

"Is that your best one?" Scotty asked. The boy nodded. "Then take mine. I won't be needing it."

The boys went to the house to tell

Unveiling the Mysteries of the Pacific

By
Robert Franklin Ames

Live fish provide a never-ending show for the casual visitor and steady reference source for students at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography's museum-aquarium at La Jolla. Admission to the displays is free to public.

THERE ARE only two museums of oceanography in the world. One is located in the tiny principality of Monaco, on the shores of the Mediterranean. The other, slightly more than an hour's drive from Long Beach, is Scripps Thomas Wayland Vaughan Aquarium-Museum in La Jolla.

Long Beach residents with the Pacific at their back doors and more than a ho hum interest in the ocean, find their way to this interesting attraction in ever increasing numbers.

Since its opening, the aquarium-museum has been visited by nearly 3,000 persons each week. Visitors from every state in the country and from Europe, South America, Africa, Asia and Australia have signed the guest register.

SCRIPPS MUSEUM first opened in 1912 and continued to grow until 1951 when it moved into a new and larger headquarters. This structure is of unusual type, combining a wrap-around room containing the aquariums, which encircles another room housing the museum. The $250,000 building was named in honor of the late Thomas Wayland Vaughan, the second director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Hours at the aquarium-museum are 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., Monday through Friday, and 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Admission is free, and groups may arrange for guided study tours.

Inside are 18 live-fish tanks ranging in capacity from two gallons to 2,500 gallons. The tanks are supplied with fresh, continuously aerated sea water from the institution's own system.

The live specimens displayed by Scripps scientists are representative of marine life found along California shores and the Gulf of California. In addition to fish and animals of the sea, the Scripps Museum also includes many exhibits and displays which show dramatically many of the peculiar habits of the Pacific Ocean and Southern California beaches.

FOR INSTANCE, one display tells how tides occur and what causes them, another is an exhibit of many Indian artifacts found under the sea and Southern California Beaches. In other cases visitors see how currents are measured and how scientists use skin diving in their work. A colorful chart shows the many chemicals and minerals present in each gallon of sea water. Those who live near the beach are interested in the display explaining how sand was deposited along the shore. The scientists even have several relics recovered from a Greek cargo ship that sank in the Mediterranean in 230 B. C.

The museum and aquarium are only a minute part of the business of Scripps Institution, however. The school is the largest oceanographic station in the United States, and the largest in the world, as well as being the southernmost campus of the University of California. It was established in 1903, when a field station of the zoology department was moved from San Pedro to a 177-acre site at La Jolla.

Scientists at the marine college constantly seek to discover more about the mysteries of the sea. The institution has a fleet of ships which dock at the United States Navy Electronics Laboratory at Point Loma. But their ocean-going vessels are seldom there for long—usually they are at sea engaged in research work.

SCRIPPS FLAGSHIP, the "Horizon," sailed in three separate trips to the Marshall Islands, the Gulf of Alaska and Peru. It and the other ships are used in many special studies, including the California Co-operative Sardine Research Program which requires a monthly oceanographic survey of the Pacific Coast from the mouth of the Columbia River to Baja California and some 400 miles to sea.

During World War II Scripps scientists developed an accurate method of predicting waves. Many of the Pacific theater operations were successful because officers knew when the waves would be just right for an amphibious landing.

Sport fishermen off the coast of Long Beach may some day see some of the institute's projects in operation. Its research vessels are often in this area. One study which depends upon the cooperation of people who live along the beach or spend their time fishing on the water is the study of the ocean's currents.

Scripps research ships set tightly sealed bottles adrift in the ocean. Inside each bottle is a note asking the finder to fill in the date, time and location the note was found and return it to the college. By tabulating the points to which bottles travel, scientists are able to predict the many and complex currents of the sea.

Other scientists seek out new facts about sport fish and turn this information over to fish and game officials. Sport fishermen benefit from these studies by accurate forecasts about runs of fish and by adequate conservation measures.

BUT SPORTSMEN are not the only ones who gain from the studies being made at Scripps Institute. Scientists are trying to find how to reclaim minerals from sea water, how to make the ocean produce food, how to mine the ocean floor, and even how to convert sea water to fresh water. Others are exploring our coastline discovering how tides, waves and storms affect the shore and the people who live near the ocean.

With the ever increasing population of the earth other scientists have determined that in centuries to come most available dry land will be needed for homesites, and highly developed to produce food. Even then they say the food supply of the earth will not be enough to support the billions of people who are expetced to be living.

When this occurs the people of the future will depend on the sea for food and minerals—or they will perish in great famines.

Scripps scientists are laying the groundwork by finding out the basic facts about the ocean. Some day these discoveries may rank among the most importaat to mankind.

Interior of museum section of the Thomas Wayland Vaughn installation holds wide interest for students of marine subject. The entire display is scientifically arranged, and the range of items runs into a high figure.

Taming an Ornery River

By Allan Krieg

Hoover Dam, 727 feet high and nearly quarter of a mile wide at top, backs up the Colorado River to form Lake Mead.

ONE of the meanest rivers in the world is like a formidable fence across a great part of the Southwest. Although the Colorado has been tamed in spots, it pretty much continues to wind its own surly way, unchallenged, through country it has isolated. Few of its 1,440 miles through five states and northern Mexico are easily viewed by the traveler. However, most of the places where it can be seen are worth the trip.

One such place is Black Canyon where it has sliced a gorge more than 800 feet deep to separate Nevada from Arizona. Here in 1936 was completed the highest dam in the world.

Hoover Dam's 727 feet in height and nearly a quarter-mile span at the top have backed up and stilled the turbulent Colorado for more than 100 miles to form Lake Mead, the world's largest man-made lake and watering place for the country's pleasure capital, Las Vegas, Nev.

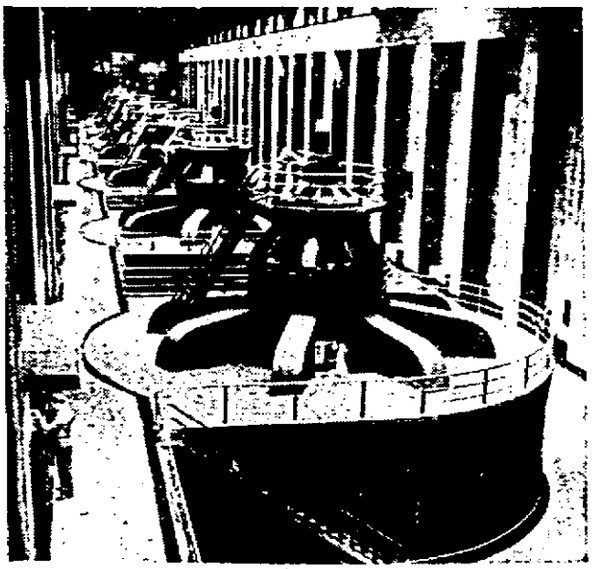

AS THE ONLY government construction project of any magnitude in the early part of the 1930s depression, the dam turned nearby Las Vegas into a boom town. The city had been sparked to life a quarter-century earlier when the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad (now Union Pacific's Salt Lake City-Los Angeles route) was completed, but not until job hunters began pouring in did it begin to approach its present proportions.

Work on the dam began in 1931 coincidental with another aid to populating: Nevada's legalization of gambling. The dam gave rise to another community, Boulder City, built near the site by the government as construction headquarters.

To move a mountain of supplies Union Pacific strung 23 miles of track across the desert to Boulder City and the government laid another 10 miles of rail from there to the Black Canyon location.

Not only did Hoover Dam provide desperately needed work for thousands, aside from its purpose to furnish nearly 2 million horsepower of electrical energy for the expanding Southwest, the gleaming white structure also soon became a major tourist attraction in the region.

The Bureau of Reclamation offers guided tours several times daily into the interior of the dam.

Mammoth generators humming in Hoover Dam's powerhouses produce huge amounts of power for the expanding Southwest.

their aunt goodby. She begged them to stay.

"You're such good boys."

"But Aunt Louisa," said Scotty. "You don't know who we are. We're Frank and Jesse, the bank robbers."

"Oh, I don't believe that."

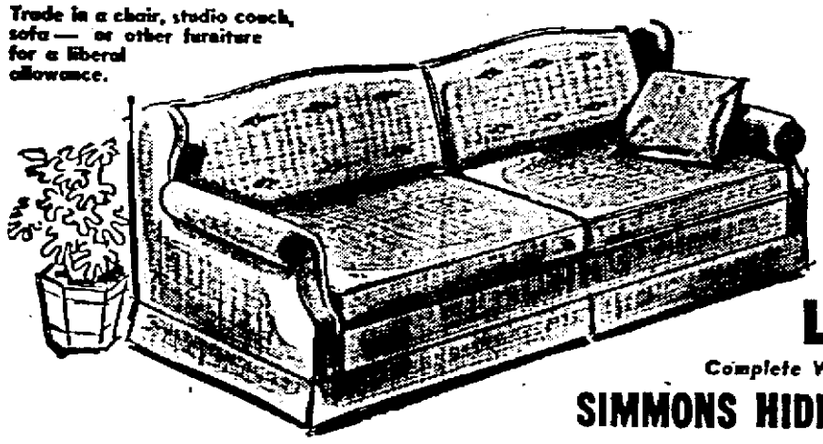

Again Jesse and Frank were back on their home farm. But Jesse was different. The influence of Uncle Drury's character, of Aunt Louisa's pride in him had a strong hold. He went to church, was baptized, joined the choir. Love touched his heart and he went courting. Everybody was happy. Months went by.

And then one night he mounted his horse and with Frank rode off into the darkness. Like iron drawn to magnets the old outlaws moved together. Somebody had brought the grain sack that had been their former trademark of business. Before many minutes another bank had an empty till. Old habits had proven stronger than the influence of Uncle Drury and California.

House With an Outward Look

Photos By Joe Rosmyer

Modern architecture, sleek and simple, is the constructional keynote of the home of the Jack Grisham family. These views of the living room show spaciousness and the sweeping beams which are definitive of the exposed construction employed. Clerestory window reveals continuation of the overhead beams and, with huge expanse of glass from the floor up, gives full play to the popular "indoor-outdoor" air of contemporary California.

By Eileen Ball

SLEEK planes and uncontrived simplicity of modern architecture were the order when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grisham and their two children plunged into the building of a new home.

A large lot at No. 5567 on curving Lonna Linda Dr., Park Estates, was selected as the site and Walter J. Richardson was commissioned as the architect.

The contour of the plot suggested a unique and effective landscape plan. An aggregate buff-toned concrete walkway ascends, in varying levels, to the entry sheltered by the wide roof overhang. Brown exterior siding of raised redwood sheathing contrasts subtly with the trim of buff. Open cantilevered beams project out in architectural silhouettes to endow the structure with a feeling of airiness.

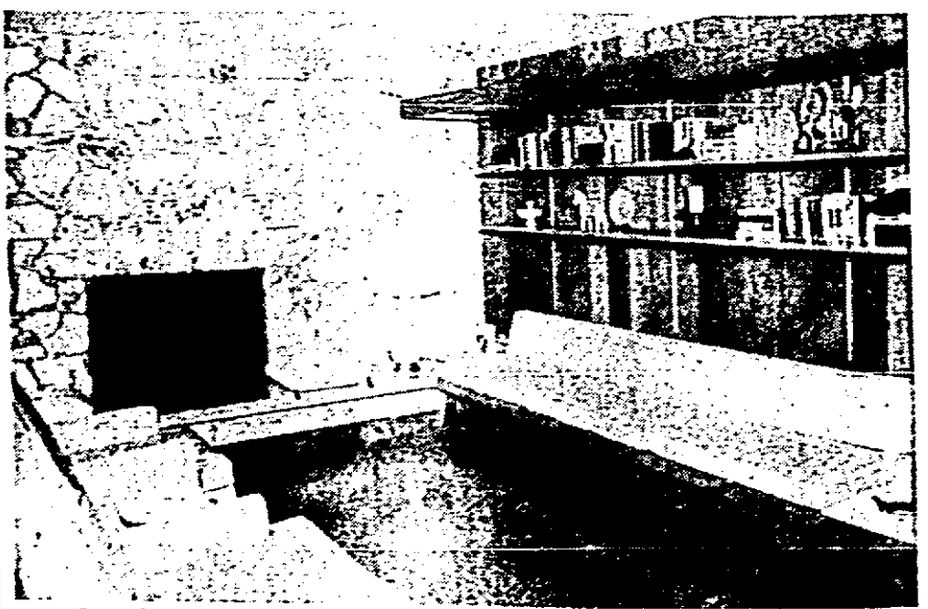

Projecting the popular indoor-outdoor attitude of contemporary California home design is the entry area. Here, vertical redwood paneling used on the exterior continues inside in unbroken continuity. A clerestory window reveals that the exposed roof beams are exactly the same inside as out. A large indoor planter, on a single level with the green slate flooring, abounds with greenery.

DIRECTLY BEYOND the entry, a wall of glass slides open to the patio and garden. To the left, the green slate leads to the living room, which is a serenely and simply furnished area. Taupe carpet, natural walnut paneling, white draperies and an exposed beam ceiling of soft buff comprise the basic backgrounds. Furnishings conform to the contemporary fabrics providing decorative interest.

Next to the living room is the family room. Spacious, effectively decorated and comfortable, this area is the true heart of the home. Beautifully styled furniture, a rock fireplace, books, a complete intercom, high fidelity and a close relationship to the outdoors keynotes multiple function of the room. Redwood tongue-and-groove paneling and cork vinyl flooring combine in a warm and informal setting—well suited to a background a rug of citrus yellow viscose that is near the bright yellow tone of a pair of leather lounge chairs. Additional seating is provided by a long sofa unit built along the inside wall: Over it has been installed a continuous bank of floating shelves. Foam pads and bolsters upholstered in natural slubbed linen fabric have been custom-made for use on this attractive and practical heating arrangement.

ONE ENTIRE END WALL of the family room is sheathed with Palos Verdes fieldstone, centered with an open, raised-hearth fireplace. At the opposite end of the room—set apart for dining—stands a dropleaf contemporary table strategically located to the kitchen for practical service. Over the dining table two original paintings by Catani provide a point of interest.

The kitchen, with its integral dinette area, is spacious, beautifully appointed and functional. It is closely related to the family room via a shuttered pass-through

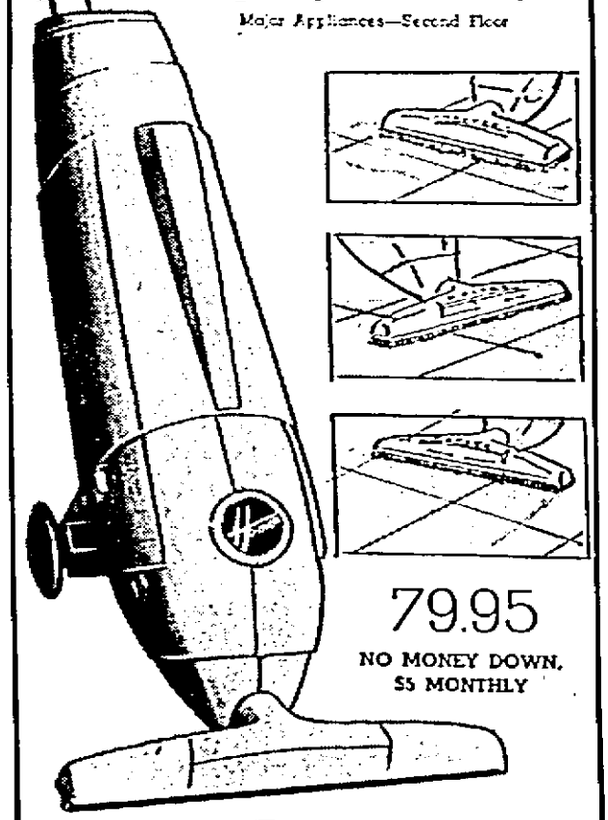

Rugged fireplace wall of Palos Verdes fieldstone dominates the family room of the Grisham home. Note the long sofa built along right wall to provide ample seating.

THE BEDROOM WING of this 3,000-square-foot, U-shaped house is outstandingly beautiful. Baby Jonathan's and little Julie's pastel turquoise-and-yellow bedrooms are airy, spacious and extremely functional to their little occupants' needs.

The master bath features a long counter of unglazed pale pink mosaic tile, overlooking a recessed planting area which, with walls of translucent material, has the effect of being outdoors.

The master bedroom, completely walled all along one side in plate glass, is situated to enjoy a comprehensive picture of the garden. Through clerestory windows is revealed the dramatic thrust of cantilevered open beams which, inside as well as out, contribute dynamic outlines to the house.

Contour of the building site is tied into the scheme of the Grisham home approach by use of irregular, ascending steps.

This Family Collects Sea Shells

By Caroline Coleman

MICHAEL, Helen and Stepanie Ann O'Brien were camping last June on the Gulf of California below San Felipe, looking for shells.

A chubasco (wind squall) blew up. They watched the heroic rescue of a couple of fishermen almost swamped in the waves.

The next morning, after the storm was over, when the tide was at its lowest, they walked out to the water's edge.

Stephanie Ann, 13, discovered a live mollusk, the Lophocardium Annettae, so rare that, so far as the O'Briens know, only three others have ever been found.

The shell is light salmon pink, deepening to rosy red at the posterior margin.

AT THE REQUEST of A. Myra Keen, assistant professor of paleontology and curator of malacology at Stanford, Stephanie Ann exhibited the shell at the recent annual meeting of the American Malacological Union, Pacific Division, at the University of Redlands.

Both Chicago University and Chicago Museum have expressed interest in acquiring the shell.

Stephanie Ann also has found rare Strombus Galiatus in good condition. She gave one to Long Beach State College.

An eighth grade pupil in Hamilton School, Stephanie Ann has been avidly interested in marine life for four years, and expects to be a conchologist.

"ONE DAY at the public library, I began reading a book on shells," recalls the young girl. "I became more interested, the more I read. I brought home four books; read them, took them back and got four more. . . . Since then I have hunted for shells, collected shells, studied shells . . ."

Her interest has become a family hobby. Her father, a World War II veteran, a paraplegic, and her mother are almost as enthusiastic as she. They explore the California coast at low tide, and for the past two years, when time permits, they go to the Gulf of California, camp out, and search for marine life. They stay from two to 10 days.

"The Gulf of California tide ranges from 17 to 50 feet, explains Mrs. O'Brien. "The tidal bore is second only to the Bay of Fundy in Nova Scotia."

They find November-March the best period for shell hunting. They swim and Stephanie Ann also is a skin diver.

O'Brien once caught six sharks, ranging from 4 to 8 feet, in the area near where his daughter and Mexican children swam. He had one of the shark jaws mounted.

STEPHANIE ANN has dissected the redula of chitons, abalone and keyhole limpets.

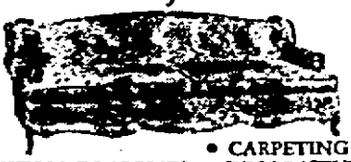

"The California coast is a paradise for collectors," say the O'Briens. "In the sand you can find Polinesis and olives; in the mud, Vesica Gouldiana (bubble shells); in the rocks, limpets and periwinkles; under the rocks, coffee beans, brittle stars and serpent stars. Abalones like places where the waves crash against the rocks."

The O'Briens urge persons shell-hunting far below the U. S.-Mexican border to take along drinking water and food, and stay on the main-traveled roads. They usually take candy, popcorn, fresh vegetables and fruit to their Mexican friends.

"There isn't a finer family hobby," say the O'Briens. "It is stimulating; it gets us out of doors. It can be profitable

Menu With a Mandarin Touch

Three dishes with an Oriental flavor are Chinese Sweet-Sour Lamb, Chinese-Style Brown Rice and Cranberry Mandarin Sauce.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHEN IT COMES to Chinese cuisine, there are many different styles. Mandarin, Cantonese, Singapore, our own fanciful Chop Suey (foreign to China) to name but a few, but one rule holds supreme for all—contrast.

Contrast in taste, contrast in texture—that's the secret. So, to eat Chinese, let's take three budget-wise American favorites—lamb, quick brown rice and fresh cranberries—and see what can be concocted.

Sweet and sour—that's a typical contrast. Let's start with lamb—little-money neck slices — with all the flavor and juciness of more expensive lamb cuts — combined with peppers and onions, in a simple sauce with Chinese flavor. There's contrast in the rice dish — just-right quick brown rice, each kernel separate, tossed with celery and pecans or filberts to point up the nut-like rice flavor. For the sweet, try tart, fresh cranberries with mandarin orange sections and ginger—again, contrast!

No chopsticks? A fork will do!

Chinese Sweet-Sour Lamb

2 pounds lamb neck slices
2 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of garlic powder
1 cup water
1 bouillon cube
1 green pepper, cut in chunks
4 small white onions or 1 yellow onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon vinegar

Brown lamb in hot shortening; season with salt and garlic powder. Add water and bouillon cube; simmer, covered, 45 minutes. Add green pepper and onion; simmer 25 minutes longer, or until meat is tender. Combine cornstarch and sugar; blend to a smooth paste with soy sauce and vinegar. Gradually stir cornstarch mixture into meat; cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and clears. Makes 4 servings.

Chinese-Style Brown Rice

1 cup quick brown rice
½ cup thinly sliced celery
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup broken pecans or filberts
1 teaspoon salt

Cook rice following package directions. Cook celery in butter or margarine 5 minutes. Combine all ingredients; toss lightly to mix. Makes 4 servings.

Cranberry Mandarin Sauce

½ cup water
1 cup sugar
2 cups fresh cranberries
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange sections
2 tablespoons thinly sliced candied ginger or
½ teaspoon ground ginger

Combine water, sugar and cranberries in saucepan; cook over moderate heat until cranberries begin to pop, about 10 minutes. Add orange sections and ginger; simmer 5 minutes. Makes about 4 cups.

Hamburger Steak Loaf

2 pounds lean beef, ground
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Ac'cent
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup catsup

Combine all ingredients; mix well; shape into oval loaf about 1½ inches thick. Broil, with surface of meat 4 inches below source of heat, 15 to 20 minutes. Do not turn. Remove to hot platter. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Serve with Grape Fruit and Orange Cup, Au Gratin Potatoes, Asparagus Tips, Assorted Breads, Mustard and Chili Sauce, Thompson Seedless Grapes and Cantaloupe Salad, Custard Pie.

BOOK REVIEWS

Faith Wins the Game for Campy

JAN. 28, 1958: That was the date that turned the world around for Roy Campanella, the day that Campy drove into an accident and made him a helpless quadriplegic after 10 wonderful years as star and sparkplug of the Dodgers National League baseball team.

Roy was on top of the world. Considered one of baseball's greatest catchers, he was making $45,000 a year. He owned his own home, a business and even a yacht. He loved baseball, he loved his family and was loved in return. He found it good to be alive.

The accident, which occurred when he was driving home, alone, from New York City to Glen Cove, N. Y., changed everything—almost. For weeks he could not move, was not even able to breathe except through a tube in his throat. But Roy Campanella remembered how good it was to be alive, and so he began to fight. That fight was an inspiration to everyone who knew him, even hospital patients who hadn't ever heard of him before. Now he can move his arms, his shoulders, his head . . . can even toss a baseball again!

During Campanella's convalescence he wrote how he achieved this miracle in an autobiography, "IT'S GOOD TO BE ALIVE" (Little, Brown, $4.50), a book which should stand with the Holy Bible on the bedstand of the very ill who want to live.

Campy was born Nov. 19, 1921, the son of an Italian father and a Negro mother. The kids in the neighborhood often called him "halfbreed." He liked baseball from the time he was old enough to throw a ball and by the time he was 14 he was a "pro," playing during his teens in the hottest Negro leagues in the United States. When first scouted by the Dodgers in 1945, he had a family and was a veteran of nine years in pro Negro ball.

Then, on July 2, 1948—wearing number 39 — he played his first game with the Dodgers after burning up the American Association for St. Paul with a .333 batting average. He was the fourth Negro signed into organized ball. Of all his years in the game, he is proudest of his 1953 year when he set three new records for a catcher: 42 home runs, 142 runs batted in and a fielding mark of 807 putouts. His batting average that year was a blazing .312.

Campy spent much of his time away from the Dodgers with his wife and children, often taking them with him on his yacht. He tinkered with his tropical fish tanks and with his model electric trains (his collection of electric trains is one of the largest in the world). But most of his time was spent in the Mexican leagues while most of his teammates were "on vacation"—because he loved the game so much.

Campy's autobiography carries right on through to the Yankee-Dodger "Campanella Night" game last May 7 when 93,103 fans paid him tribute in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. With his condition improving steadily all the time he "feels the good Lord will let me walk again." He tells of his plans to move to Southern California to be close to his work with the Dodgers organization.

Here is truly a magnificent book, attesting to the courage and faith of a great baseball player who tackled and defeated the most formidable foe any athlete ever went up against. . .death.

"ORDE WINGATE: A BIOGRAPHY" by Christopher Sykes (World, $6): One of strangest, most controversial but most zealous leaders to come out of any army was Gen. Orde Wingate, the Britisher who returned Haile Selassie to his Ethiopian throne and who changed the tide of war in Southeastern Asia and the techniques of guerrilla fighting throughout the world. Yet this genius who swayed Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt would sometimes greet visitors stark naked while bathing, was rebellious and antagonistic with fellow officers. Sykes has taken full advantage of his subject to produce as fascinating a biography as will come your way in a long time.

Thumbnail reviews of late books:

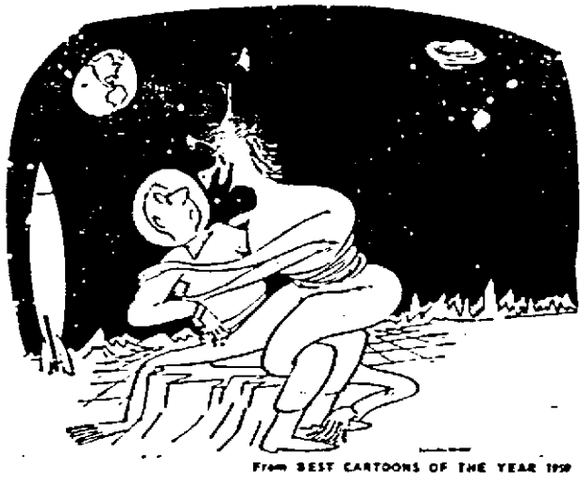

"THE LOTUS EATERS" by Gerald Green (Scribners, $4.95): What are the good things of life? This seems to be the synthesis of this robust novel by the author of "The Last Angry Man." Action centers at "The Beach," a swank Florida resort, around an anthropologist, his wife, a rich hoodlum, and a free-wheeling public relations man, and their lives become strangely involved. A book to think about long after the reading.

"AUTHOR'S SCRAPBOOK: 1958-1959" edited by R. Haner (Sandmar House, Superior, Ariz., no price given): This anthology of stories with a "different approach" contains a sweet little tale about a small boy's faith in his mother, written by Mrs. Edith Fitzgerald Golden of 2222 Elm Ave., Long Beach. Eighteen authors are represented in the collection.

"THE NEGOTIATORS" by Francis Walder (McDowell, Obolensky, $3.50): True to the publisher's promise, this is a masterful fiction account of diplomacy and the true art of negotiation. Though lacking in plot, it has to do with drawing up a treaty between the King of France and the Huguenots in 1570, two years before the Massacre of St. Bartholomew. This novel won for Walder the French Prix Goncourt last year.

"SCANDAL AT HIGH CHIMNEYS" by John Dickson Carr (Harpers, $3.50): Victorian London is the setting with two beautiful sisters figuring in a bizarre murder. If you like Carr, this is your meat.

"THE FINISHED MAN" by George Garrett (Scribners, $3.95): Florida becomes the arena of a red-hot senatorial campaign with the son of a

From BEST CARTOONS OF THE YEAR 1959

"But I am a female!"

They're back again, the two fun books edited by Lawrence Lariar each fall that makes everybody laugh: "BEST CARTOONS OF THE YEAR 1959" and "BEST CARTOONS FROM ABROAD 1959" (Crown, $2.95 each). The first-named contains the cream of the crop by leading American cartoonists, from top American publications; the latter (coedited by Ben Roth), a selection of belly-busters from publications throughout the world, are often breezy or racy. You can make a hit with your guests by passing these around instead of showing the family snapshots.

V. SHOEMAKER

Two Long Beach Press-Telegram personalities figure in the annual "GUIDEPOSTS" anthology (Guideposts Associates, Inc., Carmel, N.Y., $3.95) — a collection of 65 articles published originally in "Guideposts" magazine. In one of the articles, Press-Telegram editorial page editor Harry Karns tells the story of Vaughn Shoemaker, whose editorial cartoons appear regularly on the P-T "Currents of Opinion" page. It's the story of an artist who failed art school but who went on to win two Pulitzer Prizes. Other articles in the collection were written by Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Victor Riesel, Robert Young, Lawrence Welk, Gov. Abraham Rubicoff, Ann Sothern, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Garry Moore, Pat Boone, and Elaine St. Johns.

decent old judge getting his eye teeth cut on political corruption. What sort of a man will emerge from this dog-eat-dog fight? Sound, swift-moving fiction.

"THE WOMAN'S BOWLING GUIDE" by Sylvia Wene (David McKay, $2.95): Contending that scoring higher than the average isn't difficult if the basic principles of bowling are mastered, the "First Lady of Bowling" outlines those principles in text and pictures in an understandable, easy-to-follow manner. Women who really want to excel in bowling should not pass up this one.

PAPERBACK originals (first time to appear in book form): "31 Short Short Stories From Colliers (Beacon, 35c); "McCracken in Command," a novel of officer rivalry, by James Keene (Dell, 25c); "Winter of the Sioux," a story of a man hated by the whites, loved by a great Indian tribe, by Robert Steelman (Ballantine, 35c); "The History of Western Art," from the cave painters to today's abstract impressionists, by Edwin O. Christensen (Mentor, 75c); "Harvey Kurtzman's Jungle Book" (Ballantine, 35c); "The Wanton," an Al Wheeler thriller by Carter Brown (Signet, 25c).

Don McSwain operates hot stamping press at Long Beach Library Binding Co. while Mrs. McSwain, daughter of the company founder, assists by tightening book press.

Donna Mitchell, soon to be 11, discusses with A. W. Rafferty, soon 81, intricate task of rejuvenating Donna's old Bible.

By Bess Settle Webster

AUSTIN W. RAFFERTY knows more about books from cover to cover than anyone else in town . . . or in any other town, for that matter. Books are his business. Sick books, that is. He is an expert book doctor. He regenerates, beautifies and blows new life into aging volumes and sends them back to their owners good as new.

When valuable old books from personal libraries, from the Los Angeles County Museum, from dusty attics and from horsehair trunks find their way into his book hospital—officially known as the Long Beach Library Binding Co., 1376 Coronado Ave.—they come to the personal attention of Rafferty. Founder of the firm which has been a Long Beach institution for 30 years, he knows the nearly forgotten, the lost art, of the real old-time bookbinder.

Commercial books of all kinds, Long Beach Public School textbooks, Long Beach City Library books, come in an endless stream to the bindery to be repaired, rebound and replaced in public service. But it is that special book, the prized first edition, the old family Bible, books that are dog-eared, unhinged, unglued and suffering from a nervous breakdown brought on by overwork and careless treatment, that come to the attention of the old book doctor.

WHEN RAFFERTY—who will be 81 years old on July 30—was a small boy in London, Ontario, he recalls one terrible winter when the temperature dropped so low that the trees cracked and popped in doleful protest. A business depression was on in full swing. His father was out of work. So were all the neighbors. All, that is, except one lone man. He was a bookbinder. Ol' Man Depression stayed away from the Canadian bookbinder's door. The neighbors, especially Austin Rafferty's father, were impressed.

"Son," Austin's father remarked one 30-below-zero morning when there was but little coal left in the bin, "how would you like to learn the bookbinding trade?"

This off-the-cuff remark lighted a glowing flame of ambition in Rafferty that is still burning brightly, giving motivation to his nimble fingers and purpose and understanding to his golden years when men his age have long been rusting on the shelf of retirement.

Later the family left Canada moving to Grand Rapids, Mich., where Austin, after completing his schooling, entered a large bookbinding concern as an apprentice. He worked five years before becoming a full-fledged journeyman bookbinder. There followed years of working for first one concern and then another in Canada, New York, Pittsburgh and other large cities. Each job contributed to his knowledge and experience although the pay was poor, $15, $18 a week. Back in Ontario again, he mastered the fine art of repairing old Bibles and hymn books . . . a skill that was to stand him in good stead in his golden years.

MRS. RAFFERTY shares her husband's enthusiasm for the book repair business. She, too, is an expert bookbinder. "Jean Stuart was a smart girl . . . sharp as a whip and neat as a button, a Scotch girl, forelady for the shop where I was working in Ontario," he will tell you. "I was the foreman. So, when we married and left the concern they lost both the foreman and the forelady."

Years ago the Rafferys decided to retire. He was going to do some of the things he thought he wanted to do. But now, he is back at work doing the things he has always known that he really wanted to do . . . repairing old books. The couple's son-in-law, Don McSwain, is now owner and active head of the bookbinding concern on Coronado Ave. Mrs. McSwain, Rafferty's daughter, assists when needed. Mrs. Rafferty still does the hand sewing on fine books.

Rebinding a library book is no simple chore. Forty-one different operations are involved. How to meet the problem of rising costs, particularly of labor, can be solved only by mechanization.

NUMEROUS EMPLOYES work at the routine business of repairing, rebinding and renewing the thousands of books that arrive by the truckload. The old covers are ripped off. Dried glue is cut away by powerful machines. Broken stitches are sheared off and when the weary old volume emerges in a smart, new dress, firmly glued and freshly stitched, it is ready for another grand round of borrowing, lending, serving as a door-stop or for throwing at the neighbor's howling dog.

"This is my mother's Bible," a customer will explain. "It is falling apart

Boot Hill: End of the Cow Trail

By Betty Hardesty

Legends taken from the originals, markers in Dodge City's Boot Hill are reminiscent of the grim humor of Wild West.

DODGE CITY'S notorious Boot Hill Cemetery is no longer open for permanent occupancy but visitors from Long Beach and elsewhere may stay a while. Most tourists do turn off the main road to visit this old graveyard known to every TV and movie viewer through history, legend and stories of Wyatt Earp.

Boot Hill, an actual Wild West burial place, was in use during the cattle-running days when Dodge City was the end of a trail over which cowboys drove steers from the Texas ranges. Between 1871 and 1878, many a tall Texan was carried there, booted feet first, after driving his critters into the railroad cars waiting at this Kansas rail terminal.

Perhaps the old, unnamed skeleton on display at the Boot Hill Museum today is one of these Texans. Now old pictures, newspaper clippings and prints of notorious persons of the Boot Hill Cemetery burying days cover the walls of this museum provided and kept up by the Dodge City Jaycees. The original 6x8-foot wooden jail of those days is part of the authentic collection.

A LARGE SIGN READS: "This Plot Is a Monument to Those Who Died With Their Boots On and Were Buried With Their Boots On." Below is a portion of a poem on "Boot Hill" by Josephine McIntire:

"To any traveler who may pass this way
And climb this lonely hill, we say . . .
Weep not for us who early made our beds
Wrapped in our blankets with saddles for our heads,
For we are happy here, secure and still
In this rock-strewn, silent, sun-baked hill."

Today it is not silent for town residences surround the now grassy slope and tourists' chatter disturbs the quiet.

On the hill, wooden signs freshly painted white with legible printing, have replaced rotted ones but inscriptions are copied from the originals. More humorous than sad, they are typical of pioneer epitaphs which reflect the bravado of those times:

One: "Town Bully, 1878. Whiskey Killed Him."

Another: "Shoot-em-up-Jake Run for Sheriff 1872. Run from Sheriff 1876. Buried 1876."

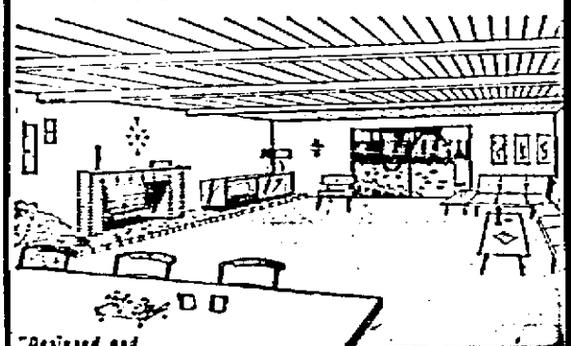

THE ONLY WOMAN buried there was dainty Dora Hand of Dodge City's Alhambra Saloon. Like all the fair of the old frontier, she was endowed with legends. These grew more fantastic after she was shot when mistaken for her steady boy friend, first mayor of the town. The minister chose as a text for her obsequies, "He that is without sin, let him cast a stone at her."

During its heyday, Dodge City and Boot Hill were often in the news of Eastern papers. The town was once called "The Beautiful, Bibulous Babylon of the Plains" because of killings and baudiness. With so many saloons, it was indeed a drunkard's paradise. Tall Texans, their pockets full of money from their cattle drives, even drove their horses to the bars asking for "a double toddy" meaning one for the horse. After Kansas went dry, it has been said, any accredited person could still get "tanked-up" in Dodge City.

Come Sun or Snow

By Steve Ellingson

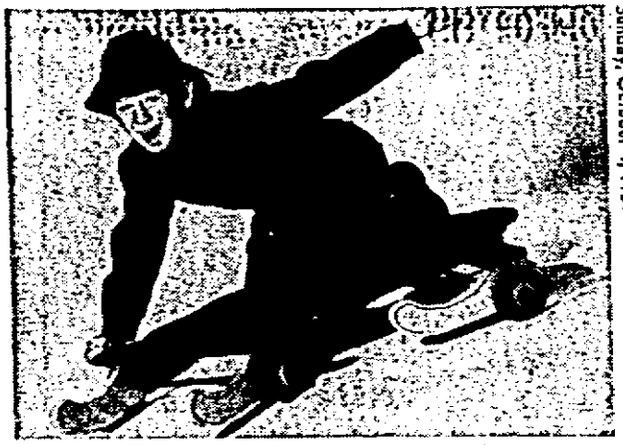

GRASS is always greener on the other side of the fence. Ask any southern boy where he would rather live and he'll choose the north for it's winter sports. But a northern boy will take the south everytime to get away from his snow shoveling chores.

Of course, we can't bring snow to boys who live down south, but we can help them to have a sled. The one pictured here with NBC's Tommy Nolan, star of the Buckskin series works just as well on a sidewalk as it does in the snow.

In a way, I guess this could be called a year-round sled, or a sled for any climate. In the summertime when there isn't any snow, you simply put on the wheels and you have a sidewalk coaster. When snow comes to the highlands just take off the wheels and you're off to the snow areas for good sliding. It's a convertible—you get two things for the price of one.

IT'S AN EASY project. You simply trace the full-size patterns on wood, saw out the parts and put them together. The pattern, which is designed to be used by inexperienced amateurs, lists the required materials and gives easy to understand directions. The cost is very little when you build it yourself. It's a sturdy design and will last for years. The front runners are on a swivel, which makes it easy to steer and safe to operate. A sled is something every body or girl enjoys having. It makes a dandy gift.

To obtain the full-size sled-wagon pattern No. 168 pictured here send 75 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

For summer, it can be used as a coaster. When winter comes it can go to the snow as a sled. Tommy Nolan of TV rides it.

L. B. Coin Club

Dr. A. F. Pradeau, author of "Numismatic History of Mexico," will speak at the meeting of the Long Beach Coin Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Recreation Department building, 350 E. Ocean Blvd. Dr. Pradeau will display Mexican coins.

Boot Hill

Wyatt Earp's time, shows his sign announcing "Carrying of Firearms within city limits is forbidden." He enforced it, too, by threatening those who argued with his long-barreled Buntline Special.

But whether Earp fired the shot or someone else did, no-one bothered to remove the boots of those who were buried on Boot Hill.

"This inflation is terrible! Every time we go out to eat the price goes up a few more dishes!"

End of a Symbol in Hollywood

By Jane Hamer

Tall pines shade the villas of the Garden of Allah where some of Hollywood's most famous persons lived and played.

THIS MODERN urge called "progress" is soon to destroy another of the Babylonic symbols of a fabulous era of movie-making, Hollywood's Garden of Allah Hotel. By fall this epic by-product of filmland's high-riding days will have been flattened to make way for a $755,000 project to be known as Lytton Center.

The three-acre hotel site in the Hollywood Hills occupies a busy corner and half a block on the "strip" at Sunset Blvd. and Havenhurst Dr. It was built in 1926 by Nazimova, siren of the silver screen and pet of Paramount Studios which gave her the property as a gift. Those late 1920s were days of extravagance in the film colony, as elsewhere. Movies were a most popular pastime and a whole rosy new era loomed as talking films tested different techniques.

Everything was going up, including skirts and excluding hairstyles which hugged the eyebrows. Jazz and the shimmy kept flappers hopping. Babe Ruth was appearing on the Pantages Theater Vaudeville stage at 7th and Hill Sts. in Los Angeles, and Catalina Channel swims were making national headlines. Radio, too, was reaching out from its battery boundaries to electric horizons unlimited. The Los Angeles Open Golf Tournment paid $3,200 or an unheard of $11 per stroke, the Giants paid Rogers Hornsby $40,000, turkeys sold for 50 cents a pound and Peerless Motor Stock at 32. Hollywood was expanding in population so a big new high school opened at Fairfax and Melrose to serve the fat film colony. Movie theaters were gold and plush palaces.

NAZIMOVA REFUSED to be outdone. In keeping with the lavishness of that income-tax-less period, she enlarged her garden retreat by building 25 villas of Spanish-styled architecture. Each was unique and fashionably furnished. The then un-inflated, vast sum of $1,500,000 which she spent also created a 65x45 foot swimming pool, biggest in Hollywood and in the shape of the Black Sea, beloved of her childhood.

Around the guest villas and pool of the Garden of Allah, luxurious gardens were planted, including evergreen pine trees which now tower above the Spanish roof tile, and shade the Moorish fountain pools. Today, villas in a row still turn their backs on Havenhurst as they face a fieldstone walk beside a central building now housing offices, bar and restaurant of the hotel which must soon hold its farewell party.

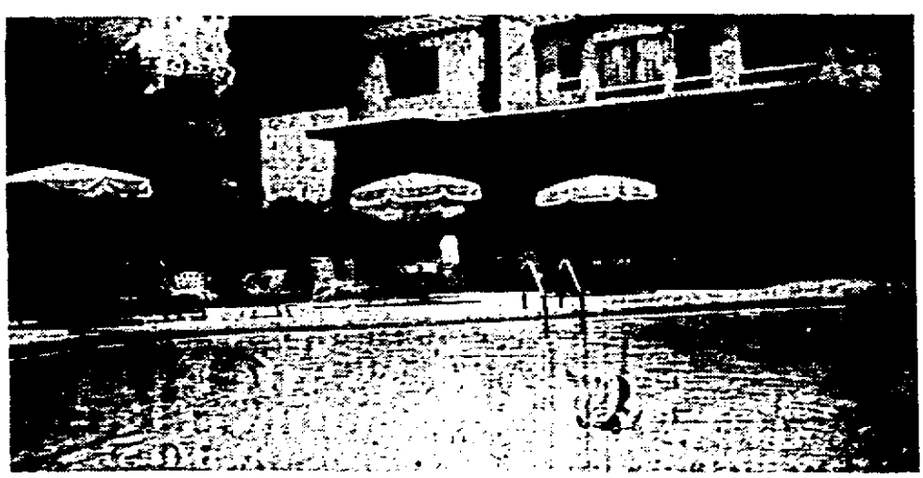

On Jan. 8, 1927, a humdinger of an opening took place to dedicate the Garden of Allah. Festivities which continued for 18 hours, climaxed with a caviar and champagne feast. It is said that before it was over, waiters were harmonizing with guests while troubadours played madrigals from the middle of the pool.

STORIES OF THE POOL with fact and fable intermixed like film plots of those fanciful days, live on in tales of other parties. W. C. Fields, the comic inebriate both on and off the screen, took a short cut across the water. Film folk still smile remembering how Charlie Butterworth pushed a wheelbarrow carrying Robert Benchley from Villa No. 1 party to Villa No. 2 party to No. 3, etc., etc. far, far into the night.

Revelry lasted for days, often moving from villa to villa tirelessly, and anecdotes of those affairs follow the same pattern. When the humorist Benchley, was cautioned that "drink is slow poison," he replied, "I'm in no hurry."

Lucius Beebe's remark that "The Garden of Allah has catered to the best-dressed

Pool of the Garden of Allah Hotel, shaped like Nazimova's beloved Black Sea, was the focal point of many gay goings-on in the free-spending era of the film colony.

He Started as a 'Silent Singer'

By Terry Vernon

Independent Press-Telegram TV Columnist

HOLLYWOOD is noted as a place where talent is often wasted right along with plenty of money. Take the case of Dennis Morgan, the "silent singer" of MGM.

Signed by the studio to sing, he worked at the big picture lot for three years, but was never permitted to sing a note. Bit parts were all the crumbs he got except for his salary.

Morgan, who was born Stanley Morner, left MGM at the termination of his contract, worked around the Paramount lot for a time, and was finally signed by Warner Brothers and put to singing. He also got his name change from the brothers Warner.

SEVERAL PICTURES were under his belt when "The Desert Song" came along and he became a star and overnight sensation.

Now he is working in a TV series called "21 Beacon Street" for NBC, in the starring role of detective Dennis Chase.

"The series is unique in that it is not a 'whodunit' but a 'HOW are you going to do it. In each episode Chase and the audience know the problem, but the audience does not known how we will manage to solve it," said Morgan.

NBC Photo by Elmer Holloway

Dennis Morgan was a "silent singer" at MGM for three years before he finally achieved fame, and then not at MGM.

MORGAN'S DESIRE to become an actor, a singer or both, started when he was attending Carroll College at Waukesha, Wis. He appeared in school plays, toured with a chautauqua circuit troupe throughout the Midwest and recalls doing 60 one-night stands with the opera "Faust."

An outdoor type, Morgan enjoys golf, fishing, hunting and devoting his off-hours to his 500-acre ranch in Fresno. On Sundays he sings in the choir of his neighborhood Presbyterian Church and works at helping the Boys Club in Hollywood.

"How can we get reservations for the Olympics in Rome next summer?"

I TRIED to reserve a hotel room for the Olympics last April. Tried at the Flora with Signor Signori who is a friend of mine. He was completely booked.

Best thing I have heard of is a ship tour which will anchor 12 miles from Rome and drive you in each day. The ship is the Ocean Monarch and the complete tour is $1395, including your tickets to the games. (You return each night and sleep on the ship.)

The cruise is 32 days if you come back by ship, 22 days if you want to take the alternate home by air. You also get side trips and dinners at Paris, Monte Carlo and so on.

For the brochure, write Travel House of Great Neck, 93 Middle Neck Road at Maple Drive, Great Neck, New York.

". . . best place for a winter vacation in the Caribean?"

I STILL hear that you get your best prices and color in the Windward and Leeward Islands — Guadeloupe, Martinique, St. Lucia, Antigua. British West Indies Airways runs an island-hopping flight out of Miami. So does Pan American.

Jamaica, only two hours from Miami, is very popular.

However, this is NOT inexpensive country. The new Arawak Hotel at Ochos Rios quoted me $63 a day per couple with meals. At Montego Bay, I am staying at Casa Montego today for $15—off-season. But on-season, my room goes for $48 single, $58 double.

Trinidad is a fine tropical island with a smell of nutmeg to it. Fairly inexpensive. Grand Cayman near Jamaica is a new resort area you reach by British West Indies Airways out of Miami. But I don't know the prices.

Haiti is the most colorful island. But it is having a good deal of political trouble. I don't think you'd get hurt. But it is for the adventurous right now.

Cuba, 45 minutes from Miami, is a Caribbean Las Vegas: Shows, gambling, hot night life. Somewhat uncertain while the new Castro government shakes down.

Dominican Republic could get a revolution at any time. Too uncertain in my opinion for relaxed vacations. Again this is for the adventurous.

GOING PLACES

by the Sloanes

RIFLING through a depleted checkbook on return from our recent transcontinental motor tour—it cost nearly one-third more than our estimates had indicated—we came to one inescapable conclusion: The cost of traveling has gone up distressingly in the past few years.

These factors seem to be causing the most trouble:

1. Tourist taxes. Probably the most unfair kind of taxation going, it burdens nonresidents who don't benefit from it yet can't vote against it. State and provincial levies on accommodations run as high as five per cent in many areas.

A new fly in the ointment is municipal taxation. In Reno, a sign over motel desks arrogantly announces that five per cent will be added to room rates to pay the cost of a new municipal auditorium. Just why tourists, who may never see the inside of it, must pay for this is not made clear.

Restaurant and gasoline taxes are an old story getting bigger. In many tourist-dependent areas visitors contribute more to the support of governments than local citizens who eat out and fill their tanks once a week.

2. Room rates. Panic seems to have gripped many small commercial motels. Long the mainstays of the highway accommodation trade, they are now faced with stiff competition from a resuscitated hotel industry and the new big-time motor hotel independents and chains.

Where these can afford not to charge for children, the small motels can't afford not to. Where the large operators can count on averaging a profit over the year with a certain percentage of occupancy, Mama and Papa are faced with the competitive urgency of charging what the traffic will bear when there is traffic.

Seasonal rates are approaching fantastic levels. Fifteen dollars for two in the most ordinary places is not uncommon. Once when we asked for two rooms, we were told the rate would be $30 plus—without batting an eyelash—$2 additional for a crib and $1.50 for television. We've paid less than that for suites in Las Vegas and Miami Beach resort hotels.

3. Memberships. One form panic has taken is an increasing dependency on memberships in motel organizations and charge-it clubs to draw the customers in. Many of the former have steep membership fees and the latter require commissions ranging up to seven per cent. Both must inevitably be passed on to guests in the form of higher room rates. Again, the larger operations seem better able to absorb these expenses.

4. Toll roads. We're as thankful for them as anyone, but the tolls do add to the costs of motoring.

5. Inflation. There isn't much left to be said on this subject except to note in passing that it has taken its toll on hotel and restaurant operating costs and automobile insurance, depreciation and maintenance as surely as it has one everything else.

Travel by public carrier isn't any cheaper these days either. The airlines, squeezed by labor and burdened by huge debts for new jet equipment are trying their best to pass some of the load on to the consumer.

Recently, fares were raised six per cent in the United States. Round trip discounts and stopover privileges were withdrawn and family plan savings reduced by most airlines.

The 10 per cent (U.S.) tax on tickets still exists, and most foreign countries have gleefully jumped on the bandwagon with senseless tourist card taxes, head taxes, baggage taxes and port taxes which benefit the tourist even less, if that is possible, than hotel taxes at home.

What to do about it all? Refusing to patronize places that take advantage of the tourist and raising cain with your legislators may help.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. All will be answered as soon as possible but those sending stamped, self-addressed envelopes will get preference.

Nonstop to London

Trans World Airlines will begin nonstop international jet service with Boeing 707 intercontinental models between New York and London on Nov. 23, according to Charles S. Thomas, president.

A second trans-Atlantic route between New York and Paris will start Dec. 3, Thomas announced.

The flights to London will continue to Frankfurt, Germany, and the Paris flights will continue to Rome.

The new international jet service will provide Los Angeles area passengers with direct connections to European destinations. Leaving Los Angeles at 9 a.m., a TWA passenger will arrive in London at 6:55 a.m. the following day, a total elapsed flying time of 11 hours and 25 minutes.

Flying time between New York and London will be reduced to six hours and 25 minutes eastbound by use of the 707 intercontinental jets.

Hostesses Learn Art in Real Jets

By Herb Shannon

AIRBORNE passengers of Continental Air Lines are receiving the benefits of improved service en route because of a couple of jet transports that never get off the ground at Los Angeles International Airport.

Both of the planes are full-scale mockups of sections of the jet aircraft used by Continental on its routes from Chicago west and south. The mockups are used as classrooms in the airline's school for hostesses.

The cabin models of the Boeing 707 Golden Jet and the jet-powered Viscount II are complete in every detail, containing seats, lights, buffet units and all facilities for passenger comfort as in their flying counterparts.

Student hostesses in school at Continental Airlines base at Los Angeles learn by watching demonstrations through the transparent side of land-locked jet plane.

THE 707 MOCKUP includes the first-class passenger lounge, the galley compartment and the first forward section of eight seats, exactly as in the real plane. The interior decor is also a duplicate of the real thing on one wall, while the other is transparent plexiglass so student hostesses can watch demonstrations inside.

The Viscount mockup takes in a similar slice of plane except that the section used is forward of the galley near the rear of the actual plane.

Both of these land-based aircraft enable Continental to simulate actual in-flight conditions, including the serving of champagne and hot meals, during the company's intensive hostess training course.

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Marilyn Ainlay, Continental's supervisor of hostess training, new girls practice serving each other according to the strictly-outlined regulations of their training manuals, while other students watch from outside the plane.

In addition to training some 50 new hostesses a year to replace those leaving the service, each of Continental's 200 hostesses receives a refresher course each three months.

Refresher training, which runs through the entire service manual in one day for classes of a dozen hostesses, is conducted by Susan Haggott, assistant supervisor of the school.

Hands Talk Plainly to Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

THROUGH the courtesy of Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, we are privileged to reproduce in this column highlights from an excellent article, "Good Hands With a Dog" published in Gaines Dog Research Progress, written by Stanley Dangerfield for the English journal, Our Dogs. They follow:

Man has, in his hands, the most powerful of weapons when dealing with dogs. These hands can tame, subdue, punish, heal, exact obedience, charm, comfort, and cherish. Make no mistake about it—the dog knows this. When man deals with man he looks at the other person's eyes. When dog deals with man, he looks at the person's hands.

DISTRACT A DOG'S attention from your hands by talking to him, thereby causing him to look up into your face to see where the noise comes from. Then try putting your hands in your pocket while you are talking. You will find the dog's eyes register the move. Try taking a swipe at a dog, hiding a ball which he wants, throwing the ball without warning. In each case, the dog's reaction is automatic and immediate.

All of which should make us careful with our hands. No dog should be taught to fear those hands. It is tempting to grab a dog that has just changed his mind about coming to you, but it frightens him and builds up a determination to stay out of arm's reach at all costs. Lifting a dog by the scruff of the neck is an absurd habit, and cuffing and slapping also build up the wrong sort of awareness of the hands. Even the lead can be a weapon in the hands of the unsympathetic.

THE OBEDIENCE section of the dog world knows all about hands. Often the merest flicker of a finger will prevent the dog from making a mistake. Field trial people know all about hands as well. Indeed the dogs are controlled largely by hand signals. With sheepdog, it is the hands that do the work, and they can drop a shepdog half a mile away onto a sixpence!

In the show ring, people who use their hands get results. Look at the terrier handler. He spends most of the time throwing imaginary bits of grass out in front of the dog which makes an enormous difference to its expression. Look at the judge who pretends to toss his judging book to the floor to bring a collie's ears up. Watch a well-known winner—he stands in front of his owner on a loose lead and takes all his commands from a finger.

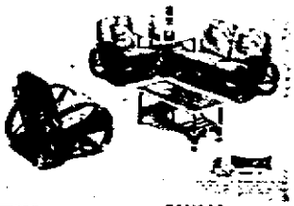

A dog trainer can teach a dog to sit in a few minutes without using his voice. Walking with the dog held on lead with his left hand, he stops and immediately passes the index finger of his right hand from the front to a point low over the dog's head. The dog's eyes follow it, and as his head goes up, so his backside goes down! This experiment will teach you about hands; will teach you not merely to push, shove, and lift a dog into position.

SAN FERNANDO Kennel Club presents its benched all-breed dog show and obedience trial at Recreation Park, San Fernando, Oct. 18. Entries close Oct. 5. Jack Bradshaw is superintendent.

Jinx, Elaine Clark's pet, trusts her young owner's hands, for Elaine always deals gently with her dog.

End of a Symbol

and undressed stars in Hollywood" recalled an oft-told tale. When a Western Union messenger rang the villa doorbell of a famous Broadway actress, he was so startled that he handed the message to her monkey. The simian was perched on top of the head of his mistress who answered the door otherwise completely unadorned.

YEARS FLASHED BY in the Gardens where many stars glittered. There were such names as the Barrymores, Dietrick, Garbo, Sam Goldwyn, Vilma Banky. Scott Fitzgerald stayed on while he wrote "Diamond as Big as the Ritz." Later his star passed out of sight into eternity from Villa No. 1 at the uphill end of the flagstone walk.

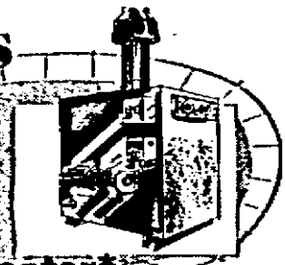

Hollywood is a passing show and the famed hotel has become dulled by the dust of hurrying traffic in a growing city. Several owners took over, trying to revive the glamour that faded with Nazimova's passing in 1942. Brief visits of celebrities restored its glow from time to time, each time a bit dimmer than before. The company of "My Fair Lady" used the quarters during the recent 6-week run of the play in Los Angeles.

The pool still shines clear and bright, but the Garden of Allah's slip is showing. Her villas droop with middle-age lines. The party is over.

Worth a Try

Large glossy leaves of Aralia sieboldi (Fatsia Japonica) are handsome additions to any garden that needs a cool-looking tropical for semi-shaded areas. But for real tropical effect, some Californians prefer the related Rice Paper Plant (Tetrapanax papyriferum), and its non-glossy finish and huge umbrella-like leaves. Inland, it occasionally freezes back in winter, but is worth trying in sheltered garden areas.

He Calls His Shots a World Away

By The Shutterbug

ONE OF THE maxims of good travel photography is to plan ahead. That is, estimate the amount and type of film and accessories needed for the pictures you'll encounter.

Never has good advice been carried to such extremes as in the case of Don Nibbelink of Rochester, N.Y.

Here is a photographer who planned a color slide story of an around-the-world trip one year in advance. He knew what he was going to photograph from sunrise to sunset during every day of the 10-week trip.

FOR INSTANCE, some time in June he had already planned to be in Nakorn Pathom, 46 kilometers from Bangkok, at 2 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 7, to photograph an important, colorful local ceremony. And that at 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 22, he would be on a boat in Ago Bay, near Toba, Japan, shooting pearl divers.

It is not surprising that the results of Don's travels have already been scheduled as a feature presentation at a national photographic convention. Called "Around the World in 80 Minutes," they will be seen in Louisville, Ky., when the Photographic Society of America gathers for a five-day session starting Oct. 6.

Planning of this nature calls for teamwork. Since Don returns to this country barely in time to make a personal appearance along with his pictures, someone else had to be on the receiving end of the airmailed films. Catching the forward passes and running with the films is a fellow member of the PSA, John Fish, also of Rochester. He is director of the techniques division of the PSA for this convention.

AFTER PROCESSING, editing and arranging a musical background for the global adventure pictures a rather unique presentation has been planned. Three slide projectors will be focused on three screens, each 12-foot square and side by side. Individual slides, comparison views or panoramic vistas can be shown as needed to lend variety, and visual interest.

In addition, a fourth movie projector is to be beamed on the center screen at strategic moments to show how the slide pictures were shot or to add the medium of motion to the scenes.

As you may have suspected, Don isn't on a one-man expedition. He is accompanied by his wife and two daughters. From personal experience, I know the blessings of a family retinue which supplies its own live models and serves as human packhorses for some of the equipment. But that's part of the planning.

CONTESTS FOR BLACK and white prints and color slide will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Long Beach Camera Club meeting in the Los Altos Library, 5614 Britton Dr. John Scheurer is new president of the club; Floyd Williamson, vice president; Doris Bradley, recording secretary; and Catherine Laursen, treasurer. Chairmen are Gerald Church, color; Les Willis, black and white print; Clara Watkins, Spotlight; Eugene Nye, parliamentarian; John Hults, field trip; Dana Bullock, technical adviser; Elva Hayward, S4C representative; Don Hayward, finance; Bert Laursen, membership and photographer; Floyd Williamson, program; and Jean Stuart, public relations.

RUTH YOEMANS of 7241 Shadyoak Dr., Downey, won a $100 first prize in the snapshot class and Robert D. Routh, 842 S. Helena St., Anaheim, $25 for color slides in the annual amateur photo competition at Santa's Village in the San Bernardino Mountains. Thirty-two Southern Californians divided $700 in cash and other awards.

with use and age. I wonder if it can be repaired so that our children may love it and enjoy it as mother did."

Rafferty smiles when he hears these familiar words. Like a skilled surgeon his highly educated fingers run along the ailing patient's spine as he diagnoses inner ailments. He opens the book. Examines its loose leaves. His fingers, sensitive as a violinist's, caress the worn binding.

"Yes," he will say. "There's life left in your beloved book," and you know he is just itching to get at it.

The Raffertys founded the Long Beach Library Binding Co. some 30 years ago. McSwain joined the firm in 1937. Eventually the senior Raffertys gave the business jointly to their son, A. W. (Pat) Rafferty and to McSwain. A terrific disaster occurred early in January 1957 that cost the lives of four persons including Pat Rafferty. The brick building housing the concern at 1420 Hayes Ave., was demolished, as was costly equipment and machinery. The tragedy occurred when the building was hit by a single-engine military plane. Salvage consisted of two dozen business cards.

Believing that work is a panacea for all heartaches, A. W. Rafferty plunged wholeheartedly back into the business. The new Coronado Ave. building provides convenient headquarters for the firm.

financially. We have friends who collect seaweed and make interesting pictures; other friends who make exquisite shell jewelry."

All three O'Briens are members of the Long Beach Shell Club. They recommend for beginners the "Long Beach Shell Club Shell Book," and Percy Morris' "West Coast Shells." For advanced collectors, they recommend "Sea Shells of Tropical West America," by A. Myra Keen, covering marine mollusks from Lower California to Colombia.

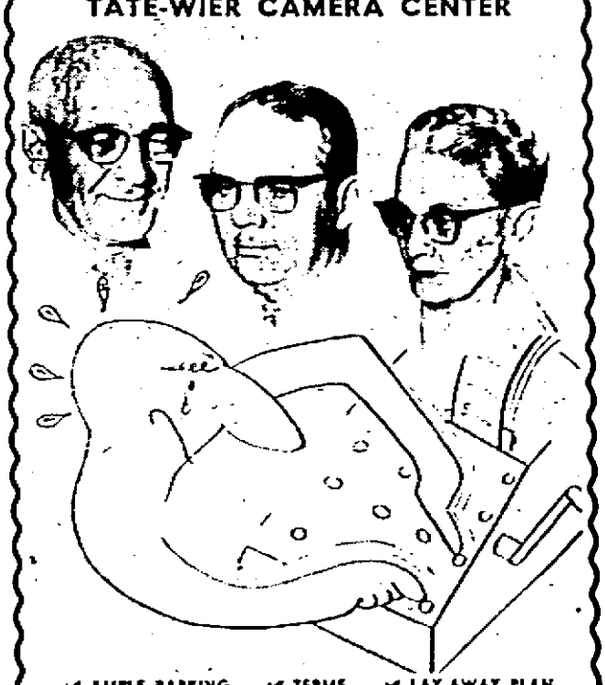

O'BRIEN, WHO in the 1930s was a lightweight and welterweight boxer under his own name and the name of Cyclone Gene Thompson, used to be an attraction at Kid Mexico's Westside Auditorium on W. Anaheim St.

He was Arizona welterweight champion in 1934. He fought Bob LaSalle, middleweight challenger here, in 1934. LaSalle got the decision.

The O'Briens live at the juncture of Long Beach Blvd. and Artesia St. They have two addresses. Their front door is 278 Cummings Lane, their back door is 279 E. 67th St.

October: Busy Planting Month

By Joe Littlefield

WE'LL BE plenty busy this month planting flowers and bulbs for winter-spring bloom. Snapdragons are one of the annuals that are becoming increasingly popular because of improvement work done on them. There's the dwarf, the intermediate, and the tall. Of all types, one of the new tall ones is F-1 Hybrid Snapdragon Rocket.

Jim Perry of Perry's Plants wholesale bedding plant growers, and state president of California Association of Nurserymen, considers it one of the best snapdragons produced in recent years. The hybrid vigor makes them grow taller.

THERE ARE SEVERAL ways you can use snapdragons. In a flower bed alone, as informal edging planting along a walk or a driveway, or better yet, in an annual or perennial flower bed, planting them in masses with other annuals like stocks.

A good example of group planting of snapdragons, other plants too, may be seen at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum, Arcadia, in their demonstration gardens. There's where you'll get good ideas how to correctly mass different kinds of annuals for best showy effect. Yes, and its there too, you'll see a lovely free Fall Flower Show, Oct. 30, 31, Nov. 1.

Snapdragons, furnish some of the loveliest shadings, and gay colors you can possibly imagine, for your winter-spring garden.

OTHER ANNUALS you should plant are stocks, iceland poppies, violas and pansies. Be sure the little crowns from where side branches grow on pansies and violas, are slightly above soil level. Otherwise, soil smothers the young growth and dampness causes them to rot off. That's one of the main reasons why violas and pansies rot off usually two months or so after they've been planted out.

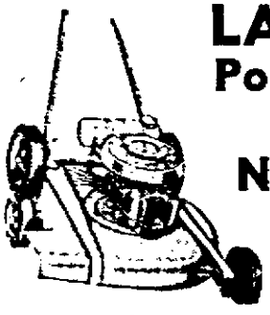

If you've tried delphiniums before and have been discouraged because you didn't get tall, handsome spike flowers, possibly you didn't plant them at the right time. One of the successful Southern California delphinium growers is Hans Burkhard. Each year he's grown some strikingly showy, tall spiked Pacific hybrid delphiniums. His secret is planting them from mid October on for the next couple of months. Don't wait till spring to set out young plants if you want to grow five or six-foot tall delphiniums.

Work half cup of bone meal into each hole for the plants. Watch winter chewing worms and also slugs. Feed plant at least twice during the winter and you'll have tall, showy, gorgeous spikes of delphinium flowers come spring.

Snapdragons combined with group planting of stocks furnish warm color flowers during the winter months.

For the Fence Beautiful

By Bob Gilmore

YOU CAN improve the bare look of a garden fence by decorating it with ornamental plants. Subjects that have a climbing habit of growth will prove especially desirable. A wide range of both foliage and flowering plants is available.

Unless the fence is to be completely hidden, it will be best not to use shrubs having an extremely dense growth. Ornamentals that allow part of the fence to be seen will usually fit most harmoniously.

In selecting ornamentals for fence covers, determine their habits and rate of growth. The speed burners will prove gratifying at first but later on require a tremendous amount of pruning. The colors of the flowers should harmonize with the tone of the fence. And, a rustic type of fence should not be adorned with plants that possess a delicate appearance.

IT IS NOT NECESSARY to limit your fence covers to one variety. Several different ornamentals may be used but a sense of rhythm should be maintained. At the terminal points, where the posts are situated, a bank of color will prove desirable. Throughout Southern California, fibrous begonia serve this purpose well.

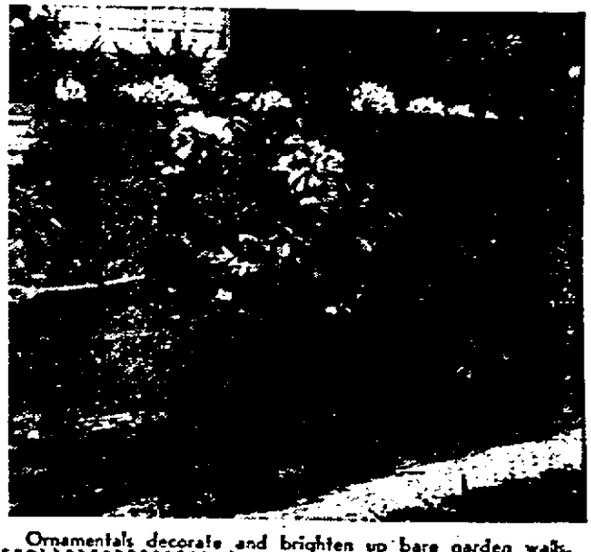

If flowering subjects are employed, you should remove the blooms at regular intervals. Flowers that go to seed are unattractive and rob the plant of energy that otherwise would be directed into additional floral production. Removing all old blooms prolongs the flowering period.

PLANTS EMPLOYED for covering a fence should be firmly attached to it. Otherwise they will droop and present an untidy appearance. Now available at your garden supply store are plant ties made expressly for attaching vine-like ornamentals to supports. As the stems grow they should be firmly trellised to the fence. This procedure should be continued as long as the canes stretch out.

Ornamenta's set adjacent to a fence, directly below it and running parallel, will also prove attractive. Annual plants are very colorful used in this way. For dark-appearing fences a border of white-leaved centaureas will produce a brightening-up effect.

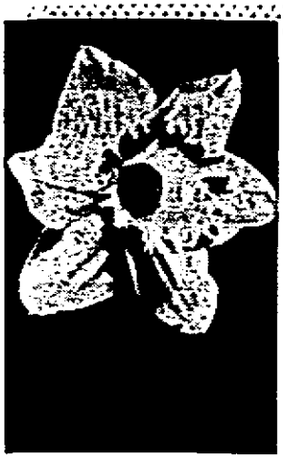

Begonia Society

Parent chapter of the American Begonia Society will meet at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday in Linden Hall, 203 Linden Ave. Joe Taylor, of Redondo Beach, will be the speaker.

Ornamentals decorate and brighten up bare garden walls. Rustic fences should not be adorned with delicate flowers.

Plants Can Be Naturalized, Too

Daffodils are excellent for naturalizing in the garden.

By Dorothy Jonson

To bring your poinsettias into bloom at Christmas time:

Begin shortening the daylight hours for your poinsettias with a suitable canvas or cloth covering at about 5:15 p. m. (A friend of mine dyed some old bed sheets black and spread them over long stakes driven into the ground, thus creating a covering to prevent the daylight coming through.)

Five days later begin putting the covers on 15 minutes earlier, or at 5 o'clock.

Five days later begin putting the covers on at 4:45 p.m.

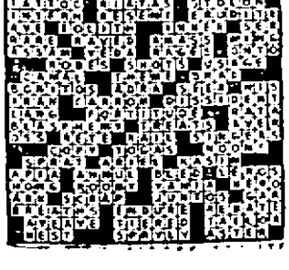

Every five days continue to set the time earlier by 15 minutes until you find that you are putting the covers on at 3:45 p. m. Continue to cover the poinsettias at 3:45 each day until the flower buds begin to form. This will be about the middle of November. And at this time, the days are so much shorter that you won't need to continue to cover them any longer. They will come into bloom for Christmas.

They Need Water

Geraniums have the reputation of being able to go for weeks on end without water. This is true—they will; but, they won't like it! In pots, especially, the geranium will give an inferior performance if water is lacking.

Don't be afraid to water potted geraniums every other day, and feed them about once a month through summer with a complete commercial fertilizer.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE

By Walter Finch

PLANTS that quickly become naturalized make gardening an easy and more enjoyable hobby. Ornamentals that lend themselves to this kind of landscaping must look and act as if they were natives of the area where they're planted. The amazing thing is that dozens of imported plants can be used in Southern California successfully for naturalizing purposes.

The most important qualification for plants utilized in this manner is their ability to thrive on little water. Growing conditions in this area are characterized by a lack of natural rainfall.

One of the best plants for naturalizing is the common narcissus, often termed a daffodil. Actually there is no difference between the two. Narcissus is the Latin and daffodil is the English name for the same plant.

WHEN NATURALIZING narcissus the bulbs should be planted in drifts. Plant about one dozen bulbs in each drift. One of the best methods of creating a natural effect is to throw a handful of bulbs into the air, planting them where they fall. The depth of planting roughly should be about three times the diameter of each bulb. This is a generalization, light soils requiring a somewhat deeper planting.

In planting, make sure that the base of each bulb rests on the soil. Modern trowels are often pointed which means the hole they dig is larger at top than at bottom. Bulbs therefore may not fit all the way down into the hole. When suspended by their sides the roots emerge into an air pocket. This is dangerous to the bulb.

The California juniper, as its name would seem to indicate, is very much at home in this area. Once the plant has become established you can almost forget it. The juniper, and this seems true of most varieties, is at home, whether close to the ocean or hundreds of miles inland.

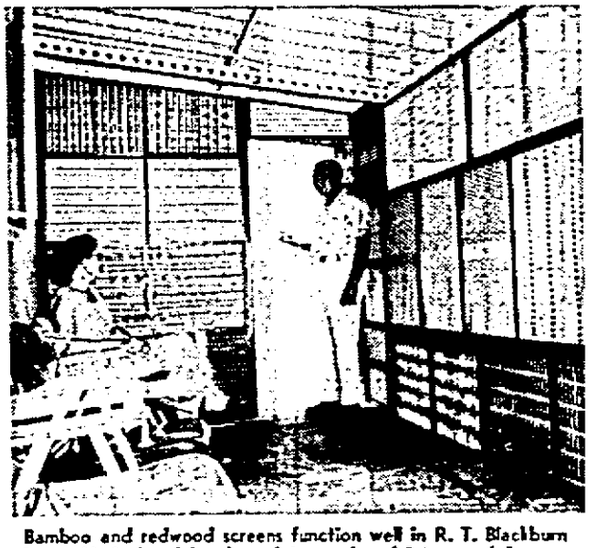

CALIFORNIA JUNIPER is somewhat of a compromise between a large shrub and a small, spreading tree. The young foliage is characterized by a most attractive silvery coloring while the older leaves are dark green. For a dry, sandy soil there is really no comparable plant that will grow as vigorously as the California juniper.

Another interesting California ornamental is libocedrus decurrens, also known as the incense cedar. This is one of the most attractive small evergreen trees available for home planting in this area. It grows about fifty feet at maturity and has a more or less formal look. The foliage has a very fine fragrance. Libocedrus decurrens is long-lived and assumes a compact, pyramid-like shape.

Although not always easily obtainable the wild pea, known as lathyrus splendens, will prove an interesting subject. It looks like a sweet pea although the color range is limited, being restricted more or less to rose and lavender. This is a California native and performs well as a ground cover. It flowers mainly during the summer season.

Other possibilities for naturalizing in this area include: oxalis, ornithogalum, freesia, calochortus and babiana.

Screen for Your Patio

Bamboo and redwood screens function well in R. T. Blackburn home. Varicolored bamboo slats are laced into wood frames.

PROBLEMS of patio covers and screens are easily solved—make one, in color if you like, from bamboo and redwood.

Roy T. Blackburn, 4249 Hackett Ave., Lakewood, retired U. S. Navy commander, "invented" the process for the patio at his home.

"Take bamboo blinds, paint them in color," says Blackburn, "then take them apart and lace the slats into the design you want in redwood frames."

Blackburn used black, white, coral, yellow and green paint.

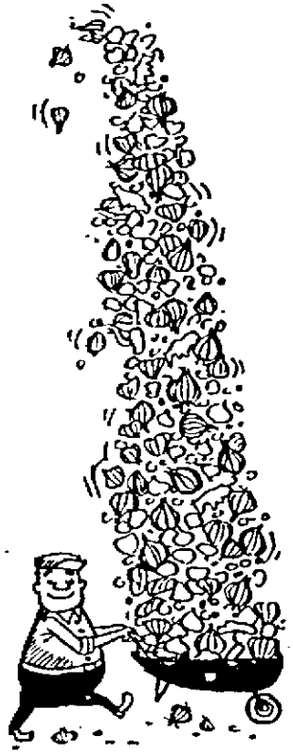

"If anyone wants to see how it's done, come by and I'll show them," he says.

Garden Tips

GARDEN TIPS for the week. . . . This is a good time to level out depressions in the land around your home. It is advisable to have the land slope away from your home to prevent water seepage during rains under your home.

Tie securely all vine-like plants to prevent their being toppled over during heavy winds. Most garden supply stores offer a wide range of ties for securing vines to supports.

Do not apply plant foods now that show a high nitrogen content. Nitrogen encourages soft new growth which is extremely sensitive to the cold.

HOW TO Tell Quality Lumber (How It Is Graded)

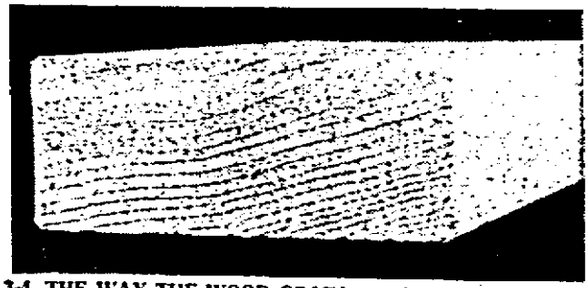

LUMBER GRADING methods vary, but it usually follows system below. Grades go by numbers, names, or letters: No. 1 (construction); No. 2 (standard); No. 3 (utility); No. 4 (economy), and so on.

1. HIGHEST QUALITY BOARDS: 1 and 2 clear or B and Better. Boards (from the bottom,) are 1 and 2 clear (few small imperfections); C Select (limited imperfections), and D Select (imperfections that can be covered with a coat of paint).

2. OTHER GRADES (from the bottom): No. 1 (tight knots, limited defects); No. 2 (larger, coarser defects); No. 3 (knots, pitch, checking); No. 4 (big knots, pitch, and so on); No. 5 (knotholes, loose knots, and so on). Common dimension stock includes all widths. No. 1 has tight knots, pitch pockets; No. 2 large knots; No. 3 large knots, knotholes. Structural dimension lumber is 4 or more inches wide. Select structural is strongest; common structural has some defects.

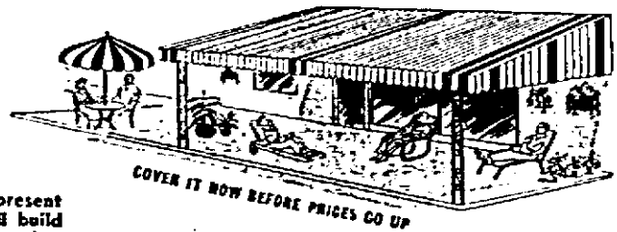

3-4. THE WAY THE WOOD GRAIN runs is another factor in lumber grading. Lumber that is cross-grained is weaker than straight-grained stock. Lumber with large cell openings such as oak is termed open-grained stock; that with small cell openings, like maple, is close grained stock.

TOMMY NOH
Big Changes Due

THE FOOD is superlative, the view of Long Beach harbor is spectacular, the atmosphere is tropically exotic. . . . In fact, everything at The Reef restaurant, 880 Harbor Scenic Dr. on Pier A, is so interesting that the place—although only 1½ years old—has already outgrown itself.

To accommodate the crowds which appear during the rush hours, The Reef this month will embark on an ambitious rebuilding program. Hammers will bang, saws will hack away and when the work is finished, the restaurant will be so enlarged its east side dining areas will seat over 250 persons. In addition, the west patio will be enclosed to form a new cocktail lounge and waiting room. Other refinements will include a large banquet room and gift shop.

The improvements will be in the eye-catching south seas style which has made The Reef one of the Southland's most handsome dining places. New decorative touches will include a waterfall, an entirely different outdoor patio and more fire pits.

WHILE THESE major changes are being made, the restaurant will continue to be open as usual (from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. daily) under the skilled direction of Manager Tommy Noh, assistant manager Ralph Fulton and Chef John G. Verner. Featuring luncheons from $1.45 and dinners from $2.75 to $4.75, The Reef is just the place to take out-of-town visitors who want to dine on something different while they admire Long Beach's sharp, clean skyline and the harbor's blue waters.

Among the dinner entrees are superb broiled swordfish, $2.75; teriyaki steak (filet marinated in soya and ginger sauce, $4.75; chicken kona kai, $2.95; a variety of other charcoal-broiled steaks and the Polynesian Delight (two filets wrapped in bacon with mushrooms, $3.95. Dinners include chilled relish bowl, magnificent salad, baked potato and beverage.

U. E. BAUGHMAN: The President's safety is in his hands

Author Hermione Gingold, actress and comedienne, reminisces with Maurice Chevalier in Oscar-winning film, Gigi.

I'll always remember...

Tears at the seashore

by HERMIONE GINGOLD

I WANTED TO GO on the stage almost from the first moment I could breathe. This was particularly remarkable because I came from a family of stockbrokers and other conservative types, not one of whom had ever so much as stepped behind a row of footlights.

Suddenly there I was, at the age of 5, and opportunity presented itself.

I was with my family and my nurse at Broadstairs, one of those elegant English seaside resorts where expensive nannies sat on the beach with their charges and didn't allow them to get their feet wet.

Uncle Mac's Minstrel Show was at Broadstairs that year, and of course I wasn't allowed to go. Uncle Mac himself was the most glamorous figure I had ever spotted on the sands. He was rather tall and wore striped trousers, a pink bow tie, and a top hat—his face was made up with burnt cork. One day it was announced that Uncle Mac was launching a competition for child talent.

I was determined to go—and to win.

And so I ran away from Nanny. It was about a five-minute slow run down to the place on the sands where the competition was being held. I queued up with the other kids, all of whom were older than I—say 10 or 12. Each of them had some number he could sing or dance. The only thing I could sing was God Save the King. When my turn came, I rendered it to mediocre applause.

And then I burst into tears.

I wailed and bawled so loudly that they gave me the prize to shut me up. My Nanny arrived, to find all the other kids bawling—as well they might—over the obvious unfairness of the award.

Nanny snatched me away and confiscated my prize, a box of incredibly bad chocolates. But I didn't care, because the box was a symbol of my success.

Very early I had learned the lesson that it's no good relying on your talent alone. You need publicity, or a gimmick, or a little extra something to get ahead. In my case it was the tears, which I very purposely turned on because I knew my singing was so dreadful.

I applied the lesson again when I was 12 and played Cardinal Wolsey in a school play. It was a minor role. To draw attention to myself, I kept choking on my cottonwool beard during everyone else's lines.

Aren't children something? I wouldn't pull that sort of trick now. I grew out of that lesson long ago, I assure you.

Or maybe I've just learned to be more subtle. ■

Two fine newspapers today join the PARADE family, bringing to 65 the number that now distribute it each week. We are delighted to welcome the readers of the Asheville (N.C.) Citizen-News and the Sioux City (Iowa) Sunday Journal.

"A Yukon sight more glittering than gold" was described in our July 12th issue by Rev. Eugene Dinsmore Dolloff, a New Bedford, Mass., pastor. The sight was the crumbling ruins of an abandoned church in a remote part of Alaska. Built in the 1890s by hard-bitten gold miners, the church reminded Dr. Dolloff that "deep in every heart there is an unquenchable thirst for God."

Since the article appeared, Dr. Dolloff has heard from some of the miners who actually built the church. And, happily, funds are being raised to rehabilitate the church—to deliver to future generations the message it gave Dr. Dolloff.

Looking as proud as a peacock below is Carolyn Bray, of Birmingham, Ala. With no help, Carolyn whipped together, from our June 7th recipe by Beth Merriman, the "Fairy Tale Cottage of candy and cake" next to her. Miss Bray's age: a wise 11.

How to help keep naptimes happy

Tips on bathing a tiny baby

New baby-feeding picture book—free

For a young baby naps are no trouble—he'd rather sleep than do almost anything, except eat! But the more your little dynamo can see things and do things, the less sleep he wants or requires.

● Nap needs differ greatly from baby to baby. By his first birthday (or months sooner or later!) your child may shift from two naps a day to one. The tricky question during this change-about period is what time of day is naptime? Too early, and baby feels insulted; too late and he's exhausted!

● Clues to watch for: if baby shoves with his feet when you hold him, squirms restlessly, or sucks his thumb persistently, he's probably telling you he's had it for now, and wants a snooze. Crankiness and crying are obvious signals.

● One nice long nap after an early lunch may suit for several days, then suddenly two naps are needed again. The best you can do is to watch for signs of fatigue, offer your baby a nice, restful nap—but don't insist that he take it.

● How long should you sponge instead of tub-bathe your new baby? A few weeks or a few months—until you feel ready to try tubbing. Important pointer: When sponging, keep your papoose under a cotton blanket, uncover only the place you're sponging. A snug wrap also keeps him from rolling—a frightening sensation for a little baby.

● If your baby ever decides he's tired of vegetables, surprise him—serve fruits instead for a week or so. He'll get many of the same vitamins and minerals in delicious Heinz Baby Fruits as in Heinz nutritious Strained and Junior Vegetables. You'll avoid mealtime battles—and probably get vegetables back on baby's menu sooner. Start with an extra-favorite, Heinz Freestone Peaches—Strained or Junior—picked and quick-packed when they're at their sweetest and juiciest.

● Easy to get at Heinz Junior Foods—many now come equipped with screw-on caps—another Heinz first! You can take off these convenient new caps with a single turn, and as easily reseal them to keep second helpings moist and tasty in the refrigerator. Mothers write us of other good uses for Heinz screw-top jars: storing safety pins, baby oil, cotton balls—or daddy's workshop supplies, such as nails and screws.

● A new picture-story book filled with nutritional facts about baby feeding is yours for the asking: "An ABC's for Baby's Mealtime." Illustrative pictures plus easy-to-read text help you help your baby start on Strained and Junior foods. Tips, too, on helping him learn how to use a spoon and cup to feed himself. For your free copy, just send your name and address to Heinz Baby Foods, Box 28, D-47, Pittsburgh 30, Pa.

2 New Pillsbury Boston Cream Pie Mixes

Rich Chocolate flavor or Creamy Vanilla flavor

CHOCOLATE FLAVOR

Triple chocolate flavors—triple excitement when you bring on this modern Pillsbury version of the traditional Boston Cream Pie. Rich moist chocolate-flavor cake; smooth creamy filling; shiny chocolate-flavor icing make table talk—all down the block. Easy; all three mixes you need are in one package.

VANILLA FLAVOR

Exactly the right gracious note when you've invited guests for dessert and coffee. Moist golden cake; creamy filling; chocolate-flavor icing to drizzle down the sides for a shiny professional look. No bother, even when you're busy. Pillsbury puts all three mixes in one package, for perfect Boston Cream Pie.

Nothing says lovin' like something from the oven... and Pillsbury says it best!

by U. E. BAUGHMAN Chief, U.S. Secret Service, with Fred Blumenthal

When Ike tours Russia, the Secret Service will be at his elbow. The inside story of America's toughest job

Historic assassination in pre-Secret Service days cut down President Garfield. Disappointed office-seeker seen at L shot him twice in back without warning.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

No one knows today whether President Eisenhower will be in danger on his coming visit to the Soviet Union. If Vice President Nixon's recent tour there is a guide, crowds will be warm and enthusiastic. But in those crowds might lurk one man of twisted mind and bitter heart. One moment of madness might change a good-will tour into an international disaster.

Immediately after the President's trip was announced, a team of agents of the United States Secret Service left for Moscow. There they have worked with Soviet security agents to prevent such an eventuality. The Russians, of course, are as eager to forestall a disaster as we are. Our agents have worked closely with their Russian counterparts before—on the Vice President's trip, at Geneva in 1955, at Potsdam in 1945, at Yalta in 1944.

Protecting our President in Russia is neither the most difficult task nor the easiest that the Secret Service has ever faced. Whether the President is in Moscow, U.S.S.R., or Moscow, Idaho, we must assume that any public appearance can spell danger. Thus, when the President appeared with Premier Khrushchev in this country last month, the Secret Service took equally elaborate precautions to protect the President.

Guarding Premier Khrushchev, however, was the province of the security division of the State Department. (Secret Service agents, of course, cooperated with them.) In recent years, the Secret Service protective duties have been limited to the considerable task of guarding the President and the Vice President and their families.

At times in the past, our agents have protected visiting foreign dignitaries as well. At the request of President Roosevelt, Secret Service agents guarded Dutch Queen Wilhelmina, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill during their wartime visits to Washington.

It is little known that in 1942 a quick-thinking Secret Service agent thwarted what could have been a tragedy for the Allied cause. Churchill, after a White House conference, was flying back to London. One of our special agents had been assigned to pose as an airport baggage handler. As the Prime Minister approached his plane, the agent heard a British airlines guard (a U.S. citizen, incidentally) mutter, "I'll kill him this time." The agent quickly took the man into custody. Churchill, jauntily unaware of the incident, told a Secret Service agent on departing, "Look after your President. We all need him."

A year later, Churchill's fears were almost borne out. Secret Service agents uncovered a truly fantastic—and yet technically feasible—plot on the life of President Roosevelt. Acting on a tip, agents picked up Clarence C. Cull, an Army deserter and former mental patient. In his rooming house they found four ounces of nitric acid, six ounces of glycerine, and scrawled instructions for the manufacture of nitroglycerine bombs.

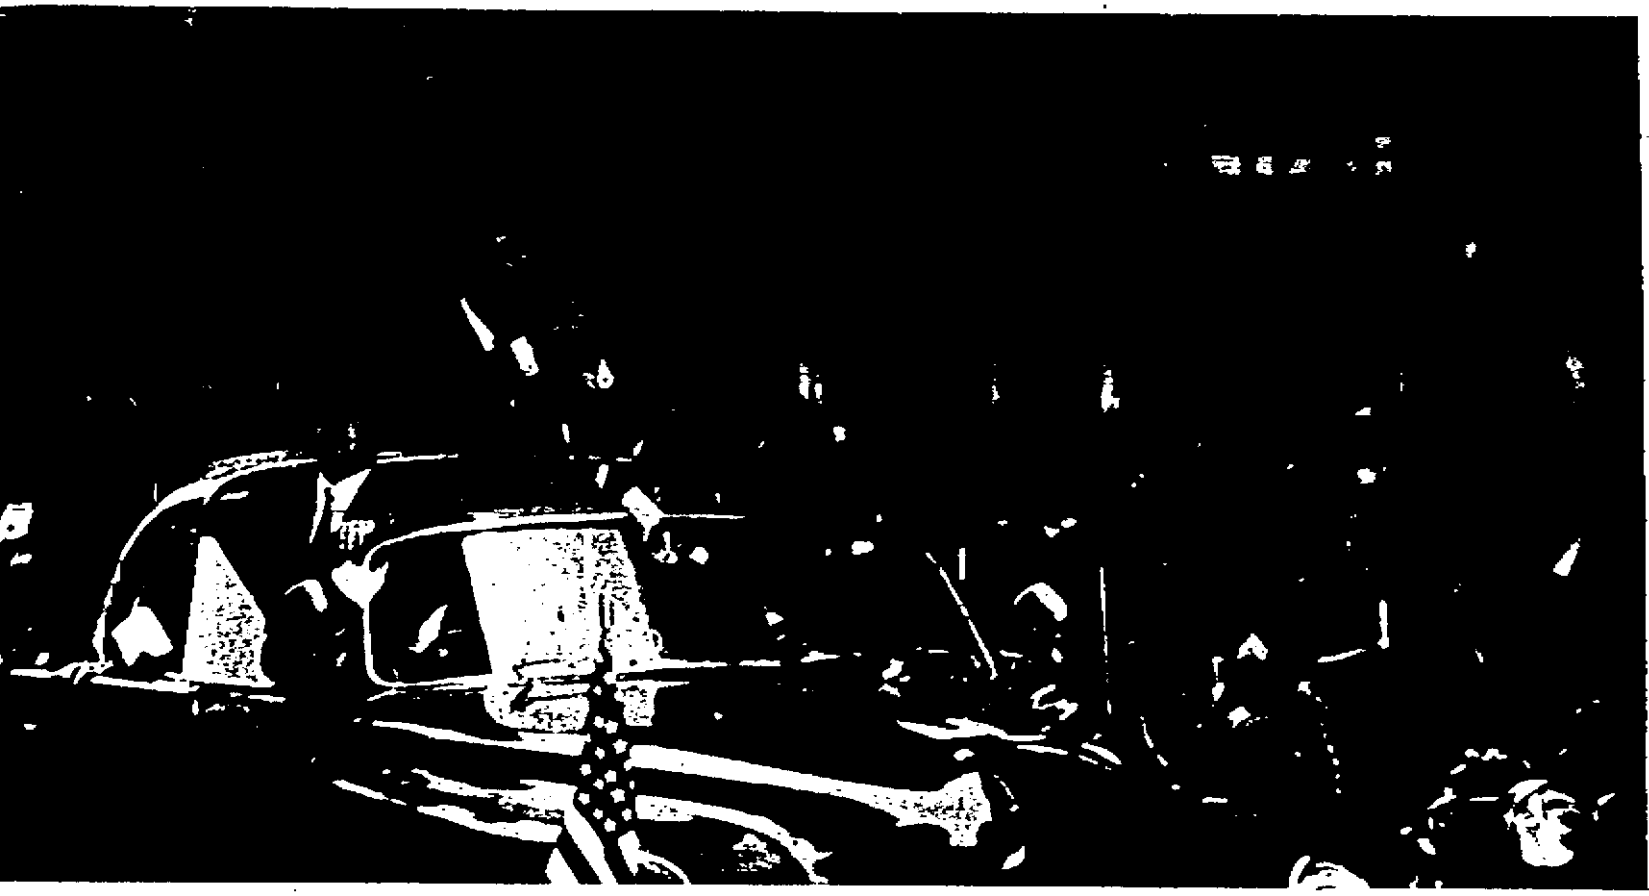

Cull confessed that he planned to make the bombs, strap them around the waist, put on his Army uniform, crowd as close as he could to the President's car, and "blow myself and anyone around me to bits."

No Time for Comedy

We might have dismissed Cull's plot as so fantastic as to be impossible. But with the lives of the President and Vice President at stake, the Secret Service can permit no margin for error, no unfinished business, no chance-taking, no distraction, however slight. Every threat must be treated on the assumption that it was made with deadly intent. Where the safety of our country's two most important leaders is concerned, we have no sense of humor. Murderers and pranksters, in our view, are equally dangerous.

Most unpredictable and therefore most dangerous

are the criminally lunatic, such as the 50-year-old man who appeared last January outside the Northwest Gate of the White House. He was convinced that President Eisenhower did not really exist, and refused to leave until he could prove he was right. When White House police refused him entry, he backed away and threatened to slash anyone who stood in his path. When he was seized and arrested, we found a long curved knife under his coat.

The Secret Service regarded as equally serious a letter intercepted at the White House last October. "We conspirators have been planning to assassinate the great President Eisenhower," it read. "Beware! For the Ides of March in the year of Our Lord, 1959, gloom shall lurk over this great man."

Prankster or assassin? We couldn't take chances.

The envelope carried the postmark of a New York town of about 50,000. Tracking down a suspect, even in a town this size, takes a great deal of painstaking work. Yet in a matter of hours our agents had identified the letter-writers. They were two high-school students, aged 15 and 14.

Called on the carpet in the school principal's office, the two readily admitted that they had sent the threatening letters. They explained that they wanted to find out what steps were taken to guard the President against assassination. They soon found out. Accompanied by their parents, they were haled before the U.S. Attorney, and placed on pre-prosecution probation for an indefinite period.

Harsh punishment for a pair of juvenile pranksters? I couldn't disagree more heartily. A threat on the life of the President is no joke.

Some of those we must guard against are perennial troublemakers. Take the case of Laurence G. Thompson. In March 1956, a letter came to the White House bearing his signature, written on the stationery of a Gulfport, Miss., hotel, and with a "General Delivery" return address. The letter went straight to the point:

"I'm going to kill you if you run for office again. I hope you will take this warning."

The name alone was of little help. The only clue agents could find at Gulfport came from a bus station ticket agent. He recalled that on the postmarked date, a man either intoxicated or emotionally disturbed had asked him where he could mail a letter. Further investigation revealed that a man of the same general description had written threatening letters to other government officials. Agents also learned that this man once had been treated in a Federal hospital as a narcotics addict.

Mr. Thompson Returns

Handwriting samples convinced us that the man in each case was the same Laurence G. Thompson. From this information we were able to locate his half-sister in Meridian, Miss. When Thompson returned to her home on May 5, 1956, he walked into the hands of waiting agents. Later he pleaded guilty to threatening the President, was sentenced to 18 months.

That was not the last of Thompson. After his release, he phoned our Jackson, Miss., office to say he had sent another threat: "Dear Mr. President . . . I am going to kill you if you don't send me $500. I may just kill you, anyway, and Nixon, too. I mean this."

The Secret Service assumed he did mean it. So did the court, which imprisoned Thompson for another three years.

Secret Service agents always are racing against time. When Sam Stepp, Jr., threatened the President in 1956, we won by a narrow margin. Stepp had been trying for years to see the President to have a dishonorable discharge changed. One day he was heard to remark, "If I ever get close to the President, I'll kill him. I have a 30-30 bullet for him."

Told of his remark, Secret Service agents acted quickly. When Stepp was arrested in Glenwood Springs, Colo., agents found two bullets on him.

Since his first arrest, Stepp has been in and out of a mental institution and in and out of jail. Once, trying to phone the President, he set fire to a phone booth. Today he is on the loose again. But wherever he goes, we track his movements.

Also described in our files as "a specific danger to the President" is Howard Reed Liggett, 20. While serving time for auto theft, Liggett mailed a letter threatening to kill the President. So did three confederates. Later all four repeated their threats to a Secret Service agent.

All were hardened young hoodlums who, once free and armed, could be a peril to the President's life. Liggett's pals drew prison sentences. Liggett himself was committed indefinitely to a mental institution. Specialists there describe him as one of the worst cases they ever have examined—a young man obsessed by murder and mutilation.

In protecting the President and Vice President from men like Liggett, the Secret Service uses two principal systems. The "inner system" consists of the White House detail—the men you see around the President on his public appearances. The "preventive system" consists of field agents who investigate all written or uttered threats.

The "preventive system" checks the danger before it reaches the "inner system." Both are supported by the Protective Research Section. This section catalogues all communications and provides field agents with vital identity clues.

This efficient organization keeps us in touch with known dangers. But the most troublesome problem of all is the unknown person of twisted mind who suddenly decides that the defense of society calls for taking the President's life. He identifies the President with an imaginary persecutor and feels compelled to remove him as the source of all the world's troubles.

Stripped gunman, Giuseppe Zangara, posed sullenly for picture after 1933 attempt to kill President Roosevelt. A woman bystander deflected his aim, and shot killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

Since the Secret Service took over, all

Abraham Lincoln, the first President to die by an assassin's hand, was the victim of such a twisted mind. Had the Secret Service been charged with the President's safety then, John Wilkes Booth never would have succeeded in killing Lincoln. Advance work would have discovered Booth's targeting on the Presidential box at Ford's Theatre. Nor is it likely that our other assassination victims, Presidents James A. Garfield and William McKinley, would have died if the Secret Service had been at work.

It was McKinley's death in 1901 that aroused the nation to demand proper protection for the President. Not since the Secret Service has had this responsibility has an assassin succeeded.

But there have been some close calls.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, as President-elect, came within an eyelash of stopping a bullet at Miami, Fla., in 1933. The gunfire killed Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, with whom the President-elect was chatting.

The next near-miss came November 1, 1950, when two fanatic Puerto Rican nationalists, Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo, tried to shoot their way into Blair House and kill President Truman. White House policeman Leslie Coffelt died heroically defending the President's life. Before he died, Coffelt helped to kill one of the would-be assassins and to wound the other.

Secret Service men are trained to shoot to kill with either hand. They are trained, too, in when not to shoot. They also are given lessons in mob psychology.

Never, perhaps, was this training more crucial than in May 1958, when a frenzied mob at Caracas, Venezuela, stormed Vice President Nixon's car. The mob spat on Nixon, stoned the car, and smashed its windows with sticks.

The Revolvers Stayed Put

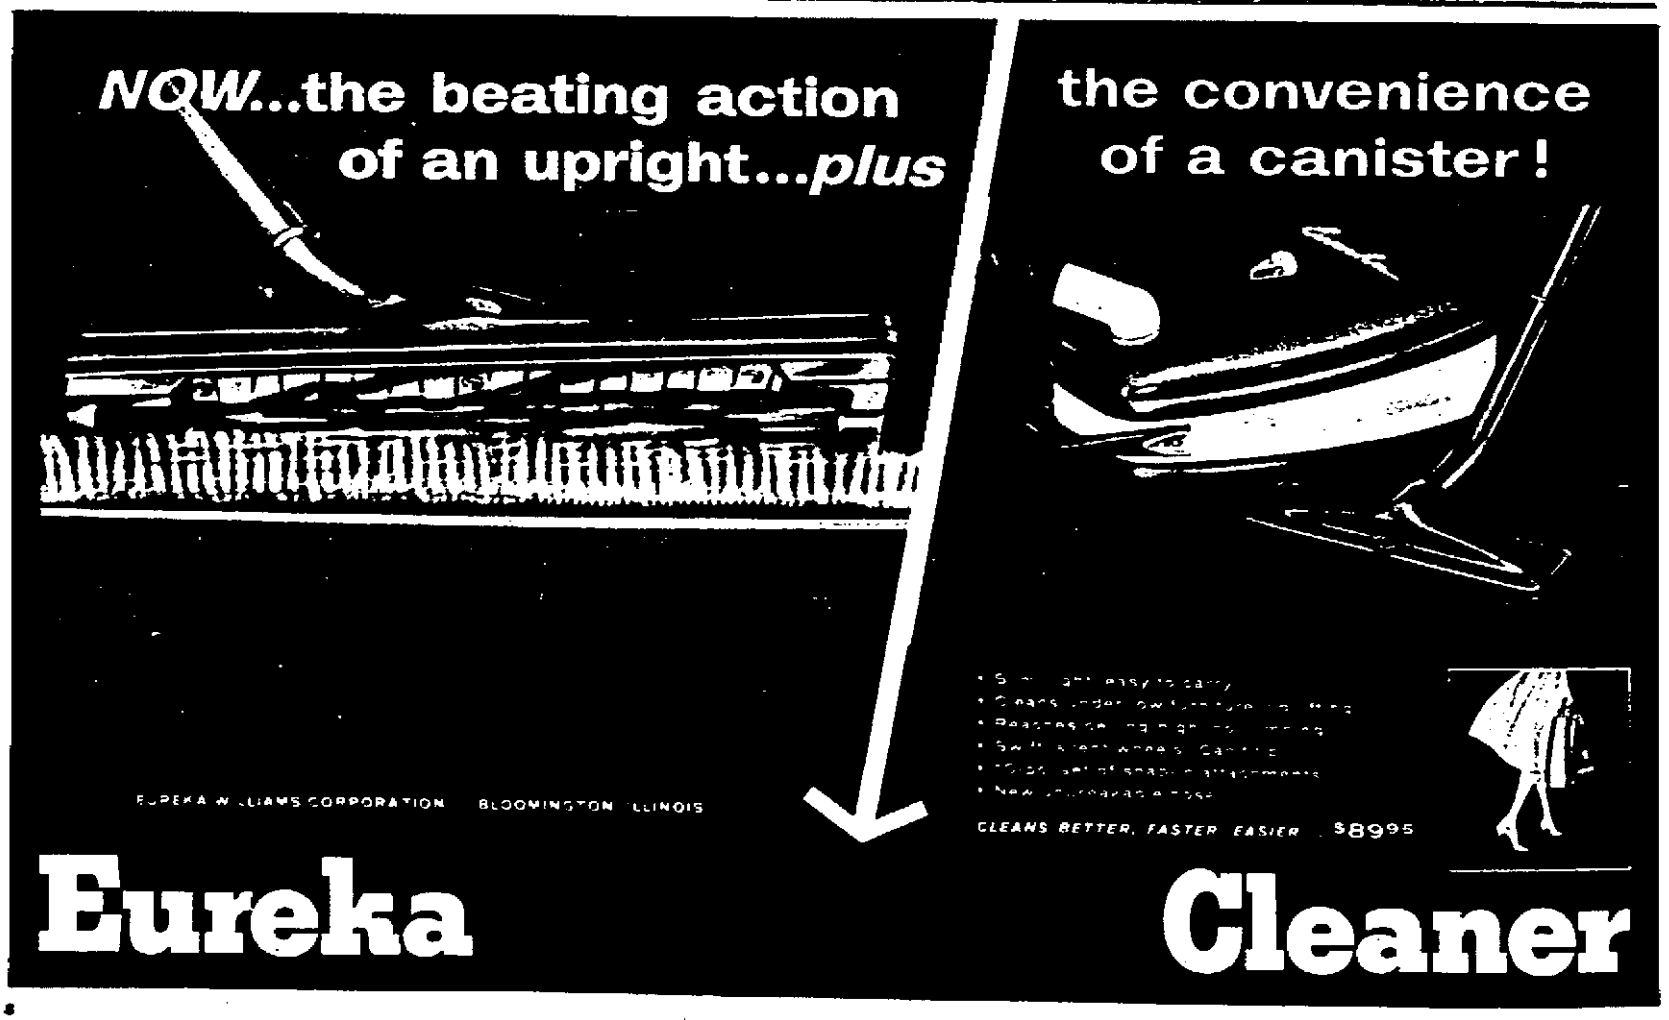

The two Secret Service men in Mr. Nixon's car were under great provocation to pull their revolvers and fire into the mob in defense of the Vice President's life. But with admirable restraint they withheld their fire, and succeeded in helping Mr. Nixon through his grave peril. Trigger-happy agents might have incited the mob to kill the Vice President and created an international incident.

It is not only the lone-wolf lunatics and the uncontrolled mobs who test our vigilance. There are the practical jokers.

Several years ago, President Eisenhower was scheduled to attend commencement exercises at a New England college. Special agents of the Secret Service were dispatched in advance to make a pre-survey of every foot of the President's route. While they were fine-combing the platform to be used during the exercises, they found a can containing two messages.

The first was addressed: "To the Guardians of the Beloved President of the United States of America."

The agents were shocked at the heart of the message.

assassins have failed

"We students have decided that you, the Secret Service, have been too lax in your precautions. We are in the midst of proving that even a young college student, untrained in the methods of subterfuge and surreptitious actions, can devise a scheme which could go unobserved and thereby constitute a threat to our great leader. This can, placed under the podium on which Dwight D. Eisenhower will walk Graduation Day, could easily have been a powerful bomb!"

The second message read:

"Congratulations! You have earned our deepest gratitude and appreciation in the fulfillment of your duties as protectors of the life of our President. We will never again attempt to match wits with your organization."

Yes, the tin can might well have contained dangerous explosives. And, had it not been discovered, the Secret Service would have been exposed to scathing criticism, against which the Service would have been defenseless. But the can was found, and the lack of enthusiasm with which the college authorities viewed the joke convinced the prankish students not to invite a further encounter with the Secret Service of the United States.

Failure is not, and cannot, be part of the Secret Service lexicon. And we will not fail if every citizen cooperates, if every prankster is aware that his joke will have serious consequences for him, if every would-be assassin realizes he can't win. ■

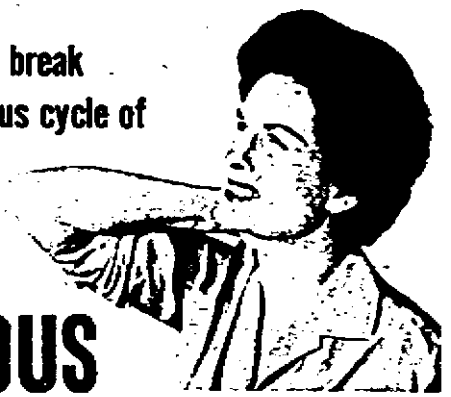

Presidential stroll took place as customary after 1950 attempt to assassinate President Truman. With him is a Secret Service agent.

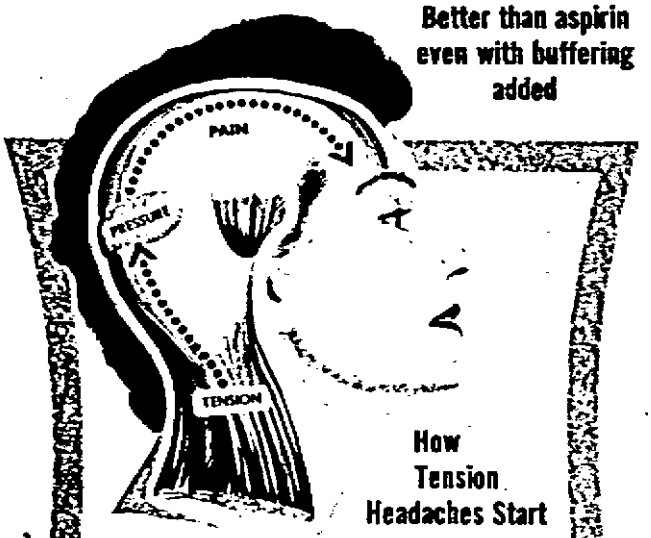

Nixon-greeters are held back by Venezuelan troops during Vice President's 1958 visit to Latin America. His Secret Service protectors hold their fire despite the stone-throwing demonstration.

How you can break the vicious cycle of

NERVOUS TENSION HEADACHE

Better than aspirin even with buffering added

How Tension Headaches Start

Most headaches are caused by tension that tightens the muscles in the back of the neck and scalp. This tension puts pressure on nerves and causes headache pain. In turn, the pain builds up more tension, more pressure—makes your headache worse. To break this vicious pain cycle and obtain fast, more complete relief—you should try the special medication in Anacin, not obtainable in aspirin nor in aspirin with buffering.

ANACIN® relaxes tension

• releases pressure • relieves pain fast

Tension headaches need the extra medication in Anacin. So why limit yourself to aspirin or buffered aspirin which contains only one pain reliever and has no special medication to relax your tension? Anacin is a special combination of medically approved ingredients which 3 out of 4 doctors recommend for pain of headache, neuritis and neuralgia. Anacin Tablets give a better TOTAL effect in pain relief because they relax tension, release pressure and relieve pain fast. They break up the vicious pain cycle! Safer, too. Anacin does not upset your stomach. See if Anacin doesn't work better for you.

My favorite jokes

by DENNIS DAY

Dennis Day, who started out in life as Dennis McNulty and in radio as Jack Benny's singing stooge, has developed over the years into a superb mimic, a top tenor, and a first-rate comedian in his own right. Father of seven little Days (shown above with Mom and Dad), Dennis, now in his early forties, lives in Los Angeles, stars in television shows, makes periodic appearances at leading supper clubs throughout the country. —EDITOR'S NOTE

AN IRISHMAN boasted of his eight sons. "It's proud I am of them, indeed," he bragged. "They're the finest that come. An' I want you to know that I never laid violent hands on them . . . except in self-defense."

A LITTLE OLD MAN named Simpson was near his death. His three sons were in the room waiting for the inevitable end. While they were waiting they began to discuss funeral arrangements. The first son said, "We should have 10 cars for the funeral. That way we'll take care of all the relatives and friends." The second son said, "Let's just rent two cars and let our relatives follow in their own cars." The third son said, "Why don't we just rent a station wagon, the three of us get in, and take the casket in beside us?" At this point the old man, hearing all this, raised himself from his bed. "Boys," he muttered, "stop arguing. Just get me a pair of pants, and I'll walk to the cemetery."

MRS. FLANAGAN told her dear friend Mrs. Murphy that her son was coming home from prison. Mrs. Murphy said, "But I thought he had another year." Explained Mrs. Flanagan, "He got off for good behavior."

"Ah," said Mrs. Murphy, "it must be a great consolation to know you have such a good son."

ONE MORNING Mrs. Kelly was about to send her husband's suit to the cleaners. She went through his pants pockets and found a slip of paper. It read Dolores White—Hollywood 8824. At breakfast Mrs. Kelly confronted her husband with the note and said, "What's the meanin' of this, Charley?"

Charley shrugged it off. "It's nothin'. Just a horse I bet on the other day."

"You mean," his wife said skeptically, "that Dolores White is the name of a horse?"

Charley nodded.

"And how about the telephone number?" his wife persisted.

"Simple," Charley said. "Hollywood's the name of the track and the odds on the race are eight to four."

Charley's wife grudgingly accepted the explanation. That night when Charley came home, he said to his wife, "So what's new?"

"Nothin' much," answered his spouse, "except that horse called up."

ONE WINTER a friend of mine had his gall bladder removed at a local hospital. I won't reveal its name. Anyway, I visited him, and in the course of the conversation I asked how he was getting along.

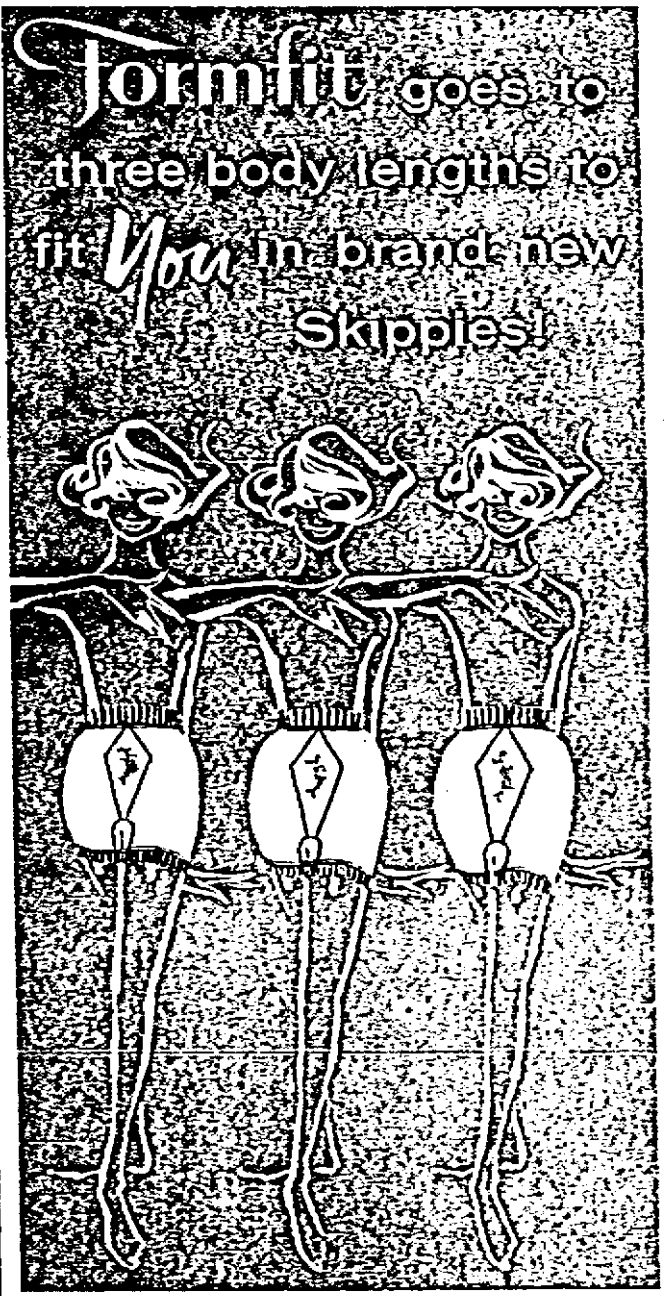

"I'm fine now," he said, "but what a mess my operation was. A day after it was over they had to open me up because they left a sponge inside the wound. Two days later they opened me up again because they'd left the surgical scissors inside."

Just then the surgeon who'd operated on my friend walked into the room. "Anyone seen my glasses around here?" he asked.

THERE'S A VARIATION on that joke and it goes like this. "I had an operation last week and the doctor left a sponge in me."

"Got any pain?" the patient is asked.

"No," he says. "But boy! Do I get thirsty!"

here for the first time anywhere... elegance with economy

There's nothing like a new car . . . and no new car like this Impala 4-Door Sport Sedan.

SUPERLATIVE '60 CHEVROLET

Here's new gem-bright beauty, new room to sprawl in and sit tall in. New lean-muscled engine economy, new spirit and silence in its going. For fineness of features, for precise craftsmanship—for all the things that make a car good to own—the '60 Chevrolet stands alone in its price field.

Just wait till you see it. Everything about the '60 Chevy, every styling accent, every engineering detail, has been polished and refined to a degree of perfection never before thought possible of a car in Chevrolet's price class.

Picture practicality and economy (there's even more of it in a new gas-saving V8!) combined with much of the luxury and hushed comfort usually associated with high-priced automobiles. That's Chevy for '60. Its overall effect is one of quiet elegance, a sophisticated new shape that embodies spacious inner dimensions. Space for long legs and broad shoulders, with sofa-wide seats and even more foot room for front seat passengers. Space that specializes in family travel!

Really, you have to see this one up close to appreciate its fresh beauty and fine workmanship. You have to take a turn behind the wheel to know its astonishing smoothness and almost total absence of road hum and vibration. We'll admit our enthusiasm's showing just a bit... but when you drop into your dealer's and discover all that's new and different about this '60 Chevy, we're sure yours will be, too.

THE REVOLUTIONARY Corvair
BY CHEVROLET
WITH THE ENGINE IN THE REAR WHERE IT BELONGS IN A COMPACT CAR! ★★★

You have your choice of two Corvairs . . . this one is the deluxe Corvair 700.

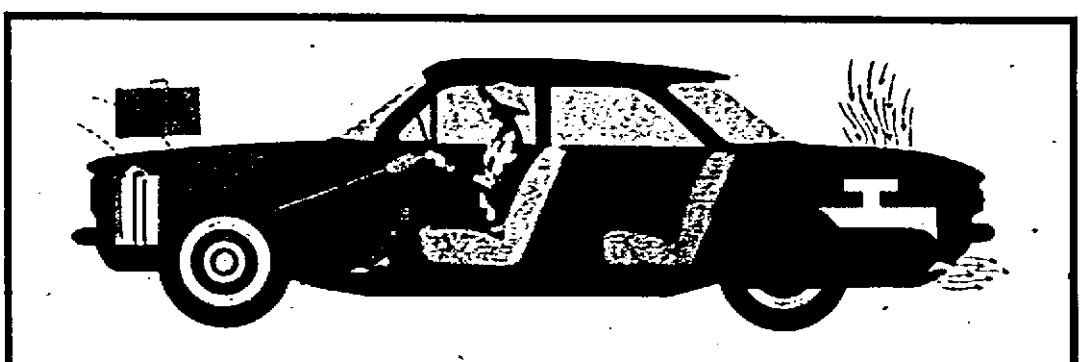

The only American car with an airplane-type horizontal engine!
The only American car with independent suspension at all 4 wheels!
The only American car with an air-cooled aluminum engine!

The rumors about this one were right—but they didn't go far enough. Because here, for the first time, is a truly compact, economical American car that retains the ride and 6-passenger comfort you're used to in a big one. The key to this small miracle: America's first and only rear-mounted aluminum engine—a revolutionary 6-cylinder power plant that combines compactly with the transmission and drive gears in one lightweight package. It works small wonders with mileage and—because this engine is air cooled—you'll never have to fuss with antifreeze.

Floor's practically flat—for more foot room. Corvair's size—some 5 inches lower, 2½ feet shorter, 1,300 pounds lighter than conventional sedans—makes it a joy to jockey through traffic and park in tight spots. Yet its unique Unistrut Body by Fisher offers plenty of room for 6 broad-shouldered passengers. And, thanks to Corvair's rear engine, the floor is virtually flat, front and rear, so there's generous foot room for everybody.

Easy handling without power assists. Shifting engine weight to the rear also adds extra gripping traction and gives better compact car handling and braking. And with independent suspension at all 4 wheels, Corvair rivals much more costly cars in the poised, unruffled way it rides.

A price your budget will appreciate. Wonderfully practical as all these advances sound, you'll find the most practical thing about this new Corvair is its price. Make it a point to visit your Chevrolet dealer soon—and see what a wealth of engineering a modest amount of your money buys!

FLOOR'S PRACTICALLY FLAT FOR MORE FOOT ROOM. TRUNK'S UP FRONT and you can have a folding rear seat (optional at extra cost) for added storage space. Lightweight rear engine, compactly combined with transmission and drive gears, is world's first production 6 with ultra-smooth power of horizontally opposed pistons. And wrapping up all these brilliant features is Corvair's brilliant new styling—pure and simple as modern architecture. THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A NEW CAR—AND NO NEW CAR LIKE THE COMPACT CORVAIR.

Chipmunk slacks? Yes, indeed. Chipmunk, masquerading under the exotic name of "Burundukl," this fall joins the family of fashionable furs. The little striped animal is being worn for sporty fashions, as in these slacks by Fredrica for after-ski or lounge wear. About $155. Red wool-knit sweater is by Mike Geist.

MINK, MOVE OVER

Chipmunk, hamster, zebra are the newest furs for fall

by VIRGINIA POPE

Parade fashion editor

Three newcomers are invading the world of fashionable furs this fall: zebra, hamster, and chipmunk. Few of us would have voted these unusual furs as "likely to succeed," but here they are—rubbing shoulders with such fur aristocrats as mink, fox, and chinchilla.

There is little similarity among these three animals, but each in its own way is beautiful in color and marking. The zebra has bold black stripes on a tawny ground; the hamster shows ornate brown, black, and white markings; the chipmunk displays delicate black and white striping on beige.

Because of its heavy pelt, zebra is the least used. Hamster, which science students know as cricetus cricetus, has a much softer skin and is showing up in just about everything from hats to coat linings. Chipmunk, a great favorite of children, now has become the pet of sports designers for fun clothing. ■

For information on where to purchase these fashions, write: Miss Virginia Pope, Fashion Editor, PARADE, 285 Madison Ave., New York 17, N.Y. (Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Specify the article of clothing, and mention the name of this newspaper.)

Wild zebra from Africa is tamed by designer Scassi for this dramatic jacket. Zebra's natural stripes are placed diagonally for full impact. Sleek new fur also makes the turban. About $850.

Costume jewelry, Monet; sport shoes, Capezio; shirts, Harry Frechtel. Tax not included in fur prices. Photographed in the ice plant of City Products Corp., New York

Apple pie with an orange accent

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

Meet an apple pie with a brand-new accent: the tart taste of orange! It's got juicy apple slices baked tender between two flaky crusts in a spicy golden-brown syrup that's fragrant with orange.

The touch of orange is a French idea that blends ever so diplomatically with this favorite American dessert. The silky smooth orange-flavored icing over the top crust, and the scatter of grated orange peel, make this an apple pie to remember. The sugar glaze is so easy to make you'll use it again and again.

FROSTED APPLE PIE

2 teaspoons flour
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
5 cups thinly sliced raw apples
Pastry for 8" pie
2 tablespoons butter

Orange Sugar Glaze

Mix flour, sugar, cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, orange peel, and apples. Line pie pan with pastry rolled ⅛" thick. Fill with apple mixture; dot with butter. Moisten edge of pastry. Cut slits in top crust to permit escape of steam and adjust, opening slits with knife. Bake in hot oven (425°) 40 to 50 minutes or until apples are tender. Frost top with Orange Sugar Glaze. Sprinkle with additional grated orange peel.

ORANGE SUGAR GLAZE

Combine ¾ cup 10X frosting sugar with 3 to 4 teaspoons orange juice to make a thin, smooth frosting. Add a few more drops of orange juice if necessary.

Young athletes are led in singing of hymns before talks from stars. Sign on stage is quotation from the Old Testament. At right: Pro basketball's high scorer, Bob Pettit, is teaching the push shot.

They learn to PLAY

Paul Dietzel shows would-be passers how to lob the ball over charging linemen. Catholics and Protestants attended conference, which charged a fee of $40.

by BILL ROSE
Religion editor, Oakland Tribune

On these pages you see some of America's great sports stars, teaching high-school and college athletes how to be better athletes and—more important—how to be better human beings.

The young men were attending the annual conference of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, held recently at Estes Park, Colo. On the staff of the nondenominational Fellowship are such heroes to the sports-minded as:

Branch Rickey, head of the new Continental League.

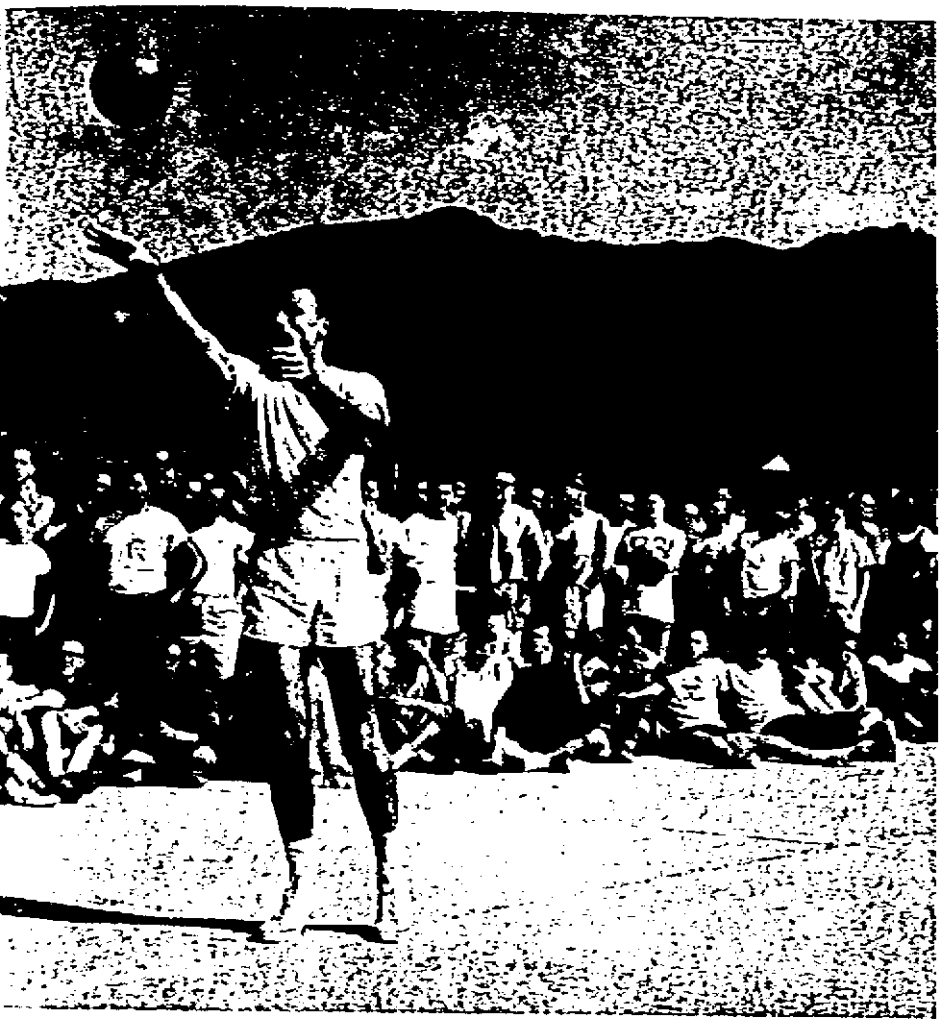

Del Crandall, Al Dark, Robin Roberts, Bob Feller, and George Kell from baseball.

Bob Pettit, pro basketball star.

Otto Graham, Doak Walker, Deacon Dan Towler, and Don Meredith from football ranks.

Coaches Frank McGuire (North Carolina), Bud Wilkinson (Oklahoma), Paul Dietzel (LSU).

Such personalities came to Estes Park to speak to the 600 boys who flocked there from 30 states (another 200 boys had to be turned away because of lack of space). In four days of talks and workouts, the stars and coaches polished the youngsters' athletic skills. Then, in small Bible huddles or mass meetings, the stars talked on the importance of religion.

ON GOD'S SIDE

"Frankly, we take advantage of hero worship," says one Fellowship staff member. "A minister's sermon might bore a kid, but what boy would be bored listening to Otto Graham or Bob Feller?"

A typical talk came from Dietzel: "It's not sissy to believe in God." Added Feller: "With faith in God, you can meet any challenge."

Such words have borne fruit:

- "Last year I came here as a student," says SMU quarterback Don Meredith. "I was sure I was a Christian because I went to church. I learned that wasn't enough—but now I know Christ is in my heart."
- "When I got home," says Carmel (N.Y.) football hero Bob Dahnke, "I was determined to stop being a star and start being a Christian."

Organized in 1954, the Fellowship has its headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. Besides its summer conference (there will be an extra session next summer, at Lake Geneva, Wis.), the Fellowship each winter sends a team of 20 great names in sports to hold conferences in any city that asks.

The Fellowship reaches millions who never attend a conference, points out California's football coach Pete Elliott. "We're not just sending one boy to camp," says Elliott. "We're sending an athlete home, already a hero to his fellow students, who can exert great influence on dozens of young lives." ■

Pettit talks religion at lunch. Fellowship has produced two movies, starring sports figures, available to church and social groups. New Fellowship head is Otto Graham, ex-pro football star. He succeeds "Biggie" Munn, now of Michigan State.

ARE YOU VICTIMIZED BY HARSH LAXATIVES?

A wholesome cereal food succeeds where harsh laxative drugs fail

Corrects irregularity due to lack of bulk

It's easy to fall into the chain laxative habit. And once trapped, it's hard to escape. You continue with larger and larger doses, getting only brief relief.

Isn't it nice to know that if your constipation is caused by lack of bulk in your diet, you can start to free yourself from laxative slavery tomorrow at breakfast!

Just eat a half-cup serving of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk. And continue eating this wholesome cereal food morning after morning. You'll find Kellogg's All-Bran gives you all the good bulk food you need for safe, dependable regularity.

It's a grand and glorious feeling. While laxative drugs do their "job" harshly and drastically, good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran is gentle and natural.

Stop being a victim of the chain laxative habit. Try eating Kellogg's All-Bran for 10 days and see if it doesn't work for you. But be sure you get Kellogg's All-Bran—Kellogg's is the original whole bran cereal. It's America's favorite by 3 to 1.

A PARADE QUIZ

Hey, where's the fire?

by KARL KOHRS

TODAY MARKS the beginning of Fire Prevention Week. It's a good time to make an attic-to-cellar check for fire safety—and to keep your family and your home from becoming one of the nation's grim fire statistics. Fire takes an annual death toll of 11,000 persons—20 per cent of them children under 6 years of age. Every day 1,500 home fires take place, and each year we have a fire loss total of more than $1 billion. How much do you know about fires and about fire prevention? Test yourself with the quiz below.

1 Fire Prevention Week, which grew out of Fire Prevention Day, commemorates the: a) San Francisco Fire; b) Great Fire of London; c) Great Chicago Fire.

2 The instant you smell smoke or suspect there's a fire in your house, for your family's safety, you should: a) search out the fire at once; b) look for a fire extinguisher; c) get everyone out of the house without any delay.

3 Which of these household aids could ignite without any source of outside heat? a) paint brush soaking in paint remover; b) plastic bag; c) used oil mop.

4 For normal, safe usage, fuses in your household electrical circuits should be: a) 25 amps.; b) 15 amps.; c) 30 amps.

5 Which of these electrical appliances requires a special, heavy-duty electrical circuit? a) oscillating fan; b) air-conditioning unit; c) electric clock.

6 When your clothing catches fire, the first thing you should do is: a) run to find water; b) roll on the ground to smother burning area; c) beat at flames with your hands.

7 When you use a blanket to aid a person with clothing afire, correct procedure is to: a) start wrapping at shoulders; b) throw blanket over victim's head; c) start wrapping at feet.

8 One quick way to snuff out a fire in a frying pan is by dousing it with: a) vinegar; b) baking soda; c) scouring powder.

9 Safest place to build a campfire is: a) atop a small platform of rocks; b) in a hole in the ground; c) between two large logs.

10 If you awake at night in a bedroom with the doors closed and smell smoke, first thing you should do is: a) open bedroom window wide; b) close window immediately; c) test door with palm of hand.

11 Fire can burn through an ordinary wooden door of the type found in a home in: a) 45 minutes to an hour; b) 5 to 10 minutes; c) 20 to 30 minutes.

12 In the form of fine dust or powder, almost any material can be exploded. Which of these materials will not explode? a) talcum powder; b) flour; c) iron powder.

13 The biggest single cause of fires is: a) lightning; b) matches and smoking; c) misuse of electricity.

ANSWERS

1 c) Great Chicago Fire (see picture above). It started on October 8, 1871, when—so the story goes—Mrs. O'Leary's famous cow kicked over a lantern, setting the cowshed afire. About 250 persons lost their lives, 100,000 were made homeless. Estimated damage: $196 million.

2 c) When everyone is out, you can help firemen by closing doors behind you as you leave. This will help retard blaze.

3 c) Used oil mop. An oily mop or rags can catch fire by spontaneous combustion. Keep mop or rags in metal container in well-ventilated place.

4 b) 15 amps. Don't overload your circuits. Overloaded wires heat up, can cause fire. One of every seven fires results from misuse of electricity.

5 b) Air-conditioning unit. Consult an electrician when you install one. You may need new wiring.

6 b) Roll on the ground to smother burning area. Never run— you will only fan the flames.

7 a) Start wrapping at shoulders—to keep flames from victim's face.

8 b) Baking soda. Throw it on in large quantities to speed smothering action.

9 b) Building your campfire in a hole concentrates the heat, helps keep embers from blowing. It is also easy to extinguish —by throwing earth or pouring water on the fire.

10 c) Test door for heat with palm of hand. If the door is hot, the hall outside is filled with deadly heated gases.

11 b) Fire will burn through an ordinary inside door in 5 to 10 minutes.

12 a) Talcum power. One of the rare dust forms that is not explosive. Never throw flour, uncooked cereals, or vacuum-cleaner dust into a stove fire or into a burning incinerator.

13 b) Matches and smoking.

SCORING: If you answered 11 to 13 correctly, you rate as an honorary fire chief; 8 to 10, as a rookie fireman; 0 to 7 indicates you may be playing with fire—and with the safety of your family. ■

St. Joseph 1960 FAMILY ALMANAC CALENDAR

WORTH 50¢ TO $1.00 EACH!

It's going to be your druggist's

FREE GIFT

to you this Christmas*!

It's a new type of calendar, in living color: with over 150 "magazine" features and pictures!

LOOK WHAT IT CONTAINS!

Lead your whole dream editor, Instant Gift to St. Joseph Almanac Calendar. Think over... Personal gift for children. Thrift planning for all your purchases ... Tips on how to spend wisely ... Diet aids and recipes from top authorities. In fact this is a regular "magazine." Full of information for every season. To help you live better in 1960. To give you more inspiration.

The 1960 St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar was prepared with the help of the country's leading magazines and newspaper supplements. It contains material never before available in a calendar. It's the liveliest, most beautiful calendar you ever saw.

Your druggist buys this calendar to give to you. But he may have ordered only a limited supply. So—don't miss out! Reserve your St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendar... right away!

Not for sale—this calendar is yours free from your druggist. So speak up—don't miss out this year! Your druggist will be glad to save you one in appreciation of your patronage!

APPROVED BY MORE DOCTORS THAN ANY OTHER

That's just one of many reasons every family with children will benefit by asking for the St. Joseph

"FAMILY ASPIRIN PAIR"!

*Many calendars that contain far less actually sell for over a dollar! If your druggist hasn't yet ordered his supply of 1960 St. Joseph Family Almanac Calendars, send his name and address without delay to Plough, Inc., Dept. 31, Memphis 1, Tenn.

"You can't miss our place, Al. There's a drug store on this corner, and over here..."

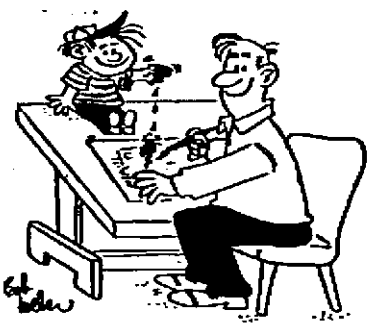

"Whatever gave you the silly notion that I can't get along with the people in my department?"

'These are my funniest'

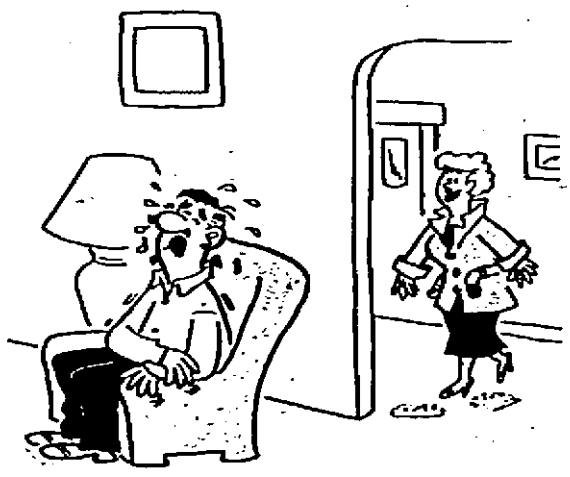

...says BOB WEBER

On the right is a self-caricature of today's cartoonist, 24-year-old Bob Weber (he doesn't really look that way). Plopped on the drawing board is 2-year-old Bob, Jr. (who doesn't really act that way). From Baltimore, Bob now lives in Hollis, N.Y. Where does he get all those ideas? "I bang my head against the drawing board every morning." Hobbies? "Drawing more cartoons." His goal? "Selling a cartoon feature to a syndicate—and living happily ever after." ■

"I'm sorry, Jack, but I've decided to do a single."

"Did you hear what I said, Harry? I passed my driver's examination."

PLATO

FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition of PLATO is the famous Jowett translation. It contains the five great dialogues: Apology, Crito, Phaedo, Symposium, and the Republic. In these dramatic conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS

MEDITATIONS

THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured all beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion. With an introduction by Irwin Edman — and scenes describing early Christian rituals, from Walter Pater's novel Marius the Epicurean.

ARISTOTLE

ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE

"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. Living over 2,000 years ago, he was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals—he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays — Metaphysics, Parts of Animals, Nicomachean Ethics, Politics, and Poetics. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

THE CLASSICS CLUB CW
Roslyn, L. I., New York

Please enroll me as a Trial Member and send me the THREE beautiful Classics Club Editions of PLATO, ARISTOTLE and MARCUS AURELIUS pictured above, which I may keep for only $2.89 plus a few cents mailing charges — the special new-member introductory price for ALL THREE volumes. If not completely satisfied after seven days' examination, I may return all 3 books and owe nothing.

As a member, I am not obligated to take any specific number of books, and I am to receive an advance description of future selections. Also, I may reject any volume before or after I receive it, and I may cancel my membership whenever I wish.

For each future Club volume I decide to keep I will send you the low price of only $2.89 plus a few cents mailing charges. (Books shipped in U.S.A. only.)

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library — as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today . . . and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the fine buckram ordinarily used for $5 and $10 bindings. They have tinted page tops; are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

A Trial Membership Invitation to You

You are invited to accept a Trial Membership. With your first books will be sent an advance notice about future selections. You may reject any book you do not wish. You need not take any specific number of books — only the ones you want. No money in advance, no membership fees. You may cancel membership at any time.

Mail this Invitation Form now. Paper, printing, binding costs are rising. The low introductory price for these THREE beautiful volumes cannot be assured unless you respond promptly. THE CLASSICS CLUB, Roslyn, L. I., New York.
